FIFTH SUNDAY MEETING

The Fifth Sunday Meeting of the Unity Association was held at Verbena last Saturday and Sunday. The weather was very inclement but there was a splendid interest manifested throughout the meeting. A splendid program had been arranged and every one who had a part was there to do his but to make the service profitable. Those taking part were Rev. J. D. Hughes, Rev. W. A. Goss, Rev. S. J. Ezell, Rev. J. S. Judah, Rev. E. B. Prickett, Rev. B. A. Norris, Rev. Taylor, Rev. T. O. Reese, Mrs. Stonecipher, Prof. J. J. Pickens and Mr. Farr. Mr. Farr is one of our Home Board singers and a very splendid one, too.

We were very fortunate in having with us at this meeting Brother Reese and his singer. Brother Reese preached an excellent sermon at the 11 o'clock hour on Sunday. So did Brother Ezell at the 11 o'clock hour on Saturday. These men added much to the meeting.

The ladies of Verbena served an excelent dinner at the church on Saturday. We certainly thank them for this important part of the program they carried out so well.

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION TO MEET FRIDAY AFTERNOON 2:30

The Clanton Parent Teachers Association will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

There are several classes of people who contribute to the ruin of any organization.

First—There are those who are not satisfied unless they can control everything.

Second—There are those who try to get their set elected to all the offices and if defeated go off to mope the rest of the year.

Third—There are those who will try to get a gang of their friends to attend one time to put over some pet plan of their own.

Fourth—There are those who think they have done their duty if they pay their dues for the year.

Fifth—There are those who are not broad-minded enough to put aside their petty quarrels and petty jealousies and work in harmony.

Sixth—There are those who want to bring their complaints to the Parent Teachers meeting instead of carrying them to the principal.

Seventh—There are those who join just to be able to say that they belong and never intend to go back any more.

All those are people who do not stop to think of the good of the organization and consequently help to kill it.

Parents, patrons and friends, if you do not belong to one of the above classes we want you to come to the meeting Friday afternoon. We shall expect you.

IRA PEGUES,
Chm. Publicity Committee.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION.

The Second Annual Fiddler's Convention of Chilton, Autauga, Elmore and Coosa Counties will be held in the school auditorium at Verbena on the evening of January 25, 1923. With a few changes and additions the attraction will be along the lines of last year's performance, only bigger, better and fiddlernier than ever.

We wish to announce that an unusually nice line of prizes will be offered this year, more complete announcement of which will be given later. The biggest idea, the big heart throbs, the happy assemblage of the music and fun makers, will be the attractions that will draw the fiddlers here from all this section, and the folks will come from far and near to hear and see.

Now, I want to speak to the fiddlers, themselves. Listen— Were you here last year? Well, if you were, you know about it; if you were not, then you missed one of the dingbastedest best times you've heard of since the time when you were a boy and dragged a crooked, black, "literded" knot in front of the cow when paw was milkni'. Or, as the little 'steen year old would say, "It was perfectly lovely." You want to resin the old bow, pull it across the wires tuned for fiddlin, lay your ear low down, and say, don't forget your battin' shoes when you come.

The competition is open to all fiddlers who play FIDDLES, and prizes will also be awarded to players who use other stringed instruments, whether as soloists or in orchestra. We want music, more music, and better music, and there are no strings to the proposition, (exceptin') on the instruments, of course. If you perform, write us; if you do not, but have a friend who does, tell him about this convention, and have him to write us. Or you just send the little affair to him. And give us any information you can. Benefit local school.

We believe we said Friday, Jan. 26, 1923, Verbena school auditorium, 8:00 p. m., didn't we? We surely did. Thank you.

Fiddlingly yours,
Fiddlers' Convention Committee,
Box 119, Verbena, Ala.

HAYES-BROYLES.

Elma C. Hayes and Miss Zelma Broyles were married at the young man's home on Rt. 6, last Thursday night, Rev. W. H. Wilson had charge of the ceremony. Mr. Hayes is a well known young man of Clanton section. The Bride is a charming young lady of Birmingham where she held a good position at the time of their marriage.

VERBENA QUINTET "LICKS" JEMISON

Sweet revenge came gratifyingly into the hearts of the Verbena Consolidated School basket ball team and its supporters on the Verbena court Friday afternoon, when they took the visiting aggregation into camp to the tune of 10 to 8. It was the hardest fought game of the season for the local boys; few long shots were called, each team making two points each on free throws. The game early developed into rough play by both teams, which kept the scoring down low. Two extra five-minute periods were required to play off the 8 to 8 tie at the end of the fourth quarter.

C. Lenoir, center for the visitors, was the outstanding star of the game, scoring the six points made by the visitors.

Verbena's guards proved too clever for the visitors, keeping their forwards scoreless.

Score: Verbena, field goals, 4; foul goals, 2; Jemison, field goals, 3; foul goals, 2.

Verbena lost three pre-season games, two of which Jemison gathered in by close scores. Since the season opened the locals have taken one from Thorsby, two from Chilton High, and one, Friday, from Jemison.

The return game to be played in Jemison at an early date promises to be a good one.

MR. J. BICE WRITES

TO THE EDITOR OF CHILTON COUNTY NEWS.

I am now free and can talk to my Democratic or Republican friends without being watched and accused of falsehoods. I will get out of the bunch, stay out. Of course, I had to get out, no they put me out. Judge Reynolds and commissioners gave the Treasurer's Office to me because they needed me and now they think they dont need me any more and I can go to H— so far as they are concerned, but I will try to live some way and I hope the Lord will let me live long enough to help turn the whole push out and I am "Johnnie on the spot" and when the bugle blows I am ready to go. The whole bunch crawled in a hole in time of the war, and although I had five boys who went over the sea and lay in the ditches and the "Big Boss" and his boys lay in their good beds under cover, my boys faced the CANNON BALLS and BOMB SHELLS and what did the big boss do at that time?

I was County Treasurer, but he wanted his son a lawyer, to have the Treasureer's Office, so he called up his servants and they bowed before him and he told them what he wanted them to do and they said "yes, "My Lord, just anything you want you can have it to the half of our possessions." He said. "No, I must have all." So they bowed before him and said, "Yes My Lord, Thou art good and full of love for thy people, so it must be as you say. "He turned and looked on my Flag of these United States, which was banging on my office door with five stars on it, which represented my five boys that were in France fighting for our country, and he and his boys feasting on the fat of our country here at home. My heart was yearning and bleeding for my boys but he said to those men, "It must come down from there." They said, "Yes, my lord it shall be as thou hast said." so it was and I lost my job. His son, a lawyer took my place and I was kicked out to root hog or die.

So, it happened again that the big boss was surrounded by his enimies and he cried out to his servants "Where is Bice? I need him".

They, replied, "He is in this county serving HIS God, the true and living God." Send for him, we have a great battle to fight and he is one the enemies dread. Let us give him a position for he can do us much good So it was that they gave Bice the Treasurer's office to help the big boss and his Lieutenants. They came out victorious but as soon as the battle was over he called his servants together again. They bowed before him and said unto him, "What is it my lord He said unto them "The battle is won we have gained the victory." He also said, I have heard that Bice is a traitor, some of my servants have told me so. I believe it ,so we must turn him out.' "We can not have him. He talks to Democrats. Yes I have seen him talking to them and also to Howard Foshee, Atkinson, and others of the same kind ,so, he must go. His servants said unto him, "Thy will is our will and so it shall be as you say. SO IT WAS. THEY BEHEADED BICE and took his head on a charger and presented it to him. He was very sorry and told them to say, "WE did it and the big boss had nothing to do with it." I will protect you, he he said and so it was as he said to them.

Yours truly.
J. BICE

A CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. Editor:-

Will you allow me a small space in your paper, to thank my friends, for the many gifts of all kinds of fruits, candies, and cakes that they brought me.

Such acts of kindness will long be remembered and when you lie on your bed of affliction may each and every one of you have such love shown you, and may the Giver of all, bless and reward you for your thoughts of me.

You know not how such little acts of love help anyone when they are sick, may your guardian angel guide you thro the coming days, and may you have the happiest and prosperous New eYar, that ever befell you,— is the wish and prayer of—

Uncle Billie Dunlap.

COTTON MILLS COMING

The news dispatches carried the story Monday last of the closing of the gates of Mitchell Dam, the new power project on the Coosa River, thus making available to Alabama more than 120,000 of horsepower when the electrical installations are complete.

Does the average person vision what an event of this sort means to the State? It is doubtful; but it can be illustrated by stating that the very next day after this important stage in the work had been completed, the Alabama Power Company received inquiry from a great cotton mill of the East asking if the company was prepared to furnish 15,000 horsepower. The response was that the power is available and any additional amount desired.

Mills of the East have realized the inevitable: that in order to survive they must get close to the cottonfields and eliminate the long freight hauls; be in a climate where every working day work can go forward; where the class of labor is 100 pr. ct. pure American, and intelligent; be near water outlet for coastwise distribution of finished product by steamships, and where foreign shipments may be made from a convenient port. The incident mentioned is only one of many inquires being made to the Power Company. The mills are coming South; they are bound to come South, and they are bound to have cheap power in large quantities.

What will this mean to the various communities, A huge amount spent for land and building material; a huge amount spent for wages in building; a weekly payroll that will go into all channels of trade and commerce, rejuvenating and strengthening; a ready market at hand for the farm people of a wide radius, for all the products of the farm, including cotton, which will be bought direct from growers, eliminating freight and middleman's profit; a consuming population of several thousand—counting the dependents of the various employes, giving larger opportunity to merchants, professional men and farmers in and around each community, and thus amplifying the opportunity of all.

Alabama offers to the cotton mills the best chance of all. In the Carolinas, where there has been the greatest cotton mill development, the consumption of cotton now is far in excess of the production of those states and long railroad hauls must be resorted to. They are drawing upon Georgia heavily. There is a margin of several hundred thousand bales yet in Alabama, and with the adjacent territory of Mississippi to draw from with both water and rail routes to serve in transporting, consequently reasonable freight rates. And Alabama has all the potential power that can possibly be used, and then we will be able to sell to less fortunate states

Every time a dam is put across one of our streams and that waste water turned into energy, there will follow a trail of prosperity and enlarged opportunity for all. This accretion of 120,000 available horsepower from Mitchell Dam will be translated into many millions of dollars of prosperity, diffused in many different communities, and available to all who have the initiative and business sense to get their share of it. After all, prosperity is mere plentitude of opportunity; and opportunities are thus being multiplied in Alabama, by developing the talents which the Master has left for us—to make use of.

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN SAME GRAVE.

There are many peculiar dispensations of Providence, but it is rarely the case that both the husband and wife are called to their eternal home on the same day. It seems that a more than usually merciful ruling is made in such cases, when the lifelong partners on the journey from the cradle to the grave are called together to enter upon their eternal voyage through the realms of everlasting day. United here in the happy bonds of love—one in every joy and sorrow—how happy must be their liberated spirits when together they lay aside the trials and hardships belonging to this terrestrial existence and put on the garments of eternal life and continue their unbroken journey through the endless ages of eternity—still together—still side by side.

Such was the end last Friday, so far as time is concerned, of Mr. W. D Horseley, and his wife, of Jemison who had traveled, hand in hand through life so long that the snows of many winters had frosted their heads for the grave.

Mrs. Horseley died at 8 o'clock last Friday morning and at 11 o'clock the same evening her husband's spirit joined hers on the other side. Both bodies were given their final sleep in a single grave at the Jemison cemetery on the following day, a large crowd of sorrowing friends assembling there to pay them their final tribute of love and respect.

The only remaining members of their immediate family, Miss Ada their daughter, is very low now at the hospital here.

MRS. JOHN RATLIFF.

The hearts and homes of the citizens of the community were saddened by the tragic death of a beloved one Mrs. John Ratliff whose death occurred quite suddenly at her home on Maplesville Road Saturday December 23, 1922.

Mrs. Ratliff was before her marriage Hattie Hays, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Henry Hays. She was 26 years of age and a beautiful and lovable young woman. At an early age she married John Ratlifff, son M.M. Ratliff. To them were born one daughter and one son.

Mrs. Ratliff was a member of the Sardis Baptist church, a good Christian woman and beloved by all who knew her. Her presence will be sorely missed and tho she has departed to a better world she shall yet be present with us in thought.

The remains were carried to Sardis Baptist church where funeral services were held Sunday afternoon December 24. Rev. C. D. Messer conducting the service.

Mrs. Ratliff leaves her husband one daughter, Ruth Kate age 5, an infant son mother, father, and three brothers besides relatives and scores of friends to mourn her loss. We extend our hearts in sympathy to the grieved ones. May they truly realize the saying of our Master, "In Life there is no death"—the Father of All being Eternal Life.

A FRIEND.

READING CIRCLE WILL MEET JANUARY 13.

The Reading Circle Group will meet on Jan, 13 instead of January 6th.

AN ENDLESS CHAIN.

Jack's in love with Margaret,
She's in love with Fred;
Fred's in love with Violet,
She's in love with Ned.

Tho' each heart its mate has found,
How pair off the twos?
Love makes all the world go 'round
Finding out who's whose.

Mr. Alex Locroy and son, Curtis, of Kelleyton, Ala., have recently purchased the Andy Jones place and moved into the Jonestown community. We are glad to have citizens of this kind coming into Chilton County.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. HATTIE RATLIFF

On December 23,the death angel visited the home of Mr. John Ratliff and bore from our midst the spirit of his wife Hattie,age twenty-six years.

Hattie was sick only a few days when God saw fit to call her home.

She had such a sweet disposition that made home happy and ever wore a smile for those that knew her, and in death wore a smile such as a soul with God can wear.

It was hard to give her up but it was God's will and He knoweth best. Now may He watch over her remains which were laid to rest in the Sardis cemetery.

There is a place vacant in her home and the hearts of all that knew her that can ne'er be filled but let us cheer up and prepare to meet her beyond this vale of tears in the beautiful city of God.

The husband, children, parents brothers and other relatives have our whole hearts' sympathy.

One Who Loved Her.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

The State Department of Education in Montgomery wishes to locate all the men and women in Chilton county who are not able to work because of serious physical handicaps.

State Supervisor, H. T. Grant who was in Clanton last week made announcement to this effect and requested that the widest publicity be given to acquaint the people of Chilton county with the provisions of the new Rehabilitation law which makes provision for both men and women who are seriously handicapped,to secure special vocational training State funds may be used to defray the tuition and to buy the books and supplies in cases found eligible.

The purpose of the law is to provide vocational assistance for persons who are unable to help themselves and who are ambitious to overcome their physical handicap.

Mr. Grant was in Chilton county to work out training plans for a man totally blind.

AN EARNEST STATEMENT OF FACTS.

The Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce states that he is very much pleased at the co-operation of many merchants and citizens of Clanton and Chilton County, in the task which the Chamber of Commerce has undertaken that of compiling and publishing a booklet illustrating and describing this city and County, and setting forth the many most desirable inducements for real, worth-while people and industries to come here and become a part of us, investing their money, brains and efforts toward making this one of the busiest and most progressive spots in the entire South.

However the Secretary states that there is a decided lack of co-operation and assistance on the part of some most of which he feels is due to the fact that these people do not fully understand the object and motive of the Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to do something of real value for this community and county. Therefore it is essential that each and every person in this entire county should understand and realize that he or she will derive a direct benefit from this campaign to put Chilton County and Clanton almost unlimited inducements before the balance of this Country in an attractive and clear manner, and thereby bring more money and people here to help us develop our resources. It is also exceedingly essential that everyone do his or her part toward helping in a financial way, by subcribing to as many of these booklets as possible. Everyone can do something, no matter how little it may be. No loyal, self-respecting citizen of a community allows anything to the good of his or her community to go by without a helping hand, and as Chilton County has, we believe, no less than 100 per cent of the citizens of this type, the Chamber of Commerce should, within the next week, at least, have the name of each and every citizen of Chilton county on its list of subscribers no matter how small their subscription may be.

J. V. Best, route 7, was among those we saw in town Monday. Mr. Best lives up to his real name.

Mr. John Steeley, route 4, was in town Saturday doing some shopping.

If you want to see the trend of thought among young people look at the magazines they read. Do you find Current Opinion, Review of Reviews Worlds Work, Atlantic Monthly, or the American Magazine? Or is it "Gee - Whiz," "Whiz - Bang," "Hot-Dog" ,"Snappy-Stories', or Police Gazette."

Mrs. M. B. Arant spent Saturday and Sunday with friends and relatives in Deatsville.

Rev. S. J. Ezelle had large audiences Sunday morning and night to hear him at the Baptist church.

Clay Jones has moved from route 4 to route 7. Mr. Jones had the News changed. He says that he wants the real news is why he keeps in touch with the Chilton County News.

Mr. C. F. Lillie, our linotype operator, is confined to his bed at home in Montgomery.

John DeRamus and Tom Barnette, of Verbena, were Clanton visitors Sunday.

Mr. J. B. Hardie, of Rockford, was in Clanton last Saturday on a business mission. Mr. Hardie was sheriff of Coosa County during the war days.

Home for Sale

As I am moving away from Clanton, I am offering for sale all my property in Clanton, at very attractive prices.

I will sell my home place which includes a fine 6 room house, and ½ block of land, 4 lots in all, together with garage, barn, smoke house and chicken house. All the houses have cement foundations and tin roofs, cement walks. The residence is very nicely finished inside. This property is 3 blocks from court house, 2 blocks from main street, and one block from the new Highway. I will sell all for $4,000.00. It would cost $5,000.00 to put the buildings on the lot.

I also have one lot of land, about 16 acres, including several lots facing Third Avenue South, in Clanton. The land has a lot of timber on back side. This is just 1 1-2 blocks from the new Highway. Will sell this piece of property for $1,000.00.

Also have about 80 White Leghorn Hens, and 3 Roosters, all fine bred stock. Will pay for themselves in 30 days. Enough laying mash feed goes with them to last 30 days. Will sell them for $1.00 each now.

Also have one fine Pointer Bitch 11 months old, spayed; will retrieve and set birds. Mighty fine for a puppy. Will sell her for $15. 00 now.

I expect to leave Clanton about the 20th of January, and want to sell the above property before I go away. Will be glad for anyone interested to investigate. I am offering it all at mighty fine bargain prices.

Mayor Christopher and the aldermen of Gadsden have taken the stand that no pool rooms will be allowed on the outskirts of the city and if the pool room owners of Alabama City attempt to open up in Oak Park addition because they have been run out of the mill village by the $1,000 per table license, they will run against the strong arm of the city of Gadsden. No pool rooms will be allowed in Gadsden except in the fire district and dance halls will not be tolerated for a moment.

ALABAMA FARM NOTES.

By F. W. Gist.

The estimated production of cotton in Alabama this year amounting to 835,000 bales, was grown on 2,945,000 acres, averaging 135 pounds of lint per acre, according to F. W. Gist, federal and state agricultural statistician in a statement made after receiving the final figures from his Washington office. This compares with a crop last year of 580,000 bales, grown on 2,269,000 acres, an average of 122 pounds of lint per acre. The increase in acreage this year amounts to about 32 per cent, while the yield is about 10 per cent better. Getting away from a rather bad start last spring, with very heavy weevil infestation, weather conditions throughout the entire season were favorable, both for growth and harvest, and the final out turn was better in all sections than was expected, except, possibly, in a few of the northern counties.

The value of this crop is more than double that of last year. At the December 1 price of lint and seed the 1922 crop is valued at $112,125,000, while the crop of 1921 was worth $55,600,000. The December 1 price this year was not the highest, and probably most of the cotton was sold above that figure.

The estimated production by districts for this year, with the comparison for last year, is as follows:

	1922	1921
Northwest section	44,000	28,000
Tennessee Valley	137,000	127,000
Mineral section	67,000	40,900
Northeast section	60,000	53,800
Blackbelt west	78,000	42,390
Blackbelt east	120,000	76,000
East central section	110,000	78,300
Southwest section	14,000	3,100
South central section	74,000	44,800
Southeast section	131,000	90,200

Madison county will retain first place this year with a probable production of 32,000 bales, while Dallas will probably be second with 29,000 and Limestone with 27,000. Covington nearly doubled her crop of last year, with 20,000 bales against 11,200.

VOLUME 2 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, JANUARY 18, 1923. — NUMBER 19

COTTON MILLS COMING SOUTH

Cotton mill owners in New England and northern communities have greatly alarmed the people of their towns by making no secret of the fact that industrial conditions are forcing the mills to move to the South. A number of the larger mill corporations have already adopted and are following the policy of erecting all new buildings and making all extensions in the South.

This policy is fully recognized by the South. Its adoption was inevitable. Montgomery is alive to the meaning of the transfer of the cotton milling interests and is in communication with several corporations in what may prove successful efforts to have them locate here. The most significant contribution to this discussion, which we have yet seen, is a full page advertisement in the Lewiston, Maine, Evening Journal, as an effort to arouse the people of that city to the danger to Lewiston of the Southern mill movement, of which it says: "Lewiston should view with alarm this tremendous movement which once consummated will be disastrous to the welfare of the New England States. The cotton mills of Lewiston pay out every year in pay rolls $5,-600,000." The competition of the South with some of them is already a serious matter, says the Journal.

The full page advertisement appears as follows:

The trend of the growth of the cotton textile industry is toward the Southern States. New England is in grave danger of losing her supremacy in this industry.

Some of the greatest of the Massachusetts cotton mills, the names of which might be mentioned, for they are no secret, are going to make their future extensions of capital investment in the South. They have decided that under present conditions of the laws and hours of labor in Massachusetts, they will content themselves with merely maintaining their plants in going condition in Massachusetts and invest their capital for extensions and improvements where the attitude of the State-Governments is more friendly and conditions are more favorable than in other respects.

Three great Maine corporations are contemplating building new mills in the South, under present conditions, especially is Maine following the trend of Massachusetts in respect to women and minors as is indicated an attempt may be made to do in the coming legislature of Maine.

The South is doing everything possible to attract Northern cotton manufacturing. It has many advantages. The cotton and the coal are close at hand. The hours of labor are practically unrestricted. The costs of living are less. Wages are lower. New England has only a few things in its favor, chief of which is the fact that the mills are here and have long been established in New England.

New England's only hope is to prevent a continuance of the discrimination between States in regard to statutory laws. Only two States in the Union have a 48-hour law for women and children and those are Massachusetts and California, and California is not a textile State. The South will do all in its power to further the spread of this law among Northern States. A law for women and children in textile mills is a law for all. To cut short the hours of labor for women and children is to cut the hours for the entire plant. This is well understood.

The cotton industries of Maine have grown only moderately in the past twenty years. But they have been continuously in operation and been, largely, the industrial life of the community in which located.

These are matters for serious consideration. They are not mentioned here to arouse controversy or to make a case. They are mentioned here for the good that these facts may do in calling attention to what is a positive truth. The conditions in the South are permitted to go on without contention or discussion so long as the South is gaining new spindles and the mid-west is getting control of the shoe-industry by giving every possible aid and comfort to the manufacturers in competition with the East and New England. There are today over 22 per cent of minors in the total of employees of the Southern cotton mills. There are in Maine only 3½ per cent, and in the Lewiston mills the average is less than this percentage.

The South is attracting bleacheries and spinning mills and developing into fine goods and even into colored goods.

Shall we pull down the house over our own heads?

Think this over in the light of self-preservation. Surely it is worth while to retain the industries that have made New England famous and prosperous, but it can not be done if discrimination is to go on and the life blood of New England capital is drained away to the Southern States where the laws are maintained for this very purpose.

Tom has a world of friends and his success is assured.

NEW MERCHANT

We are pleased to welcome to the business circles of Clanton, Mr. J. H. McDonald, of Rockford, Alabama, who has bought out the mercantile business of Mr. Guy H. Roberts, and will continue a general store business at the same stand for the present.

Mr. McDonald is a brother of Probate Judge McDonald, of Coosa county, and is also a nephew of our fellow-townsman, Judge W. D. Speigner.

Mr. McDonald and his little family will be a most welcome addition to Clanton and we are most happy to extend to them a cordial and hearty welcome. May they stay with us and prosper.

RE-APPOINTED

The many friends of Mr. W. D. Speigner will be glad to learn that Judge George F. Smoot has re-appointed him to the office of Registrar of the Circuit Court in Equity of Chilton county.

So far as we have ever heard Mr. Speigner has made a kind and efficient officer during his term just ended and we are sure, his re-appointment will meet with unanimous approval.

NOTICE

The Baptist Pastors, Laymen, all Sunday School Superintendents, W. M. U. Presidents, B. Y. P. U. Presidents, and all who are interested in the Baptist work, are urged to meet the Executive Committee of the Chilton County Baptist Association at the Clanton Baptist church January 26th at 10 a. M.

This is Centennial Year in the Baptist History. They want to make 1923 one of the best in the Baptist work.

The State Workers will be there. We are planning to have a good meeting. Don't forget the date.

COMMITTEE.

SMOKE, FIRE AND SHAVINGS

The people who live adjacent to the large planing mill operated by the Forest Lumbr Company, have had good cause for complaint of the awful smoke evil since the pile of shavings, containing the accumulations of years, caught on fire some weeks ago. So far, it has been absolutely impossible to put out the fire and on two occasions the fire department were called out to check the spread of the conflagration to near by property.

On one occasion the Lumber Company lost about 40,000 feet of lumber and on the other a small house belonging to Dr. Hays lost most of its roof.

Mr. Higgins, the owner of the lumber company, is at this time, having a number of teams with scrapers employed in removing the entire mass, and spreading it out so as to put it out.

First and last this mass of burning shavings will cost Mr. Higgins $4,000 or $5,000. You have no idea what an immense amount of work he has done in trying to control the situation unless you go down and investigate.

He is doing his best to stop the menace and annoyance and we doubt if anyone else could beat him.

YOU CAN'T BEAT S. E. BRUCE

Just listen, Wednesday of this week, Mr. Bruce brought us six fine ripe tomatoes, perfectly developed and as luscious as any summer time variety. He grew them at home one mile north of town.

Besides, since Mr. Monroe Parrish was disappointed in getting his Christmas melon, Mr. Bruce presented him with one on "Old Christmas," January 6th, red, ripe and juicy and just as tender and sweet as when picked from the vine.

You just have to hand it to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce when it comes to truck raising.

AUCTIOEER FOX

You can't sometimes always tell what W. W. Fox will do next. One thing we would gamble on, however, and that is if you were to put him down on a rock in the middle of the Sahara Desert, it would not be over thirty minutes before he would be selling desert sand to the Arabs and making money right on.

He is now engaged in selling out an immense stock of merchandise at auction in Montgomery. He goes down on Mondays and Thursdays of each week.

If he doesn't sell them they'd just as well throw them in the river.

THE LAST ONE GONE

Last week it was our sad duty to announce the death in one day of Mr. W. D. Horsely and wife, of Jemison. The only other member of their immediate family, their daughter, Miss Ada, was sick at the time of their death.

Before the week had passed away, Miss Ada was also called to her reward.

Such a complete obliteration of an entire family in so short a time by death from natural causes is rare, indeed. The fond family ties so rudely sundered here on earth in their case, were quickly made whole again in the great beyond and we can imagine this family reunited on the other side and their peaceful home life going on again the same as here on earth, in a fadeless realm, where the "wicked from troubling," and where eternal happiness will be their lot.

IN PROSPECT

It is pretty definitely rumored that two other splendid brick business buildings will go up right away on North Seventh street, between Second and Fourth avenues.

One of these structures will be a large and complete home for the Ford Motor Car Company with a modern filling station in front, and the other will be erected by the famous auctioneer and real estate man, Mr. W. W. Fox.

That is all splendid business property and when the new State Highway is built and the 24-foot bridge is completed across the railroad on Fourth avenue, that section is sure to become the real center of the down town district.

MINISTERS AND LAYMENS CONFERENCE

The Ministers and Laymens Conference met in its regular monthly session with the Clanton Baptist Church, Monday January 15th. A very interesting program was put on. Perhaps the most interesting part of the program was on the topic, "What constitutes gambling?" The subject was ably discussed by Reverends Deason, Ezell, Norris and Hughes. It was brought out in a forcible way how many of our churches and Christian people are propagating the gambling spirit by buying all manner of kinds of "chances." To risk money on a game or a chance is to gamble according to Webster's Dictionary. It is evident that many of our people need to look into this matter which is all too prevalent, and cease lending support to all games of chance, whether for individuals or institutions.

It was also shown how that many folks think that it is all right if the money goes to a good cause or some institution—thus inducing our people to believe that "The end justifies the means."

It was also decided to hold all meetings at Clanton in the future, unless specially invited by some other church.

MEETING OF UNITY CHILTON ASSOCIATIONS

A very important meeting of the Executive Committee, and officers of the W. M. U. Sunday School Convention, and the B. Y. P. U. are requested to meet Reverend J. E. Barnes, one of our State workers, at the Clanton Baptist Church Friday Jan. 26, 1923, at ten o'clock. All religious leaders in every phase of our work in both Associations are requested to be present without fail.

HAS RETURNED

Professor Pegues, who was called to Chattanooga to the bedside of his brother, who was badly crushed up while hauling in hay at home, returned Tuesday night and is back at the head of the City School again.

The Professor tells us that his brother is still alive and they have some hopes for his ultimate recovery.

MRS B. S. SIMS DEAD

We are sorry to have to announce this week, the death of Mrs. Mary E. Sims, wife of Mr. B. L. Sims, of Verbena, which occurred last Thursday night.

Mrs. Sims was in her sixty-fifth year. She is survived by her husband, one brother and one sister.

The remains were sent back to Tallassee for burial by Undertaker Morton.

STILL BUILDING

Material is being now put on the ground at the Marion Gore corner and work is going to start at once, adding another story to the Gore building.

Mr. Gore is intending to put up a regular office building and equip it especially to take care of office people. Being so convenient to the Court House we should guess it well become lawyer headquarters right away.

STATE HIGHWAY

Our good friend and fellow townsman, Mr. C. B. Cox, who is one of the largest road contractors in the state, has moved his camps from a completed contract in North Alabama and is now at work in the 22-mile section of the State Highway across Shelby County.

Charley told us this week that he had just added a new steam shovel to his large outfit, which already was equipped with many thousands of dollars worth of road-building machinery, besides something over 200 mules.

What he don't know about building high grade roads was torn out the book years ago.

BOX SUPPER

There is to be a box supper at Isabella School House Friday night, January 19th. Everybody is cordially invited and requested to be here by 7 o'clock on that night. Money made will be used to pay for school equipment.

Entered in the Postoffice at Clanton, Alabama, as Second Class Mail Matter Under Act of Congress.

Cotton has popped up again. Farmers, don't let that fool you. Plant plenty of hog and hominy.

Five new brick business houses are in sight besides the two in process of construction. We need fifty more dwelling houses also.

Colonel G. C. Walker has been appointed County Solicitor for Chilton again. This is his second shot at that job and we hope he will be able to knock out the black every shot.

Among the good citizens who till the soil who saw the next Governor take over the Ship of State Monday, a very high place must be accorded our good friend, J. V. Best.

If all the "oaths of office" that were taken last Monday were rigidly lived up to by the officials who subscribed to them, how many of us would be able to keep out of jail thirty days?

After March 4th we look for a little needed and constructive legislation from Congress. We have had none for two years past.

The woman behind the gun is becoming a serious menace these days to unsatisfactory husbands. Their fatal marksmanship is wonderful too.

These slab-sided dresses the women wear now that are short on one side and long on the other must have been invented to accommodate wooden-legged women.

Plant plenty of food and feed crops this year. The prospect is bright now for another great European war and if it develops, cotton will not be worth more than eight cents next fall.

Sheriff John Gore passed into the discard last Monday and now we have Sheriff Littlejohn. A new broom is supposed to sweep clean, so all you crap shooters and bootleggers better look out.

When a man becomes saturated with the political office seeking bug, it is a good time for all of his real friends to bid him good bye, for he will sacrifice them all and tramp them in the mud to further his own personal ambition.

The Catholic-Ku Klux fight going on at Bastrop, La., is almost sure to result in more bloodshed. American freedom is at a low ebb in that immediate section.

Organized Americanism is an absolutely essential necessity if the rightful citizens of this great land are to have any influence on its future destiny. The hyphenated citizen is all right in his place, but we don't want to see him rule.

Cogs were changed all around in the State political machine last Monday, but we did not notice even an earth tremor and the sun, moon and stars appear to be moving in their same orbits yet.

Ex-Governor Kilby sent in so many "swan song" messages to the legislature last week that the boys gave it up as a bad job and went home. They have gone back this week to see how they can make it with Brandon.

Nothing will be done by this Congress in regard to the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals. They will, however, appropriate $7,000,000 more to continue work on the plant for another year.

There is too great a class spirit springing up over our land for a free country. There is, for instance, one class who drink all the liquor they want and gamble when and where they please, and feel like they have a perfect right to do so, because they wear good clothes and can pay the price; but they howl like a pack of hounds if some "overall" fellow happens to get a drink or shoots a bone. As a rule, they have all the officers "fixed" too.

FOUND WANTING

The people in the United States, two years ago, worn threadbare by the ravages of the great war and made sore by the mad revel of extortion put on by the various profiteering combinations, decided to make a change in parties, feeling like anything would be a relief, so they put the Republican Party in power from top to bottom.

For two years that party has been in absolute control, and what is the result? Have they accomplished a single piece of constructive or beneficial legislation? Have they even attempted to give any relief to their tax burdened constituents?

They did finally hammer out a tariff bill and put it over. Every clause of it was dictated by the vested interests, and under its benign rulings the people of this country are today paying from 2 to 10 cents more per pound for every ounce of food they consume than they did before. Suits of clothes are costing from $5.00 to $15.00 more than before they were "protected" by the most infamous tariff bill—the most glaring system of absolute robbery ever perpetrated by a government upon its people.

The result is exactly what might have been expected. The people have tried out that party of great moral ideas and found them entirely wanting. Already in the fall election the result demonstrated the fact that a great reaction has taken place. The Presidental election next year will complete the reversal of sentiment and again the common people are going to take the affairs of state under the flag of a united democracy.

This is the concensus of opinion expressed by all the eminent students of political affairs in our land. Even many of the leading republicans predict their own downfall.

Two more years of oppression and burdensome taxation and then the sun of a new era of prosperity will rise under a democratic regime that will dawn, not as a fleeting meteor, but as the fixed polar star by which our country will steer, under the banner of Democracy for the years to come.

ELECTION CONTEST

On next Monday, the 22nd, the time limit on the appeal of the Bond Issue to the Supreme Court will be up and we judge the matter will be speedily settled then.

We do not suppose there is any question in the mind of anyone in regard to the outcome of that appeal, provided it is ever appealed, and it is the general opinion that the matter will be given an early hearing and be settled in time for the contest proper to come up in the Spring term of the Chilton Circuit Court for trial.

It is our opinion that this will be entirely satisfactory, so far as the Democrats are concerned, as there is no particular reason for haste. If the Democrats win out the decision will be retroactive in effect, and will cover the entire term of the Probate Judge and the incumbent will be required to make full and complete restitution to the winner of all the emoluments, fees, and salaries that may have accrued during his time of occupancy for the present term.

At present, so far as we know, there are no new developments in the case, and nothing new to be said or told about it until the routine of the courts bring the real case up on the docket for trial.

In the meantime, don't ever get it into your head that the contest is off nor abandoned. It is just as live today as it has ever been. The legal talent has been employed and paidly paid. All necessary cash is in sight to complete the fight, and be it sooner or later, it will come off and will be pushed to the very limit.

ON THE JOB

Governor W. W. Brandon—we write it since noon last Monday, when "Plain Bill" took the oath of office and took over the steering wheel of state, and started on a four-years' tour of safe and sane driving among the pitfalls and dangers of the Gubernatorial Journey.

We are betting on "Plain Bill," and have been strong for him, even before the race began. We feel perfectly safe under his leadership and we believe we know that the plain people are going to get a show in Alabama for four years at least.

Two pool rooms are operating in town now. One on West 2nd Avenue in the former Wily Littlejohn store building, and the other in the basement of the Headley building near the depot. Clanton is getting to be more cosmopolitan daily.

Are you a believer in the Word of God if you accept part of the Bible as true and discount the rest?

C. C. Hayes, beat two, was here the 12th inst.

GET BUSY NOW

The papers are full these days about a growing sentiment on the part of the great cotton mill people of Massachusetts and other down east mill centers, looking to the moving of their mills to the South and locating them nearer to the cotton fields. Some of them have already made the change and others are seeking locations now.

Vice President Mitchell, of the Alabama Power Company, who, some years ago, established and operated for about twelve years, the large cotton mill at Piedmont, told us once that Clanton was an ideal location for a mill. He said we possessed every essential here to make a cotton mill a success.

We know this is true and we ought to be a unit in regard to securing a mill for our town and county. If we want one, surely right now is the time to go after it.

The exodus of the milling interests to the South is on at this moment. They are feeling out the situation and looking for the best opening. Our great advantages should be placed before these people before they locate somewhere else. Our Chamber of Commerce, our bankers and our other prominent business men should be keeping the mails hot with urgent invitations for these people to visit us and see what we have.

Just think of it! Our climate is so mild that weather conditions never interfere with either indoor nor outdoor occupations. We are right in the midst of the finest cotton producing area in Alabama. We have an abundance of good, intelligent labor that never strikes or lays down.

There is no place in the United States that can surpass us in the way of healthfulness. Our people are peaceable and law abiding; easy to know, kind and accommodating. We have the very best church and school facilities that we know of. In fact, there is no desirable feature that is needed by large industries that cannot be offered.

Located, you might say, right at the very heart of the greatest power producing corporation in the land, an unlimited and absolutely reliable amount of power would be at all times available.

Really and truly, this is by long odds the most inviting proposition that can be offered to cotton mill investors by any location we know of in the South. All that is needed to assure us a cotton mill in the very near future is to get our advantages properly before the right parties.

GET BUSY, Secretary Heard!

France has invaded and taken over a large portion of the mineral and industrial territory of Germany to force payment of the reparations and indemnity Germany was to cough up as an expense bill of the great war. Now that they have this territory it's a white elephant on their hands. The Germans refuse to work for them and they have no labor man-power of their own to operate with.

Gray Holds Record

Over a distance of 4819 miles from San Francisco to New York, the Gray encountered mountainous grades and desert trails that the average driver doesn't meet in a lifetime. In spite of these gasoline devouring difficulties, the Gray car achieved a new world's record—an average of 33.8 miles per gallon for the trip. This record was made under the watchful eye of the observer of the American Automobile Association, who accompanied the car and made careful check on gasoline and oil consumption and mileage. Remember a stock GRAY touring car was used. Let us demonstrate one to you. Cars on display at Carter's Garage, Clanton, Alabama., and City Garage, Columbiana, Alabama. OUR TOM" SAYS SOMETHING

Senator Heflin, urging the right of Democrats to have representation on the Debt Commission, said:

"Mr. President, actual negotiations have begun for the funding of the British debt to the United States. The envoys of Great Britain are in the Capital; the members of the Debt Commission which were appointed by the President are meeting with them day after day. They are solemnly discussing the question of settling the terms of the payment of the debt between the Government of Great Britain and the Government of the United States. The people of the United States are represented in Congress by two great political parties. These two parties are supposed to speak for the whole American people. The people in many states and the people represented by it, however, are not represented on the Debt Commission. I submit that that is a denial of common justice to the Democratic Party and a rank outrage upon the American people. We are part and parcel of this great country. I want to repeat that if President Wilson had been in the White House and the Democrats had been in control of Congress, and we had appointed five Democrats to handle that debt of $12,000,000,000, we never would have heard the last of it from the other side of this Chamber. They are not going to hear the last of it soon in this Chamber unless they right the wrong they have done in this matter. I do not want to be hard on our allies; I want us to be fair with them and at the same time I want us to be entirely fair and square with the American people. I do know, as I said yesterday, that the American people are tax burdened and debt ridden, and that if we can speed up the collection of the debt which is due us and secure the payment of some of it we can reduce taxes on our people accomplish great good in the affairs of our own people here at home.

"I do not intend that any party shall conduct negotiations regarding that indebtedness, amounting to $12,000,000,000, behind closed doors and dispose of it in a way that nobody but the leaders of that party shall know what is going on. There are a lot of people in this country who think now that some of these international bankers, if they can force the cancellation of this debt, will get two and a half billion dollars in commissions for persuading the American people to cancel it. What an outrage upon common decency to appeal to the sympathy of the American people to forgive this debt, to cancel it, and then turn around to those interests and say: 'We got it cancelled; where are our commissions?' Why, there will be a scandal in this thing that will smell to high heaven before it is over.

Put some Democrats on that commission—real Democrats. Democrats who represent the people.

PATES CHAPEL

Health of this community is not so good at present as we would like for it to be, but we are thankful that everything is as well as it is.

Our Singing Society met Sunday afternoon. The singing was as usual.

The Directors were Nettie Hodges, Chester Maddox, Eula Caton, Sybel Maddox, J. F. Robinson and J. A. Cleckler. Organists were Miss Nora Franklin, Miss Mae Maddox and Mrs. Evie Childress.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected: Chester A. Maddox, president; J. A. Cleckler, secretary. We wish to state to our friends that we are going to try to have a program especially prepared every second and fourth Sunday evening. We will be glad to co-operate with other communities in making this one of the best years of singing that we have ever had. Part of our class is practicing daily in the new books now and we are sure you will enjoy the programs that are prepared for you. We missed Professor Franklin Sunday evening, but hope he will be with us next time.

Miss Fannie Pate, Miss Callie Edwards and Miss Costelle Maddox spent Saturday night with Mr. Sam Edwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merchant, who have been visiting friends and relatives left Wednesday for Washington, D. C., where Mr. Merchant will take up his work with the government.

MR. DUPREE, PROMINENT CITIZEN OF ELMORE, DEAD

Mr. Henry Dupree died at his home near Tallassee, Alabama, last Monday. Mr. Dupree was reared in this county and up until about thirty-five years of age, was a citizen of same.

He was a brother of our well and favorably known citizen, Mr. James Dupree.

POLL TAXES

Now that old officers are about to go out and new ones come in, we in Alabama who claim to be citizens between 21 and 45, and are not specially exempted, should turn our minds to thoughts of poll-tax payments.

February 1st is the last day on which the tax can be paid, and if it is not paid you will be disqualified as a voter in 1923.

Of course if you are 45 or more years old, you are exempt. Former service men are exempt, as well as active members of the National Guard. The tax is $1.50 and women as well as men voters are subject to it. It isn't a pleasant or creditable thing to suffer yourself to be disqualified as a voter from pure neglect of a common duty and privilege. Poll-tax money goes to the common schools.

KIN FOLKS TABOO

The following appeared in the Montgomery Advertiser:

"State officials will have to go beyond the family circle to secure their employees if house bill 33 introduced Tuesday by Representative Fite of Jefferson becomes law.

"The bill in full, without captions, is as follows:

"Section 1. It is hereby unlawful for any state officer to employ to work for the state in his department any person related to such officer by consanguinity within the 5th degree or by affinity within the third degree.

"Section 2. Any persons employed in violation of Section 1 of this act shall not receive from any state fund any compensation for services so rendered.

"Section 3. It shall be the duty of every person occupying an official position within the state of Alabama to certify to the auditor that the person employed by him and working under his direction or in his department is not related to him within the degrees prohibited by Section 1 of this act before the state auditor shall have authority to draw warrant for the payment of any salary or compensation.

"Section 4. FIDDLIN' IN VERBENA

Verbena, Ala., Jan. 16.

Dear Folks—Friday night week as you might say—at the school auditorium in Verbena, at 8 pm. the Second Annual Fiddler's Convention of Chilton, Coosa, Autauga and Elmore counties will be pulled off. If you are not so fortunate as to live within these limits, why, just come along and do not say anything about the other places you live, and we'll welcome you just the same. Fact is, there will be a great gathering of music lovers here from all parts round about, and we don't disappoint them at all. Last year a few were kept away for a the feeling that this was an affair there was all kinds of red tape, but the fact is, if at all you have to do is to cut loose your shoe strings and come along and "fine."

Do you fiddle. Plap a mandolin? Guitar? Ukulele? Are you a member of a stringed orchestra? Well, then, Verbena will welcome you on the evening of the 26th even more than on any other evening, for we want the string folks here and those that come to visit us that night, your friends and their friends, to hear "Leather Breeches," Old Dan Tucker," "Fisher's Hornpipe," "Devil's Dream," "Arkansas Traveler," Turkey In The Straw," "Cotton Eyed Joe," or any other old time favorite that will be in store on that occasion.

The contest will be open to all. There will be no "ifs" or "buts" about it. All the credentials you need is a stringed instrument along with you. We'll take care that you get your place on the program, that you may select your own music, play your own tunes, have accompaniment if you with, play orchestra for prize, or in any manner, or creation, feasible. Come on down and help us make the biggest and best time of it. Talk it over with your neighbor, and get him to get ready and come. Write the Fiddlin' Committee, Box 119, Verbena, Alabama, for any information, or to tell them of any names.

Now, about prizes. A list is being made up now. We hope to make this even better than those of last year. We will say, however, that a first prize of $10.00 cash will be given to the best individual fiddler. Then there will be other prizes, handsome ones, for other numbers on the program. No matter what you play, you have a splendid chance for a prize. We feel sure that any fiddler will be gratified to receive any that we shall offer. A Competent committee will be chosen, with the approval of the fiddlers themselves, to pass on the merits of the different performer's work.

Don't forget the date—Friday, Jan. 26, 1923, nor the place, Verbena School Auditorium, nor the thing—Fiddlers' Convention.

GARDNER—PRINCE

A marriage occurred last Sunday in Calera that we dare say was a surprise to almost every person in Clanton.

We refer to the nuptials of M Hubert Gardner, of Mitchell Dam and Miss Anna Prince, of our town. Both the contracting parties young people, just starting out on the voyage of life and both are highly esteemed by a large following of friends who know them.

Mr. Gardner is an employee of the Power Company, of Mitchell Dam and has made a most excellent reputation with that Company as a young man of sterling worth and ability.

The bride is the lovely daughter of Mr. J. H. Prince, of our city, and sister of Mr. A. S. Prince, the clever "third trick" operator at the depot.

The News, together with their other numerous friends, extends earnest felicitations.

LOOKS GOOD

From the best information we have been able to accumulate from all of the county, we are pretty sure the people of Chilton have made and saved this last year, plenty of meat and corn to feed themselves for another year.

Besides, a fair yield of cotton is made and marketed and the indications are that the income from this source has not been wasted to any great extent and a large number of farmers are going to be able, this year, to go on an absolutely cash basis.

A pretty fair crop of grain has been put in and the farming prospects for this year looks more encouraging than it has in many years.

We see no reason for anyone to down in the mouth as regards the future for this immediate section. Well anything like an average year, when the harvest is gathered in next fall the people of this section should find themselves on easy street.

Put a smile on your face and encourage nature to do her best for us this year.

AN AGED REUNION

Reverend J. E. Nelson, route four, has returned from an extended visit to points in Louisiana and Texas. He spent most of his time at his sister's in Shreveport, Louisiana, Mrs. Sarah Whitton. His other sister, Mrs. Josephine Waits, of Marshall, Texas, met him there and several other relatives also from the Lone Star State came to Shreveport to see him.

Reverend Nelson's oldest sister, Mrs. Whitton, is eighty-nine years old, while the one in Texas is eighty-nine years young. This is indeed remarkable when you consider the fact that Brother Nelson is ninety years of age. As stated before, he had not seen his two sisters in over 50 years.

Reverend Nelson has been a member of the Masonic Fraternity for sixty years and a Baptist Minister for forty-eight years.

HIGH LIGHTS IN BRANDON'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 15 Governor William W. Brandon, in his inaugural address Monday summarized "what we want inAlabama" in ten pointed paragraphs:

"A relief from excessive taxation of the properties now on the tax books while others are exempted. By reducing taxes as far as possible on properties that should be taxed to bear their share.

"An educated citizenship with a seven-months' school in every school district, and our University, colleges and normal schools open to every young man and woman in the state.

"By practicing economy in every department—abolishing useless offices, striking down duplications and cutting every unnecessary expense.

"A healthy people with proper health laws and protection from disease.

"A contented rural people with every advantage in school and market.

"The proper care of all wards of the state, including the wayward youth and those things that look after the welfare of the children.

"Good roads with a commission of three men who will begin a road program at once that will connect county sites.

"Rigid enforcement of law.

"The enabling act to build the port of Mobile.

"Harmony in our ranks, unity in Alabama, co-operation and not criticism, to the end that we may grow without oppression. We must develope and make happy the home life of our people."

Governor Brandon's address contained this paragraph on Sabbath observance:

"The Sabbath Day should be kept holy and any commercialization of this Sacred Day should be prohibited."

He wants prohibition laws enforced:

"A sober citizenship is not only essential to our material welfare, but to our moral and spiritual life; therefore, we must not minimize or weaken our prohibition laws, but enforce them to the letter without fear or favor."

On state finance:

"We must live within our income and yet not retard the progress of the state."

He advocates a per capita tax and a special mileage tax for education.

WHY NOT JOIN THE LEGION?

In its membership drive, the local post of the American Legion, which is the leading post in Alabama, sets out the reasons why former service men should join that body. In doing so the Legion informs us of the service which it has been the pleasure of the Legion to perform in recent months. For example, this paragraph is illuminating:

"The consciousness of having contributed your mite toward obtaining ninety-odd positions for jobless veterans; lending the helping hand to down and out buddies; sending coal, wood, groceries, milk and ice to destitute families of ex-service men; purchasing transportation for veterans and their families stranded in Montgomery; funeral designs for our dead; cigarettes, fruit and meals and shelter for destitute men who served their country in the World War—regardless of whether they were members of the American Legion."

And yet the membership dues to each man are only five dollars a year. Speaking of the annual dues a circular letter from Post headquarters says to the ex-service men to whom it is addressed:

"After your $5 is once paid you can not be assessed another penny during the year; nor can you, by joining the Legion, become a party to any sort of a drive or begging expedition. The Legion is self-supporting and will continue to be so."—Exchange.

PROFESSOR PEGUES BACK

Professor Ira Pegues returned Tuesday from his home at Scottsboro, Alabama, where he has been for one week. He resumed his duties yesterday morning at the City School.

The clipping below from the Progressive Age published at Scottsboro, Alabama, will explain why Professor Pegues has been away for several days. We are glad to state that his brother is now improving, and strong hopes are held out for his ultimate recovery since the writing of the news item which follows.

Last Tuesday John M. Pegues suffered a broken back and other injuries that will probably result fatally, while unloading a load of hay at the barn of Tom Hurt in Scottsboro. It is said that Mr. Pegues was driving into the barn when the horses became frightened and ran under the lower part of the barn, pinning him between the load of hay and the loft of the barn. Mr. Hurt was present and succeeded in stopping the team or Mr. Pegues would have been killed instantly. Medical aid was summoned and the injured man was carried to Chattanooga for treatment that night, where it was found that his back was broken and other injuries, a broken rib had punctured his stomach. Very little hope is held for his recovery.

The accident is most deplorable regarded as the most deplorable of recent years. Mr. Pegues is of the county. He has always been active in every progressive movement of his community and his country. That he enjoyed the respect and utmost confidence of everyone who knew him, makes his terrible injuries deeply regretted by hundreds of friends. We trust and hope that his life will be spared.

He is a son of Rev. D. K. Pegues of Hollywood and is a bachelor. His home is with his father.—The Progressive Age.

CHILTON HI WALLOPS JEMISON HI

The Jemison Hi boys motored down to the Chilton Hi court last Friday afternoon, and they were taken entirely by surprise and played off their feet.

The Chilton boys were in there fighting all the way with all playing a fine brand of basket ball.

The Jemison boys were doped to win because of the stiff game played with Verbena a week before.

The final score was: Chilton Hi 12, Jemison Hi 5.

All the team needs is support so when the next game is played, come and yell for the boys.

The next game will be with Thompson Hi at Siluria next Friday afternoon, and on the following Friday, the game which all pupils of Chilton will want to win—everybody knows we want to win always from Marbury especially, so come Friday week and help the boys win.

On February 17th, the Chilton boys go to Montgomery to play Sidney Lanier—don't laugh because somebody might be terribly surprised when they see the score.

Coach Whatley is putting the boys through some strenuous practice so they will be in good condition for Marbury Hi.

W. J. Morris, route seven, went down to the Capital of Alabama Monday.

VOLUME 2 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, JANUARY 25, 1922. — NUMBER 20

Local Society

Mrs. T. C. McSwain, Editor.

Mrs. John Armstrong Hostess.

A delightful meeting of the Wednesday Sewing Club was held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. John Armstrong at her attractive home. Vases of cut flowers added to the attractiveness of the living room. Everyone brought some bit of sewing and toward the close of the afternoon a salad course was served. Besides the club members present, were Mesdames Wade, Wilkerson, Haynes and Roper.

Mrs. Gerald Hostess.

Mrs. L. F. Gerald was the charming hostess to the Bridge Club at her attractive home on Wednesday afternoon. The affair was one of the prettiest of the week and was thoroughly enjoyed.

Three tables for the game of bridge were grouped in the living room which was artistically decorated with cut flowers and ferns. Mrs. Eric Hart received the prize for the top score of the club members.

At the conclusion of the game a salad course was served.

Master J. P. Crumpton Honored.

On last Friday Mrs. Lucian Duncan entertained at her attractive residence from 7:30 to 10:30, honoring her brother, Master J. P. Crumpton, this being the young man's birthday. About twenty young people were invited to enjoy this occasion. After the young people had enjoyed quite a number of different games, the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Miss Kathleen Mullins Entertains.

The lovely home of Miss Kathleen Mullins was the scene of a delightful social event on Thursday afternoon when she most pleasantly entertained the members of the Thursday Bridge Club and other guests. The living room where two tables were placed for the games was artistically decorated. The prize contested for was a deck of Coopers cards was won by Miss Mullins.

Many spirited games of bridge were played during the afternoon at the conclusion of which the hostess served a most tempting salad plate.

Master Elwyn Gore Host

On last Friday night at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Gore, Master Elwyn Gore entertained twelve of his young friends at a rook party. The living room was very attractive in potted plants. In this spacious room there were placed three tables where the young people enjoyed the games of rook. At a late hour Mrs. Gore, assisted by Mrs. Luckie served hot chocolate and cake.

Mrs. S. A. Goodwyn, of Montgomery, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Luckie.

Mr. and Mrs. Arden Allen of Birmingham spent Sunday at Coopers and Clanton.

Mr. Frank Allen of the Birmingham News was a visitor to Clanton and Mitchell Dam Sunday.

UNION SERVICES

On next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock Mr. Thomas V. Bixey will occupy the rostrum at the Baptist church and will lecture in the interests of the Alabama Sunday School Association.

This will be a union service and everyone is cordially invited to come out and hear this able worker.

He will not only tell us about the great Sunday School uplift movement, but will have something to say in reference to the coming here soon of Rev. Bob Jones and the character of work the great evangelist is carrying on.

In last week's issue of the News we mentioned about going to Montgomery to witness the inauguration of Judge Brandon as the next governor of Alabama in Mr. W. W. Fox's Buick Six. Somehow the name of Mr. John Fox happened to be omitted from that local item. We wish to say right here, if you want to take a trip in a Buick car, get Mr. Fox (John) to drive it. You can pass practically all of the automobiles and "John Henry" cannot keep in sight.

W. J. Billingsley, of Thorsby, was here last Sunday. Mr. Billingsley is an enthusiastic supporter of the cause of education, having rendered valuable service along this line in Chilton for several years.

GONE FOR QUARTER OF CENTURY

Clanton had some visitors this week who were born and reared here, but who have been making their home in Southwest Georgia for twenty-five without a visit back to the scenes of their childhood.

We refer to Messrs Will and Robert Wells, who are sons of Mr. Berry Wells, who was, years ago, a prominent sawmill man here.

These gentlemen were called back at this time to attend the burial of their sister, Mrs. Hays Hunt, at Calera, which occurred last Sunday. She and her deceased husband were also widely known here in times past. They left their home at Faceville, Georgia Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock and motored to Calera by noon Sunday, driving all night.

They said Clanton had improved so much they would not have known the town at all. They stopped over among their many relatives and friends here Sunday night, Monday and Monday night, leaving early Tuesday morning right in the teeth of that southeast gale for their distant Georgia home.

They had with them Mr. Arthur Gowan, Faceville, and Mr. J. D. Wells, of Montgomery.

E. L. Glass, of Jemison, was here one day the latter part of last week.

"What Shall The Harvest Be?"

"For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."
Galatians 6-7.

This is an unchanging law, just as unchanging as the law of gravity.

If we sow wheat we reap wheat, if we sow, or plant corn we reap corn. A handful of wheat would not feed a family, but if sown and fertilized would yield a sufficient amount to feed a large family several days.

The above is just as true with money as anything else. We all want to accumulate money and the best way to do it is to plant it by depositing it in a good safe, strong bank, like ours, where it will accumulate and grow.

Let us help you with your money crop.

A BIG LOCAL REAL ESTATE DEAL

DR. GOWAN SELLS LARGE BLOCK OF RESIDENCE PROPERTY IN GOWAN ADDITION. MR. ED. GILES THE PURCHASER, WILL BUILD HOUSES

At last the deadlock seems to be successfully broken and we are going to have some rental homes put up. There have been a large number of residences put up in Clanton during the past few months, but they did not seem to relieve the congestion to any appreciable degree, for the reason that almost everyone of them was constructed for the personal use of the owner.

Now Mr. Giles, the purchaser of this large tract of more than twenty nice building lots, tells us that he is going to proceed immediately to have erected on them some nice comfortable homes for people who desire to move in and enjoy our prosperity.

It is most gratifying to us to make this announcement from the fact that the need for additional house room in Clanton is so apparent and the absence of a place to live has caused so many good potential citizens to pass us up and seek farther for a house.

We feel just like Mr. Giles will not only be a benefactor to Clanton, but will also find that an investment in homes here will prove highly remunerative and will pay splendid dividends on the money invested.

Dr. Gowan is so favorably impressed with the prospect ahead of Clanton as a business center, and the coming metropolis of Central Alabama, that he will place the money received in this deal right back into Clanton dirt. He has had a great deal of experience in handling real estate in our town, and is one who almost always knows what is what when it comes to speculating in landed property, and the fact that he is going to reinvest right away in local property indicates that the future looks bright to him for a continuation of the wave of prosperity that has been laving our city for the last two years or more.

We have said before and we see no reason to change our mind, that fifty new houses in Clanton would be occupied as fast as the workmen could get them ready.

Come on! Let's go!

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. BICE

Thorsby, Ala., Jan. 22, 1923.
Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Sir: The truth of my letter published in your paper on the 11th inst. seems to make L. H. R. desperate, as he undertook to give me a whipping last Tuesday, the 16th.

He struck at me with all the power he had but missed his mark. I suppose he intended to kill me, for he backed off and picked up a chair with both hands, lifted it up, made for me and I think Mr. Tom Rockey ran between us, and someone caught me, so he did not get an opportunity to knock me in the head as he intended to do, as his attempt was frustrated.

The first of last June the commissioners had to elect a county treasurer. One of the commissioners came to Thorsby and told me that Mr. J. A. Thomas had resigned and for me to put in my application for this office. I spoke to him about Judge Reynolds, and he told me it was all right with the Judge, and he was satisfied that if I put in my application I would get the treasurers office. He told me not to say anything about him coming to see me about the matter, so I didn't, and will not give any name now. I went to see one other commissioner and asked him for his support. I told him I understood it would be all right with the Judge and he told me the Judge had spoken of me and that they always elected the one that the Judge wanted.

His chief clerk, at that time asked me to put in my application for treasurer and I am sure she would not have spoken to me about it if the Judge had not wanted me. The Judge told me the other day he did not want me. I asked him why he sent for me. He said, he didn't send for me and I told him that he did send for me. He then said he didn't do any such damn thing, and at the same time struck at me. I told him he only wanted me during the campaign to keep me from working for Harris in the primary. He knew I could have defeated him. He told me to get out and I told him that I wouldn't and that he couldn't put me out.

Of course, it was the letter I had published in your paper that made him so angry. He said, just before he tried to jump on me, that he had no use for any damn Republican that would have his letter printed in a democratic paper. I was told that if a letter did not suit him it is not allowed to be printed in the Union Banner.

About the Kelly-Gentry letter. It was the truth he and the other delegates with him, voted six votes against seating the two white delegates from Montgomery county in the State Convention at Birmingham in September. I was near them and know they voted as stated. They cannot deny it—and tell the truth.

When the courthouse was burned, Judge Reynolds told me it was insured for $15,000, and he asked me to make out a statement of all that was destroyed in my office and send it to him, and I did so. All the other officers were asked to do the same and they told me that they made out statements of all that was destroyed in their offices, and gave same to him. The Judge told me there would be plenty to pay for all office fixtures that were destroyed. The $15,000 for the courthouse was collected and paid to the county treasurer, but the $3,000 has not been paid to the county treasurer. It does not show on the treasurers books. I have only Judge Reynold's word as to the $3,000 insurance on the office fixtures. He had all the officers make out statements of what was destroyed by the fire in their offices. I have been in Chilton county over forty years, and have been a close friend to Judge Reynolds for twenty-five years and have paid out hundreds of dollars in the interest of the Republican party, and Lewis Reynolds was the recipient of it. There are a few others that have been in office, but none as long as Judge Reynolds and M. D. Foshee.

He told me the other day when he tried to put me out that I was not satisfied unless I was in office. I said this to him, "Are you satisfied without being in office? He has been in office over twenty years—I have held county office two years seven and a half months. He promised six years ago that he would not run any more, if we would help him out that time, but what did he do after Harris and Beaty came out? He saw his chance and then he came out.

Respectfully,
J. Bice.

NOTED EVANGELIST, BOB JONES, COMING TO CLANTON

WILL BEGIN A UNION REVIVAL HERE ON FEBRUARY 11. EVERYBODY INVITED TO ATTEND

The nationally famous revivalist, Rev. Bob Jones, who has conducted strenuous campaigns against sin and the devil in almost every large city in the South, will be in Clanton on Sunday, February 11th to begin one of his typical onslaughts on the bulwarks of unrighteousness.

You have all heard of him, have read his unique sayings, and the press, far and near, has told us about his wonderfully successful methods of attacking sin in every walk of life, and now you will have the opportunity of seeing him in action and hearing him in person.

We consider our people fortunate in having secured a date with this famous and busy man, and we feel assured that everyone who can possibly do so will be out to each service held here.

All churches and denominations are interested in this revival. It will be absolutely undenominational in every phase, as the paramount object of Rev. Jones, in all of his campaigns is to route out the devil from his strongholds and to bring lost souls to a realization of their condition and to show them the "straight and narrow way" that leads to that "city not built with hands, eternal in the skies."

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the great revival have not, as yet, definitely decided where the services will be held. A positive announcement will be given out next week.

Later.—Before going to press the Committee of Arrangement met again and Reverend C. C. Wilkerson informed us that they have secured the large Wade cotton warehouse, located on West Second Avenue, and well use that for the Bob Jones revivial.

This is a splendid arrangement for the building will easily accommodate 3,000 people. Electric lights will be put in, a bagging carpet put down, heaters installed and plenty of seats moved in to take care of everybody. Remember the opening date—Sunday February 11th, and will continue one week. Big, little, old and young are invited.

The rain falls alike on the just and the unjust, but the farmer who gets up and hustles the soonest is the guy who generally gets the results.

Girls, if you want to qualify for a place as movie queen, the first thing to do is to buy yourself a silver-plated automatic.

You had better not go off and stay away from Clanton very long, for it's building up so fast you might not be able to find your way home when you get back.

Wonder if there are any church members in business who are afraid to stand up for their religious convictions for fear the members of other churches would not patronize them.

Neither a man or a woman is fully qualified to make a good husband or good wife until they can conscientiously make up their mind to abide by the same moral standard.

"Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days be dark and dreary."

We are almost of the opinion, sometimes, that our life must be continually passed under a wet moon.

Two kinds of people we can't understand. One is a street-corner democrat and an election day republican, the other is a Sunday Christian and a week-day gambelr, bootlegger and thug.

Young people, do you want to live a long time? The Bible says, "Honor they father and thy mother that thy days may be long on the land which the Lord, thy God, giveth thee."

The good Book says, "Love your neighbor as yourself." From general appearances it doesn't look like people are falling down over themselves obeying that command.

We cannot speak from experimental knowledge of the situation, but from the visible evidences of prosperity throughout this section it looks like our people are all well fixed for the vicissitudes of the New Year.

There are many more ways of being a robber than holding up a person with a gun and taking his stuff. There are many more ways of being a sinner than to get drunk, "cuss", fight and generally make a hog of oneself.

We want to serve notice on all the rabbits of this section that they better move now while the going is good. On the 22nd of February the Rabbit Club will be out on their annual drive and they intend to make a clean sweep.

It is generally conceded now that the "Ford bid" will not come up in Congress until after the new bunch of wise guys are sworn in. Henry will doubtless call it in before that time. Another dream of wealth gone to the dogs.

Some of the more fashionable society gents have adopted blinders to protect their eyes from the long variegated quills affected by the ultra elite women in their head gear now. They should also adopt suits of bullet proof armor if they want to possess a measure of safety from the modern female.

France has taken over the German mines and factories. The operatives all quit and now France has billions of dollars worth of visible collateral for the German debt, but is unable to hypothecate it for cash enough to buy one breakfast for her army of invasion. Some men in public life today would do well to make a study of the life and character of the devil. At one time he was "the bright and morning star" in heaven, but his overweening ambition and monumental egotism, divorced him from that job, and degraded him to what he now is. THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

Now, that the clouds have rolled by and we can begin to see our way again, we want to offer our readers a few words by way of apology and as an explanation for the eratic career of the News for a few weeks as the old year died.

Some people, we dare say thought that, perhaps, the News was going to sing its "Swan Song" and become one of the things that had been. We are satisfied that if the earnest hope of some few individuals in Chilton county could have bloomed into fruition, that even now the News would be only a memory, but owing to the fact that we know we are fighting the good fight for the best interests of all the people, we feel like our tenure of existence has only begun.

The Jinx put in some overtime in trying to harass us and gave us lots of trouble, but we finally managed to get by. First the flu took a shot at the business manager and before he could shake off the dread malady, our editor was floored with the same insidious enemy, and for four weeks he was utterly down and out. Our machine help quit and went to pastures new at the same time, and it took some considerable wiring to employ another one. All of this came along at the same time and a less lusty youngster than the News would have thrown up the sponge.

We are happy to say now, however, that both of us are back on the job and we are certainly convinced that the flu must belong to the Reynold republican faction.

We have the Dr. Couie Spirit now and have resolved, "Day by day, in every way to make the News better and better." So come on and go with us if you want to read all the news, social and political, in a clean paper that is always fit to go into your home circle.

PAY YOUR POLL-TAX BEFORE FEBRUARY 1.

The farmers complain all the time that they can't get first cost for their produce when they bring it to town. If they move in and try buying it for the table after it has been brought in they will find out that the consumer is doing his full duty in the matter.

It has always been a great wonder to us that some of these fellows who can always tell the editor how to run his paper don't get into the business and enlighten the world.

Another movie star shot her husband last week. Here is an opening for some ogling masher to annex a little cheap notriety and free eats until it comes his turn to be bumped off.

Will the great American public stand for the "come back" of "Fatty" Arbuckle? Are they willing to pay their good money to look at the assinine antics of an advertised libertine and public debauchee?

The fight between the Catholics and the Ku Klux Klan, at Bastrop, Louisiana, is still going on. The State is making a super-human effort to tie a can to the "invisible empire" in Louisiana, but the Klan was here before many of us arrived and it's liable to be here after most of us are gone unless libertineism and licentiousness in high places becomes less common.

WHY NOT MAKE IT POLL TAX?

Governor Brandon is strong in his message to the legislature for a flat tax of $2 on each individual between the ages of 21 and 50, which tax is to be applied to school purposes. So far so good. We need more education, more money to pay for it and a better system of getting the worth of the money invested. That much is all true.

But why a flat tax per person? We are aware of the fact that a great many people are averse to making a return to old-time systems even when the old plan is palpably the better way, but in this particular instance, we can't possibly see why this flat tax should not take the form of the old-time poll tax and be compulsory, and be collected just as other taxes are.

It was a glaring mistake when the old system was changed, and instead of being a benign relief to poor people, it was a flagrant fraud on the poor, and induced thousands of them to give up the only weapon of defense they had to use in warding off the oppression that follows in the footsteps of "Big Business." It was a very transparent trap set to catch the unwary but it worked out to perfection.

If the legislature wishes to confer a priceless boon on the common people and also aid the educational work, they will only adopt the Governor's suggestion in the shape of a reinstated poll tax system.

A flat tax that does not carry with it any personal benefit or privilege will not appeal to the people of Alabama.

A FINE RECORD

Verbena Consolidated school now has six teachers and an enrollment of 244. Thirty-seven are enrolled in the high school department. A new piano has been added to the equipment this year and a separate building erected for music and domestic science. A course in Vocational Agriculture is now being planned for next year.

Mr. J. B. Hobdy, of the State Department of Education will soon visit the community to inspect the situation, and if this course is added it will mean quite a distinction for the Verbena school since only one school in a county is allowed this work. Verbena is the first school in this county to attempt the work.

Through consolidation Verbena has grown from a two-teacher school four years ago, to a six-teacher school now. Five bus loads of children are brought to this school daily.

THE TAX MESS

Taxes in the United States are in a mess. A lot of other words, both polite and impolite, apply, but none serves better than this four-letter word with its implication of disorder and embarrassment.

It is probable that taxes on real estate has reached the limit of safety. Former Governor Miller, of New York, is quoted as saying in an address that "present-day taxes would consume more than 30 per cent of the net income on real estate in New York." A high official of another Eastern state, at a tax meeting, said that in many cases taxes were absorbing 75 per cent of the net income of the owner's real estate.

Unfortunately land cannot be hidden, and tax assessors pounce upon it. Intangible wealth probably reaches a greater total in the United States than all our real estate, but it finds many ways of dodging its share of the tax burden. Particularly does it take refuge in tax-free securities.

The estimates vary, but it is believed that up to twenty billion dollars now hide in tax-free securities. Investors are eager to buy tax-free bonds of school-districts, municipalities and other government units. Some of the municipalities have so many of these tax-free loans that they must spend sixty-five cents out of every tax-raised dollar for interest.

The farmer has been given a sop in tax-free farm-loan bonds. But he is paying dearly for it in the unequal share of taxation he must shoulder because of the sixteen to twenty billion dollars of tax-free bonds with which the country is burdened. It has come down to the point now where just two classes of producers, farmers and manufacturers, virtually carry the cost of government on their shoulders.—The Country Gentleman, Philadelphia.

If you can say something good about your neighbor, let 'er roll. If you can't, keep your mouth shut.

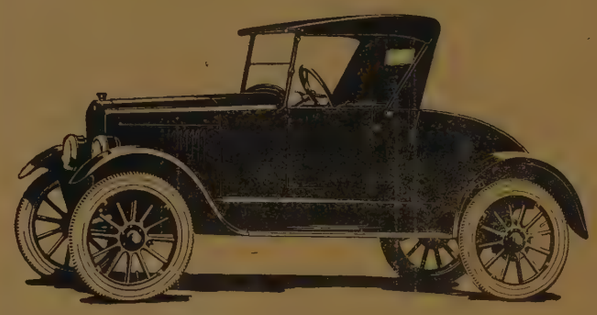
Gray Holds Record



Over a distance of 4819 miles from San Francisco to New York, the Gray encountered mountainous grades and desert trails that the average driver doesn't meet in a lifetime. In spite of these gasoline devouring difficulties, the Gray car achieved a new world's record—an average of 33.8 miles per gallon for the trip. This record was made under the watchful eye of the observer of the American Automobile Association, who accompanied the car and made careful check on gasoline and oil consumption and mileage. Remember a stock GRAY touring car was used. Let us demonstrate one to you. Cars on display at Carter's Garage, Clanton, Alabama., and City Garage, Columbiana, Alabama. BIG STILL CAPTURED

Officers Seize 500-Gallon Outfit in Chilton.

(Special to The Advertiser)

CLANTON, Ala., Jan. 21.—Sheriff T. J. Littlejohn of Chilton county, in co-operation with W. H. Gillespie and H. W. Cox, federal enforcement agents, late Friday night, captured a complete still of 500-gallon capacity, 800 gallons of beer, 400 pounds of sugar and a bushel of malt, in a raid conducted in the northern portion of the county near the Shelby county line. Two men who were seen by the officers in the vicinity of the still escaped.

Saturday the federal officers in a raid conducted at a point some six miles east of Jemison, searched a house in which Shade Dorminy resided and after capturing five gallons of liquor on the premises, placed Dorminy under arrest. Dorminy was taken to Montgomery where he made bond. A school house located in that section of the county where the raids were made has remained closed since Christmas due to the alleged difficulty to obtain board in the community for the teachers.—Advertiser.

POLL-TAX

In ancient times the franchise was a royal privilege bestowed upon loyal subjects, but in a democracy like ours it is a constitutional right of every intelligent, law-abiding citizen. Citizenship involves on the one hand, protection of the individual by the state, and on the other, allegiance to and support of the government.

No man or woman can discharge fully the duties of citizenship without exercising the right of suffrage. It is peculiarly important in Alabama that all persons qualified exercise their right to participate in the affairs of government. To do this, every citizen between the ages of twenty-one and forty-five years must pay annually on or before February 1st. the constitutional poll-tax of $1.50. This tax goes wholly to the schools.

Every business, civic and social organization and also every school teacher should urge upon all who are liable the imperative duty of paying poll-tax, thus becoming eligible at all times to participate in civic affairs and, at the same time, have a part in further supporting the work of our schools. Respectfully,

HOWARD L. FOSHEE,
County Supt. Education.

SANFORD DECLINES JOB

The following clipping announcing the fact that Honorable T. D. Samford will decline the job of Warden General offered him by Governor Brandon will not be duplicated in many instances.

It was said that 106,000 of Brandon's majority of 107,000 had asked for an office. Evidently Mr. Samford belongs in the small miuority who are satisfied.

T. D. Samford, Opelika, will not accept the position of warden general of Alabama, according to an unofficial but reliable report Sunday night.

It became known sometime ago that Governor Brandon would tender the position as head of the convict department to the well known Opelika man and until Sunday it was believed Mr. Samford would accept the position. Mr. Samford was in Jacksonville Sunday and could not be reached but it is known that some of his friends have declared that he had decided not to accept the place.—Montgomery Advertiser.

EX-CONVICT GETS $1,500 DAMAGES

MOVED IN

Mr. Ben Sparkman, the machine operator at this office, went down to Montgomery last Tuesday to meet his wife and three children who were moving over from Macon, Georgia, to make their home in Clanton.

They arrived according to program and are now domesticated at the former home of Mr. A. C. Cooper, where Dr. E. R. Steele and family also reside.

The street department is having some splendid street work done now.

CLANTON REAL ESTATE IS A LIVE WIRE

We learn that Mr. G. O. Foshee closed out all of his real estate here without any trouble. It went like hot cakes.

Colonel J. B. Atkinson purchased his nice homestead that he vacated in his move to Florida, and Dr. Earl Gowan bought a large body of acreage he owned on the southern limits of the city.

All you have to do to sell real estate here is just let it be known that you are in the notion. New investors are coming in almost daily.

TO THE LAND OF FLOWERS

The good people of Clanton will regret to give up Mr. G. O. Foshee and family, as citizens, but life is made up largely of regrets, and we will have to bow to the inevitable and bid them adieu.

He is moving this week to the "Land of Flowers" to make his future abode and we wish for him and his all of the success that can wait on the footsteps of wayfarers on the journey of life.

NO ENCOURAGEMENT HERE

A scientist has recently stated that if the earth were entirely flattened the sea would be two miles deep all over the world. Reading this the editor of a paper in Oklahoma reprinted it with this addition:

"If any man is caught flattening the earth, shoot him on the spot. There is a whole lot of us here in Oklahoma who can't swim."—United Farmer.

PAY YOUR POLL-TAX

Would that we could use some argument that would induce every man and woman in Chilton county, who is subject to poll-tax, to pay up said tax before February 1st. If you fail to do so you will be disfranchised for the entire year and the little amount will be charged against you and the next time you want to pay up your bill will be doubled and harder to pay.

Make yourself a full 100 per cent American citizen by paying up now.

Don't you remember last fall how sorry you were that you could not vote? Don't get caught that way again.

All of the money you invest in poll-tax goes to the assistance of the greatest cause before America today—the education of the children.

Whether you have children or not, surely you have pride enough in the land you live in to desire to see ignorance chased from our shores. Surely you are willing to contribute $1.50 per year, that the rising generation may be educated and fitted to take their proper place in the affairs of life. Ponder this question well and be sure to pay your poll-tax by February 1st.

When the chronic promoter of philantrophical "drives" ceases his high-sounding "bull shooting" and decides to go to work for an honest living, and the leading papers print news instead of pitiful propaganda in regard to starving children and famished women, we will conclude that there is still some hope of a return to sane and normal conditions. They have cried "wolf" many times too often, it doesn't "stick" any more.

Ex-Governor Kilby states that he is entirely out of politics. He just as well have left that unsaid

LOCALS

Miss Mary Sue Mullins is returning today to New Orleans to pursue her medican course at Tulane University.

Hugh Neighbors, Stephen Crew, and Bob Allen, of Goodwater, were visitors in Clanton last Sunday.

The large number of people here last Saturday made the streets of Clanton put on the appearance of the Metropolis of Alabama.

Professor W. E. G. Sutton, of Verbena, was here Saturday attending the meeting of the University Extension group of teachers.

Mr. J. L. White, of Nashville, Tennessee, is visiting his father, W. H. White, at Mulberry. Mr. White, Senior, is a Confederate Veteran.

Judge J. Q. Smith and wife, of the Iron and Steel City of the South, were in Clanton Sunday. Judge Smith, it will be recalled, has served as Attorney General of Alabama.

Miss Annis Kemp, who has been in the State Normal School at Jacksonville, is now at home. She has had a severe attack of influenza and is yet in poor health.

If you miss the "Fiddler's Convention," at Verbena tomorrow night you will miss an evening that would afford you many hearty laughs as well as one of the very best times that you have enjoyed in many days.

Mr. A. B. Baxley, state manager of the "United Farmers of America", spent a few days the early part of the week here with home folks and friends.

A very small error made a very large change in the meaning of one of our "Locals" last week. The hog raised by Mr. R. L. Duffy of Mountain Creek produced eighty pounds of lard instead of the eight as was printed.

Roland Taylor, of Anniston, was here Sunday associating with relatives and friends.

The Merchants, manufacturers, farmers and laborers all got the wrong perspective during the chaotic war period. Before the war if a man could make ten per cent on any investment he was absolutely happy. Inflated war profits, like everything else, skyrocketed out of all reason and thirty-five to fifty per cent became common. The war is over now and these conditions exist no more, but people still try to hold up profits on the war basis. Cut it out and get back to normaley and times will be all right again.

UNIVERSITY GROUP MEETS

TEACHERS ARE VERY INTERESTED IN PROFESSIONAL WORK

The "University Group" of the Chilton county teachers met last Saturday at the County high school building. Dr. James S. Thomas, Dean of the Extension School, was on hand to give his very interesting lecture. There is no more up-to-date movement in the field of education than that being studied by our teachers; namely, "The Project Method of Teaching." It may be truly said that perhaps there is no one in the South better fitted to give such a course than is Dr. Thomas. His wide experience, deep learning, ready adaptability, and his scientific introspection fit him peculiarly for such a task. The Project is a new field to a large number of teachers, being an enlargement of the scope of the old Problem idea. It is defined as "A problematic act carried to its conclusion in its natural setting." It presupposes an interest on the part of the pupil for beginning any definitely assigned task, to be worked out under the direction of, but without the help of the teacher.

One very interesting project, known to the writer, is now being carried on in the Clanton public school.

We are glad to see our teachers keeping abreast of the times, and reiterate our faith in the future of "Old Chilton."

THE YOUNG AND THE OLD

An experienced, middle-aged owl who came into the office yesterday to discuss boys and how smart they are about everything, said: "When I was 16, I knew beyond a peradventure of a doubt that I knew more and was wiser than my father, with whom on occasion I became secretly impatient. When I was 25 I was absolutely sure that I knew equally as much as he and was equally as wise as he. Ever since I was 40 I have wished that he was living and near me so that I could consult him about every decision I had to make. If boys at 16 could only bring themselves by some miraculous feat of self-control to have the point of view in respect to their [illegible] at 40 have! It would help improve the situation for human society." Exc. Montgomery Advertiser.

"GREATNESS AND LITTLENESS"

By Rev. H. C. Offerman in Age Herald.

You may be great in little things, or you may be little in great things. Whatever you are depends upon yourself.

Craven acts are the reflex of craven hearts.

Cowardice can be turned to bravery, if you will have it so.

The brave man is God's man.

Be big, believe in yourself, trust in God, hope for the best.

You may be great in little things or you may be little in great things, but the finest thing is to be great in great things.

ISABELLA NEWS

Nearly everybody has gotten over the flu in our community, and things are getting back to normal. Farmers are making use of these pretty days in sowing oats and turning land.

Mr. Edwards and Mr. Wright have recently re-covered their dwellings with redwood shingles. They look neat and attractive.

The school has increased in enrollment considerably since the holidays. An enjoyable box-supper was had at the school house last Saturday night. A right nice sum was realized which will be used to pay for domestic science equipment, more laboratory apparatus, and chairs for the tiny tots in the primary department. Several visitors from Clanton were present among whom were Miss Bertha Manning and Mr. James Lecroy.

TO EVERYBODY

"If I knew you and you knew me,
If both of us could clearly see,
And with an inner light divine,
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure that we would differ less
And clasp our hands in friendliness;
Our thoughts would pleasantly agree
If I knew you and you knew me."

GOING SOUTH

Mr. J. Wily Foshee, formerly a citizen of Clanton, but more recently a denizen of Cooper, is going to sell out his property, "lock stock and barrel" and move to Florida.

He is a famous truck grower and he is heading into country now that has been made famous by early truck growing.

SELLING MOTOR CARS NOW

Mr. J. W. P. Murphy, who for many years has been identified with the Clanton Mercantile company as salesman, has severed his connection with them and is now allied with the Clanton Motor company in the same capacity. Everybody will have to buy a Ford now.

OH, YOU CABBAGE!

When a man is so fortunate as to secure just exactly the right wife for his particular case, did you ever notice how he can come to the front?

For instance, there is our particular friend, Mr. Judson Strock, of Verbena, whose marriage we had the pleasure of annoucing not so many moons ago, last Monday he sent us a fine well-headed, home grown cabbage cut from his open garden that day. We know it was the real article, for we enjoyed it for dinner Tuesday.

Now, we hardly believe that Mr. Strock has been cultivating a habit of growing fine, ripe cabbage in his garden here-to-fore, in January, so we can't refrain from feeling like that his recently acquired better half had a great deal to do with it.

However, we sincerely thank him for the treat and especially congratulate him, not only on his wonderful success in gardening, but on what we surmise to have been his more wonderful success in winning a wife.

Look out boys, the police department has a Hawk on the job now, and you know a Hawk is noted for his ability to see. This one must be a night hawk and you know they are dreaded by poultry raisers more than the day variety. This one can be seen every night on his nocturnal perigrinations.

A WORD FOR THE ALABAMA LEGISLATURE

The Alabama senators and representatives will have many difficult problems to solve. They will come thick and fast, but the more important ones will come at the close of the session when the general appropriation bill is up for consideration. That important measure will be framed to meet conditions created by the legislature—to meet all the large and small appropriations made by the legislature.

Then, gentlemen of the legislature, have a care!

Don't get caught in the traps so cleverly laid for you!

If the legislature goes ahead blindly and recklessly making appropriations the money must be raised from some source to meet those appropriations.

That will be the cry when that measure comes up for consideration at the end of the session, and instead of reducing the tax burdens of the people, promised when elected, those burdens will be increased. The people will not only get no relief, but their burdens increased and by those they had trusted.

Members of the house and senate are honest. They mean to keep faith with their constituency. But there are always very large bodies of men and interests formed for the purpose of putting certain legislation through. Those men and interests maintain large lobbies here in Montgomery. They are not always fair with members of the legislature. They often use influence and arguments deceptive. The people back home cannot be heard. In their committees and in the lobbies members only get the viewpoint of one side. The average member wants to do right. They want to act in the public interest. They would if they were not deceived, misled for the moment. At such times they need a leader, a real leader of the people, who knows the lobbyist's and politician's ways, and is not deceived. There are leaders in the house; there are leaders in the senate—men familiar with the manner that legislation is often controlled and manipulated by the privileged class for which the poor man back home has to pay.

The Journal is looking to the present legislature to break the shackles of the legislative lobbies; but each house must have a leader who dares to oppose them and expose them. Who will be the leader in the house? Who will be the leader in the senate? Who are going to rise equal to the occasion? Whoever they are, they will become factors in the political history and life of the state, and one of whom may be the next governor of Alabama!—Montgomery Journal.

HOW 667 POUNDS OF COTTON TO ACRE MADE AT BERRY

Recent announcement by the Georgia state department of entomology and the Berry Schools experiment farm that a new cotton record had been set at Berry Schools, the growing of 667 pounds of lint cotton to the acre had brought a number of requests for the methods used by Berry Schools The following statement has been made by D. W. Densmore, industrial manager, and S. B. Adairs, farm manager:

We are always glad to answer any question for those who are interested in boll weevil control as we have passed through our third year of weevil infestation. Our soil is a well-drained field that was a little above the average in fertility. Early in spring, we plowed the land and permitted it to lie for a week; then we laid it off with a middle burster plow. We put a small application of manure in these furrows—just enough to make the furrows look black from one end of the row to the other. We then bedded on this manure and let it stand for three weeks. At that time we made application of commercial fertilizer in the following amounts per acre: 100 pounds of acid phosphate; 80 pounds of tankage, and fifty pounds of muriate of potash. After the cotton was cultivated for the first time we made application of 100 pounds of acid phosphate; 50 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre. The seed was planted about a week after the first application of fertilizer. Before the cotton was chopped we could find weevils in the bud of the plants. As soon as we cultivated the cotton for the first time we gave it a very thorough application of calcium arsenate. We did not wait for a ten or fifteen percentage of infestation, as we are sometimes advised to do, and we did not see any more weevils until about the latter part of August. We continued our dusting every ten days or two weeks until the last of August. We used 60 pounds of calcium arsenate per acre and made six applications during the season. We use the "Over the Top" variety of seed and plan to carry out a system of breeding until our seeds are pedigreed. Our cotton runs lint about one and one-eighth inches long. Figures on costs, etc., show that in spite of the intensive care and cultivation our cotton yielded quite a profit. —Berry Schools, Rome, Ga.

In a news item published a few days ago in the Birmingham News, we saw an account of the death of Mrs. Annie C. Callaway, a lady of the Magic City, who was born February 2, 1822, and died January 19, 1923. She was a sister of the lamented Captain Joseph F. Johnston, who served as governor of Alabama from 1896-1900, later serving as United States Senator.

MR. J. B. CRYSELL, PROMINENT CITIZEN OF JEMISON DIES

The entire community in and around Jemison were deeply grieved Sunday night when it was announced that Mr. J. B. Crysell, for many years a prominent and beloved citizen of that thriving little town, had ceased to live and peacefully gone to his reward.

Mr. Crysell was 65 years of age. In March, 1884, he married Miss Vera Bedwell, of Hillin, Ala., who survives him. He leaves besides his wife, three daughters, Mrs. A. R. Cooper, of Columbiana, Ala., Mrs. John Patton, of Charlestown, W. Va., and Mrs. H. B. McGahey, of Tuscaloosa, Ala. He also leaves one son, Mr. Samuel C. Crysell, of Jemison.

In 1919, the deceased united with the Baptist church, of Jemison, and proved a most earnest and consecrated servant of the Lord, and diligent worker in His vineyard.

He was buried Tuesday afternoon at the Jemison cemetery with Masonic honors, the Knights Templar rank leading in the ceremony with a very large attendance of the uniformed rank participating. A great assembly of friends and neighbors followed him to his grave which bore tangible evidence to the high esteem in which he was held.

Reverend Beuford Lawrence officiated in the religious services and the following prominent Knights Templar acted as pall bearers: Messrs J. D. Armstrong, Dr. P. T. Hinkle, H. F. Chandler, Grady Reynolds, H. F. Downs and H. T. Pipes. All funeral arrangements were made by Undertaker Martin, of Clanton.

RESOLUTIONS TO THE SENATE BY THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH

Whereas; Our Sunday dates back to Christ, when the apostles met on the first day of the week to worship and to contribute as the Lord had prospered them to the support of the cause of Christ.

And whereas: The first day of the week has, since that day, been recognized as the Christian Sunday, and whereas its blessings as a day of rest and worship is as old as the first apostles of Christ, and whereas the day so long honored and observed by Christians as the Lord's Day has become to American Christians an American Institutions.

Be it therefore resolved by the Baptist church and Sunday School of Thorsby, Alabama, that we extend our gratitude to our honored Senator S. M. Adams, for the brave and courageous fight he made to preserve this holy day, and we hereby pledge our prayers and sympathy to him and the other Senators who stood so nobly by our Sunday and against commercializing our American Sunday.

Signed by Deacons of Thorsby Baptist Church.

VISITING HOURS AT THE HOSPITAL

The management of the Central Alabama Hospital wishes to announce through the papers the following visiting hours:

From 9:00 A. M. to 11:30 A. M.
From 3:00 P. M to 5:00 P. M. and 7:00 to 8:30 at night.

It is found that when visitors are admitted at all hours the patients do not have the proper time to rest and take their norishment undisturbed. Neither can the nurses do their best when the patients are receiving visitors all hours.

Too lenghty visits or too many visitors in a room at one and the same time is not best for patients.

"WHERE THE ORANGE BLOSSOMS GROW"

Mrs. T. C. McSwain, one of the prominent and popular social leaders, left last Monday for an extended visit to friends in the "Land of Flowers."

She is going to visit Mesdames E. S. Parrish and John Sewell, at De Land first, and will afterwards extend her trip to Clearwater and other points in the Orange State. Her many friends here wish for her a safe and pleasant journey.

MR. AND Mrs. M. A. GORE GONE TO FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Gore left Monday afternoon for Tampa, Florida. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hayward while in that city. We are sure they will have an enjoyable time. They expect to visit several cities in the "Land of Flowers." In fact, they will know what it is to get out where land can not be seen, before returning to the land meaning "Here we rest." Mrs. Gore expects to see the orange groves. This will be her first time to have the privilege of getting oranges off the tree. No doubt she will learn how to grow satsuma oranges while so far south. We feel confident Mr. Gore will imagine himself a "Young Man" again and perhaps he will find the "Fountain of Youth."

KILLED BY L. AND N. TRAIN NO. 9

A most unfortunate accident occurred at Jemison last Saturday morning as passenger train, No. 9, was approaching the station.

Mr. L. K. Durbin, a farmer residing near Jemison, attempted to cross the railroad just north of the station at what is know nas the North Crossing, in a one-horse wagon. For some reason he failed to see or hear the approaching of train and drove on the track immediately in front of the rapidly approaching engine. The mule he was driving crossed safely over, but the wagon was centrally struck, entirely demolishing it, throwing Mr. Dudbin out and breaking his neck and one arm. He died almost immediately.

The deceased leaves a wife and several children.

"What Shall The Harvest Be?"

"For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."
Galatians 6-7.

This is an unchanging law, just as unchanging as the law of gravity.

If we sow wheat we reap wheat, if we sow, or plant corn we reap corn. A handful of wheat would not feed a family, but if sown and fertilized would yield a sufficient amount to feed a large family several days.

The above is just as true with money as anything else. We all want to accumulate money and the best way to do it is to plant it by depositing it in a good safe, strong bank, like ours, where it will accumulate and grow.

COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

A bill is on the legislative calendar to make the office of County School Superintendent elective by a direct vote of the people.

So far as our county is concerned we are being served very efficiently under the present system and we have no kick to register upon selfish or personal grounds, but believing as we do in the applied principles of true Democracy, we are loyally in favor of the people directly choosing their own servants personally and not by proxy, consequently, we favor the bill as an absolutely state-wide measure, with no special exceptions or limitations attached.

By far too much local legislation is already on the statute books of Alabama. System is given up to be a necessity in all mortal affairs when success is hoped for. The less complications you can have and the more uniformity in effort and action, the greater will always be the meed of success.

If the applied principles of a free and independent democracy are good for one county they are, in the same measure, good for all.

We shall bitterly oppose any effort or measure that may be introduced to make special exceptions in behalf of any county in the State.

If County School Superintendents are to be elected by the people at all in Alabama, then by all means make it absolutely unanimous and let every county in the state elect, by direct vote, their School Superintendent. There is not an argument on earth, or that can possible be evolved, for electing them in one county by ballot and in another county by some other political measure.

If you desire to make it state wide, and avoid all the confusion engendered by so much different machinery performing the same identical function, then go to it, but if there is going to be even one exception to the rule, then kill the whole bill and let the matter entirely alone.

TAKING CHANCES AN AMERICAN HABIT

There is an old saying that says: "The pitcher was carried to the well ninety-nine times in safety, but was broken on the one-hundreth trip." History more than adequately demonstrates the truth of this idea. People persist in kindling the fire with coal oil, but every now and then they go up in smoke to join the angels.

They continue to catch moving trains, but ever so often their remains are picked up in a basket.

Boys grab passing automobiles daily, but every now and then the hospitals get a job and the grave yards a tenant.

People with sawdust brains persist in "projecting" with empty guns and pistols, but very, very frequently an innocent victim takes a voyage beyond the grave in consequence.

Men who imagine they hardly have time to live, keep up the habit of oiling up and tinkering with machinery while in operation. They can't take time to stop it for repairs, but they so often find time to loose a limb or cross the great divide.

The bank cashier or the trusted clerk appropriates small sums in safety for a while, but sooner or later their luck fails them, and they turn up next in a convict's cell or a suicide's grave.

The "two gun man" and the bully bulldoze their way along for a season, but it is fate that a better and quicker man will come along and call their bluff and their reign of terror ends either in degraded obscurity as a "false alarm," or in the grave where the bullet of the "quicker man" sent him.

A "Ward heeler" or an unscrupleous and crooked political leader will get by with his schemes of illegal chicanery for a time, going from one degree of crookedness to another, as his years of immunity from retribution go by, but finally the people take time to investigate his record and all decent people forsake him and he winds up a wreck, stranded on the shores of oblivion, his only companions being a handful of political thugs and crooks whom the people have also kicked out.

So it is fated to be!

FEWER KICKS AND MORE BRAINS NEEDED

The last legislature, or you might say the last two legislatures, in Alabama established a record of monumental inefficiency or incompetency that we earnestly hope will never be attained again by any similar body in the State.

For instances, you remember, I suppose, what a vast amount of energy and money was put out by advocates of good roads, and by the State, to educate the people on the State Highway Bond Issue and to be able to carry that measure by popular vote some few years ago.

Then the legislature converted and hammered, day after day, in shaping a bill to properly put the issue before the people. Finally, they got it "fixed" and the expensive and notorious fiasco of a "Bond election" was held. The people did their duty and put the matter over.

Before the Bonds could be issued and floated some wise guy discovered a "technical" in the bill. The services of the Supreme Court were invoked and promptly declared this costly and labored effort of our illustrious legislature was no good.

So all the time, the trouble and the heavy expense incurred in that effort was utterly wasted and the tax payers had to foot the bills and also were compelled to wait two years before they could make any effort to undo this ghastly error and vote the bonds all over again.

In the last election the people had submitted to them what was alleged to be a bill endorsing the Mobile Port movement. A great deal of time and money was spent again in getting the matter properly before the people. The voters endorsed the proposition and now it develops that it also was improperly drawn up and so it is dead as Hector and Mobile will doubtlessly be forced to wait two more years and then, possibly, the next time the people will have become disgusted and conclude to turn the whole business down.

Besides, we have seen it stated that no less than 57 other bills passed by our last distinguished General Assembly have also been declared unconstitutional.

The gang we have assembled down there now apparently realize their law-making limitations for they are trying to make arrangements with the Supreme Court to pass on their bills before they enact them. There are at least two points in favor of this arrangement. We might get a law passed, now and then, that would "stick" and the process would be so slow that we would not have so many laws passed at each session that no man could possibly remain in Alabama without being a legal criminal.

Whenever our legislators will learn that the principle requirement for framing real laws is good, hard common sense our people will fare better and the Supreme Court will not be compelled to sit in session in and out of season, in an attempt to straighten out the muddle made by each preceding General Assembly.

The idea seems predominant with our legisfature Solons to fulfill their campaign pledges on the subject of tax reduction, by allowing the useless parasites who feed at the crib to pass out by the "statue of limitations." When the job dies a natural death it will be time to stop the pay envelope.

The weather man is beginning the New Year in a very accommodating frame of mind. Evidently he is trying to please everybody. It rains one day, turns cold the next and the sun shines like Springtime the next. If everybody don't get some of the kind they like it would be a hard matter to serve them.

ABOUT COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS

It would be a backward step for Alabama to tear down the present system of choosing county superintendents of education and return to the discarded system of electing them by popular vote.

At present, members of the county board are elected by popular vote as they should be. They are responsible to the people for their administration of county schools. They select the county superintendent, who should be a specialist in education.

Under the old system it frequently though not always, happened that men were elected to the county superintendency because of their personality or political alignment rather than their special qualifications for the office which they sought.

Alabama spends $12,000,000 a year on schools. The people ought to take care that this enormous fund be administered economically and judiciously. They should take care that they get the best possible service for the money. They, like stockholders in private corporations, elect a board of directors, and it is the duty of the board of directors to hire a manager. That manager, in private industry or business, is chosen, not because of his personality, not because of his political alignment, but because of his intimate knowledge of the subject at hand and because he is an efficient executive.

Under the old system men were frequently elected to the county superintendency who had never taught school, and whose educational equipment was so inferior that they could not have qualified as teachers.

Today, boards of education look around over the country and hire a manager who must meet certain qualifications as an educator and as an executive. He is called like a health officer, a chemist, or a highway engineer, a pastor or the manager of a great corporation. The present superintendent of Montgomery county, for instance, was not a citizen of this county when first employed by Montgomery county. He was a citizen of Dallas county. Other counties have gone beyond their borders for superintendents. City superintendents all are chosen by boards of education; there is no demand that they be elected.

The present system tends to keep the school tenders, the school boards and the school funds out of politics.

Something has been said about the popular demand for overturning the present system and going back to the old. The Advertiser, for its part, is frank to say, that it has not encountered any such "rising tide" of popular indignation at the present system The Advertiser has heard complaint from politicians; but the people have been rather silent on the subject in the State as a whole.

Of course incompetent and unpopular superintendents might be chosen even by small boards. There is no ideal system of selecting managers, as corporations have found. They, too, make mistakes in judging men. But county boards as a rule have chosen very competent men for superintendents. In any case, whenever they select the wrong man, the boards can get rid of him at pleasure.

Alabama has taken several long steps forward in education in recent years. One of these steps took the State away from the old system of electing county superintendents to the present and more satisfactory system. It is no time for Alabama to take any backward step. It is not time to put the county school system back into partisan politics.—Advertiser.

LET ALL REJOICE

Let us give thanks—not for those gifts alone
Of field and garden, tree and fruit vine,
But for those gifts by which our lives have grown
More nearly like the Infinite design.

Let us give thanks, from fervent hearts, for love;
Pure love toward God Unselfish love toward man;
For tenderness, compassion—gifts above
What human thought could wish to have or plan.

Let us give thanks for the great gift of prayer
By which we reach the consciousness of peace,
And realize the constant help and care
Of Love divine, that cannot lapse nor cease.

Let us give thanks for true and loyal friends,
For home, and family ties: for work, for play;
For beauty and the grace that laughter lends
To toil or trial, on our daily way.

Let us give thanks that in this troubled hour,
With skies bedimmed by doubt, by hate, by fear
We can rejoice that Good alone has power,
Can prove it true, and thus win heaven here.

SHOALS TACTICS OF CONGRESS

Although congress professes to be deeply concerned over the future of Muscle Shoals and the conservation of this important project for the nation's benefit, it has persistently delayed a decision that would enable the Muscle Shoals plants to begin serving the people in the production of cheaper fertilizers and in furnishing current for other industries. Emphasis on the passage of appropriations for carrying on the work at the Shoals does not obscure the real question at issue, which is the ultimate disposal of the plants. That is the question congress has evaded. This equivocal policy has caused widespread resentment, since it has been apparent ever since the Ford offer was first submitted, by government invitation, that politicians and interests opposed to the Detroit manufacturer were seeking to put obstacles in the way of its acceptance. These tactics do not deceive the public, which is well aware that congress, in making appropriations for the completion of the Muscle Shoals plants, at the same time is postponing a final decision. It is playing into the hands of the advocates of government ownership and opponents of the Ford bid.

It appears likely now that a vote will be forced in the house, but the senate may refuse to take any action during the present session. Yet, there is no convincing reason why it should not to do so. The Ford offer has been before congress long enough for every member to familiarize himself with its terms. Ample time has elapsed for full consideration and study of the question. Congress cannot plead that it is being urged to reach a hasty conclusion. That sort of excuse will no longer be accepted. It is quite evident that the real reason why no vote has been taken is the desire to defeat the Ford offer and create a situation which may leave Muscle Shoals on the government's hands, either to be operated by the government or disposed of at a sacrifice to interests who may be working with that object in view.

As Representative Almon says, acceptance of the Ford offer would have no effect on the continuation of construction work at the Shoals. The dams would merely be taken over by the Ford company on their completion by the government, and the money would be furnished by the government in either case. Engineers estimate that it will take about three years to complete dam No. 3. If congress refuses now to pass on the Ford bid because the dam is not completed, it could offer the same objection for the next three years. By that time those who are seeking personal ends by opposing the final disposition of the Shoals may have been successful.

Mr. Almon says: "When the secretary of war invited Mr. Ford to make his offer, he did not prescribe as a condition that the question of acceptance would be held in abeyance for four years until water power dam No. 2 was completed. Such was not in contemplation when the Ford offer was made and referred to the military committee of the house. If the house was going to wait three or four years until the dam was finished before the Ford offer should be considered and voted on, the five and a half months' time and labor of the military committee in holding hearings, visiting Muscle Shoals and reporting the bill providing for acceptance of the Ford offer was in vain and useless." Nearly six months ago a rule was requested in a resolution introduced by Mr. McKenzie, acting chairman of the military affairs committee, which would authorize a vote to be taken on the Ford offer. The rules committee did not act on the resolution. The farmers continue to pay a heavy toll to Chilean nitrate producers, although Mr. Ford has bound himself and his company to produce not less than 40,000 tons of fixed nitrate annually. In the meantime the price of Chilean nitrate has been advanced $5 a ton and another advance of $5 is anticipated. It is estimated that this would mean an additional cost this year of $3,000,000 paid by American farmers for fertilizers.

Reports of committees on the Ford offer have been before congress for more than a year and a half. How much longer must the American people wait for a decision on a matter that could have been settled in six months?—Age-Herald.

FARMERS, WATCH YOUR STEP!

We would not presume to undertake to tell a farmer how to farm, but we feel like we are well within the scope of our editorial duties when we urge the farmers of the cotton belt to run light on cotton this year.

We judge that it is well known by all cotton farmers that the demand for cotton in the United States alone would not consume one-third of the crop normally grown and put on the market, and if we rely on home consumption alone the market would be glutted to such an extent that you could not get over 6 cents for the staple, if you could sell it at all.

Under the high cost of living conditions that have prevailed since the war, no farmer can raise cotton at a profit for less than 20 cents per pound So the situation is just this: If you will inevitably head straight towards financial ruin if you invest heavily in the making of it.

We would advise you, everyone, to keep your eye on the situation in Europe and see what develops over there. It looks right now like war is going to be unavoidable; and if they contrive to get by without actual war, anarchy and bolshevism are more than likely to result, which will be equally as disastrous as war, so far as business is concerned.

It looks like to us that it is a good time for the farmer to "hedge" and "play safe." Plant plenty and to spare of food and feed crops but go it sparingly on cotton. If a small crop is made and the foreign markets get in shape to buy, the farmer will about break even anyway, for the price would then range so high that what they were short in quantity would be made up to them by the advanced price.

Better to play safe and hold your own, than to plunge to the limit and go broke.

BODY RECOVERED AFTER 21 DAYS

On January 4th, while at work at Mitchell Dam, Mr. John Carroll Upshaw, 24 years of age, and who was a member of a prominent family at Alexander City, missed his footing and fell into the river right where the current pours over the dam. There was no chance for a rescue at that point and he was drowned.

The body sank and was washed some three miles down the stream, and although constant and persistent efforts were made to recover it, all labor was in vain until January 25th, being 21 days after the accident, the remains were found floating in the stream near Knights Ferry.

Undertaker Will Martin, of Clanton, was phoned at once and went after the body which he brought here and prepared for burial at Mt. Zion cemetery, some eight miles from Alexander City, which is the old family family burying ground.

Mr. Upshaw is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Upshaw, of Alexander Citl. Also he leaves five brothers, as follows: H. L. Upshaw, of Eufaula, Ala.; J. T. and W. C. Upshaw, of Birmingham; L. L. and A. R. Upshaw, of Phoenix, Arizona. He leaves four sisters, Mrs. B. H. Walker, of Electric, Ala.; Mrs. L. M. Gray, of Phoenix, Ariz.; Mrs. G. M. Alston, of Pine Dale, Ala.; and Miss Lois Upshaw, of Alexander City, Ala.

This was indeed a sad ending to a most promising young life and leaves a dark pall of gloom over the loved ones left behind, that only the soothing hand of time can lighten.

FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO

When you turn the pages of history backward for fifty-seven years, and scan over the vast changes that have been made during that period, it reads almost like a fairy tale.

Mr. F. A. Gulledge, of Verbena, was in our office recently and was in rather a reminiscent frame of mind, superinduced, we suppose, by the old tunes rendered by some of the aged and able "fiddlers" at the recent "Fiddlers' Convention" held in Verbena.

Among other pleasant recollections of the olden times, he said that he distinctly remembered that on the night of January 9, 1866, he danced his first set with Miss Nancy Vales, at the home of Mr. Reuben Estes, located four miles east of the present Mitchell Dam site, in Coosa county, while an old colored man drew the bow, and the tune was the once popular square dance melody called "Black Eyed Susan."

At the same time, in an adjoining room, Mr. Pat O. Waites was coaxing delicious dance music out of his fiddle for the main audience.

Today, Mr. Gulledge owns the same old house, somewhat devastated by the ravages of time, and the land on which it stands.

He has in mind now the project of removing the relic of the old house to a suitable location at Verbena, rehabilitating it upon the exact lines of its former appearance and making of it a rendezvous for staging occasionally, in facsimile, some of those social occasions of other days, that the rising generation can have some conception of the way in which their ancestors proceeded to while away the hours of leisure.

Mr. Gulledge looks more hale and hearty today than many a man one-half his age. He, and his brother, Mr. J. W. E. Gulledge, who resides in Clanton, are both so many years Young. Age does not seem to bother them and time has certainly dealt kindly with them.

RUN OVER BY CAR

In front of the Weldon Drug Store last Friday an accident happened that was almost miraculous from the fact that no one was killed or seriously injured.

Mr. Robert Smith, who lives out on route one, was walking and driving some cattle. He was trying to turn them off the main street through an alley and his attention was wholly taken up by them, so he failed to dodge a car driven by Clifford Bowling and was struck, knocked down and run over. Owing to the fact that the car was a light two-passenger affair, he escaped without being either killed or broken up.

People who drive cars, either large ones or small ones, especially when passing through a congested street or road, should always slow down and get their machine under absolute control. You can kill a person in a second, but you can't give him back his life at all.

FAIRVIEW NEWS

Please allow me a little space in your paper for a bit of Fairview news, as it has been quiet a while since I've seen any news from here in your paper Some say self-praise is no good but we think this is too large a place to be left behind.

We're glad indeed, to say health of this community is very good at present. Almost everybody has started farming already.

We hope Misses Mae Williams, Eunice Culp and Annie Culpard; Messrs Vonnie Culp and Horace Mims have the best of success with their work as social committees for Mt. Nebo church.

We regret so much that Messrs Otto Chandler and Maurice Williams are expecting to leave within a few days for Prattville, where they will take up their work in the Gin shop, nevertheless we wish them good luck and the very best of enjoyable times.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM MR. J. BICE

Some Interesting Chilton County Political History How Things are Done Here.

To the Editor of the Chilton County News:

I challenge Lewis Reynolds or any one of his friends to prove anything I have written in my letters published by the Chilton County News to be false.

I have been living in Chilton County 42 years. I have been associated in political matters for that entire time and I have never known just such a campaign as was closed on the 7th of last November. Lewis Reynolds, holding an office of dignity—an office that only men of the highest type of clean, moral citizenship should hold,—a man to whom honor and truth are foreign, as far as politics are concerned won by a campaign that was a disgrace to the Republicans of this county.

In the first place, six years ago he promised that he would not be a candidate again. Then at the beginning of the past campaign he came out with the statement that he is the only man who can hold the Republican party together. His next strong point was that the campaign must be quiet, particularly stressing no "mud-slinging." Next, he worked to plant deep into the minds of all Republicans that the man who isn't for him is a traitor to the party, using terms and arguments in his speeches beneath the dignity of a man of any worth at all, going so far as to say it is a crime to vote for a Democrat. Every ordinarily intelligent man discounted such extreme statements, but nevertheless let him pull the wool over their eyes.

I was a staunch friend of Lewis Reynold's for 25 years. I stood by him in the face of strong accusations because I believed in him. He was shrewd enough to keep his real self hidden from a close friend, so one might understand how it has happened that he has kept the Republicans of this county so blindfolded. There are no methods or means that he would not resort to to carry out his scheme of ambitions. This is the method he used to get whatever influence I might have with voters. He knew I was for Harris. He believed that if I should come out and out against him and become active in the campaign he would be defeated, so knowing as he did of my late financial reverses and of the misfortunes which had followed one after another for the past years and that I needed the job, he decided that it would be a difficulty out of the way to give me the office of County Treasurer after John A Thomas had resigned that office. I was asked to put in my application, which I did and was elected June 1, 1922. This was done to keep me out of the campaign.

About two weeks before the election Lewis came to me and told me I was in bad standing with the commissioners because they had heard I was knocking the ticket. When I told him I was not knocking the ticket he said, "If you will write a letter and publish it in the Union-Banner stating you will vote for and support the ticket it will make things all right for you and you will not be in any danger of losing out. I had the letter published as he suggested. The truth of the matter was that he was simply taking advantage of my unfortunate situation. He knew I needed the job and he knew I was physically unfit for work other than office work, having been so completely broken down in an accident two years ago and the promise was made either directly or indirectly that I would be retained in office.

When the time came to re-elect the treasurer the fact was that he wanted M. D. Foshee, a man the people had shown by their vote that they did not want in office any longer. This is the way he and his crowd worked things.

Another commissioner wanted a job so the new sheriff appointed Mr. Taylor one of the deputies—that gave a place for one of the commissioners. Mr. Baker's name was used as treasurer, but M. D. Foshee is really filling the office. I have mentioned these facts simply to show how, in these instances, those underhand tactics were used.

About two years ago, he ran for senator of the United States. Can you imagine such a small peanut politician in such a position—the third highest office in the Land next to Vice President? No! He is not big enough to make a senator. He has aspired to the governorship of the state of Alabama can you imagine such a cheap politician as Lewis to be governor of our state?

The Republicans of this county have found out Lewis Reynolds and instead of ever hoping to become senator or governor, he can't hope to be even a constable in Chilton county. His race is run so far as politics are concerned. He has played his last card.

Yours truly,
J. BICE.

THE BLIZZARD

If everybody living in and around Clanton are not grateful now for that privilege, they must be hard-boiled.

From every direction come in disastrous details of the damage left in the wake of the great blizzard, that swept the country from the mountains to the seaboard.

Houses have been destroyed, people killed, trains wrecked, wire service demolished, trees and shrubbery ruined, and millions of dollars worth of property lost all over the country, but here in Clanton we have moved along in the even tenor of our way without a single accident or disaster. We have had some rain and a lot of disagreeable winds to contend with but our flowers are still blooming, our shrubbery and shade trees still intact and business has moved along without a break.

Just as we have been telling you all the time, if you want to cast your lot in a section especially blessed in climate, soil and good people you can't make a miss when you come and go with us.

Mr. M. W. DeVaugn, of the 83rd Field Artillery located at Fort Benning, Georgia, is visiting his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. DeVaugn, in the Poplar Springs Community, this week.

SMITH- WILLIFORD

To the surprise of his host of friends here, Mr. C. D. Smith better known as "Happy," slipped off down to Montgomery last Tuesday and took unto himself a "better half."

"Happy" is a brother of Mr. Lee Smith, wholesale groceryman here, and son of Mr. J. W. Smith, a prominent citizen of our town.

His fair bride was Miss Avis Mae Williford, a lovely and accomplished young lady of the Capital City.

The joyous young voyagers in double harness will make their home here and Clanton will be glad to welcome them.

The News, together with their many other friends, extend to this happy pair all the felicitations possible and may their future be bright and prosperous.

KELLY-MASSEY

On last Friday Mr. Morris Kelly and Miss Ruth Massey were united in marriage at the Court house. Uncle Dock Wells performing the ceremony.

We learn that both the contracting parties in this union were quite youthful, but Cupid is no respecter of persons or age, and as marriage is given us to be the right and the happiest way to live, the sooner a couple starts on that road should be the better.

The News wafts them its very best wishes for a happy and successful life.

A PNEUMONIA REMEDY

As a result of the mild winter there has been throughout the South an unusual number of pneumonia cases, and many deaths have resulted. Pneumonia carries its victims off quickly. In view of the prevalence of this disease so often proving fatal, it will be interesting to our readers to know that a remedy has been found for it, or what is being claimed as a remedy, and it comes from a source that entitles it to consideration and trial. The remedy is prescribed by a French doctor, and is very simple as it is said to be effective. The London Tidbits gives publicity to the formula. It is as follows:

"Take six or ten onions, according to size and chop fine, put in a large pan over a fire, then add the same quantity of rye meal and vinegar to make a thick paste. In the meantime stir thoroughly, letting it simmer for five or ten minutes. Then put in a cotton bag large enough to cover the lungs and apply to chest as hot as patient can bear. In about ten minutes apply another, and thus continue by reheating the poultices, and in a few minutes the patient will be out of danger. This simple remedy has never failed to cure this too-often fatal malady. Usually three or four applications will be sufficient."

Of course, however, in case of suspected or threatened pneumonia, a physician should be consulted, but, in the meantime, it would appear that the foregoing is well worth a trial. Certainly it could do no harm and may affect a cure as declared by the French physician.—Montgomery Journal.

Mr. W. J. Duke and Mrs. Mattie Parker, route two, have gone to Alexander City, Ala. on account of the serious illness of Mr. Duke's brother, Mr. A. E. Duke.

NO SERVICES SUNDAY

We are authorized by the pastor to announce that there will be no preaching services at the Baptist church next Sunday, either at 11 A. M. or 7 P. M. The omission is in deference to the opening of the Bob Jones meeting.

Sunday School will be held as usual at 9:45 A. M. Let everybody turn out promptly for this service.

FOR SALE—Good Pigs and Shoats for sale. Bob Roper, Rt. 2 Maplesville, Ala. 2|8|2t pd.

We are more than glad to learn that Mrs. J. G. Wood, route three, is recovering from a case of pneumonia following an attack of influenza.

DIED IN FLORIDA

The Chilton County News force is all saddened this week in sympathy with our esteemed co-worker and machine operator, Mr. Ben Sparkman, who received the sorrowful intelligence Sunday that his mother, who lived in Jacksonville, Fla., had passed over the river and entered into her home above.

The name and memory of "mother" follows us all from the cradle to the grave, and the fond love of a mother spans the lapse of years and all the weary miles that may divide us and still weaves its tender spell in our hearts to the very end of life.

G. P. Thompson, route one, was here Saturday.

A "MAKE-UP" CHANGE

This week we have changed our style of "make-up." You will find our "Local and Personal news on the third page on the inside of the paper. Our intention is to make of that page our regular chronicle of the goings and comings, the social events, of the community, etc., and we invite you every one to help us. Send in the names of all your visitors and also let us know when you visit. Let us hear all the social data you know of and we will do the rest.

It is to be hoped that we have good weather next week so everybody can get out to hear the noted evangelist, Bob Jones.

Have you ever run across the Piggly Wiggly store in West End? Well, look for it.

The only time you can tell now whether she wears them rolled down or not is when she steps up in a car.

We know some real intelligent people who allow blind prejudice to make them appear almost idiotic at times.

There is one thing that is a dead cinch—try ever so hard, you can not please more than half your friends at the same time.

They have the McAdoo presidential boom in an incubator now trying to make it live up to full time. It arrived too soon.

Our children may possibly read of an "America for Americans," but they will never possess any personal knowledge of what that expression means.

It sure is a hard matter when a fellow gets his paw in the public crib to get him to turn "states evidence" and aid in turning any other fellow away.

It takes an awfully heartless person to wish for snow and ice with coal and wood so high that the average poor man cannot afford to buy a handful of kindling.

So many times in life you feel the "knife of Slander" in your back and upon investigation you find that one of your supposed friends has plunged it there.

We found out last Sunday that while old winter was running away late on his schedule, he had lost none of his original kick and efficiency by the operation.

Although a defeated candidate for president, Woodrow Wilson received the greatest ovation of any living American whenever he appears in public.

The "vested interests" and greedy corporations make excellent dope for campaign thunder, but when the battle is over and the real issues arise, our modern statesmen fail to connect.

A little old measley nickel is the most disreputable thing of all since the war. It used to have some standing at cigar stands and bakeries but—them days is gone forever.

They may be able to beat "Our Tom" to it on the fine teachnicalities of parliamentary law, but when it comes to recognizing a lie on sight and calling it by its right name, he is eminently there with the goods.

There are some people in Alabama who call themselves Democrats, who would not be willing to support Oscar Underwood for the presidency if they knew he was the only possible candidate of our party who could be elected

"Our Tom" is making those sleepy guys in the United States Senate sit up and take notice. He got so rough with them last Friday they had to call a halt and expunge the records. You tell 'em, J. Thomas.

The love of a mother is one of the most wonderful things in the world. No matter how wild her boy is, nor how low he sinks in the moral scale, the tender tendrils of her love go out after him just the same and she always sees him as her "own baby boy."

HOW ABOUT IT?

The legislature is debating now about the repeal of the act of a former legislature which gives a ten year exemption from taxation to any company or individual who will develop hydro-electric power from our water courses.

There is one feature about this question that we feel like should be thoroughly canvassed and understood before the legislature takes any definite stand in regard to this matter.

That is this: We have now in process of construction, in our county, an immense hydro-electric dam across the Coosa river. The construction of this dam was begun by the Alabama Power company last year, before any of this agitation was taken up, and we would naturally conclude that these people projected this work relying on the good faith of the State to live up to its own proposition. They have already invested millions of dollars there and it is now too late for them to back out or change their investment to a territory possibly more favorable to their enterprise.

We have no brief for the Alabama Power company and no special sentiment in their behalf, but from our point of view, the Supreme Court would be compelled to declare any act that would abrogate the implied contract of these people with the State under that former law, null and void. The good faith and credit of the State, it seems to us, would be violated by such an act, and the common law would hold an individual right up to the rack under similar circumstances.

If the legislature and the people of Alabama believe that such a law would be expedient and beneficial so far as the future is concerned, why, pass it by all means, but, as we said before, we do not believe they can legally make it retroactive, and we do not believe it would be fair and just to pass it in that shape even if they could make it stick.

These appear to be cold, sober facts to us.

W. B. CORLEY.

ABOUT TAXATION

We are all agreed, almost to a man, that general taxes are too high and that the people really need relief.

It is also common knowledge that great sums of tax money are wasted each year in keeping our top-heavy governmental machinery in operation. It is realized fully, even by the laity, that we give employment to too many people in the various departments for the amount of service rendered. It is clearly understood that several of those "departments" are absolutely unnecessary and should be abolished.

We have fallen into the habit of trying to place as many of our political friends as possible at the pie counter, whether they are competent or not and then we make up any deficiency that may belong to them by supplying them with an adequate extra office force to do the work, (if any work happens to arise in that departemant) and all of this costs scads of cash.

The only means the State has for raising this cash is by taxation, hence, our taxes climb higher and higher and actual service and benefit sinks lower and lower.

Now, lets get back to the question of taxation. We fervently believe that all property should bear its pro rata share of the tax burden. That is a fundamental principle that we see no way for anyone to dodge. All property should be fairly and justly assessed without respect to persons and should be required to honestly take care of its share of the legal tax assessment. Of course, we would except churches, schools and other similar institutions for the benefit of the public.

But listen! All public service institutions charge up their tax bills to the cost of operating. Taxes come in just like any other overhead expense, and the tax you levy on them is only passed on and the ultimate consumer has it to pay. In other words, the larger the tax assessment is that they pay, the heavier is the bill the consumer has to cough up to them for his service.

Another thought—You may imagine that as you live out in the rural districts and do not patronize these public service institutions to any appreciable extent, they will have no opportunity to get any of this tax money back out of you. But there you are wrong. In buying the necessary supplies you are compelled to have in operating your farm, or other business, these supplies have already passed under the influence of some public service corporation and been assessed in price the amount of this taxation.

So, the question of who to tax and how to tax will invariably resolve itself into the simple equation of how much can the ultimate consumer stand for he inevitably has it to pay.

To really and effectually reduce taxation the only way to do it is to reduce present operating expenses of our State government in the same ratio.

BRANDON'S GOOD COUNSEL

Governor Brandon resolutely insists that all measures relating to education, including those providing for the popular election of county superintendents be deferred to the adjourned session in the summer. The governor makes it very clear that the interests of education are with him a primary concern, and that he desires to have the standards improved in every way and the schools to be brought into a state of highest efficiency. He is apparently of the opinion that the proper legislation cannot be passed until the legislators are in full possession of information as to actual school needs and have made a study of how best to meet these needs. Therefore, the legislature is urged to appoint a recess committee on education to survey the educational situation in Alabama with a view to making enlightening recommendations to the governor and to the legislature by or before the end of the recess.

This is an eminently wise position for the governor to take, and deserves the hearty sympathey and support of the legislature. Education was one of the principal planks in the governor's platform and one which received high public approval. The program cannot be conceived in haste or carried out in a twinkling. There is an actual condition and actual needs. They are discoverable through a careful inquiry. What reason for haste is there which can overshadow the need for permanent betterment? Particularly demanding careful thought are the measures looking to the election of superintendents by popular vote. Objections to such measures are strong and convincing. If the supporters of the plan are convinced that it is right, why should they hesitate to put it to the test of discussion? Certainly the governor, by advising more careful thought, is counselling no policy contrary to the best educational interests of the state.—Age-Herald.

Always strive to do better for we all do bad enough at our best.

The Allied Powers deal with Turkey like she was a spoiled child. They have offered her every plaything they can think of but still she bawls for more. The right thing to do with her right now is to give her a first class thrashing and make her sit down and stay put.

Before the election every man who offers for office seems to be a second Moses come to Judgment, but after the election, when the real business of law making comes before them, they behave about like first-grade students trying to solve the higher problems of mathematics.

London had its famous "Jack the Ripper," who specialized on murdering and mutilating females of the red light district. Birmingham is keeping step and falling in line with the English city's fad by featuring an axe murderer who seems to specialize in Italian and Greek storekeepers. As well be dead as out of style.

A lady in Illinois locked her husband out and would not let him in because he stayed out until 11:30. The next morning she found out that he went over to her sister's home and told her about it. She took him and left for parts unknown. She was certainly a sympathetic sister.

AN EQUAL DIVIDE

The only way to get real service to the roads out of a gasoline tax is to divide the total amount collected by 67 and give each county its equal share. If you really intend to put it on the roads that is the direct and only way to get it to the spot where it belongs. What business has the State Department with any of it? Is not the State made up by the counties, and won't the State really get it all in any event?

One of the best old friends in the world brought us some excellent potatoes and mustard greens the other day, but he was too modest to let us put his name in the paper. We ate them, however, and enjoyed them and our heart went out to him in silent gratitude.

STILL BOOMING

Clanton has caught her stride at last and improvements are going on so rapidly you can't keep trace of them. There is quite an influx of new blood, new money and new business interests coming in to get in on the "ground floor" and boom with the town.

Among real estate deals in the business district that have taken place right recently, we mention the fact that Mr. C. W. Wade, of Calera, the Wadesonian moving picture man, has purchased the large building on South Sixth street, known as the Gowan Warehouse, from Mr. J. B. Downs, and is having extensive changes made in it at present, and we learn that he intends to arrange for a general automobile garage and storage business down there.

It is also reported that he is having plans prepared for the erection of an elegant brick home for his Wadesonian theatre.

You can't go amiss if you invest in Clanton real estate now for the old time lethergy has gone for good now, and this place is destined to become the leading metropolis of Central Alabama, and that too, right away.

We Need more homes here and we've got to have them. Nearly every dwelling house is "toting double" now and we have simply got to have more room. If some man with a little capital would invest in a number of four or five room houses here he would have a gold mine right at home. Hardly a day passes but what people are in our office inquiring for houses.

AVERY Chilled Plows

America's Finest

THERE are many good chilled plows made, but only one Avery. In many important ways it is above any comparison. Since B. F. Avery designed the first Avery plow in 1825, great strides have been made in plow building. Avery always has been a leader. Today every scientific and manufacturing improvement is found in Avery Chilled Plows, and in addition are many advantages exclusive to Avery. Avery repair parts are always genuine because protected by patents. They are guaranteed to fit perfectly any Avery plow ever made of same number, and because perfect-fitting cannot work loose and seldom break. The Avery "lock that locks"—found only on the Avery—holds the plowshare in place no matter how long in use; and relieves the strain on the bolts. Guarantee tag—as shown—is attached to every Avery Chilled Plow. Thousands of farmers, wherever chilled plows are used, say they never knew perfect plow satisfaction until they got an Avery.

Let us demonstrate Avery Chilled Plow superiority to your satisfaction.

There is a full line of famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, tillage implements, and Champion harvesting and hay machines

ESSAYS WRITTEN BY SEVENTH GRADE CITY SCHOOL STUDENTS

"THE SPANISH TREASURE"

The old Dunbar mansion stood like some old castle among its screening oaks. A gloomy but picturesque pile of granite, the building seemed to belong to the past; an age of romance and valor that never would return to earth again. Upon three sides it turned its black windows to the gathering night.

In the gathering dusk two men were starting homeward from the old castle; but they were going to return on the morrow to renew their search; for there was an old legend which told that long ago a party of highwaymen captured a large Spanish Treasure. It is said that the highwaymen hid the treasure somewhere in the old castle. It was that for which these men were searching. They had just begun on the day before and so were not tired out yet.

Peter Wayne, one of the men, was tall and dark; the other, Peyton Ingles, was short and light.

On the morrow they began their search again. They carefully went through room after room and when they finished they went over them again. Carefully they removed every loose brick or stone and moved their fingers over every spot of the building in hopes that if the treasure was in a secret place they would touch the button or handle of the secret place.

On the following day after that it rained and they did not get to continue their search; however the day after that was pretty and as they walked over to the castle Peyton remarked, "Do you remember that room which had the family altar in it? I believe we can find something in there."

Peter said that he did remember it so they set that room as the one thing they were going to explore that day.

It was already past dinner time when they explored the old altar in the room. Peter was turning some knobs when he came to one which was hard to turn. At last he turned it and they heard a loud grating sound. The men looked at each other in blank amazement for both had the same thought upon his mind. All at once there appeared a large hole in front of them with a pair of steps leading down. As both carried a flashlight with them they decided to explore.

They went down the steps and through a long narrow hall. On all sides were what seemed to be drawers with large iron round handles. They tried to open all of them but none of them would open. At last they came to one drawer larger than the rest. They tried to open it and found that it would open.

The drawer was opened and the sight they saw quite dazzled their eyes, for they had found the long cherished, sought for, Spanish gold.

They then carried the gold to the hotel in which they were staying and divided it between them. There was enough of the money to make each a millionaire.

Loris Calloway.

"THE HOME OF A GOOD FAIRY"

Once upon a time there was a good soldier who had fought very bravely for his country. But after the victory was won he had no place to go. His gun was hanging by his side. He thought he would go into the forest and see if he could kill something to eat, for he had had nothing since morning. As he was going along he heard some one say sweetly, "You are trespassing on a great king's land." He looked around but did not see any one, but there was a leaf, a stone and a ring of gold, and a piece of paper tied to the ring. He looked at the paper and read: "This is a wishing ring, wish for what you want."

He put the ring on his finger and wished to be at the great king's palace. He was there before he knew it. As he walked up the wide veranda he wished that he would be received kindly by the great king. He knocked at the door and a servant came to answer the knock. When she saw him she asked, "What does a beggar of a soldier want with a king?"

While he was standing there a beautiful maiden, the king's only daughter, came out of a beautiful flower garden, where she had been cutting roses. She had a bunch of roses in her hat and as she passed she dropped a rose. The soldier picked up the flower and handed it to her, but she refused to take it. She smiled and said, "You may have it." As she passed into the beautiful palace the soldier thought he had never seen such a beautiful princess before. As he left the palace he kissed the rose. Going toward the forest he saw a beautiful house. He went to it and knocked on the door and as he did he saw a sign, "All are welcome here."

As he was looking, the door opened and a servant bid him come in. Walking in, he entered the home of a fairy. She told him that she had caused him to come that way and that she would give him a wish. He wished that he might marry the beautiful princess. As he spoke he found himself in the king's palace. There he was married to the princess in rich clothes. All the people thought they had never before seen such a beautiful couple. Soon after the king died and and he became king of all the land.

COOPER NEWS

Health of this community is very good.

Mr. Grier Culver of Verbena, made a flying trip to Birmingham to spend the week-end with his brother, Mr. Judge Culver, who is one of the most popular barbers in the city. Mr. Grier Culver and his brother Judge are going into the barber business in Clanton real soon.

JUST RETURNED

Mr. A. B. Baxley returned Sunday from an extended trip to Arkansas. He was absent on business for the U. F. of A. and attended a meeting of the National Executive Committee of that Splendid order which convened at Blytheville, Arkansas.

Mr. Baxley says the future of that organization is assured and the outlook brighter than ever before. It is the real salvation for the farmer and should be supported by all people interested in the good of the county.

CANE CREEK LOCAL U. OF A. HAS FINE MEETING

As announced last week, Mr. O. H. Mastin, County Business Agent of the United Farmers of America, of Chilton County, met with the local at Cane Creek and delivered a splendid lectur on the subject of C"o-operative Marketing."

Owing to the prevalence of the flu and some other sickness in the community, the attendance was not what it should have been, but we can say this much, those who were not present missed a good and instructive talk. Mr. Mastin knows his job and knows how to tell about it.

Cane Creek local is on the up grade and still holds its regular meetings every Friday night. Everyone is cordially invited to come out. Put your name on the roll and help us to help ourselves and everybody else.

The people think nothing can be sold through the U. F. of A. but cotton. That is a mistake for you can sell anything from chickens and eggs on up. The time has come when the farmer must do something for themselves Are you expecting some other fellow to do it for you? If you are you will be left out.

VERBENA NEWS

An event of interest was the wedding of Miss Clara Wilson and Mr. Grady Scott in this city last Thursday morning at eight o'clock. Miss Wilson is the beautiful daughter of Mr. Robert Wilson and a young lady with many friends and admirers. There were many sad hearts left behind as the happy pair left immediately after the ceremony for the home of the bridegroom's parents.

The wedding was quietly solemnized at the home of the bride's parents. Reverend J. W. Howell officiated. The living room was beautifully decorated with ferns and early spring flowers. A pretty color scheme of pink and white ribbon was woven about the ferns, which presented beautiful effects. The bride was lovely in a navy blue taffeta and periwinkle crepe de chine traveling dress and wore a hat of black satin that harmonized wonderfully with the rest of her costume.

Mr. Scott is a prominent young man of Goshen, Alabama, and there the happy couple will make their home. May their pathway be strewn with sunshine through their future years.

Mr. J. Bice

Makes an Interesting Comparative Financial Statement.

Thorsby, Ala., Feb. 2s. 1923.

Editor Chilton County News,

Dear Sirs—I want to give some figures showing the voters of Chilton County how much of the County money has been spent during the last twelve years, and the difference between Deason's administration and Reynold's administration.

Deason's administration received per year	$ 40,000
For six years.		$240,000
At the end of six years the County owed		200,000
Making a total received during his six years		$440,000
Reynold's administration received, per year, about	$ 72,000
For six years		$432,000
At end of his six years the County owed		[illegible]
Making a total received during his six years		$684,000
Give Reynolds credit for Court House	$ 60,000
Give Reynolds credit for Dipping Vat	20,000
Amount Deason received	440,000
Total		$520,000
This leaves Reynolds, exclusive of Court House and dipping Vat, with an amount in excess of Deason's receipts of		$164,000
Suppose Reynold's expenses were, in excess of Deason's (But I don't think they were)		$ 50,000
Leaving a balance against Reynolds, in excess of what Deason had, of		$114,000

How about Lewis Reynolds being such a good financier? I don't say Lewis took any of this money, but it was his mis-management or carelessness in paying out this money. You men who have been boasting about Lewis being such a great financier, what do you think of these figures? Watch as well as pray. Don't shut your eyes against the facts. Instead of the County being $72,000 in debt, it should be $114,000 should have been saved [illegible] been saved [illegible]

MAYOR GRAGG MAKES A TIMELY TALK

SOME VERY IMPORTANT LOCAL MATTERS PLAINLY DISCUSSED

Since our state law-making body is resting on its arms and county politics are not running so rife, I would like to call the attention of the people of Clanton and surrounding community to some matters that come closer to home to us.

First, the mosquito question. No, they don't bother us now! But you will recall that they were terrible last summer and it has been that way pretty nearly every summer since I have known anything about Clanton and will be till the swamps, which almost surround our town, are drained and the breeding places of the mosquito destroyed.

I conferred with our state health office about this matter last summer and a sanitary engineer came up at the State's expense and made a preliminary survey, and reported that our surroundings could be easily drained and that would put an end to the mosquito trouble.

The state board of health has offered to send a man to make the entire survey of a drainage project for us. The division engineer of the L. & N. R. R. has also said he is ready to help us. What shall we do? Shall we go on as we have been or shall we take a forward step in cleaning up our swamps? Rid ourselves of the mosquito? Make the now worthless swamp lands worth hundreds of dollars per acre, and have almost the prettiest little city in the state? For no one can deny that Clanton would be a beauty with its surrounding swamps cleared and converted into dry land.

Second, Clanton has outgrown itself. We are, as before mentioned crowded down between two creeks in a narrow triangular shaped space only a few hundred yards across at its widest point. Therefore we have only a few hundred inhabitants while our voting precinct has about 2000 or probably more now.

This causes our town, from a point of population, its area, and any other way as far as that matter, to appear unduly small, little, narrow and insignificant.

Suppose we took in the same area as some of our sister towns right here within a few miles of us in this county. We would then be a city of probably 5000 people and would be looked on as such and would have many rights and privileges that we do not now enjoy under our state laws governing towns and cities.

Now, I am not insisting that we have this unless it is best. But don't you believe it is best. Think it over seriously and if it is best let us act while there is time.

Third, as I see it, Clanton is at the point that it must have some large industrial establishment which will carry a good pay roll or it must stop growing and become a dead town. There must be wage earners. Money does not grow on trees and is not often picked up in mule tracks and if we do not provide a means of having a pay roll, where is the money to come from.

Our Chamber of Commerce is making an effort to bring our county and our town to the notice of capitalists in the hope of doing something along this line. I hope they will accomplish something, but I must say that I think more hope of their efforts being crowned with success could be held out if the general public would realize the fact that our community is what we make it and that if we expect much out of an undertaking we must put something in it.

Now, if I may have space I want to say something more about a cotton mill in the next issue. Can we all pull together for our general good?

V. J. GRAGG

By all means, come again next week and the News pledges you all the assistance in its power to boost our town and our county.—Editor.

BOB JONES REVIVAL

Although the weather has been very unfavorable during the first of the week, large crowds are turning out to hear Reverend Bob Jones at each service. With better weather even the large structure he is using would be taxed to its utmost capacity.

We hear very favorable comment on the services on every side. Mr. Jones is amply sustaining the reputation which had preceded him here as a strong and forceful preacher. He calls a kettle a kettle and he makes some home drives on sin in high places as well as on the lower levels. He calls gambling by its proper name the same in the parlor as in the gambling resort. It all looks alike to him.

If the meeting does not result in great good here it will not be owing to any failure on his part to make both the paths of rectitude and of sin plain to the minds of his hearers.

Practically all the places of business in the city close in the afternoon for the three o'clock service.

Mr. Jones has already surprised some of the wrongdoers around here by the intimate knowledge he seems to possess of their various short-comings. Much experience in this work has made him wise.

KU KLUX KLAN IN TOWN

You didn't know they had arrived, did you? But they have. Believe us, everybody sat up and took notice Tuesday evening at the Bob Jones Tabernacle, when the famous preacher stepped out on the rostrum with a sheaf of crisp bills in his hand and announced that he wanted to start the offering with $55 sent in by the Clanton Ku Klux Klan.

Mr. Jones, in vehement language, repudiated all the charges that have been made against the "Secret Empire" in regard to its being a lawless or dangerous organization, and said that, for two or three years he had been investigating the workings of the order from coast to coast of our country, and he was certain of the fact that the Ku Klux Klan was a high class, Christian, American organization, and that he intended to put in his application for membership at once.

TRY US OUT AND WE'LL GET RESULTS FOR YOU

The Chilton County News is preparing every day now to handle in good shape all of the advertising matter that offers—even if it requires an enlargement of the paper to do it.

We are out to do the business and we solicit a portion, at least, of your work, not ,however, as an object of charity, but as a simple plain matter of business.

We will do our utmost to give you satisfaction, not because we love you, but because we are in this business for a living and expect pay for what we give you—just like you do.

A. W. Powell, of Pensacola, Fla., is here this week visiting friends and relatives. Mr. Powell likes the state where the oranges grow, but he thinks Clanton is mighty hard to beat.

Miss Kathleen Mullins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mullins, is competently filling the position of teacher in the High School, made vacant by the illness of Miss Rateliff, of Birmingham.

BLOW YOUR OWN HORN

We used to consider a fellow who was forever raving about what he had or what great things he could do, or what an all around wonderful piece of human mechanism he was, needed only to be strapped to a case of dynamite and the fuse touched off.

"But them days is gone forever," and if you will show me a modest, unassuming man in this day and time, who fulfills his destiny quietly and trusts to a busy world to pick him up and exploit his good qualities for him, we will show you a man who wears diamonds in the seat of his trousers.

No, sir! You've got to beat the drums and toot your own horn from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof, if you expect to get anywhere in these lurid, chaotic days in which we live, move and have our being.

So, get out the brass tubers and drums and raise all the racket you can if you hope to snatch the crown of success from the busy years that go hurtling by.

Rip, snort and blow! You tell 'em! Don't you ever get it into your noodle that the other fellow will. He ain't got time.

Now, we have fooled you into reading this much, so, all we want to tell you is that we are prepared to do all your job work and we would like to put in our bid for a trial. WE DO IT RIGHT!

MARCUS-MIMS

Mr. Earl H. Marcus and Miss Lessie Mims were happily married this week.

Mr. Marcus is the son of our well-known citizen, Mr. P. G. Marcus, and the lovely bride is the daughter of Mr. Joe Mims.

Both parties are widely known and have hosts of friends and admirers who join the News in wishing them a happy future.

Almost every day new evidences can be seen of the progress in business being made here.

We already had three extensive planing mills in operation here but they could not care for the business, so Mr. John Thompson, recently in the saw mill business at Selma, is adding an additional one on the railroad just north of the ice plant.

VERBENA SCHOOL JOURNAL

Our sister town of Verbena is nothing if not enterprising and up-to-date.

As evidence of that fact we have on our table this week the initial copy of a new school paper published there on the 7th of each school month by the Verbena Consolidated Schools.

It is a most interesting and readable sheet and reflects credit upon its editors and managers. It is gotten out on a good quality of book paper and its general typographical style and make-up is most excellent.

This publication deserves the encouragement and support of the public and we earnestly bespeak for them the loyal co-operation of every one who is interested in the growth and educational advancement of our county.

Go to it, young people, and may your voyage on the turbulent sea of journalism prove not only to be blessed by fair winds and weather, but may the golden ducats flow in a stream amply sufficient to keep the omniverous bill collector forever at a distance.

We welcome you gladly and hope to see your bright and sparkling face once every month in our sanctum.

When the long hot days of July come the legislators will find time to "get their feet on the ground" and give us some real constructive legislation. At the same time they can iron out a few of the weird bills they railroaded over in this raw and hectic carnival of gas just passed.

Under the present legal system in Alabama, a man with money to foot the bills can drag out any kind of civil or criminal suit through our courts even unto the third and fourth generation. We do not seem to have any court of authority that possesses final jurisdiction.

LOOK FOR CREPE ON OUR DOOR

The other day we had a copy of the News returned to us marked "refused."

Just think of it! Isn't that perfectly AWFUL? In vain have we wooed the god of sleep since that calamitous hour. The grim spectre of starvation has loomed before us like a swift avenging nemesis, and our wavering vision refused to penetrate the dismal vista of the future with its myriad goblins of destitution and despair.

Gone are our days of gladness! Shattered are the fond hopes that had painted our future in radiant colors of bright fruition!

JUST THINK!—of the echoing doom of despair that rang out down the dim corridors of the future by the ennunciation of that one word—"REFUSED"!!!!

Can the most vivid flight of your imagination paint a picture so fraught with disaster as that embodied by that one sad word—Ref-fused????

Farewell now! In all sadness, farewell! You see our doom is fixed. We will doubtlessly wander off now into some dismal dell in the adjacent swamp and prepare our farewell dirge!

In the meantime we can be found at the same old stand, printing all the news and trying to give you a BETTER PAPER each week.

CATTLE DIPPING

Last year when the local campaign began to loom on the horizon, a certain contingent of the Republican party, as usual, undertook to manufacture a lot of untruthful political thunder out of the question of dipping cattle.

The Chilton County News at that time speedily spiked their guns with a few real facts that did not bear out any of the ridiculous and extravagant charges they were trying to make against the Democrats. In other words, their whole play on cattle dipping was a pitiful fiasco, and like a boomerang, it returned and smote its authors.

A meeting called for last Monday to allow the "dear pee-pul" to settle the matter, developed the facts, just as printed in the News last year, that cattle dipping is a national mandate, and the people—the vox populi—have no say coming.

Dr. Jackson, who was present as the representative of Dr. Cary, at the meeting Monday, made this fact very clear to all those present.

A resolution was passed and agreed to by Dr. Jackson, that competent inspectors be appointed and paid by the county, and that the people all over the county, on a given day, drive in all their cattle in each beat to a common herding place and the inspector will meet them there and pass on the condition of the cattle.

If they are tick infested they must be dipped according to the orders of the department and there is no "ifs" or "ands" about it.

We are satisfied that those whose duty it was to push this cattle dipping to a finish last year and make an end of it according to the law, knew all of these facts just as well as we did, but a little cheap political capital was needed, and the financial well-being of the citizens of Chilton county was ruthlessly sacrificed to the greed for spoils and an ambition to rule of a certain element who have fooled and befuddled the good people of Chilton county for the past 12 or 15 years with just such transparent tricks as the cattle dipping flash-in-the-pan last fall.

Seriously, we hardly see how the arrangement proposed in the resolution referred to can ever be successfully carried out. We hope, however, that it can and that our good people can finally get through with this dipping agravation. That the cattle will have to be dipped seems to be an inevitable fact, so we feel like it will behoove every citizen to lend every assistance he possibly can in getting the situation closed up for good.

Had the proper steps ordered by Dr. Cary been taken even last year and due dilligence been given to the matter by those whose duty it was to see to it that the work was truly finished up, none of this trouble and expense would be hanging over the tax-payers now.

The hope that certain parties had of building a little personal band wagon to ride into office on out of the dipping question is solely and entirely responsible for the conditions that exist today.

You all see it and you all know it. NOW WHAT HAVE YOU GOT TO SAY?

WITHOUR FRIENDS THIS WOULD BE A BUM WORLD

Almost the first thing that happened to us Monday morning, our splendid friend and esteemed Democratic brother, Mr. D. M. Martin, appeared in our office and presented us with a large package of the finest pure old-fashioned country sausage you ever saw.

But to make it still more appreciative, he said that the good lady at home who takes care of and looks after him, was the thoughtful donor. So the editor wishes to extend to her his sincerest thanks and also to wish for her and D. M. many happy, and prosperous years to come.

Thomas Longview, the managing editor of the Cincinnati Leader, sat pouring over a bunch of copy that had come from an up-state town. He pushed a button on his desk and presently Jack Shipp, one of the star reporters stood before him. "Shipp, I want you to catch the first train to Wilton and send us a first-class write-up of that terrible monster up there."

Shipp pocketed the envelope of clippings that the editor handed him and asked at his usual, "Any further orders, Mr. Longview?"

"No the story may be a wild goose chase, but it will give you a few days in the country."

Shipp hurriedly packed a light traveling bag and "beat" it to catch a local train. As the train pulled out of Cincinnati he took out the clippings and began to refresh his memory. The first one was dated:

Sept. 8, Wilton.—George Waterbury a farmer living just two miles east of here, reported today that one of his heifers was killed last night by a strange animal with feet like a huge cat.

Waterbury says he found the heifer with its throat cut and lacerated as though a lion had been clawing at the kill. Footprints were found leading from the scene to a nearby creek. The track measures twenty inches in length and eleven in width.

A very strange thing about the monster is that it seemed to have left no trail in the marsh beyond a few footprints near the edge. A band of men going to watch tonight with loaded guns.

The next was read:

Sept. 8.—(Special)—Farmers of the county are alarmed by [illegible] like a cat. It killed [illegible] night in the pasture of [illegible]

[illegible] states that he saw the [illegible] last night as it came [illegible] the trees and that he [illegible] of his gun at it [illegible] mark. He describes [illegible] fully ten feet tall with an [illegible] head. with its [illegible] held as though it were carrying [illegible] its embrace.

[illegible] number of people of Wilton went out to the scene of the excitement today and saw for the first time the footprints leading to the swamp.

The farmers have organized a hunting party and are searching the woods for it. They believe it hides in the densely covered places of the moor during the day time and comes out only at night.

Shipp had never been guilty of forming a preconceived opinion on any assignment but this time the felt as though he was on a wild chase. This monster did not exist. It was merely the creature of some correspondent's brain. When he alighted at his destination he found nothing to change his previous conception of the actual state of affairs. There was the usual crowd of hangers-on gathered about the station house. He approached one of the groups and inquired the way to George Waterbury's farm.

"You come from Cincinnati, Stranger," asked one of the men after giving the directions.

"Yes. I have come to have a look at the terrible bear cat."

"They are all looking FOR it," said the man. "George Waterbury and all the rest. You'll find them somewhere around Shrimp Swamp. Ted O'Hooligan will drive you out in his flivver. There's Ted over there by the express car, the low- heavy-set thin-lipped sallow-complexioned red-headed fellow with the blue shirt and yellow cravat.

Are you aiming to join the hunting party, stranger?"

"Nothing could give me greater pleasure. What do you think of this animal-proving animal-killing crea[illegible]

"Me, I ain't wantin' nothin' what has to do with that thar creatur'. If he wants to can hunt, but I ain't having no sich excitement."

"Is anybody besides Mr. Waterbury seen this animal?"

"I don't think anybody else has actually seen it," spoke up another one of the group, "but almost everybody has seen its footprints. I have seen 'em and believe me this thing that George Waterbury says it killed more."

No person would be justified in believing anything after what happened when I went out on Ebenezer Smith's farm. The killing of his prize bulls was [illegible] killed at an estimated at over fifteen hundred dollars. Anything that could [illegible] a beast as strong as that any help in killing the dreaded scourge of the countryside. Addressing himself to a low square-built man whom he took for Mr. Waterbury, Shipp asked:

"Did you find any further trace of the beast?"

Taking his gun from his shoulder in a very deliberate manner, removing his wide-brimmed straw hat from his shapely head, and after a careful mopping of his forehead he replied:

"We tracked him to the water and then we were at our road's end. Go found traces of him. Up in a clump of elder bushes we found a dead pig. There was something strange about it too, for search all we might, there was no trace to prove that the pig was dragged along the ground."

Shipp turned to Waterbury as he said: "I suppose you will be watching for this thing again tonight?"

"I am completely tired out watching and going without sleep but I am not going to let up until I have caught or killed this here varmint. Yes, you can count me in on watching again tonight.

Turning from him, Shipp walked back to O'Hooligan's car and told him to drive back to town. On the way he had a chance to question Tom Sessions, a reporter on the Wilton Progress.

He found out all he wanted to know about Estelle Gibson. The look that Tom gave him when Shipp asked about Estelle was enough to make an ordinary man wince. Shipp, however, merely turned his head and smiled. His plan was already formed but he did not care to take anyone into his confidence just yet.

Going to the office of the Progress, he secured a typewriter and set to work on a story. He was in doubt just how to begin. He wanted to ridicule the whole thing as a big hoax, but he was afraid that would interfere with his plan of investigation. So he turned off and wrote a straightforward news story.

All the days of his life had not given him the thrill that he was then experiencing. The picture of those simple country folks held in awe by the terror of some unknown monstrous vertebrae gave him an inspiration that caused the words to flow in voluminous torrents from his highly imaginative brain. For more than an hour the steady clickety-click of his typewriter kept time to the rythmic beat of his pulsating mind. When he had finished he went to the telegraph office and asked that it be rushed to the Leader.

That finished, he was ready to return to the farm of depredations. When he got there the men of the neighborhood had gathered at Waterbury's and were just ready to start to the region of the swamps. Shipp then expressed a desire to join them.

"But you have no gun," said Waterbury, "and we need men well-armed."

"If that is what you want, how will this do?" said Shipp, pulling back his coat and showing a forty-five calibre army pistol. "I brought this along thinking it might come in handy."

"We had better be starting if we mean to watch any tonight," said a coarse-voiced man.

Turning, Shipp recognized Ebenezer Smith whom he had seen under very suspicious circumstances at the station.

When Waterbury introduced him, he pretended not to recognize Shipp.

The crowd set out for Shrimp Swamp, and as they drew near, Smith bid them good night and turned across to go to his own farm. Men were stationed at close intervals so that if the monster came out it would be in range of some of them. The steady patrol set in. Every man was on a peak of suspense and excitement, wondering if the beast would come out in his beat. Shipp took a place next to Mr. Waterbury for he had a plan laid back in his brain and was waiting a chance to try it. In an hour or two, Smith came back to the Waterbury side of the swamp.

"Mr. Smith," said Shipp, "I would like to go around on your side of the moor to look at that dead pig."

"I'll watch here while Waterbury takes you around," said Smith, willing to be thought agreeable and accommodating.

The broad-shouldered gentleman farmer began his tramp, tramp, tramp along the edge while Shipp and Waterbury set out on the proposed mission. When they had gotten about halfway around, Shipp said that he was willing to let it go until the next day. He stopped abruptly and started back. Despite the entreaty of Waterbury, the experienced reporter with the keen intuition of a trained detective, kept close to the woods so as not to get into the moonlight. His companion no doubt thought that this city fellow had lost his senses, but Shipp was not worrying about what anyone thought. He had a plan and he was anxious to see how it was working. When they had gotten nearly to the place where they began their nightly vigil, the barking of Waterbury's dog was heard for a few seconds and then the barking ceased abruptly.

"Come on!" shouted Shipp as he drew his revolver and started on a run towards the home of his companion. Not exactly realizing at first what it was all about, he followed reluctantly. Soon they sighted a creature wabbling through the yard towards Waterbury's woodlot. Shipp intended to get closer, but the enraged farmer raised his shot gun and emptied both barrels at the fleeing animal. Realizing that his plan had failed for the time being, Shipp discharged the full round of his automatic in the direction the monster had taken. Just then the farmer's wife was seen coming toward them. She shouted:

"O George---- Lanette----" and then fainted.

The farmer rushed on to the house while Shipp waited to revive the fainting woman. When they got there, the father was trying frantically to get the doctor. On the bed lay the prostrate form of his only daughter.

SENATOR UNDERWOOD AND THE PRESIDENCY

The unanimity which accompanied the adoption of a resolution by the Alabama House of Representatives endorsing Senator Oscar Underwood for President and terming him "a distinguished Alabamian worthy of every honor, State or National, that can be conferred upon him," was distinctly stimulating to Alabamians proud of their State. Senator Underwood has not trimmed or truckled on any question and he has never tried to camouflage any act or course of his in Congress. As a result he has incurred the resentment of certain crowds or blocks of voters. They made war against him in his last race and the contest became not merely an Alabama election, but a Nation-wide issue. Similar fights were made against other Senators, particularly in the Western States, and most of them were defeated. But be it said to the good name of Alabama democracy, Senator Underwood was renominated and returned to the Senate by a plurality which would have been considered large and satisfactory if it had been received by any man except Senator Underwood, who ought to have been returned without opposition. The Legislature elected by the people at the same time ignores any factionalism which might have been created at that time and by one vote less than a unanimous vote heartily and warmly endorses him for the highest office in the Nation.

Senator Underwood is the most distinguished Alabamian of his day. His gifts, strength of character and devotion to his principles have made him an admired figure by people in every section of our common country. He is the first Alabamian for seventy years, or since the days of Yancey and Fitzpatrick, who has been mentioned for the Presidency and he was much nearer to it in 1912 than any man who ever lived in Alabama. He is the only man of the entire South who has been gravely and seriously considered as a Presidential candidate since the War Between the States.

Senator Underwood was much nearer the nomination for President in 1912 than the people of Alabama ever believed or understood. The fear that a Southern man if nominated would be defeated was entertained more by the Southern delegates than the Northern delegates. That fear was played upon by certain leaders and bosses who were in close touch with the Democratic machine during its long era of defeats. They were able to "thimble rig" the convention partly by declaring that no Southern man should be nominated for fear he could not get the support of the Northern States. A nomination by the Baltimore convention at that time was equivalent to an election. Senator Underwood enjoyed the esteem and admiration of the delegates to a degree not measured by the handsome vote which he received. It will be foolishness and nonsense for any Southern, particularly any Alabama delegates to the next convention to prostrate themselves before the fake propaganda that, "a Southern man can not be elected." A Southern man can be elected. If he can not, when will the time come when a representative statesman from the greatest section of our common country be President?

A man, however, is not called to the Presidency because of his worth and merit. Men are elected President not because of their ability, but because of their availability. Conditions in 1924 may deamnd the nomination by the Democratic party of a candidate who has sincerity and integrity of purpose, poise and a true conception of statesmanship. In which event Senator Underwood probably would be considered the leading figure in the convention and the probable nominee. If the remnants of the old Populist party of the West, which the Democratic party took over, should be in control of the convention, Senator Underwood probably would not be considered an available candidate. What the conditions will be in 1924 no man can say. One man's guess is as good as another.

The talk of his being a candidate for the Presidency in 1924 is nothing to the ears of Senator Underwood. He has heard it many times from the lips of men who come from various States. He is not a candidate for the Presidency and whatever befalls, he will not lose a single night's sleep over it. But men do not refuse a Presidential nomination when they are tendered by either of the two great parties. Nor do we believe that Senator Underwood would decline such an honor if the party leaders believed that he was the available man to head the Democratic ticket and if the convention wrote a platform in harmony with his convictions and principles.

The Alabama Legislature is fair see-ing. It visions the opportunity for the selection of Alabama's greatest citizen for the highest honor that can be conferred by the American people. It is engaged in a most meritorious work in emphasizing the opportunity to the people of Alabama and in drawing to it the attention of the people of the entire Nation.—Advertiser.

IN MEMORIAM

"Mr. W. Y. Atchison is dead," was the sad news we heard on last Friday morning, February 9th. What a shock it was and what an irreparable loss to Mulberry Church and community.

"Uncle Bill," as he was familiarly called, was in his seventy-sixth year, but was apparently in perfect health. He ate a hearty breakfast Friday morning and seemed unusually jolly. About nine o'clock he went out to cut some wood, when his daughter, Mrs. Hayes, noticed he had stopped cutting and was sitting down on a block of wood with his head bowed. She hastened to him but before she reached him he had fallen and was dead.

His death was almost a transition, not a struggle, nor seemingly a pain, he was just transplanted from earth to heaven in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye.

Mr. Atchison was one of the best men whom it has been our good fortune to know, honorable and honest as the day was long, and respected and loved by all who knew him.

He has been a consistent member of Mulberry church for quite a number of years and always was proud to be one of the "faithful few."

We know that Uncle Bill is safe forever from the trials and tribulations of this life, and in that beautiful City whose builder and maker is God, he is waiting and watching for his loved ones.

May the influence of his life draw us Heavenward, and when we have crossed the bar we will meet again our loved one to be parted nevermore.

The body was laid to rest in Mulberry cemetery Saturday afternoon with Masonic honors.

The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Buford Lawrence and the Maplesville Masonic lodge, of which he was a member.

He leaves a wife, several children and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

A Friend.

PATE'S CHAPEL

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely here. We are finding out that there is really something to be gotten out of Sunday School.

As Sunday evening was our regular Singing evening, a large crowd met and sang Praises to God. The following people directed from one to three songs: Chester A. Maddox, Rena Hayes, Zemma Hayes, Mrs. Eva Childress, Hazel Maddox, Mary Watley, Miss Nora Robinson. Organists were Mrs. Eva Childress, Miss Nora Frankling and Miss Mae Maddox. If you don't believe we have a crowd of little girls here who can really direct a class in singing, just come and see for yourselves, as we cannot convince you any other way.

The visitors were greatly appreciated. We are always glad to see you come. Remember the fourth Sunday evening and come again.

LUMBER AND LIVING COSTS

Adequate supply of lumber at reasonable prices is not the remote problem that the South is apt to regard it; but it is a present problem. Preservation of young timber and reforestation are not subject-matter of academic discussion for future application, but are pressing needs with a bearing on the cost of living that is becoming a greater and greater one. Lumber prices have risen three and four dollars per thousand feet recently, owing to the large demand in the north coupled with the structural activity in the South. The demand for lumber for export is always operative. Here in the heart of the soft-pine region prices are paid for lumber altogether out of line with the proximity of the supply, because distant markets have absorbed stocks on hand and created a scarcity of spot supply. The price we in the South pay is determined by these distant markets. We reap little or no benefit from the proximity of our forests.

It was to have been expected that lumber would participate in the general tendency to advance prices, but lumber is more affected by outside markets than any other native product. The time has arrived when the southern people cannot become too much in earnest about the preservation of their remaining timber and taking steps to put a stop to timber cutting that is not accompanied by salvage of the young timber. This cannot be left to the whim of timber cutters, but there should be compulsion in the observance of timber cutting rules with a view to saving the South from a needless economic waste. Otherwise our forests will soon be gone and a rich natural asset will have been squandered with a direct reflex in the high cost of timber where once it was luxuriant and obtainable at low cost.—Age-Herald.

Noted Evangelist Begins Great Gospel Drive For Sinners

On Sunday morning Reverend Bob Jones of Montgomery began a series of sermons which are to continue until Friday night. The Wade Warehouse is proving none too large for the ever-increasing crowds. His sermon Sunday at eleven o'clock was a general discourse. In the afternoon he leveled his attack at the church members and the passive type of Christians. At night the full force of his 42-centimeter "artillery" was trained upon the general public. His subject was the "Sins of America."

With a matchless power of portrayal he pictured the prevailing faults of this nation. In brief they are:

There is everywhere a growing spirit of irreverance. People are joking about God and the Bible.

A wave of pleasure-seeking is sweeping the nation.

Sunday desecration is sapping the very vital life of the support of our people.

Disrespect for law and authority is encroaching on the right conduct of public affairs.

Dancing fever, gambling craze, card parties, joy rides on the road to hell, are becoming more common.

THE WISER COURSE

The state senate has adopted the wiser course by postponing consideration of the bill for the election of county superintendents by the people until after the long recess. This measure has been urged on the specious plea that it is designed to promote self-government, but it is open to the valid objection that it would result in dragging the schools back into politics and would place professional politicians, rather than trained educators in charge of the county schools. It is the enlightened opinion of Alabama, including all of its educational leaders, that the proposed bill, if enacted into law, would mark a backward step. It would be a return to a system which has already been tried in this state, to the detriment of the schools, and which has been abandoned in other progressive commonwealths. A measure which has aroused so much opposition and is contrary to the best interests of the state, may well be held in abeyance for more deliberate study by the legislature.—Age Herald.

TWO TRAGIC EVENTS

Two tragic incidents occurred during the past week that appear to be escaping the attention of the public. One was the death of a 17-year-old youth in the State University after one of those fraternity initiations that is a shame to the University, and have been abandoned in practically all the institutions of learning of this high character in the country. Many years ago a sensation was created by these initiations at Tuscaloosa, and after the severe excoriation by the state press, and con demnation by the fathers and mothers of boys attending the University, it was announced by the president of that institution that the brutal features of the initiation into fraternities had been abandoned; and until the present tragedy they were thought to have been. The full particulars of the tragedy may or may not have been given to the public, but whether they have or not, the mere fact that a death resulted from the initiation tends to show the character of them; and it is to be hoped the president and the trustees will see to it that this never occurs again. Certainly if the young man had lived in some other town than Tuscaloosa, under the shadow of the State University, there would have been trouble for the University authorities, and they should know it, and take immediate steps to prevent another like tragedy.

The other tragic incident to which The Journal would call the special attention of the Montgomery public is the fatal outcome of a so-called boxing bout at the city auditorium. One young man, also reported to be 17 years of age, is dead as a result of that bout.

We are aware we are treading on dangerous ground when we express dis approval of these bouts; but the Journal has always condemned brutal exhibitions of strength. The friends of such exhibitions claim it is simply an exhibition of the skillful use of the gloved hand. The Journal expresses doubts as to whether those gloves are always really what they are purported to be; but in this case we accept what the friends of the young men say, and then point to fatal result as sustaining our opposition to them. Besides this it cultivates a love among young people for such sports which are but a step from the brutal bull fights which have shamed all Spain, and recently stopped in Mexico which country could no longer tolerate them.

SENATOR ADAMS HAS PEN USED BY BRANDON

Senator S. M. Adams of Chilton county is the proud possessor of the pen which Governor Brandon used in signing the tax exemption bill of water power companies in Alabama. The senator says he expects to keep the pen in remembrance of Governor Brandon.

THE FATAL WORD

My life was peaceful and serene, the happy moments sped, and all was smooth as vaseline until one day I said: "I'd like to own a gas machine," and now my peace has fled. There is no rest, there is no sleep, no time from sorrow free; the moon may slumber on the deep, the birds upon the tree, but I can only wake and weep—there is no peace for me. For now salesmen come pell mell and stay me near and far. They come from every hill and dell from Maine to Zanzabar, and every salesman craves to sell a shining motor car. At morn I find a thousand gents outside my cottage door and perched upon the backyard fence I find a thousand more, until I yearn with rage intense to spill their ruddy gore. My life was peaceful as a bird's without a care to mar, I roamed as freely as the herds in meadowlands afar until I spoke them fatal words: "I'd like to own a car."—Stanwood.

The Clanton Ice Plant, under the management of Mr. R. O. Wade, is preparing now to give to its patrons ice that has been doubly filtered and sterilized and will be absolutely pure, so far as human ingenuity can make it so.

Mr. Wade is spending quite a sum in perfecting his plant and we anticipate first class ice service this year when the mercury tries to blow the top off.

Elbert Littlejohn has almost recovered from a severe case of pneumonia. It will be remembered that he was in the Central Alabama Hospital for some time as a result of this sickness.

It will pay you to watch the ad of the Downs Hardware Company every week. They will have a Special Leader featured at a great money saving price. Watch it!

S. M. Jones, route seven, was in Clanton Thursday. Mr. Jones is the son of our esteemed citizen and former County Registration officer, B. H. Jones.

F. C. Pulliam, of Maplesville, spent several days last week in Clanton attending to business matters. Mr. Pulliam is a prominent lumber dealer in the western part of Chilton.

Mr. Eliza Kendrick, of Montgomery, was here Sunday visiting friends and relatives. Mr. Kendrick holds a responsible position with Hudson and Thompson Wholesale Grocers.

Fonza Cunningham, of Augusta, Ga., spent several days the latter part of last week and the first of this, with friends and relatives in Clanton. Fonza is an old Chilton county boy who is making good. He is buying cotton for the Riverside Cotton Mills in Augusta.

FOR SALE—Good Pigs and Shoats for sale. Bob Roper, Rt. 2 Maplesville, Ala. 2t2t pd.

Professor G. C. Weldon, principal of the Enterprise school, was in town Saturday. They have recently added twenty-one new desks to the school building and equipped sanitary drinking founts for the pupils.

Mr. F. A. Gulledge, of Verbena, was among those who attended the meeting at the court house Monday. No person there did more to help settle the mooted "Tick Question," than Mr. Gulledge.

F. W. Stevenson, of Alabama's Metropolis, was in Clanton the first part of the week supplying our merchants with a full line of Sharp Hats and Caps for the spring trade. Mr. Stephenson, in addition to selling an excellent line of hats and caps, is a clever courteous and well-bred young man who was reared in the Educational city of Jacksonville, Alabama.

One hundred single steel desks have been put in the Oak Grove School building. This district is located three miles above Jemison. Professor N. W. Harrison, of Dallas county is principal of this school.

We did not hear any resolution last Monday at the court house while the tick eradication was up about the Chilton County News. The News stated last fall that the tick eradication law was first taken up by the Federal government.

R. L. Duffy, R. F. D. carrier of Mountain Creek No. one, was in Clanton one day recently. It will be recalled that Mr. Duffy is the man who killed a porker not many months ago that made about ninety pounds of lard.

Bill Orr has returned from Birmingham where he was taken some time ago to undergo an operation for appendicitis. We are happy to have him back. For two or three years Bill starred on the Hi football team here.

Mr. and Mrs. Mallie White went to the Capital City last Saturday. Mrs. White returned Saturday afternoon, but Mr. White stopped at Deatsville and spent the night with his mother, Mrs. G. A. White.

Mrs. Blanche Mullins, Miss Marzelle Mullins, John Durwood Mullins and Edgar Mullins, of the Capital City, spent Saturday and Sunday in Clanton with home folks and friends.

J. R. Patterson, of beat five, was here Monday attending the meeting at the court house. Mr. Patterson called at the News office before leaving town. We are always pleased to have men like Mr. Patterson pay us a visit while in Clanton on business or pleasure.

Walter Popwell, a progressive farmer of route three, was in town not many days since.

JEMISON SCHOOL

The school board at Jemison has recently added 150 steel desks as new equipment for the new accredited high school building. They have the new high-grade Waterbury jacket heaters in each room. We have been informed by others not members of the Jemison school board, that these heaters cost $100 each, and are equally as good, if not better, than steam heat. The new building at Jemison measures up to every requirement of the State. The people there have been aroused as to the needs of an educated citizenship, and the News wants to take this means of congratulating them on the useful and magnificent work they have already accomplished.

SAME OLD SONG

In Arkansas and other states there are [illegible] agricultural campaigns [illegible] agriculturists. They are telling the farmers about the things that will help them increase the production of their farms. Very little is said about marketing. If anything at all is said, it is usually same theory or special scheme to be put over.

We are not informed who pays these high-ups, but in the end the farmer pays. Their work is not entirely a loss. There is some virtue in soil improvement and greater production per acre, yet this is not the vital issue today. And too, this same story of soil improvement and greater production has been taught and told to the people by the government and every imaginable agency for the past twenty-five years. It has gotten results all right. The people have responded fairly well. This side of the farm question has been stressed so much and so long until it is far ahead of the marketing end. As a matter of fact the people would be as well or better off if they did not produce nearly so much as at the present time. At least there should be something of a let up until the marketing end catches up with the production.—United Farmer.

CLANTON PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION MEETS

The Clanton Parent-Teachers' Association met last Friday afternoon. Although the weather was very unfavorable, there were present a goodly number of parents, who are always loyal to the school. A very interesting program was given by the pupils of the Grammar School.

Especial credit should be given the social committee for the excellent way in which they acquitted themselves, bringing refreshments through the rain to help make the social feature a complete success. Those on that committee are, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Rasberry, and Mrs. Culpepper. The members thank them for this fine example of loyalty to an accepted duty.

A book shower was the special feature of the day, but due to the inclemency of the weather some did not bring books. Many promised to send them by pupils. Twenty-two were given Friday. If it was not possible for you to be present, the school will be grateful if you will send a book for the library.

The Association has purchased a picture to be held each month by the room that has the largest number of parents present. Those having children in more than one grade are counted for each grade. The third grade won the picture Friday having nine patrons on hand. This grade also won the picture donated by the Study Club for the best average attendance and punctuality for the month of January. It is up to some of the other grades to get busy.

AVERY Chilled Plows

America's Finest

THERE are many good chilled plows made, but only one Avery. In many important ways it is above any comparison. Since B. F. Avery designed the first Avery plow in 1825, great strides have been made in plow building. Avery always has been a leader. Today every scientific and manufacturing improvement is found in Avery Chilled Plows, and in addition are many advantages exclusive to Avery. Avery repair parts are always genuine because protected by patents. They are guaranteed to fit perfectly any Avery plow ever made of same number, and because perfect-fitting cannot work loose and seldom break. The Avery "lock that locks"—found only on the Avery—holds the plowshare in place no matter how long in use; and relieves the strain on the bolts. Guarantee tag—as shown—is attached to every Avery Chilled Plow. Thousands of farmers, wherever chilled plows are used, say they never knew perfect plow satisfaction until they got an Avery.

Let us demonstrate Avery Chilled Plow superiority to your satisfaction.

There is a full line of famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, tillage implements, and Champion harvesting and hay machines

JEMISON NEWS ITEMS

Dear Editor: As I am an old writer from a new community there is a chance to escape the waste basket.

We have had lots of sickness and nine deaths in our little town since Christmas. Let us remember these families in our prayers as they mourn for the last of their loved ones. Some are fathers, some are mothers and some are little ones; but be they young or old, there are vacant places that cannot be filled. At present there is no serious illness.

Friends of Mrs. H. A. Williams will rejoice to hear that she is slowly but surely recovering from the flu. Her daughter, Miss Sadie Kincaid, of Birmingham, is still with her, but expects to return soon.

Mr. J. C. Veasey and son, Wallace, were in town on business Monday.

Mr. Goodgame has put in a planing mill and is dressing lots of lumber. He will have his large steam dry kiln in operation in a few days.

News has reached here that Mr. and Mrs. Kirby L. Summers of Ensley, formerly of Mulberry, have a seven pound boy.

Mr. Frank Wells is building a very beautiful bungalow just one block from the highway.

Mr. Herbert Wright has almost completed a nice bungalow on the highway.

Mr. Lucas Bean has purchased the handsome home of Mr. Ira Whittaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Glasscock gave a birth-day party in honor of their daughter, Miss Lucille . Those who were in attendance were: Natalie Langston , Nell Wells, Hazel Collum, Katleen Ross, Eleanor Summer, Mabel Ross, Irma Killensworth, Miss Harrell Maline Howard; R. B. Johnson, Leonard Glasscock, Floyd Millsap, Albert Sims, Ermon Shaw, Paul Kincaid, Carl Bean, Laymon Harold, Curtis Webb, Gary Ross. The party was a huge success.

Editor's note—Come again, G. E. S., we want all the news, all the time.

RECENTLY DOUBLED HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY

It is believed that the high school now has a library far better than the average found in other county high schools. Through the efforts of the students and friends of the school the number of volumes has recently been doubled. During the first term of school the Literary Societies, in a contest with each other, raised a sum of $97 for the library. Through county and state aid, we were able to secure $30 worth of books in addition to these. We are very grateful to Professor Pegues and Mrs. Curry for their contribution of books to the library. We wish also to express our thanks for a good number of books contributed by the ladies of the Civic Association of our city.

The books were selected by the faculty of the high school with the greatest of care. Only those books were selected which furnish students with the most wholesome reading and which were supplementary to the books studied from day to day.

The students are very proud of the library largely the results of their efforts. It is pleasing to note that the great majority of the student body are using this splendid collection of books. The librarian is kept busy three afternoons each week in issuing the books to the students. Parents are urged to assist the teachers in arousing an interest in the reading of good books while students are growing up. If this habit is not cultivated during the school days the chances are that it will never be formed. James Russell Lowell says, "In fighting the forces of ignorance and evil, the school summons to its aid for the uplifting of the child, the most powerful influences which it can command. This is why we teach him music and art and bring him the best in literature. The love of good books is the chain which binds man to the stars."

We have made a good beginning. We will welcome the efforts of any individual or club of this town in behalf of the high school library.

P. O. Luck, Representative of Shelby county in the Legislature, passed through Clanton February 10th on his way home to Columbiana.

(EDITORIAL) THEY ALL PLAY THE GAME

In these swife-moving days of modern ideas and ideals one of the most dangerous menances that threatens our form of a government of, by, and for the people is the decided tendency of all our elective law makers and executives to play the seductive game of personal politics.

Even our brainiest men, with hardly an exception get into the game of trading and trafficking with the rights and best interests of the public at large just as soon as they receive their certificate of election. They dicker among themselves in private with an eye single to what is best for their own personal political future, no matter what burning questions of great moment to the county at large may hang fire and linger along until the people become disgusted and have no more time to devote to these important public matters. The clamor for public relief ceases. The seal of oblivion has been fixed in the mind of the voter and then the legislative and congressional political game goes smoothly along in the spirit manifested by one of old who said: "The public be d.....med."

Occasionally some bright "secretary" or capitol pimp writes up a great "Speech," that is, by the rules of the game, given out to the press as the scintillating battle cry of freedom emanating from one of these "servants of the people" in the legislative halls in behalf of his dear "peepul" back home. Perhaps the accredited author of this document had never taken time from the engrossing game of self emolument, to even read over this great and glorious ebulition, but it does its required stunt and keeps the "home fires burning" until another election day dawns again.

If some plan could be devised by which we could eliminate the lure of the dollar and the ambition for an uninterrupted suck at the public teat from the minds of our political leaders, our form of government would be all that the most roseate dream of its founders pictured it. The system is all that could be desired but the element of personal greed and agrandizement is certainly destroying, to an alarming extent, the blessings that we as a free, self-governing people, are entitled to and should demand.

There is no rhyme or reason in a Congress elected by the people of this great country, spending two years in a glorious game of personal and prejudiced political maneuvering, while the farmers and other interests have been staggering along under war-time burdens that should have been removed or remedied the very first bill that went on the calendar.

One thing they did do that will steep their memory in infamy for all the years to come. They allowed the "vested interests—the Trusts—to frame a tariff law that is actually more dastardly than highway robbery, and they put it on the burdened backs of the public just as made to order by the minions of "Big Business."

Our country, with its high and holy ideals of liberty for all, has certainly fallen into the clutches of a political system that successfully smothers all the glorious sentiment of its founders, as they planned out a safe and happy abode for liberty to all in their minds. the caste of class broods over our land like a somber pall of gloom. Day by day, in every way, we are becoming more and more snobbish and

DESERVES CREDIT

The present Board of City Councilmen deserve much praise and credit for the large amount of splendid street improvement work they are putting on now.

Nothing is more conducive to the good name and appearance of a city than nice, clean, well-kept streets.

Clanton is building up with a rush now and the Street Committee seem to be alive to that fact, and are keeping up their end of the improvements.

IS TOBACCO INJURIOUS TO THE HIGH SCHOOL BOY?

Is tobacco really injurious to the boy in high school? I have always believed that tobacco is not good for the growing boy, either physically or mentally, and hence have always prohibited the use of same about the school premises. This habit has become so prevalent among the young people of our country and we are so little concerned about what the boys are doing that I have been led to make some investigations to really determine whether or not tobacco is really injurious to the young boy who has lately formed the habit.

My aim has been to determine wheth er the use of tobacco, principally the smoking of cigarettes impairs the mental efficiency of the growing boy. The boys of the high school have been very co-operative in furnishing the information needed for a definite and correct conclusion. The boys were divided into three groups. Those who used tobacco habitually were placed in Group A. Those who use tobacco now and then were placed in Group B., and those who did not use tobacco at all were placed in Group C. Group A claims 18¾ per cent of the boys of the high school; Group B, 31¼ per cent, and Group C, 50 per cent.

Now, if tobacco has no effect upon the mentality of the boy, we would expect these tobacco users to make the honor rolls upon this same percentage basis. The honor roll for the first semester covering a period of four and one-half months has been taken for a basis of study. According to the above figures we would expect the habitual tobacco users to furnish 18¾ per cent of the boys for the honor roll, but we find that they furnish only13⅓ per cent of them. We would expect those of Group B to furnish 31¼ per cent of the boys for the honor roll, while they furnish only 20 per cent of them. And then we would expect the non-users to furnish 50 per cent of the boys who make this distinction but they actually furnish 66⅔ per cent.

Now, you may draw your own conclusions. These are cold, bare facts. If tobacco has these significant effects upon the boy during the early periods of his life, what may we expect after this habit has gotten such hold on him that he cannot turn it loose? It has been my observation that the use of tobacco robs the boy of will power. He is slothful, has no determination and is not at all times dependable. In the vigor of his youth he does not think that the habit is doing him an injury.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

VOLUME 2 — CLANTON, ALABAMA, FEBRUARY 22, 1923. — NUMBER 24

ARE WE GOING TO DO IT

IT CAN BE DONE

Had you ever given any real consideration to the fact that when the people of Chilton county and Clanton really decide that they want any religious, civic or business improvement made they always succeed in putting it over?

We Have the Evidences.

It is a truth that has all kinds of visible evidence to establish its validity.

For instance just visualize the superb structure that houses the Baptist people in and around Clanton. Just a few brief years ago, when the feasibility of erecting even a more modest and less imposing church was first broached, people actually laughed at what they considered the absolute absurdity of attempting to raise funds to finance such an undertaking here. The proposition was looked upon almost unanimously as being absurbly impossible.

Notwithstanding all this talk that large, commodious and elegant building stands today as a lasting and beautiful monument to the fact that the good people of this section can accomplish even $40,000 results, like that when they get in the right spirit and decide to do it.

Then again go up and take a look at the Chilton County Hospital building, inside and out. Is there a similar institution in Alabama that can surpass it in completeness and efficiency of every detail? An edifice that is a credit to the state, and who is responsible for its existence? Why, the good, broadminded business men of Chilton county.

They conceived the idea, they realized the need for such an institution and THEY went down in their pockets, and made this humane and beautiful dream come true.

Two years ago we had, in one summer, two tented [illegible] campaigns, both of which drew [illegible] crowds and required considerable capital to finance them. We were credibly informed that the people in this section voluntarily contributed over $5,000 to these two commendable undertakings. Does that sound like our good citizens cannot do big things in a big way when they are properly interested and impressed?

Spirit Strong as Ever.

As evidence of the fact that this spirit is neither dead nor sleeping today, just listen. Last Friday night, at the closing service of the Bob Jones revival here, the question of building a new brick Methodist church was brought up.

Notwithstanding the fact that the mercury was looking for the cellar and many of those present were shivering with cold, in just a few moments the neat sum of $28,000 was raised as a starter in that enterprise.

How does that strike you? Doesn't it sound like there was life in the old land yet? It looks like there are still people in this section who are neither unwilling nor afraid to go up against the big things in life.

Besides these leading "high lights" in the line of what our people have done and can do, we could fill columns telling you about the hundreds of dollars given by these same good people to aid the poor and the afflicted. They never allow a case of real suffering to go by without ample and immediate aid. And no trumpet is ever sounded or drums beat in an effort to exploit their good deeds abroad.

Now, you will, everyone of you agree with us that we have not overdrawn the facts nor put even a tiny spec of coloring in their recital.

Co-operation Needed.

This much has been written with a two fold purpose. First—to remind you of the seemingly impossible things that have been done here right before your eyes, and secondly, in an attempt to direct your attention to the fact that this same spirit of enterprise and determination can build a cotton mill in Clanton with equal, and we dare say, less effort than that required in either of these other expensive enterprises handled solely and alone by home folks.

We say with more ease and with less effort because the cotton spinners of the North and East are, right at this very moment, almost begging for an invitation to locate in some favorable Southern district.

Location Favorable To Industry.

We have it, upon very high and competent authority, of people who know the cotton mill business from "A" to "Z" and who have built and successfully operated mills themselves, that we have here one of the most ideal sites for a successful cotton mill that exists in the State, or possibly, in the South.

We know of our own knowledge that we have a climate that strikes a happy medium between the two extremes of hot and cold. Neither extreme is ever sufficiently severe here to materially interfere with either in or out door labor. We also know that we have as healthy a section as can be found in the United States. We have an ever and dependable supply of labor that expects to work and not to strike for a living. We have unlimited and absolutely reliable power and that too of the very kind that cotton mills all prefer electricity. Living conditions are as good here as they can be made anywhere. We have good laws and good people, and last but not least we need the mill and the mill needs us.

Can't we get something started? Mayor Gragg is alive to the situation and he is a "wheel horse" when he sets his head. Won't we all unite on this one issue and give the Mayor all the assistance in our power? Now is golden opportunity why have passed.

CALL A COTTON MILL MASS MEETING, OR DO SOMETHING TO PUT THE BALL TO ROLLING.

—o—

Turkey has put herself in a position where she will have to fight or "eat crow." England or Turkey one has got to back down or the bullets will fly. Here's hoping England puts the Turk off the earth.

When an official thermometer becomes so utterly careless of the eternal fitness of things that it will allow the mercury to ramble down to 16, like it did here last Sunday morning, we believe it is high time to file a complaint with congress. We don't want any tempeeratures like that and congress should give us relief.

ANOTHER VITAL SUBJECT

THE DRAINAGE QUESTION

In an ably written article last week Mayor Gragg, among other vital subjects, touched on the very important subject of drainage.

We rejoiced to see a man of his civic importance and clear insight into the real conditions under which our town is placed, come out so clearly on the subject. Dr. Gragg can not only visualize the vast importance of drainage as a civic and financial benefit, but as an able physician he is in a position to appreciate the danger to health that lurks in these surrounding swamps. He also touched lightly on another subject that, sooner or later, must be attended to—a subject that is even now throttling the efforts of Clanton to break down the barriers of years and become what its propitious location and enterprise demands—the real city of Central Alabama.

More Space Needed.

Our little circumscribed space, hedged in by these mosquito infested swamps, is about exhausted and daily the cry is for more room.

The natural development of the town is seriously hampered now for lack of room. We need many more houses to live in and the business section is already beginning to crowd out the homes close in. What are we going to do? If this drainage project could be put over, not only would the mosquito be forced to change his hunting grounds, but the broad acres of waste land that would be reclaimed would pay dividends of 100 per cent on the outlay.

At present, with our circumscribed area under incorporation, our town is rated in the census reports for no more than one-third of its population and not over 65 per cent of its wealth. This works incalculable injury to us in many ways. We cannot get anything like the civic and political privileges that really belong to us. Our importance as a center of business suffers in like proportion. Our appeal to home seekers is cut in half. The wonderful opportunities we offer for the investment of capital and the introduction of new business enterprises is cripjled in the same ratio.

Remedy Should Be Applied.

All of these things we could and should go about remedying without further delay.

Some one has to make an opening move and we thank Dr. Gragg for the start he has made. Let every good citizen flock to his support and let's make realities out of the wise suggestions he offers. Today is the time to act. Procrastination will only put off the dawn of our merited prosperity that much further.

To say the least of it the Ku Klux in our section seem to be real well-behaved Christian gentlemen. The Clanton Klan gave Bob Jones $55 one night and the Verbena Klan sent him $20 the next night. And they haven't whipped any "Dr Dowlings" here yet. Don't understand us to say that we have no "Dr. Dowlings" in this section, however.

BACK FROM FLORIDA

Mr and Mrs. M. A. Gore returned last week from an extended trip to Florida. While there they visited Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hayward at Tampa. They went from Tampa by boat and spent some time in St. Petersburg, Florida. Accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hayward, they took a one-day tour through Polk county, visiting Tarpon Springs. Here they saw the divers robed in their suits, which weight 275 pounds, diving down into the water after sponges. Also motor boats bringing fish from the salt waters of the gulf. Some of the small boats had as much as 2752 pounds of Spanish mackerel on board. According to the reports of Mr. and Mrs. Gore, while at Tarpon Springs, you would need an interpreter since this is a Greek settlement. Located near Tarpon Springs is Wall Springs, where they drank pure lithia water.

At Clearwater they saw the lake which has a five-mile drive around it. Then, again, they tell us that Winter Haven, Florida boasts of one hundred lakes in a five mile area. These lakes in Florida, according to Mr. and Mrs. Gore are as clear as crystal and you can see the fish jumping up out of the water and swimming in it.

On this pleasure trip this party passed through orange and grape fruit groves containing from two hundred acres up. This was one of the interesting features of the trip, since they had a puncture right near one of the large groves and while it was being fixed Mr. Gore slipped into the grove and broke off one small twig which contained seven large grape fruit.

Lest we forget we wish to tell you about this interesting party crossing the bridge at Clearwater, which is two miles and eighteen feet long connecting Clearwater with the Gulf. Here they saw the ebb and flow of the Gulf of Mexico. They gathered many beautiful shells and brought them back as souvenirs.

Mr. and Mrs. Gore were charmed with Florida particularly Polk county, the banner county in every respect.

After hearing this report we are not surprised that people enjoy going where the oranges grow, and neither are we surprised that Ponce de Leon thought that "The Fountain of Youth" was located in Florida.

BACK FROM WHERE THE ORANGE BLOSSOMS GROW

Some two weeks ago Mrs. T. C. McSwain joined a party of friends and went to Florida to visit some friends and also to visit several points of interest in the land of lovely flowers and balmy breezes.

She returned last week just in time to meet the north pole blizzard here and we believe she has been half mad ever since she came back, because she did not stay another week and miss connections with the frigid winds that met her when she landed back home.

She reports a most delightful trip and seems to be perfectly fascinated by the fruit, climate and flowers of that region of lovely sunshine and spring time breezes.

We are working now on an average of 75 hours per week. If we had more time we might give you a better paper, but, under the circumstances, we feel like we are doing the job fairly well. It may be that we are taking too much recreation. Possibly we sleep too much. There is a mighty simple reason why we do not waste any time in eating. You can guess that. We admit that an average of 12½ hours per day for 7 days in every week is not much, but when we remember that a 48-hour week is all the law requires to make a week, we feel like we are not beating our way.

The fascinating beauty of a corpse in death induced a Barnard College girl, in New York, to commit suicide that she might be made to look beautiful at least one time. That's carrying the desire to be beautiful a little to the extreme, especially so, as she could not hear and enjoy any of the compliments passed on her in death. One trouble about death is, you stay dead so long.

All you have to do in getting up a column of paragraphs for a newspaper is just chunk an old lead pencil and a bundle of blank paper over into a corner somewhere and they will do the rest. At least, that is what some people seem to think. Try it once and see how easy it is.

The question that must be decided is: Which is most beneficial to the family—a little kitchen garden or a bunch of chickens? We can't have both in a town without fences. The trial of it makes bitter enemies out of life long friends.

And moreover, one of the pitiful sights of life is to see some ignorant egotist trying to demonstrate something about which his ignorance is so dense that a steel-clad bullet would not faze it.

Are You True to Yourself?

"This above all: To thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."
—Shakespeare.

TO BE TRUE TO YOURSELF you must make the most of your opportunities. This is the greatest nation in the known world. The United States is known the world over as the land of opportunities. Are you taking advantage of the opportunities that come to you?

"As a man thinketh, so is he." After all, we get pretty much what we go after in this world and most assuredly so if we go after it hard enough.

Love begets love, kindness begets kindness, industry, thrift and economy begets success.

THE WAY IT IS

Had you ever paused long enough to consider how peculiarly our system of government really functions?

In print and in theory, and on the stump of every political campaigner, who ever tries for office, the system of a republic—a government dedicated to freedom—a rule of, by and for the people—is made to appear the very next best thing to heaven, but how does the system pan out in real operation?

We live under laws supposed to be made by the people, but that is the most fantastic dream your imagination can frame up. Do you suppose we have on the statute books of Alabama as many as half a dozen laws that would carry by popular vote?

Before an election the situation is thoroughly canvassed. The people rouse up and decide what they want, and immediately the woods are full of candidates who are just crazy to be sent to the legislature to enact these very laws. Those who are most vehement in their loyalty to the wishes of the people, so far as can be known by their fervent swearing of fealty to the public clamor, are usually selected by the people, in perfectly plain and simple platform of principles and they go down to Montgomery, like knights of old, to snatch the sceptre of power from the cliques and clans and give it back into the hands of the people where it rightly belongs. But do they do it? Not enough so you can tell it! The great majority of them sit down, eat peanuts and draw their pay, while a little band of six or eight men doninate the situation and sell out the whole routfit to the highest bidder for cash.

Have you ever known an Alabama legislature, or a congress of the United States, for that matter, to redeem their pre-election promises? Not on your tintype! Campaign pledges are made to get votes. Laws are made to get cash.

A learned and highly honored jurist of Alabama said to us one day, after we had been debating the school system of the State, that he "would admit that the school system was not worth a d—n but it was the only one we had," and that's exactly the shape of our system of trying to govern ourselves in these days of blatant disregard of everything but an occasional "hobby" and the seductive pull of the almighty dollar.

The government of a free and independent people by themselves, as planned out by our fore-fathers and incorporated by them into an old document that used to be known and respected as "The Constitution of the United States," is the most righteous and equitable system ever devised by man, but "them days is gone forever," is seems and today we are furnishing a picture to the effete nations of the old world of a country absolutely ruled and ridden by the most glaring exhibition of class legislation on earth, and you can't deny it. The facts are staring you in the face every day.

THE EDITOR'S OWN LITTLE MOMENT

Now and then a little whiff of happiness breezes into our door. For instance, last Tuesday morning our good friend, Mr. J. N. Woolley came in and presented us with a basket of exceedingly fine Porto Rico potatoes. We not only appreciate greatly his kindness in bringing the potatoes, but doubly prize the sentiment of remembrance and kindly regard that prompted the gift.

The life of the bootlegger and moon shiner is getting to be jam full of trouble around here. The sheriff goes out in the jungles and stirs them up and the city force gather them in on the rebound.

We have known always that turkeys eat grain, bread, etc., but we believe that European Turkey is giving the first exhibition of a Turkey eating crow.

PAY, YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

TOO MUCH CLASS LEGISLATION

Too much class legislation has gummed up the efficiency and prosperity of our State. The editors want a law legalizing the railroad pass system again and, to that extent, subsidizing the press to the corporations. The lawyers always have a budget of laws for every legislature to pass, that will complicate litigation and give them more work. The doctors keep a stand ing lobby, loaded with germ theories," "sanitation" and hoodoos of every character to bluff, cajole and fool the solons in all the measures they can think of that will protect their craft and give them more authority. The school teachers go down en masse and conjure the body with awful stories of illiteracy and blow off untold amounts of bunk about "give us more money and we'll do the rest" etc. Every bit if this is detrimental. What we need is a level-headed, intelligent body of FREE men down at Montgomery to make just a few laws for everybody and then repeal all the others.

THE BOB JONES REVIVAL

With the eight o'clock services last Friday evening the great Bob Jones revival came to a close.

From the climatic conditions prevailing during the entire series of meetings, it looks like the devil must have been in league with the weather man to harrass and embarrass the efforts of the great preacher in every way possible in conducting his great campaign against sin here.

In the beginning of the meetings, the fountains of the great deep seemed to have broken up and it rained almost incessantly. Finding that water would not keep the crowds away, the weather man harnessed up old Boreas and had him to cart down upon us a real Montana blizzard. The coldest weather of the season saw the close of the meeting.

The famous preacher has not been overdrawn by the newspapers. He is all they have claimed him to be and even more. It will be a miracle, if you ever go to hear him, if he doesn't drive a few knock-out blows straight into your solar plexus. He gets 'em all.

The attendance here was good, despite the inclement weather and much interest was manifested.

We learn that after the close of the final service, a drive through the congregation was made to raise money with which to finance the building of a new Mthodist church here. The result was most satisfactory, as the amount subscribed by those present went something over $28,000.

That sounds like Clanton will soon have another beautiful and commodious edifice of worship to her credit We heartily congratulate our Methodist friends on the success of their efforts towards erecting a new house of worship.

All in all, the great revival was a success in every way and no doubt much good will result from the visit to us of Bob Jones.

Love covers a multitude of sins with a woman, but we imagine the "cover" begins to get pretty thin when a man comes in drunk about 150 times.

The laurels you attempt to grab from the other fellow will unexpectedly turn to dust on your brow some day. "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly fine."

The best thing that could happen to this country, in a political way, would be for the agricultural South and West to pool their interests in the next general election and take over our government for a while.

PATRONS OF THE CLANTON PUBLIC SCHOOL

There was a time when the teachers thought [illegible] classic unless it was written by one of the old masters centuries ago. When I was a child I was impressed upon my mind to read Shakespeare, Tennyson, Carlyle or Dickens. Those men wrote classic literature, I admit, but it is literature which creates in the child a love for reading and a burning desire to read. A horse will eat [illegible] weed if put in a pasture with it, but that kind of food there, does not prove that ragweed is good food for the horse. If you raise a child up with Howe, Burns and Dickens, that child will read all right but you are likely to develop in the child a dislike for books altogether. In this present day with every town flooded with a perfect torrent of cheap magazines each of which caters to the lower instincts of the boy or girl, thus turning the mind into a channel it should avoid, it seems to me parents ought to seek to stimulate a love for reading books with at least some value. "Hot-Dog," "Snappy Stories," Whiz-Bang" and such like kill the desire for clean wholesome reading. I have selected some books of the fiction class which have begun to be recognized as suitable for a school library. The list below no doubt will be criticized by some of the ultra-cultured type who can see no good in the modern writers. I think my teachers were as strictly classical as any who have borne the name and they certainly tried to cram "culture" down my throat as to literature. They failed miserably in their efforts to make me see the fun of some of Dickens' or Hawthorne's books. Greek nor Latin nor French nor German ever made me classical enough to say Hawthorne was an interesting writer and Dickens is unsurpassed. I say if we judge by the standards of the old Literary Critics, the writings of both these men are undoubtedly good literature. But does that make it interesting? "You can lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink; you can send a child to school, but you cannot make him think." To a person who has never studied music nor heard light opera, the sounds of Faust are "as sounding brass and tinkling cymbal."

I have selected these books from a catalog wherein they were arranged in groups. The Clubs of Clanton have been good to the Public School, but I am calling to their attention these lists to see if the various Clubs will not consider the matter of giving a set.

A. B. Baxley, State Manager U. F. of A. will speak at Isabella school house Saturday night. The public is cordially invited. Refreshments will be served.

CROP VALUE OF PEANUTS

E. W. Gist, federal and state agricultural statistician, presents an interesting comparison between the present prices of peanuts and cotton. Although he disclaims any intention of advising farmers to plant peanuts rather than cotton, yet he brings out that peanuts now yield a profit per acre of $2.75 more than an acre of cotton, while cultivation is easier and the yields are more certain. Spanish peanuts are now quoted at $130 to $140 a ton at shipping points and there is a strong demand, the report states, for runners at $100 to $105 a ton. There is also a heavy demand for shelled pea nuts, with the possibility that the supply will not be adequate for future requirements. Crude peanut oil is bringing fourteen cents a pound and forty-five per-cent peanut meal is selling for $55 per ton, with little of either available.

There is, of course, no assurance that prices next year will be as high as they are now, but there can be no question that peanuts will continue to be a very profitable supplementary and diversification crop for southern farmers, especially if properly marketed. Soil and climatic conditions are well adapted to their cultivation and they are little subject to pests and unfavorable weather conditions.

The south will always provide a large part of the world's cotton supply, but such crops as peanuts can be grown at an assured profit without curtailing the production of cotton and will contribute materially toward advancing the program of diversification. It offers one of the many opportunities within reach of southern farmers for increasing their incomes with comparatively little effort and expense.—Age-Herald.

PUBLIC'S RIGHT OF APPEAL

By the signature of Governor Brandon the public and the municipalities of Alabama now have the right of appeal in valuation cases affecting the rate-making basis of utilities. Also, the Public Service Commission is given the specific authority to make examination of books and records of utilities at any time and on its own volition, regardless of whether a case is pending or not. This provision is in accord with the spirit of the commission law, which looks to the commission not only to hear cases when it is suspected that rates are too high or that in other ways the public is not being properly served.

There now remains to give the municipalities an adequate measure of authority to compel utilities serving them to fulfill their functions faithfully. The municipalities should also be given such jurisdiction as will enable them to adjust minor cases of complaint, in order to obviate the expense and delay of bringing such minor cases before the state commission. Under existing conditions it is possible for patrons of utilities to suffer a multitude of annoyances without a prospect of redress. If the city authorities should be given the right to make these minor adjustments, it is believed that the result will be for the general good. Once a given order is established by the commission there appears to be no good reason why enforcement of the order should not safely be left to local governments. All this is in addition to the proposed plan of giving municipalities an equal voice on the commission in the settlement of utility questions affecting themselves. The end sought in each case is the proper presentation and protection of the community interest.—Age-Herald.

MR. DANIEL DUNAVON DEAD

[illegible] avon, a prominent [illegible] citizen of the Billingsley community, plumed its flight back to the God who gave it.

Mr. Dunavon was 72 years of age, and did not live out these long years on earth and, departing, leave no marks on the Register of Time to show that "he had passed this way," for his clean and honest life has been an inspiration to all who knew him, and his example as a true neighbor, an unwavering friend and typical citizen, will be of untold worth to us as the days move by.

His beloved wife, who traveled the long road with him for so many years, bade him a brief adieu and crossed over to "rest under the shade of the trees" and await his coming, about three years ago.

During their voyage through life together, this noble pair reared to manhood and womanhood, eleven children eight girls and three boys, all of whom are [illegible] dau[illegible] Mr[illegible] Cla[illegible] E. There are also twenty-six grandchildren and, eight great-grandchildren and the most wonderful thing about it is that they have never lost either a child, grandchild wrong[illegible] -grandchild by death. Mr. Dunavon was interned on Wednesday at the Billingsley cemetery and was followed to the grave by one of the largest crowds that have assembled there on a similar occasion for a long time.

Mr. R. L. Jackson, a prosperous business man, of Haynes, Ala., was in Clanton February 17th, looking after business matters. Mr. Jackson lives in Autauga county. We trust he will decide some time in the near future to come over in Chilton.

The "Bear Cat"

A Thrilling Story of Wierd Happenings

By O'HAVA. Copyright pending.

Synopsis: A rural section of Ohio is thrown into turmoil by the visits of some strange beast of enormous size. Jack Shipp, a reporter on the Cincinnati Leader is sent to cover the case. He finds the whole community armed, looking for the beast. On the first night of Shipp's stay, while the men are all down near the swamp watching for the creature, it slipped out and attacked the daughter of George Waterbury. Before this it had attacked cattle or sheep.

CHAPTER II.

Seeing that he could not be of very great service in the house, Shipp rushed out to follow the trail of the disappeared monster. As he rushed out of the yard he stumbled over some object lying in his path. Striking a match, he discovered the dead body of the faithful watch dog. Its throat had been slashed and its back seemed to have been clawed by a lion or a bear. Leaving the dog, he hurried to the woodlot but here he was forced to give up his way for the moon had disappeared behind a cloud and every thing was hidden by the stygian darkness. He stumbled on with his revolver in hand, holding his finger on the trigger, stopping every few steps to listen intently.

Without having heard a sound or having seen a living thing, he finally emerged upon the open pasture. The cloud had partly passed by and the moon was streaming through, aiding the searcher. Letting his gaze sweep across the field, he saw nothing except waving clover.

His attention was suddenly attracted by two shots that rang out from the direction of Ebeneezer Smiths' farm. Cutting across the field he soon came to a hill that commanded a plain view of that farm. As he stood there gazing into the distance, the figure of the broad-shouldered Smitht was seen advancing rapidly toward him.

"Did you see it? Horrible looking thing. Big. Going at the rate of two eight nothing. I fired twice."

"Which way was it going?" Shipp interrupted.

"Right by here. Seemed to be coming from George's woodlot. It was headed straight for the swamp when I shot at it."

"I shot at it too, and so did Waterbury. We all missed, it seems like."

"Yes, I heard you two firing. I had gone around on my side of the swamp to send my foreman to take a look at the stock. When I heard your shot I came running this way. But we are wasting time here. Let us hasten to the swamp. Aren't you coming---?"

"No. Waterbury's daughter has been attacked. I am going there, he may be dead."

Quickening his step, he returned to the house and between sobs Mrs. Waterbury told how she had heard the dog bark, then stop; and soon her child had screamed. As she rushed into the room where the child had been asleep the great big ugly, bear-like creature was standing over the bed scratching the child's face. When it heard her it jumped through the window and disappeared.

A little later, Doctor Hauer arrived and began to dress the wounds. When he had finished he said:

"I have been practicing twenty years and never before have I seen anything like this. I am convinced that whatever hurt this little girl had strength enough to break her neck. I do not know what kind of beast it was, but it evidently has long sharp claws."

Presently the other members of the party began to reach the house, having been attracted by the firing on the hill. Above the babble of voices could be heard the coarse speech of Ebeneezer Smith telling how he had seen the thing, had fired twice and followed it into the water. While all were occupied with listening, Shipp slipped away to write a new story for the Leader.

Shipp had been outwitted in his first attempt to catch the hideous monster. As he trudged along the country road he formed a new plan. The first step in his new plan was taken the next morning when he went to the Market Department Store ostensibly to buy a necktie, but in reality for quite a different purpose. Estelle Gibson was engaged in arranging some bolts of cloth upon the shelves but looked up when he addressed her. After he had completed his purchase he stood there talking to her for nearly ten minutes. He had "sized" her up as being easily taken in and eager to be thought attractive. Her dress was of the fashionable ultra-modern type which showed that she had been making use of the shapeliness of her ankles to attract the eyes of men.

Leaving the store, he paid a small boy a quarter to go with him to the home of the sheriff. When they came in sight of the house he dismissed the boy and carelessly strolled along until he came to the yard gate. Sheriff John Little was standing with his right hand resting on a hoe handle, while he was using his left in a determined effort to tear off a chew of home-made twisted tobacco. It was clearly evident that the man had been cutting weeds.

Shipp addressed him in a casual way. "Good morning, rather hot weather for that kind of work, raisn't it?"

"Yes. But a man has to have a little exercise you know. Are you a stranger in these parts?"

"I ran up from "Cincy" [illegible] or two. Sorter wanted to tacy" for ak at this strange animal you take about here."

After conversing with the sheriff for several minutes and carefully noting his strong physique, he walked on to the next corner and then turned and walked back to the depot. He bought a ticket to the city and inquired the time of the first train. It was then only nine o'clock and his train did not leave until 2:30. He decided to make another trip to Waterbury's place. After a few minutes search he found Ted whom he engaged to take him out and to wait for him. When the car drew up, Shipp jumped out and went to the door. Repeated knocking brought no response. He walked back to the car and was driven toward the home of Smith. As soon as they could see the house the absence of all at Waterbury's was partly explained, for drawn up on the driveway were at least half a dozen cars. Ted's flivver broke all speed laws going to Ebeneezer Smith's. Shipp was half way up the walk before the car had come to a dead stop. Some men were standing on the porch.

"What's happened here?" he asked.

"Smith's wife was killed last night, or early this morning."

At this point Smith came out trying to appear heart-broken over the sad fate of his wife. "It was this way," he began, "as soon as the crowd broke up over at Waterbury's last night, I came home to get a little sleep for I was worn out with watching for the monster. I went to my wife's room to see if she was safe. I found her asleep. After reaching my room I was soon sound asleep. I was awakened by a cry I thought. I listened but heard nothing. In a little while I heard a crash that seemed to be in my wife's room. Grabbing up my gun I rushed down to find the same beast that we saw running away from Waterbury's early in the night. I emptied both barrels of my shot gun as it jumped through the window. That I hit it is certain for there are blood stains on the sill and a clot on the ground beneath the window."

Without waiting for any further information he walked around the house to the spot where the beast was said to have jumped out of the window. On the ground he saw a few bunches of hair and the clots of blood.

Looking around to see that no one was watching, Shipp picked up the hair and put it in his pocket; then quickly prying up a clot of blood-soaked grass he wrapped it in his hand kerchief and stowed it away for future use. He was now ready to go to Cincinnati.

Before he left Wilton he went to the office of the Progress and typed a story for the afternoon edition of the Leader. He ran down to the telegraph office and handed it in. Just as the man gave him his change, Shipp heard the train whistle. Being in good training, he was able to catch the rear coach as if was passing the depot.

When he landed in Cincinnati late afternoon he took a taxi for the home of King, Analytical Chemists, 376 Cade street. King was preparing to leave Unions day but a ten spot extra induced him to stay.

"I want you to hinod analyzed," said Shipp, handing this bemiot his handkerchief. "When can you let me know what kind of animal's blood it is?"

"In about an hour or perhaps less." Leaving the laboratory, he hurried to the Lincoln Park Zoo. As he knew the man in charge very well he had no difficulty in getting his opinion as to the kind of animal the hair was taken from. He next went to the office of the chief of the detective force. He sent a messageatrical Outfitters," to the "Professional Amateur ing the chief of detective's name. While the message was going through he returned to the laboratory of Carl & King to find the result of the analysis.

"I cannot be absolutely sure, but it acts like the blood of a cow," said Mr. King.

Shipp had nothing to do now but wait for a reply to his message to St. Louis. So, he returned to detective headquarters and began to go over in his mind the fine details of his carefully arranged plan. All things come to those who hait, repeated the tired reporter many times before he received the desired message. Finally it came. As soon as he was convinced that it was what he wanted, he started to catch a taxi, not waiting to finish reading the telegram. Going to a hardware store, he bought a small contrivance that had hooks on one end with a place for attaching a rope to the other. It was now nearly time for the outgoing train. Buying a ticket, he went to his berth in the Pullman and turned in. In a few hours he alighted in Wilton again. Anxious to get some more sleep and a much needed rest, he went to his room at the hotel without so much as making any inquiry as to what had taken place since he had left. After five good hours of refreshing sleep, Shipp got up and went down to ask a few questions. Lying on the desk of the hotel was a copy of the Wilton Progress. His attention was at once attracted by a flashy announcement of:

REWARD

Ebeneezer Smith offers any man, woman or child one-half of his valuable farm for the capture dead or alive of the brute that killed his wife on Wednesday evening. The editor of the Progress, the sheriff of Clay county, and the cashier of the State Bank shall be the judges as to who is rightfully entitled to receive this reward.

As he sat musing over the offer, the proprietor spoke to him. Shipp learned from him that the sheriff had sent to a nearby town for a pack of the finest blood hounds in the State. He ate breakfast and went to the office of the Progress. There he learned that the funeral was to take place on the next day. He got the editor to call up to get the full details of the arrangements.

Sitting by him while he was talking, Shipp directed the editor what questions to ask and copied down the answers to each one. He might not need all that information, but he aimed to be prepared for any opportunity. As he stepped out he met Waterbury.

"What are you doing in town, friend? I thought you would be hunting for the bearcat."

"Going to sell out. Wife wants to leave."

"Who to?"

"Smith."

"Don't do it."

"Why not? The wife says she won't live there any more after what happened to our little girl."

"I am sorry I cannot tell you why, but if you will wait a few days, I believe you will see that I am a friend to you in begging you to wait."

"No. I must sell, I promised wife this morning before I left home that I would sell and I am going to do it."

Shipp watched him go up the stairs and then lifting his eyes he read on the window, "ROBERT ALREADY, Attorney At Law."

Having nothing else to do, the reporter for the Leader went with the reporter on the Evening News out to the scene of the killing.

"Gee Whilikins," exclaimed the News man when he saw the crowd that had gathered to hunt for the varmint, look at that mob. That is a good illustration of the power of money. Those fellows are after that reward."

The day was spent at the swamp. Several hundred people hunted that day, among whom were several amateur detectives. Sheriff Little took the blood hounds to the back of Smith's house and let them get a scent of the blood, then turned them loose. They ran at full speed to the edge of the swamp and waded out a few steps into the mire, but here they were stopped by the lack of a scent. The sheriff of the adjoining county told Little that his dogs could do no more. When they were taken around on the far side they struck the trail which led to the home of Waterbury. After following it they came back to the swamp at the very same spot where they had gotten their lead.

That night after all had ceased searching Shipp took his grappling hooks and went to the side of Shrimp swamp opposite Smith's. By means of a shielded flashlight he managed to find the place where the tracks of the monster disappeared in the mud. He attached his rope and began to grapple for some strange something. Patiently he toiled for many hours and was about ready to give up the job when he felt his hooks catch something in what appeared to be a water-filled sink hole. Steadily pulling it to the surface he felt its weight and concluded it must be a box. Dragging it to a firm spot in the swamp he opened it and took out two or three things. Closing the lid, which was fitted with rubber pads so as to render the box water-tight, he dragged it back to its hiding place and let it sink into the muddy water. Destroying to the best of his ability all trace of having disturbed the box, Shipp returned to the hotel and went to bed.

The next day was the funeral. It seemed that everybody for miles around came to hear the funeral sermon which was preached from the front porch of the home. Mr. Smith was sitting in the hallway just back of the parson. His eyes seemed to be blood-shot, either from affected grief or from the loss of sleep. After the sermon, the procession started to the cemetery.

Shipp had attended the service to keep on the track of the working of his plan and not to get a report of the occasion. When the hearse and cars had departed, he set out for the swamp to view in daylight the spot where he had found the hidden box. He was happy to learn that none of the searchers who were scouring about had as yet discovered the hiding place of the box. Believing that the time for definite action was near, he set out for Wilton to get sheriff Little. When he reached the sheriff's office Shipp was told that the sheriff would not be back until late in the afternoon. This was to be sure a setback to his plans and he feared it might be too late for the sheriff to help him. He did not feel like taking anyone else into his confidence. At certain seasons time flies, but today it seemed to be going at a snail's pace. Nerves were at high tension and Shipp could hardly wait for the time to come. Finally he spied the flivver of the big-boned official coming down the street. Not wanting to lose any time, he hastened to the office and arrived there just as the car rolled up. He jumped in and said:

"Drive for the swamp aa fast as you can and I'll explain on the way."

On the way, Shipp told the sheriff all he had learned, of his trip to Cincinnati and the investigation there, of the finding of the box the night before and showed him some of the things that were in the box. He then called the sheriff's attention to the way these depredations had been occurring. The officer thought it best to go by the house of Ebeneezer Smith and inquire if he had returned from the cemetery. The cook met him at the door and said:

"Mr. Smith is not here. He is almost crazy with grief. He took some quilts and a pup tent and went to the hills on the far end of the swamp. He said he had to get away to give his nerves a chance to improve."

"Come on," said Shipp.

"Lead the way as you think best."

"This way, he said, as he headed for the opposite side of the swamp. Making their way around the edge of the swamp, yet keeping concealed from the view of the few persistent searchers, they scanned every one as they went. A little beyond the hiding place of the box they espied Ebeneezer Smith coming out of the swamp. They lay in hiding until he came out. As soon as he saw Shipp he struck at him and landed a blow that knocked the smaller man to the ground. He then grappled with Little. Quickly recovering from the force of the blow, Shipp made a "flying tackle" and caught Smith at the knees with the full force of his dive, thereby sending him to the ground. The seriff handcuffed him and with both holding him down, Shipp began to recount all the things that were to be charged against Smith. At first the farmer took it for a joke, thinking that in the twilight he might have been mistaken for someone else.

"This is Smith, Little, didn't you know me?"

"Yes. We knew you too well, that is why I now have these handcuffs on you."

"What is the meaning of this outrage?"

"It means," said Shipp, "that you are under arrest charged with the murder of your own wife, of attacking Waterbury's daughter, and throwing this entire community into a state of fear and turmoil."

"Don't you believe a word he says, Little; he is nothing but a little two-by-four news reporter whom you never saw until yesterday. You have known me all your life."

"That is all true, Mr. Little; but I ask you to look at this, and Shipp drew from his pocket a large rubber foot shaped like the foot of a cat. "This also might interest you," and he handed the sheriff a lions claw which he had found in the box the night before. "Now, Mr. Smith, what have you to say?"

"Little, do you believe that man?" said Smith.

"Yes, every word he said is true. There were three things you wanted. You wanted to get rid of your invalid wife, to buy the Waterbury farm, and to marry Estelle Gibson. Waterbury would not sell and you could not marry the girl so long as your wife lived. You hit upon this scheme of securing all three. The rubber feet you bought in St. Louis from a company that fits out shows. You secured the lion's claw from a curio dealer in the same city. The bears skin which you used was made from the skin of a black steer you killed last fall."

"I confess. I was crazy to do it, but I saw no other way to marry the girl."

"Come along, sheriff, you will be wanting to lock your prisoner up and I will be wanting to get a story off to the Leader. Tomorrow we will go around and get the deed to one half the farm."

AVERY Chilled Plows

America's Finest

THERE are many good chilled plows made, but only one Avery. In many important ways it is above any comparison. Since B. F. Avery designed the first Avery plow in 1825, great strides have been made in plow building. Avery always has been a leader. Today every scientific and manufacturing improvement is found in Avery Chilled Plows, and in addition are many advantages exclusive to Avery. Avery repair parts are always genuine because protected by patents. They are guaranteed to fit perfectly any Avery plow ever made of same number, and because perfect-fitting cannot work loose and seldom break. The Avery "lock that locks"—found only on the Avery—holds the plowshare in place no matter how long in use; and relieves the strain on the bolts. Guarantee tag—as shown—is attached to every Avery Chilled Plow. Thousands of farmers, wherever chilled plows are used, say they never knew perfect plow satisfaction until they got an Avery.

Let us demonstrate Avery Chilled Plow superiority to your satisfaction.

There is a full line of famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, tillage implements, and Champion harvesting and hay machines

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

The Lanierian and Tutwiler Literary Societies will clash in their Annual Champion Debate on Friday evening, March 23rd. Unusual interest has been taken in the Literary Societies this year and this is expected to be the best contest held since the re-organization of these societies three years ago. A subject on which there is wide difference of opinion has been selected. The subject for debate is, "Resolved that the Moving Picture Show as now Conducted is Beneficial to the Public." Flossie Wilson and Lincoln DeVaughn of the Tutwiler Society will defend the negative side of the question, while Udah Curlee and Charles Moore of the Lanerian Society will uphold the affirmative side of the question. Contests will also be held at the same time in declamation, reading, story and possibly music. The Tutwilers will be defended in declamation by Sam Upchurch, in reading by Era Zelle Foshee, and in story by Zula Willis. The Lanerians will be represented in declamation by Julius Burnett, in reading by Inoz Harris, and in story by Clara Vines.

Each society is determined to win in each event, so the society spirit on that night will be one hundred per cent. The program will be interspersed with songs and yells. You are cordially invited to come if you are interested in this phase of school work.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas: It has pleased the Great Grand Master of the Universe to call our beloved and honored brother, Thomas Bosworth, from this life of activity, to the life beyond,

And whereas: we the undersigned have been appointed as a committtee to draft resolutions in his memory and to give the expressions of our lodge as to the love and confidence we had in him,

Be it therefore resolved that Thorsby Lodge No. 759 A. F. and A. M. take this method of expressing our love and esteem for Brother Bosworth as a Mason and a citizen. We feel that his life has been a blessing to those who knew him and an example worthy of imitation by brother Masons and all good citizens.

To those of his immediate relatives and friends who are most heart strick en at the loss we have all sustained, we have nothing of this world's consolation to offer. We can only sincerely, deeply and most affectionately sympathize with them in their affective bereavement and commend them to the Infinite Father Who looks down with compassion upon the father less in the hour of their desolation. He will fold the arms of His love and protection around those who put their trust and confidence in Him.

LET'S BUILD A COTTON MILL

READ WHAT MAYOR GRAGG HAS TO SAY. NOW IS THE TIME TO GET BUSY

How would a cotton mill help Chilton county?

First we must agree that any industrial establishment that will draw money from hundreds and thousands of miles away; and bring it here to be turned loose in as many avenues as it has employees to begin its circulation in our midst; could not be otherwise than better than it would be to allow the stream of money to be turned the other way and go from us instead of coming to us.

We have almost every reason why a cotton mill should be here. We have the proper climate, we have the cotton right here in adjacent fields, with no freight bills to pay as the northern mills must. We have good water, a good class of people as laborers, and we have the electric power generated right near by. In fact, we are the nearest consumers.

Increase in Population.

Would it help the business of Clanton to have a cotton mill here? Suppose we had a mill employing 1,000 people. That would mean at least 3,000 souls counting the laborers and their dependents. In other words it would be a population, of itself, nearly twice over equal to that of Clanton now, and it would be people who have a pay day, say, every two weeks during the entire year. As a rule these are people who are rather free to spend their money. The pay roll would probably be considerably more than $30,000 every two weeks.

Financial Benefits.

Who but our business men would get most of that money? Again when the cotton season was on, farmers from every part of the county as well as adjoining counties would bring their cotton here because of a better market.

Naturally, a considerable part of that money would stay right here where they would do most of their trading instead of in their home town as it now is.

Again, when a good sum of money was dumped into circulation, locally, every two weeks, some of it would naturally find its way to nearly all of us, whatever we were, farmers, merchants, doctors, lawyers, or others, and this would result in all of us having more to spend and make business better.

Would it help the farmers of Chilton county to have a cotton mill in operation in county?

Suppose we had this additional population of 3,000 to feed and that from a class of people who bought most of their milk and butter and eggs and chickens, and fruits and vegetables, etc. Say they spent $1 per week with the farmer for each individual—certainly it would be more—but for the sake of argument let us say only $1 per head or $3,000 per week, which multiplied by 52 is $156,000 per year that the farmer in this community would get that they are not now getting.

Who bears the expense.

But let us stop a moment and think who pays the freight and the expense of marketing our cotton today. You, Mr. Farmer, you are the man who must stand the expense of getting your cotton on the market, both the freight and the cotton buyers expenses and profit must be paid by you. That is why you can get from one to two cents per pound more where there is a cotton mill than you can get in Clanton.

Nobody is to blame for it. You can't expect men to put their money and time and risk of loss, in buying your cotton without a profit. Neither do you expect the railroads to haul your cotton hundreds, perhaps thousands of miles, without pay. But, if you had your cotton mill here at home and sold it on the yard without touching it after it was ginned and the buyers part and the railroad's part all came to you and you realized an extra $10 on the bale above what you get today, you must confess it would be a real treat.

Cotton Production Large Here.

This year there were 12,000 bales produced in this county. When we tried to quit cotton a few years ago and the boll weevil was at his height, we got down to about 4,000 or a little less. Our biggest crops, just before the weevil came, were above 20,000 bales for Chilton county. So, you see this years' crop is about an average between the largest and smallest on record. Ten dollars per bale on 12,000 would mean $120,000 per year that is now unnecessarily being spent for freight and marketing Chilton county's crop. In ten years, this item alone would aggregate $1,200,000 which would be enough to build one of the finest factories in the state.

There are many other ways such an industrial establishment would help all of us, in fact, they are too numerous to mention.

Going back to the two items mentioned above that is almost a clear saving to the farmer, of $120,000 per year extra on his cotton crop and $156,000 per year for feeding this increase of population at $1 per week, you would have a sum total of $276,000 per year that our farmers would profit.

Now, someone has said that every dollar in circulation pays seven dollars debts. If this be true, seven times $276,000 would be $1,932,000. Or in round numbers, $2,000,000 paid per annum with the savings of these two items alone.

I don't know how much we owe, but it appears to me that it would not take us long to pay up most of our debts and have enough left to buy a Ford or two.

Co-operation Crying Need.

Our Chamber of Commerce is doing its best to call the attention of capitalists to the situation. If they do not succeed in this, I think our business men, farmers, professional men, and "all hands" should attract capital from the outside.

Just think how many carpenters, masons, machinists, electricians and others would be drawing wages during the construction of such a mill; and how many laborers would be getting regular pay after it was in operation.

In a recent article found in one of our state papers it was mentioned that in Alabama a bale of cotton brought a little over $100 and was shipped to a mill in the Carolinas or Massachusetts and became worth anywhere from $500 to $1,000. Why not this increase of wealth at home, why let it go elsewhere?

In the last day or two, a couple of men who own property adjacent to Clanton and along the L. and N. railroad have come to me and said that they were ready to make a donation, one of five acres and the other of ten acres of land, to help on a mill site. That looks good. What will you do? Who is for a cotton mill and who is for a drainage project? Let us hear from you. If we all want it it's bound to come.

V. J. GRAGG.

NOTICE

I am requested to announce through our local papers that there will be a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the land owners who would be interested in a drainage project for the vicinity of Clanton, at the Courthouse on Wednesday, March 7th at 2 P. M. All who are interested come. An effort will be made to have someone for a speaker who is conversant with the carrying out of such projects.

V. J. GRAGG.
Pres. Chamber of Commerce.

FIRST NATIONAL INCREASES CAPITAL STOCK

A Tangible Evidence of Prosperity And a Compliment to Safe and Courteous Banking

We note with great pleasure this week the First National Bank of Clanton has increased its capital stock from an original $30,000 to $50,000. The announcement also carries the pleasing intelligence that a $10,000 surplus fund is also to the credit of this splendid institution.

This bank opened for business here November 17, 1919, right in the very stress of the great re-actionary period following the war. Notwithstanding the dangerous and unsettled condition of all financial transactions at that period, by the close insight into affairs and by unremitting carefulness in his dealings, the manager, Mr. J. C. Page, made the First National a winner from the start.

Today they are carrying an excellent list of depositors which is growing larger, day by day and, as this increase in capital stock denotes, they are growing stronger and stronger as the days go by.

This is not only the only national bank in the county, but is the largest one on the L. and N. railroad between Birmingham and Montgomery. May success still be their portion.

WHAT GRADE CARRIES THIS TEXTBOOK?

The Reverend Mills, representing the Anti-Saloon League, addressed the congregation at the Baptist church Sunday evening.

Among other things, he said that public schools in Alabama were teaching the children how to make moonshine whiskey. He exhibited a text book, we think he said it treated on the subject of physiology, which carried a picture, or a diagram of it still set up ready for business, and also gave a detailed plan for building and installing the same.

According to that the rising generation will not be lacking in competent moonshiners and if education is worth anything to a profession, they should be able to improve on the article that is now being put on the market.

What grade carries the course in moonshining, or, in other words, how young are the children when they acquire their technical knowledge in the art of hooch making?

OH, YOU, W. W.!

The only original W W. Fox is always on the job. You will find him now in a nifty little pagoda next to Tow Kemp's store and as always, he is selling the goods.

CLANTON COMING NOW

AT LAST THE ICE IS BROKEN AND WE ARE GOING TO GET SOME DWELLING HOUSES

Just as we were going to press we picked up the pleasing intelligence that Mr. Guy Higgins is going to build thirty new dwellings for rent.

We called on Mr. Higgins and he substantiated the report and said work would begin at once.

We also learn that another prominent citizen will proceed at once to put up six new houses in North Clanton.

WE ARE ON THE WAY NOW, YOU CAN'T HEAD US OFF.

WHERE DID HE GET HIS TRAINING?

We are personally acquainted with a very fine looking turkey gobbler right here in town, that contrives to "mope up" and be sick through Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year. During the intervening periods he is as fine a bird as you care to see.

It would be interesting to know in whose home he spent his early days. From the manner in which he can "play the game" and get by we are satisfied that he grew up under the influence of some modern politician.

When you see an automobile standstill on the streets and vomiting thunder and lightning, you better not cross either in front or behind it, for it does'nt know which way it's going to jump, and nine times out of ten, the driver does'nt know either.

Are You True to Yourself?

"This above all: To thine own self be true,

TO BE TRUE TO YOURSELF you must make the most of your opportunities. This is the greatest nation in the known world. The United States is known the world over as the land of opportunities. Are you taking advantage of the opportunities that come to you?

"As a man thinketh, so is he." After all, we get pretty much what we go after in this world and most assuredly so if we go after it hard enough.

Love begets love, kindness begets kindness, industry, thrift and economy begets success.

THEY WILL ALL FALL IN LINE

It is actually amusing to read in the news dispatches about that short and sweet little message the President sent to the Senate the other day.

Just a few years ago the Hand of Providence raised up in our country a very great and wise leader. He did not arrive any too soon for ominous clouds of disaster already loomed darkly on the horizon of our beloved land when he assumed the reins of government. The great war followed, and although it found this country absolutely unprepared for war, under the guidance and direction of this master mind—this matchless leader—our army and navy assembled and equipped and our brave heroes had beaten Germany to her knees in less than half the time the world declared it would require for us to get in shape to strike our first blow. A more than wonderful record!

When the war was over almost the entire world was left in chaos. All the old alignments were gone and new conditions had to be made and met.

This same matchless leader proposed a plan, just, fair and reasonable, by which the allied nations could peaceably co-operate in the work of rehabilitation and re-establishment of normal world conditions—perhaps the only feasible plan by which this process of habilitation could be accomplished, and submitted it to the people.

But, no. The wounds of the war were too fresh, the memory of boys sleeping in lonely graves in a foreign land was too vivid. A selfish political party saw their opportunity and rushed in to defeat this great leader, and with him his fond hopes of world peace and the consequence was that the people, writhing in memory of the war, defeated him and his grand aims for the amelioration of the sufferings of a tortued world, and the result was that even unto today, the suffering world lies bleeding from the wounds of 1918 and not a hand has been raised to heal those wounds or even sympathize with the suffering.

The League of Nations, as outlined by the great Woodrow Wilson, has been cursed and anathamatized by high and low, both North and South while the world bled on, but finally the hour has struck. President Harding, in an urgent and pathetic message asks them to send a representative to act with the other powers under that league and do it quick. He sees no other way. We know it was gall and wormwood for him to indite that message. That was an awful dish of crow for the great scion of "no entanglements abroad" to eat, but he got it down.

He and his Republican followers, you see, have just set back the hands on the clock of time three years and necessity is forcing them to do now what the matchless Wilson knew must be done three years ago.

The progress of the entire civilized world has been stopped and we have all been compelled to stand right on the bring of those bloody ditches of the battle field and wait until that party of "Great Principles" could play out their game of politics and finally eat their crow.

The only real devout worship that some people are capable of is the blind and ecstatic worship they devote to the $.

There was an old law that said: "Honor they father and thy mother." But it is getting to be a fad now to give them a cussing out, now and then and then top off the matter with a load of buck shot.

Easter Sunday comes this year on April 1st. Being "All Fools Day," you will have license to put on your summer finery even if the world happens to be wrapped in ice.

Young man, don't forget to toot your bugle and blow hard. That is the way to "get by" now. What you really are does'nt matter anymore. Or it looks that way.

A girl stood on the freezing street.
Whence all but her had fled;
The wind, it whistled around her,
And pelted snow upon her head;
Longingly she gazed about her;
Her eyes flashed to and fro;
But still she held the sidewalk—
She had to have a beau.

BUY AT HOME

Mail order houses are large advertisers and a paper may not be following the best line in the way of business to say anything derogatory to their system, but duty to the best interests of our subscribers prompts us to say just a few things on the subject of mail order business that years of observation have thoroughly convinced us are absolute facts.

In the first place, when you buy an article at home you go in the store and examine it as much as you care to. You have an opportunity of comparing with other similar articles, some cheaper, some more expensive. You have an absolute chance to back your own unbiased judgment and get exactly what you want. You also have the opportunity, if you are not satisfied with your own selection, to bring the goods back and select personally whatever exchange you wish or get your money back on the spot.

On the other hand, when you send your order away, you are at the mercy of the other fellow from start to finish. You take a great big catalog and select from a much overdrawn picture what you want. You read a description of it written by a high priced special ad writer, whose job depends on his success in selling the stuff. It is perfectly natural for him to color up and extoll the merchandise just as far as his highly trained imagination and vocabulary will let him go. You can only read what he says and take his word for it. You are absolutely at his mercy without recourse. Finally you fall for his spiel and you open a correspondence. Time is lost and postage bills begin right there, all of which you must add to the ultimate cost of the goods.

You buy under a guarantee. The goods finally arrive and you pay the freight, express or postage and that makes another neat addition to the cost bill. Perhaps the goods do not suit, or possibly the articles may not fit, and you have to exchange them. You must send them back and there comes in more cost to be added on.

After a lot of worry and delay you finally get them back and the probability is that you will still be dissatisfied. You either have to keep them as they are or another expense bill in sending them back is added to the cost, and always remember, no matter what any of them may tell you, you always pay ALL the transportation expenses. They have too many ways of "getting theirs" for you to even believe they are going to pay any transit charges. You may not realize it when you are paying it, but you are paying it just the same. How easy it would be to make up the transit charges in giving you just a shade cheaper quality of stuff in the exchange?

By this time you have lost a lot of time, been out of your money and the goods too for a month or so and still you haven't gotten anywhere.

Very many times you order an article and they are out. The fact is, they never were in, perhaps, on that article. That is an old-time trick of the mail order man. Most of them catalog everything that man, beast or fowl could ever possibly have any use for. They don't keep all this stuff in stock. They do that to get all the orders they possibly can. When an order comes in for an article they haven't got they notify the customer they are just out, but they have your cash. Well, you want it back, you write for it and refuse to allow them to sell you something else they have got. You demand your money back and here comes a personal check on the firm operating the mail order house. It is perfectly good, but when you go to the bank to get it cashed you find that you have to pay 25 or 50 cents exchange to get your money. See the wagon? You are out a lot of time and trouble, 10 to 15 cents in postage and this exchange fee and what have you got? Not a thing in the world but you have paid ALL the expenses of that deal with a mail order house.

This is the rule and all of you have tried it very often know it works out just that way.

The cold, sober facts are that your home merchant will sell better goods for less money than you can reasonably hope to get through the mail order concern. You buy what you want and pay only for what you get with the home man, but you are gambling with marked cards when you go up against the mail order house and they do all the dealing.

Once upon a time a man lived who tried to attend to his own business be accommodating and considerate towards others and be generally kind and agreeable to man and beast. He is dead now. H estarved to death.

Don't send your money way off to some foreign market. It's finally gone then. Spend it at home with the men who help pay our taxes and make our country what it is—the best on earth.

[illegible] are [illegible] now heard in the land. Blackberry vines are putting on leaves. Blue birds are talking their spring call to each other. The boys and girls are already making goo-goo eyes across the school room and the wise and ever provident artist is putting his tackle in shape. All of this bends a bow of hope across the horizon of the average father who has to hustle early and late to meet the bills. He is sighing for the long, hot summer days when he will not be forced to be on quite such intimate terms with the coal man.

"KNOW THE TRUTH—AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YE FREE:" STATE MUST STUDY SITUATION

A good many of the thoughtful newspapers of the State have turned to the question of building a better Alabama, and are wondering why it is with all of the benefactions God Almighty has given us, we have been pretty much like the unworthy servant who buried the talent in the ground and brought no increase for the Master. The Alexander City Outlook has this paragraph:

Alabama has the greatest opportunity in her history to make progress during the next few years, because capital is seeking an outlet for investment. Let's encourage it to come on, for it means more prosperity for every one.

The situation is not unlike that described in that good old hymn, "From Greenland's Icy Mountains,"—the line which says: "Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile."

Truth of the matter is, all of us here in Alabama have had poor perspective on the situation. Alabama folks have excited themselves powerfully over the political fortunes of some gas-bag or other, running for some office or other, and the more he lambasted "capital" the greater his prestige in many parts of the State. Or else, as a people we have made little or no inquiry into what type of man was beneath the exterior of the possum-grinning, handshaking fellow who has come around seeking to be elected to this, that or the other office.

When capital from the outside has sought investigations, asking no favors and expecting none, many owners have concluded they would go where there was a friendly welcome, instead of surly snarls, lowering glances, and the fear that should opportunity present itself, damage would be inflicted out of mere hate.

That is not the attitude of the best element in Alabama; but the best citizenry of Alabama has been indifferent and has allowed poor human material in the State to force itself into conspicuous position where its utterances have passed current as the real sentiment of Alabama.

The blame is not so much that of the men who have muddled and muddled as it is the fault of thinking people of the State who have permitted by indifference, or by wasteful or with held ballots, unfit individuals "to vesture like little boys, who swirn on bladders, far out upon a Summer Sea of glory, beyond their depth."

When each community appreciates the possibility of damage to the commonwealth as a whole by the acts of a small man, or one swayed by prejudice, passion and holtility to development, and insists upon the very best material as representative of that community and of the State, then the tide will turn toward constructive development and well considered aid in making opportunity abide all over Alabama.—Age-Herald.

ATTENTION! BOOTLEGGERS LEAGUE

An admirer of the American apple has discovered to his astonishment that while we of this country drink, in the ourse of a twelve-month, only one pint of cider per capita, the French notwithstanding their plentitude of wine, drink within that period, seven gallons. They preserve cider, it appears, "with the same care that we give to the canning of peaches, so that it is available the year around, though used mostly in the summer when cooling beverages are craved." Americans, whose cider drinking comes and goes with autumntide, might well take a lesson from the thrift and taste of France. We are said to spend an annual average of fifteen dollars a family for soft drinks. If more of the millions thus poured out were for pure fruit juices there would be marked gains for health. California growers with the foremindedness characteristic of them since they took to co-operative marketing, are trying systematically to promote the drinking of natural fruit nectars. A hint this is which Georgia, with her wondrous wealth and variety of fruits, should turn to high profit.—Atlanta Journal.

YOU TELL 'EM!

When a man is elected to public office he is under pledge to devote his time to the public service and to give it the same whole-hearted attention that he would to his private affairs or to those of a private concern employing him and paying him wages for the work he is assigned to do. The city of Birmingham is a large corporation handling millions of dollars of the people's money every year and has besides the health and safety of the people in trust. That is the biggest kind of job and no man chosen to take part in it can render good service unless he detaches himself from other active interests and devotes his energies exclusively to the performance of his public duty.

Public questions of moment should not be allowed to drift along without action waiting on the attention of officials who have other irons in the fire and whose private interests command their attention at the precise time when the public question is most acute and most needing settlement. Any official who finds himself in this situation should either sidetrack the private matters that detract from his prompt and full performance of public duty or make way for someone who will devote himself exclusively to the duties of public office.

While city government has been divided into departmental divisions, no commissioner was elected to fill a particular position and all are held equally responsible by the people for action on important problems. It follows that none of them can with justice to his sworn duty relieve himself of responsibility or of participation in deliberations attendant on any matter of general concern.

The auditorium settlement, for example, has been delayed more than once on account of lack of diligence in attending to that important matter. The principle is extremely simple. The public official accepts public pay. He owes the public the same service as he would a private corporation if working for it. In the latter case he would be discharged if he did not perform his duties. The public interest demands the same degree of fidelity to duty.—Age-Herald.

"No," said the puncher, then adding, apparently as an afterth ought, "A bronc kicked two of my ribs in one time, and a rattlesnake bit me on the leg a couple of years ago."

"Great Scott!" said the insurance man. "Don't you consider those accidents?"

"Naw," said the puncher, "they done it on purpose."—Judge.

TEMPORARY ALLIANCES IN EMERGENCIES: WHAT GEORGE WASHINGTON ACTUALLY SAID

Thomas Jefferson, it appears, thanks to interested investigators, and not George Washington, was the timorous gentleman who saw no future good in any sort of diplomatic partnership with the other nations of the earth. Senators nowadays, who see red and breathe stertorously when ever the League of Nations is mentioned, should be made to eat the words that charge the first President of the United States with selfish provincialism. As a matter of fact, Washington felt a nearer kinship with Europe than did his contemporary, Jefferson. Thomas Jefferson's idea was to burn the bridges on which America's pioneers had crossed.

George Washington was no mollycoddle. Let it also be said for the soundness of Washington's judgment and for the warrant which his opinion still has to our confidence that he did not condemn all alliances. He did see that some alliances might from time to time be desirable. He could not, of course, foresee the terrible events that began with 1914. He did not have sublime prescience. His vision necessarily was limited to that of the leader of a population of 5,000,000 Colonials. He scarcely dreamed of a world w... and the consequent merging of national issues until the whole [illegible] be at death grips. He cannot have conceived, either of such a world of succeeding problems of reconstruction. Yet even in his farewell words he expressed an opinion that seems to have escaped the notice of his admirers:

* * * Taking care always to keep ourselves by suitable establishments on a respectable posture, we may safely trust to temporary alliances for extraordinary emergencies.

While a few belligerent gentlemen still shout themselves hoarse in derision of an alliance which has for its ultimate objective the association of all races of the world in a tolerant brotherhood of nations, it were well for us not only to remember the tolerant words of Washington in justification of this League—the largest, sweetest project ever contemplated by human so... but to remember that the exigent ...eds of the twentieth century can not be compared at all with the conditions that existed at the latter hal... the eighteenth century.—Birmingham News.

DEPENDS ON THE NEIGHBORS

Just as those stockmen who live in tick-free areas are urgent that there be measures taken to compel the dipping of cattle in adjoining affected areas, so the commission of Jefferson county, which is committed to dipping, favors measures to compel adjoining counties to obey the dipping laws. No county can live to itself alone in this matter of dipping, and it will be well for all to comply with the law while such action is voluntary, for the time is coming when it will be no longer optional. The governor and the attorney general have been asked by the county commission ...the authority of their office to ...into the dipping line those counties that have either abandoned the ...or have not pursued it with necessary vigor. The greater portion of Alabama is already tickfree, made so in compliance with the law. Certainly the will of the minority shall not be allowed to prevail, particularly when that minority is without the law. A return to tick-infested conditions would mean a sacrifice not only of the sums already spent in dipping, but also of those far greater sums that are annually lost through the influence of ticks in impeding the production of good cattle. Commonsense and the law are both on the one side in this matter.—Age-Herald.

AN EVIL OMEN FOR REPUBLICANS

The ship subsidy bill, which President Harding has insisted upon as perhaps the principal measure he wanted from Congress, is doomed to defeat. The fact that President Harding went into office with a popular plurality of ... and he could not secure the passage of a bill which he advanced as a strict Republican doctrine and the favorite administration bill, is a damning indictment of the President's party leader ship.

The bill will not be defeated by the Democrats alone who are opposed to it on party principle. It will be defeated because there are three parties in the Senate. The Republican party and the Democratic party and the party with a head but without a body composed of the Brookheart-LaFollette faction of "progressives."

The fate of the ship subsidy bill and the fight made for it bodes ill for the Republican party in 1924. The bill was sincerely advocated by the President and his faction in the Republican party, who believed that the country generally would benefit by a measure which could build up a merchant marine, for the distribution to the world of the surplus American products of the farm and factories. But the La Follette-Brookheart combination immediately grew hysterical and denounced the regular Republicans for wanting to vote an enormous subsidy to the shipping interests of the country, when the farmers, the real producers of the country, were in dire need of assistance.

The beginning of a line of cleavage in the Republican party is easily discernible. By 1924 that line may have become a chasm. If the malcontents within the Republican party had a leader who could appeal to the popular imagination as Theodore Roosevelt did, three big parties would be in the field as they were in 1912, with the same result that was recorded in that year, an easy Democratic victory.—Advertiser.

BANK BOOK IS ROADWAY TO CREDIT

Bankers And Other Money Lenders Soon Get Acquainted With Bank Book

There are many plans being discussed and suggested for the aid of the farmers credit. The Halls of Congress ring with the eloquence of plans whereby the farmer can get cheaper money and easier terms, but few of their plans ever come to where the small farmer gets any real benefit. Anything obtained always requires endless red tape and time.

Many farmers are beginning to realize that the country banker wants to be their friend and are taking their financial problems to him.

Every man at some time needs credit and should arrange his affairs so he has an acquaintance with a banker. During the past season most farmers had as many as ten bales of cotton. This would have meant over one thousand dollars that he could have deposited to his credit in some bank. Even though he had checked most of it out in a few weeks his name would have been on the bank's books and they would have known him.

Make the acquaintance of your banker and make him remember who you are. Talk to him about your plans for farming and show him you are making money and getting ahead.

When the banker loans money, he knows how to use it successfully and is honest and will pay. The best way to show what kind of business ability you have is with a bank book showing all the money you received and check book showing proper records of what you spend and showing some saved.

The banker will be a better banker in his community if the farmers make his acquaintance more and talk to him about their plans.

Carry a bank account and know your banker and it will help you to build more credit than the laws or plans. Each man's credit, merchant or farmer, depends on how he conducts himself.—United Farmer.

UNDERWOOD ENDS HIS CAREER OF LEADER OF PARTY'S SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Senator Underwood of Alabama has closed his service as democratic floor leader of the Senate. Accompanied by Mrs. Underwood, he has left here on a four months' European tour, following the completion of all regular appropriation bills of the session and assurance from President Harding that there would be no early call at least for an extra session of the new Congress.

The Senate minority leadership today virtually fell upon Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who is slated to be chosen in the next Congress as the successor to Senator Underwood, Who announced last November that he would retire from the leadership with the end of the closing Congress. Senator Underwood's health has been somewhat impaired by throat trouble and his physicians had advised a long rest to restore his speaking powers.

Mr. Underwood's friends also say that he has long been dissatisfied with the post of democratic leader, because of dissensions, and, they say, conditions prevalent both in the republican and democratic sides, under which the rank and file do not follow their leaders as formerly.

Senator and Mrs. Underwood will tour the Mediterrannean countries, including Egypt and probably visit the excavation of King Tutenkhamen's tomb. Later they will tour the Riviera, visiting France, Italy, Spain and England. They will return here in June.—Age-Herald.

HOW GEORGIANS REGARD UNDERWOOD AND HIS FITNESS FOR THE PRESIDENCY

The Columbus, Ga., Ledger in a recent issue paid this high tribute to a man whom the South has appreciated and honored for the last quarter century and whose signal services in behalf of the Democratic party and of the nation age writ large in history:

United States Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, looms higher as the date of the presidential election approaches, and indications are that this able leader is going to be one of the several to be placed in nomination by the Democrats at their next convention. And why not Underwood?

It will be recalled that the Alabama Legislature, just now ending its short session, in a strong resolution, called upon the Democratic Party to nominate Senator Underwood for its standard bearer in the next campaign, and there is little doubt that the support of other Southern States would go solidly to this Senator in the convention.

In the natural course of events the South should have a chance at the presidential honor. It has been many years since a man from the South occupied the presidential chair. Although Southern born, Woodrow Wilson went to the White House as a citizen of New Jersey, and that was the nearest the South has come to the Presidency since the unpleasantness of the sixties.

Senator Underwood is a national leader. No man is better or more favorably known in the North and South. He has capably led the Democratic forces in the Senate for years, and he has demonstrated a high order of leadership and a splendid statesmanship which politicians say would make him an ideal standard bearer for his party and a strong and finely-equipped President of the country.

Again we say, Why not Senator Oscar W. Underwood?

This tribute from a Georgia newspaper is no isolated appreciation. It is simply typical of an opinion rapidly crystallizing within the folds of the Democratic Party that Oscar W. Underwood is the logical and the strongest man within the party today, quite strong enough to defeat the present President of the United States hands down.

The tides of political thinking indubiably are veering toward Democracy. The last congressional elections are proof sufficient that a national political reversal is due in 1924. But to make that victory definite and assured it is going to take a broad-gauged, full-statured man of the temper of Underwood of Alabama.—Age-Herald.

JEMISON FIDDLERS CONVENTION

As previously announced, the Fiddlers' Convention scheduled for the Jemison high school, came off last Friday evening.

Nothwithstanding the cold weather, a record-breaking crowd was on hand to enjoy the fun.

Besides the fiddlers' entertainment, several other interesting attractions were put on which all contributed towards making the occasion one of the most enjoyable. An elegant luncheon was also served.

One feature deserving special men... a Washington Birthday program put on by the juvenile members of the school. It was splendid Prizes were offered in the Fiddlers' Convention department and the successful contestants were: First prize—Hardy Ray..violin solo; second prize went to Messrs J. C. Price and A. C. Smith, violin and guitar duet. Third prize went to Seaborn Jones, violin solo; fourth prize—Messrs. E. C. Smith and Moses Ray, violin and banjo duet.

The good citizens of Jemison have built a splendid high school structure, one that is not only in perfect keeping with the state plans, but is a lasting credit to the county and a splendid monument to the progressive liberality of its builders.

The building is storm sheeted and floored throughout, which renders it staunch, comfortable and lasting.

One thing they stand in need of is an ample auditorium building which they intend to add later.

The entertainment Friday evening was for the benefit of the school, and while we do not know what the receipts were, we are satisfied, from the large crowd present, that quite a neat sum was raised.

We wish for those good people the very greatest success in their educational program and commend their splendid example to the other communities in the county.

Mrs. J. B. Crysell, of Jemison, left the latter part of last week for Charlestown, West Virginia, where she expects to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. John Patton, Jr.

THE BOLL WEEVIL

A far reaching and exhaustive research work is being conducted now in several parts of the cotton raising areas in an effort to discover some plan by which the ravages of the boll weevil may be mitigated or the pest totally abollshed.

The national government has made quite liberal appropriations for financing this word, all of which is commendable as far as it goes. But the campaign, as being conducted, is open to more or less criticism.

In the first place, most of the "scientific" heads engaged in the work, hale from parts of the country where cotton growing is unknown and the boll weevil only a pigmy of the imagination.

Scientific knowledge is always to be respected, and we entertain a very high opinion of some of those great men of learning who have made possible the wonderful achievements and mechanical developments of these modern times, but, at the same time, it appears to us, even from a scientific standpoint, that some personal quaintance with, and actual knowledge of a subject would contribute greatly towards aiding even a scientist in solving a problem or accomplishing a remedy for a particular condition.

For instance, a learned professor from the erudite state of Massachusetts, claims to have absolutely solved the question of eradicating the boll weevil, by application of theX-ray. A great conclave of high brows is going to convene in Charleston, S. C. to see him demonstrate his discovery. Already the adjacent cotton fields are being combed for a supply of hibernating weevils for him to operate on.

Such an exhibition as that is going to be will cost the national tax paver a good many thousands of dollars, but we fail to see how the actual cotton producer is going to gain anything by it.

We know a man right here in our county who has a preparation already invented that will undoubtedly kill every boll weevil in existence if you can induce him to take a dose of it. The trouble is, and, we fear, will continue to be for some time to come, in getting the weevil and the annihilator in proper conjunction. The poison is already on the market and is a dead sure shot. What we need now is a feasible way to get the weevil to take the poison.

We can hardly imagine all of our cotton farms equipped with a $5,000 or $10,000 X-ray establishment anyway.

We heard of a tramp once who arrived about nightfall at a country hotel. The clouds were threatening and the wind was cold and this tramp needed a good supper, a bed and a breakfast, but he had no money. He figured on the situation and finally his ingenuity suggested a plan. He approached the landlord and told him his financial ability was nil though he claimed he was selling a receipt that would positively destroy every bed bug on the place in short order and agreed to guarantee results. He told the landlord that if he would furnish him supper, a bed and breakfast he would give him the receipe in exchange.

The landlord seriously needed something of that kind so he accepted the proposition.

The next morning the tramp was preparing to leave and the landlord called on him for the receipt. He said he had almost forgotten the trade but would supply the promised information.

He told the landlord to get a can of coal oil and a straw handy. Then catch each bed bug, turn him on his back, open his mouth and put one drop of the oil in it and that death would invariably result. The angered landlord told him he was a fool, they could mash the bug on the floor with much less trouble than that, if they had him to catch. The tramp smiled benignly and said: "Yes, that is a good way too."

The moral of this story seems to be especially applicable to all of the boll weevil exterminators so far put on the market, especially does it apply to theX-ray proposition.

The killing of a bed bug or a boll weevil after you catch him needs no added inventive talent. The ones we want to reach are the vast millions that we don't catch.

Do you reckon it makes God feel bad because He is out of style and too old-fashioned to chime in nicely with the "advanced thought" of modern times?

THE ANNUAL RABBIT HUNT

On February 22nd the Annual Rabbit Hunt took place as per program

We learn that 45 men, 24 dogs and 26 rabbits participated in the celebration. No guns are allowed on this hunt, but any and all dogs and men are qualified. Of course it takes a full-grown, native born, healthy rabbit, with no abbreviation of tail to enter the lists.

Dr. J. P. Crumpton, we learn, is grand master of ceremonies, and he is very particular that all of the rules and regulations are complied with.

The men and dogs that took part in this recent festive occasion all report a most hilarious time. We have had no report from the rabbits, so far, but we suppose they were also eminently satisfied—when the hunt was over

It is reported that a rabbit out in that territory, now and then, still drops dead in his tracks, having run himself to death, not having stopped since he got such a good start that day.

And that's all.

BOTH SIDES

We quote the following from the Charlotte Observer, of North Carolina. We believe our readers will be glad to study this subject from both sides and we are endeavoring to put them both before you.—Editor.

A Vermont capitalist, interested in both newspapers and cotton mills, was in Charlotte two weeks ago. He had come South to look over the industrial field with the purpose of making a selection of a site for the cotton mill enterprises he represented in New England. He had heard much of Alabama and of North Carolina. He spoke in admiration oi the vast amount of advertising matter that is pouring into New England centers from the South. He had come here prepared to make liberal discount on the glowing character of the representations, but his observations, so far as he had gone impressed his mind as corroborative He had found the opportunities in the South not at all overdrawn. But he was a little disconcerted over two developments. He had heard much of the inducements the State of Alabama was holding out for new capital, but he found the Legislature of that State developing an antagonistic disposition toward capital—it was talking of annulling the very attraction the State had been offering. In Charlotte he found that the Legislature of North Carolina was being invoked to pass a 44-hour working week law—the very thing that is destroying New England industry and from which New England industrial capital is fleeing.

Observer has small fear that ... ature of this State will be inclined to put up the bars. On the contrary, we believe such legislation as may be ... in relation to capital and in ... he of a nature to encourage continued develo... ment of both But the trouble in Alabama seems to be a ... termination to repeal the ... which temporary exemption from ... ation is given new industry. That ... was passed to encourage develo... of Alabama's resources in waterp... ers. Only a fraction of the capital necessary was available in the State, and inducement to outside capital was impreative. Water power projects were made tax-exempt "during their construction and during the period required to put them in working order, and in paying condition."

One important point that ought to be borne in mind by every legislator in the Southern States is this: Repressive legislation against capital is repressive legislation against labor

A WAY TO SAVE MONEY

Recently a certain community sent off an order for garden and field seed to a mail order concern. They finally got the goods, but were not exactly what was ordered.

Now, that's a case in point. The Aldred Drug Company, whose advertisement appears in our paper, carries in bulk the very same line and varieties of seed these parties ordered, and upon investigation it was found that they could have filled the order, down to the very last item. The seed could have been examined before buying and could have been carried home the same day bought, and the main point is, their prices discounted the price paid the mail order house.

You will find that fact true in every ... By the time you pay postage, express and other expenses, the home market is always a money saver.

Buy it at home is cheaper, more satisfactory, more patriotic and keeps the cash at home where you always have a chance to get another whack at it

MRS. L. E. BONE, DEAD

The community in and around Shiloh are grieved this week over the death of Mrs. L. E. Bone, an aged and dearly beloved lady, who has lived and reared a large family in that section.

The deceased was 79 years of age at the time of her death. The remains were interred at Shiloh cemetery, Reverend W. S. Cox officiating at the obsequities. Her death occurred on February 20th.

Mrs Bone leaves a husband, Mr. W. J. Bone, 89 years of age and nine children, six daughters and three sons, as follows

Mrs. Emma Wright, of Sylacauga; Mrs. Lydia Gandy, Lannett; Miss Maggie Neely, of Montgomery; Mrs. Canzada Williams, Clanton. The sons are: J. S. Bone, Autaugaville; J. F. Bone, Midland City; and Oliver Bone, Verbena.

She is also survived by 125 grand and great grand children.

Had you ever thought about how much more polite the ordinary hog is than the average person? You will rarely ever pass or meet a hog but what he will grunt.

TAKING A CHANCE

... have been making diligent inquiry among our farmer friends for the past two or three weeks in ... l to how much cotton they intend to plant this y...

Upon this information we think it is safe to predict that a much larger acreage will be planted this year to cotton than last year.

We find, though that the determination to take care of the corn crib and smoke house is pretty generally grounded in all of those with whom we have talked

This is a very fortunate side to the situation, too, for no one can s... with any degree of assurance, w... the condition of the cotton mari... will be next fall. Under anything like normal conditions the price to the next crop should range well up around 25 or 30 cents, but there is existing now a very great element of uncertainty as to what may develop in Europe

Insults and bellicose ultimatums between some of the powers beyond the ... ea are almost of daily occurrence, while the France-German situation grows more impossible every day. Matters between these two major powers cannot continue as they are Whether war will be the result or not we cannot say. All the elements to bring about war are present over there and being agravated by both parties every day

If war breaks out in Europe, bang! will go the cotton market and 6-cent cotton, or lower will result.

READ AND REFLECT

The value of competition to a community is made clear by Robert Beecher Howell, senator-elect from Nebraska, in an interview just given to the press. Mr. Howell is a trained engineer, and his viewpoint is that of a practical business man, not a politician playing to the galleries.

Discussing the possible ownership of railroads by the government, to which he expressed opposition unl... l on the government, he says ... ld begin by buying one ... time.

... sion of a single railroad, the ... nt could squeeze out the ... water ... an organization, and be ready for the next step. Perhaps the 'next step' might never be necessary. Th... power of competition is a wonderful thing. If ... low lower rates are made, ... face of competition or even ... ed competition.

"Take the case of the Omaha electric light plant, privately owned. In 1912 this plant was charging 14 cents per kilowat hour for current. The mere commencement of work on a little plant in connection with the municipally-owned water plant forced a cut to 12 cents. Early in 1914 we announced plans to ask the legislature for authority to extend municipal electric lines into the streets of Omaha. Within two weeks the private-owned company cut the rate to 11 cents. We went to the legislature. Our bill was passed. Governor Morehead vetoed it. But down came the electric rate to 8½ cents. The day before the next legislature met the rate was cut to 6 cents and today it is 5½ cents.

"The same fundamental was demonstrated in Lincoln a year ago, when Commissioner Bryan, now governor, announced his intention to build a municipal ice plant. The local company immediately cut its price to the level of the municipal plant in Omaha, and Lincoln did not need to build a plant of its own

"This shows the effect of competition, not merely actual but potential, threatened competition. Think what competition would mean in the railroad business. One of the great short-comings of the American people in connection with their public affairs is that they fail to apply to public business the remarkable business acumen which they apply to private business. They do not seem to realize that they are the government that they pay the taxes, that they suffer if public affairs are not conducted in a businesslike manner."

The foregoing observations would seem to make it clear that the democrats of Nebraska have made no mistake in their congressman. He is sure to be heard from in the United States senate in a way to make Nebraska proud.—Montgomery Journal.

J. S Foshee, Miss Ollie Mae Cox, Luther Foshee, Durwood Foshee and Webb Parrish went to Jemison Friday evening and witnessed the fiddling at the Fiddlers' Convention. They report a highly interesting program which was held in the new, elegant and commodious school building.

Messrs Guy Higgins and Bill Higgins went over to Billingsley last Sunday. Clanton has many clever well-bred young among whom Bill takes high rank.

Judge C. D. Messer filled his regular appointment at Antioch church near Pletcher last Saturday and Sunday. On both days he had large audiences out to hear him. The Judge is a consecrated high tone Christian gentleman able to still draw an audience on Saturday to hear the true Gospel.

Another new planing mill has gone into operation in town. That makes four. Eight years ago we were told that all the pine timber in this section had been cut. Today it looks like Clanton is shipping more lumber than ever before. Where do they find it?

MRS. J. H. GANDY DEAD

On Wednesday morning the beautiful spirit of Mrs. J. H. Gandy made its flight into the great beyond.

This good woman had been confined to her bed only a few days when the end came. All that relatives, doctors and nurses could do, was done but the Lord had need of her and took her home.

As a Christian, she simply lived it, and as a wife the word "faithful" fades into oblivion before the radiant light of her service. Every thought, word, and deed was lived for that which was right, and for her husband. His interest and desires were her study.

As a mother she was the personal friend, the companion, of all her children. No service was too great for her to render nor sacrifice too hard for her to endure.

As a friend and neighbor she had few equals. She loved company and loved to visit, but when trouble came she was always present. With cheerful encouragement, a warm heart and willing hands, to do what she could.

The community in which she lived has lost an unselfish, useful woman. The appreciation of her love was shown in many ways on the day of her burial, by the presence of many of her friends, and their many beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Gandy would have been 67 years old had she lived until March 24th of this year. She was a member of the Christian church and had been from early girlhood. Funeral services were conducted by Dr. Simpson pastor of the First Christian church of Birmingham, from John's Chapel. The scripture readings were from the fourteenth chapter of St. John, eigth chapter of Romans and the fourth chapter of John. Two beautiful songs were sung by a lady. "Abide with me" and "Safe in the arms of Jesus." The body was laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery in Birmingham.

The deceased is survived by a husband, Jos. H. Gandy, one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Harris, of Plantersville, four sons: J. M. and C. L. of Birmingham; W. H. Gandy, Fairfield, and A. C. Gandy, Greenville, O. Three sisters and one brother also survive. They have lost more than human language can express.

May they catch the light of her peaceful, unbroken trust, and, as they "cross the river" one by one, join her at the pearly gates where she is patiently waiting their coming eventually completing the family circle in heaven, without the loss of one. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death.

MRE. MINNIE BATTON GAY.

REV. J. B. GOLDEN

Reverend Golden has only recently been assigned to the Walnut Creek Circuit of the Methodist Protestant church and is just beginning to get acquainted among the people of his charge.

He is making a most splendid impression and is winning friends on every side. Mr. J. J. Johnson, one of his members, tells us he is an exceedingly strong and forcible preacher.

Our county is always more than happy to welcome such residents and it is always good news to hear that a preacher and his parishioneers are both pleased.

Mrs. Ida Trotter, Lock Twelve, was here Saturday attending the teachers' meeting. Mrs. Trotter has taught for several years at Lock Twelve, and is rated as one of the best teachers in Chilton.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

A "clean -up week" is going to be announced in the very near future, when merchants and householders alike will be urged to clean up all the accumulated rubbish of the winter that can be found on their premises.

We are authorized to say that if you will pile up your litter in a convenient place for the garbage man to get at it, the city will have it hauled away.

Get up all the old cans and other rubbish around your place and put it out where Uncle Jim Baker can get it and he will do the rest.

This is a most important matter and every good citizen will desire to cooperate.

A VERY NARROW ESCAPE

Last Friday morning Mrs. Clyde Jones happened to have a most unfortunate and dangerous accident at her home.

In some unaccountable manner she fell from her back porch to the ground, a clear drop of eight or nine feet, and at first it was feared that she had broken herself up very seriously.

She was rushed to the hospital and an X-ray examination made. To the delight and surprise of everyone, it was found that she really was not seriously injured.

We are happy to add that our latest report was that she was able to be up again.

IN IMMEDIATE PROSPECT

We learn that Dr. Arthur Johnson will erect right away a splendid new home on the vacant lot just west of the old Baptist church.

A block farther east on that street, Mr. Ed Pfier has already begun to erect for himself a large and commodious home.

It is gratifying to see these additions made to our housing capacity for we certainly need much more living room here.

TO BUILD ON SAME LOT

We learn that our good Methodist friends are going to begin work on their splendid new church as soon as Spring opens up in earnest.

It is also stated that they will build on their same beautiful lot, which is undoubtedly a most wise decision for there is not a prettier nor more suitably located lot in the city than the one they have already. Any change would be unwise

BUYING HEAVILY OF GUANO

Mr. Renfroe Mullins told us last Saturday that they had already sold 67 per cent more guano than they did last year and that the prospect was that before the season was over their sales would more than double those of last season.

This tells its own story. The acreage planted to cotton is going to be increased in like proportion. We hope that nothing will occur to keep the price down next fall and that a large yield will be made.

Fertilizer, we learn, is from $3 to $5 per ton higher than last season, which adds additional risk to the game this year.

MR. BICE SAYS SOME MORE

Editor Chilton County News.—There is told a story that when Cato was serving as Governor of Florida he appointed several members of his family to different position. When asked why he did this, his reply was "It's a poor old cat that will not take care of her kittens." Does this not sound like that if he were not reared in Chilton county he had evidently passed through and learned some of the tricks?

Has Probate Judge Lewis Reynolds ever heard the prayer, "Oh, Lord help me and my wife, my son John and his wife—us four and no more"?

As we pass on down the corridors of time, we keep hearing more and more about some of the assertions that were made in the last campaign. The policy of Lewis Reynolds in making such assertions during a campaign and then when it is over, trying to be so accommodating and uncommonly friendly is a thing of the past. "Wounds made by words tre hard to heal.'

Did you ever hear of a hope-to-be United States Senator or a man aspiring to the Governorship of the state of Alabama attacking a man of poor health,- not- physically- strong enough to protect himself, simply because the man had expressed his views in a newspaper and told the simple truth in matters concerning a man whose methods are below the cheapest ward politician this county has ever produced.

"When the wicked rule, the people mourn, but when the righteous rule, they rejoice." In the not far distant future, the here-to-fore wonderful Probate Judge Lewis Reynolds, will thoroughly, sorrowfully, understand the meaning of those words.

I wish to call attention to the loyalty of our staunch republican friends who have stood by the party in the past. See how they stood by this same Lewis Reynolds in his candidacy for the United States Senate when he was going over Alabama showing the people the necessity of two white political parties. Scores of them stood pat through this last campaign only to find that he was simply a consummate ingrate.

Mark my former prediction—He has played his last card. More than that, in the future some little politician will learn to his sorrow that he has hitched his fortune to the wrong influences.

"He profits most who serveth best." "Let him who would be greatest be the servant of all."

J. BICE.

STARTING ON TIME

Already the banks around the favorite "fishing holes" in the creeks have been packed down smooth by footprints, and nice little trails have been opened up along the banks of the creeks from one "fishing hole" to the next.

The beautiful spring weather we had at the last week-end started an epidemic of piscatorial fever that, we dare say, will not abate much before the frosts of next autumn. You better fish early and avoid the rush—of the mosquitoes.

NEARLY COMPLETED

The two story brick store and office building belonging to Col. G. C. Walker and the second story office addition to the M. A. Gore wholesale and retail feed store are both being pushed to completion rapidly now and will be ready for occupancy within a very few days.

The R. Q. Wade double garage building to be occupied by the Main Street Garage is also being pushed to a finish now.

GOING FORWARD

Quite a number of nice homes are in process of construction in Clanton now, among the number is one on North Ninth street belonging to Mr. F. B. Higgins; another out on West Fifth Avenue, the property of Mr. Will Culp; and two others in the Gowan addition, but we failed to learn the names of the owners.

The choir at the Baptist church last Sunday evening certainly regaled the large audience with some splendid music and, so far as we are competent to judge, the sermon by Dr. Ezell was a perfect gem of truth, beautifully set in appropriate language.

SOUTH CLANTON FILLING STATION

We learn that Mr. John T. Ellis has purchased a lot over in South Clanton on the B. & M. highway and will put up at once a filling station for the purpose of furnishing motorists all the Woco Pep they may need.

Seems like this ought to give our folks a little competitive edge on the market and maybe lower them gas line bill to some extent.

GOINNG TO SAW MILLING

Dr. J. E. Gowan, who not only pulls out your molars, but who has figured largely in real estate deals around Clanton for several years, has bought something like 2,000,000 feet of the very finest virgin long leaf yellow pine timber over in Coosa county and is already assembling his mill and force preparatory to going into the lumber market with some real old-time long leaf pine lumber. May success be his lot.

"An almanac tells me that once about every two and a half year there are two full moons in one month," remarked Blinks.

"Shucks, that's nothing. After sampling that home-brew of yours I saw two full moons in one evening," replied Jinks.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mrs. Briggs Bentley, of the Capital City, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. D. Y. Johnston, Saturday and Sunday.

CLANTON PARENT-TEACHERS TO MEET FRIDAY AT 2:30 P. M.

Friday will be Father's Day at the meeting of the Clanton Parent-Teachers Association. A special program has been prepared. We want all the fathers in Clanton to meet with us. The schools are your schools and you cannot know very well what they are doing unless you come around occasionally. At every meeting fathers as well as mothers are expected to be present, but at this meeting Friday we shall give special effort to get as many of the fathers as possible to attend.

We want one hundred per cent membership of the parents who are patrons of the Clanton schools. This does not apply to the elementary school only but to the patrons of the high school also.

At the last meeting a book shower was initiated. Some forgot to bring books. We are still accepting any books that are easy enough for the elementary school. We have a few books more suited to the high school and shall turn them over to the high school faculty if we can secure the consent of the givers. I have in mind one very good book, but too difficult for our pupils, namely, "Milton's Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained." If you forgot to bring your book last time we shall thank you if you do not forget it this time.

Come and see what we are doing, then talk our good works and help us correct our faults.

Respectfully submitted,
IRA PEGUES.
Chairman Publicity Committee.

One peculiar feature about this modern religion is that it is even "crookeder" than the world. The idea now is that if you have "jined" you have license to do any old thing just so you cough up liberally.

If lawyers, doctors and editors were to all adhere strictly to the truth, they would everyone soon be out on a rocky hillside plowing a steer—if anyone would rent them even such an outfit as that.

Guano sales indicate that the acreage planted to cotton in this section this year will be approximately double what it was last year. That's going some.

Corn planting on or about March 20th and cotton the first week in April seems to be a popular idea on some of the farms this year. It is almost always true that the earlier the crop the better the yield.

There seems to be plenty of real money still in circulation. Business appears to be on practically a cash basis so far this year.

Gradual attrition is what France seems to be doing to Germany. Why don't they kill all the Germans at once appropriate the country and settle down to business? It will take several years for them to conclude the annexation at the rate they have started.

The notorious screen buffoon, Charlie Chaplin and his Dago fiancee had a falling out last week that lasted six hours. Have we any "strip poker" clubs around Clanton? That is the latest touch the Palm Beach wealthy carousers have put on their infamy. A crowd of men and females meet in a room and open a poker game. No money is used. Each person pulls off and stakes some article of apparel. The game proceeds and as each one loses the last vestage of their garments and become nude they are frozen out. Simple, isn't it?

MORE ABOUT A COTTON MILL

The agitation about building a cotton mill here is beginning to attract attention. We hear a good many favorable comments and now and then a real live concrete proposition bobs up. The more we discuss the matter and the further we go into it the more assured we become that right now is the time to strike and that success is a certainty if our people will get together and give the proposition a united push.

Since last week we have had some especially encouraging data submitted to us, all of which demonstrate the fact that the right sort of interest is being developed and that the subject is taking root in the minds of some folks and they are ready to go.

One gentleman, who owns a tract of land south of town, tells us that he is willing to donate 25 acres of ground situated along side the railroad with stream of living water flowing through it, absolutely without cost to any interest that will put up a cotton mill.

Whether that property could be made available or not, that shows the right spirit, and just a few more people like this gentleman could cause a cotton mill to loom up here right away.

Then, below follows a letter that explains itself. The Power Company not only has the cash, they have experience in this line of work. They are builders and they know how to do it. They have a large force of trained men whose business it is to keep in touch with the textile manufacturers and who are willing and anxious to give us the benefit of all their knowledge of the present situation, and also extend to us the benefit of their accumulated technical information relative to the cotton mill industry. A letter from their Mr. Baldwin follows:

Mr. W.B. Corley, Editor,
Chilton Co. News,
Clanton, Ala.

Dear Mr. Corley: I have just ready an editorial which appeared in your issue of February 22nd, in which you make an urgent appeal to your people to cooperate with the Mayor in his efforts to secure a cotton mill for Clanton. I am writing this to assure you of the Power Company's hearty co-operation in your efforts. We are ready and willing to back the Mayor in any of his laudable undertakings. Should you or the Mayor chance to be in Birmingham any time soon, I will appreciate it very much if you would call on me, that I may in turn present you to our representatives who are handling the Textile situation.

Yours most cordially,
W. J. BALDWIN.

The prospect looks inviting to us and we feel like opportunity is knocking at the door of the good people of Chilton county right now and a grand mistake will be made of this matter is not promptly put on foot and pushed with the same pluck and energy that built the splendid new church and hospital and also is going to build another church.

For four years Judge J. J. Mayfield, one of the ablest Jurists in Alabama, has been engaged in codifying the State laws. Now we have an inexperienced code committee appointed from the floor of the legislature, who will sit all summer to go over and alter and amend his work. Where is the sense and good judgment in that? He is an eminent authority on law and they are just common folks like us and have no special fitness to enable them to shine as legal critics. We don't seem to be able to get away from the extravagant idea of wasting money.

Strict enforcement of the Volstead law will soon force all the states to build more institutions of penal servitude.

The fall planting of oats are certainly looming up fine now. Many of them are beginning to "boot" and a hard freeze would be bad on them, so don't predict any more cold weather.

A DEMONSTRATION, PERHAPS

Somewhere in the Bible we read that in the end this world will be burned up—utterly consumed by fervent heat. Most any of the ministers can show you that prophecy.

A great deal of speculation has been advanced as to how that could be possible. In recent years some few highbrow scientists have attemped to prove that the literal consumption of this earth by fire was a physical impossibility, and, we suppose, many ultra-would-be agnostics fell for that statement.

Now, Listen! Last week a certain star called Beta Ceti and which belongs in the sky at evening, away down in the southwest, apparently was in collision with some other unknown planet, or star, with result that Beta Ceti has flamed up into a magnitude ten times as great as its normal state, and is being literally burned up before our very eyes.

How does that strike you? Perhaps there is the final ending of a world, by far, larger than our own. At all events, it seems to be passing out according to the plans and specifications laid down for our own.

Talk about your speculative theories Here is an opportunity to go your limit. What sort of a sky wanderer was it that struck the Beta Ceti? Was it a nomadic comet, or was it some special bomb prepared purposely to bring to an end a world perhaps years older and more enlightened than ours.

One thing looks pretty sure and that is that the Biblical account of our end is possible and has been demonstrated to us in the fate of Beta Ceti.

More than half of the land titles have some flaw in them, and should be investigated and corrected before it is too late. People are now living perhaps that could give the proper paper or make the proper affidavit to cure the defect and it will be too late when those people are dead. Therefore it is not safe to buy land or lend money and accept land as security without first investigationg the title of the land. Often there are unsatisfied mortgages, judgments or other liens affecting the title, which an Abstract would set out. Therefore when buying land or lending money thereon, it is important that an abstract of title be furnished. A few dollars spent for an abstract is cheaper than going ahead and having a law suit, and perhaps losing your land or the money loaned on it a little later on.

UNITED FARMERS TO HAVE IMPORTANT MEETINGS

W. M. Lamb and O. C. Dobbs to Visit Chilton County

The United Farmers of America will have an open door meeting at Bates Hall, Thorsby, next Friday evening at 7:30 at which time M. W. Lamb, General Business Agent and O. C. Dobbs, National Lecturer, will speak. Next Saturday at 9 a. m. Mr. Dobbs will speak at Clanton in the court house. From 10 o'clock until noon and also during the afternoon sessions, the meeting will be for members only. Mr. Lamb will be present and deliver a message to the members. Important questions will be considered at this meeting. All members are urged to be present.

The meeting at Thorsby should be of special interest to people who do not belong to the organization but wish to learn more about it, as it is to be open to the public. A special invitation is extended to non-members Also everyone is invited to hear Mr. Dobbs at the court house from nine to ten o'clock Saturday morning.

Reverend J. D. Deason, Maplesville route two, filled his regular appointment at Pleasant Hill church last Sunday.

T. H. Williams, of Billingsley route one, was in town Saturday. Mr. Williams just does live in Chilton, but we are more than glad that the Autauga line is beyond his home.

G. O. McKee came up Saturday from Highland Home and returned Monday, accompanied by his wife. Mrs. Archie Mahan and Miss Una Belle Mahan who had been here several days visiting their many friends and relatives.

Mr. John Henley and family spent the week-end here last week at his Clanton home. At present Mr. Henley is at Grady, but while he is highly pleased there, "Yet there is no place like home, sweet home."

W. E. Deason, route three, was in town Saturday. Mr. Deason informed us that Judge E. B. Deason is now circuit clerk of the county in which he lives in New Mexico. Circuit clerk in a county in New Mexico is equal in importance and duties to a probate judge in Alabama.

IN MEMORY OF CECIL HAMILTON

Whom the angels came and carried away to heaven on February 25th, at two o'clock in the afternoon, after an illness of ten days.

He was carried to Birmingham on Friday for an operation in hope of saving his life. He suffered untold agonies from the very first of his illness until death relieved him. Everything was done that doctors, father, mother and friends could do, but God needed another angel and, looking around, saw none so worthy. So dear father and mother, just think of heaven being sweeter to you and strive the harder to bear the loss. And think of the time when you will be re-united, to part no more.

He was one of the sweetest, loved by all who knew him, and worshiped by his little school mates. While it is good to know he is out of pain and misery, his going leaves a void that can not be filled, in the hearts of all who knew him, especially his bereaved parents; a void that only the love and mercy of God can heal.

A precious one has gone,
A voice we love is stilled.
A place is vacant in the home
That never can be filled.

God, in his wisdam, has recalled the boon of love he gave, and though his body slumbers, his soul is safe in heaven.

The body was laid to rest in Highland cemetery to await the coming of the Lord. Reverend Deason conducted the services and sweeter words never were spoken than he uttered in comfort to the bereaved ones.

He is now where pain is unknown, and father and mother shall take comfort in the knowledge that they will some day clasp him in their arms again in that land where pain and care are unknown and everlasting joy reigns supreme.

MRS. SCROGGINS.
One Who loved him.

THE FUTURE OF AVIATION

Within a very few years some man is going to fly around the world in fifty hours, predicts a well known American aviator. If you know absolutely nothing of the marvels of the past, tell him he is mistaken and foolish.

The other day, a helicoptor machine remained in the air for several minutes The helicoptor can do two things that the other planes can not do—it can rise vertically, and it can hover. This, says Prince Bibesco, Roumanian minister to Washington, marks the ultimate doom of the battleship. Today every time we lay the keel of a battleship we lay the keel of an obsolete vessel.

The helicoptor remained up but a short while, it is true. But the Wright Brothers kept their machine in the air only six minutes the first time. Three years ago man flew across the Atlantic ocean, and now one of the leading aviators of the country confidently predicts that within a short while man will fly around the earth in 50 hours.

The Federal government is not neglecting aviation in the sense that it is making no experiments. But Congress has little zeal for aviation: its imagination has not grasped the probable importance of aircraft from a military standpoint. Men are bound to fight more and more in the air, and that nation with the most powerful aircraft is the nation which may win the next big war.—Advertiser.

COTTON AT THIRTY CENTS

The above from the Age-Herald is absolutely a fact as far as it goes, but with war clouds hanging so threateningly in the East, some reference to the calamitious effect of an eastern war on the price of cotton should be added.

If war really breaks out over there, 30-cent cotton will be one of the pleasant memories you have to fall back on. Your cotton will do well to net you 6 cents. The farmer who plants cotton exclusively this year will either make some money or his high fertilizer bills will bankrupt him beyond a doubt. Results will convince you.—Editor.

Both spot and future months advanced beyond thirty cents on the cotton exchanges Tuesday, making another high point for the season. The price now corresponds to 13.25 in July, 1914 and 18.50 one year ago. The advance Tuesday followed buying by brokers for Liverpool and Manchester. It came because Japanese and British mills want more cotton and had to come to America to get it. Cotton has climbed steadily since August, because it came to this season under greater protection than usual and has been gradually marketed. From now on cotton must be regarded a staple as steel, iron, hides and the cereals. It is no longer any man's battledore and shuttlecock. It is subject to the usual trade conditions of the world, but no more so than any other product. Having once sensed the benefit arising out of the businesslike handling of the yield there is no reason to believe that the producers will ever return to the haphazard

The problem of the future is at the source. The cost of production is the item of greatest importance. He who produces most cotton per acre will be the man who earns the greatest profit, not the man who spreads over the greatest number of acres. Poor production method will cause one man to lose his money while a neighbor following methods of efficiency will earn a handsome profit at the same market price. There must be business all around if a man would succeed in producing and marketing cotton, just the same as there must be efficient business method from mining ore to production of the steel rail, if there is to be a profit.

NOT SELF-OPERATIVE

No system is automatically successful. Efficiency in its conduct is necessary, no matter how well drawn are the plans of operation and how sound the underlying principle. In a report of the department of agriculture recently issued, it is shown that since 1913 a total of 243 co-operative marketing associations have ceased to exist. Two hundred failed because they did not have sufficient business, 138 by reason of inefficient management, 73 through insufficient capital, 35 on account of over-extension of credit, 29 as a consequence of dishonesty in management and 12 because a few members obtained concentrated control.

There is nothing in this recital of failure pointing to lack of soundness in co-operative marketing but the record does forcefully show that the co-operative marketing method is no more immune from bad management than any other method. It is just as incumbent on co-operative association to watch the overhead as it is for man operating a bakery. It is just important to follow the trend of the market and keep track of the law of supply and demand. The co-operative marketing association has been potent weapon in the hands of producer and it has been remarkably successful where well managed wrought prosperity for the raisin dustry at a time when that was about to go under. It has shown what it can do for the cotton producer. The mission of the management of these associations is to exercise the same business acumen all along the line as do those to whom they sell, bearing in mind always that while the system is excellent it is not self-operative.—Age-Herald

A TANGLED SKEIN

A ROMANCE

By IRA PEGUES

Copyright Pending.

The superintendent had just announced that there would be a fifteen minutes rest. For nearly three days the session of the "county" institute of a certain section of the Sunny South had kept the weary band of pedagogues confined within the walls of the old high school building. "Such rot and waste of time," declared one. "I have heard that over and over for the past [illegible] years. Co-ordination, correlation, vexation, and tribulation, it all works out for the worry of the poor struggling teacher. Take the sixth grade geography and make it recite with the seventh; then hear both the Arithmetic classes at the same time. That is so old it can speak for itself, why don't they give us something new?"

Looking up from a college magazine which he was reading, Samuel Howard beheld a beautiful lady of the [illegible] She was dressed in a white middy blouse with a skirt to match. Her hair was so dark that a raven would have blushed in shame. Slender form, lithe limbs, shapely [illegible] blue eyes shadowed by heavy dark protruding eyebrows, she presented to the young man a perfect picture of health and beauty. Walking over to her seat he handed her a copy of the college Reporter and asked her if she would like to read a few jokes for a little diversion.

"Who are you?" she asker rather abruptly.

"Howard is my name. May I learn yours?" he timidly inquired.

"Allie—Estelle Allie," she replied extending her hand. "Do you know my brothers? They have been teaching in this county for three or four years."

"I have heard of them, but I have never met them. This is my second year as an instructor of the youth of the land in the intricacies of arithmetic and the intangling alliances of history. I am not very good in either of [illegible] and it has been my luck to have advanced pupils in both."

"This is my third year teaching," she said, "and I hope to goodness it is my last."

Their conversation was halted by the convening of the group of teachers for the final session of the day. As soon as the roll was called, however, he suggested that it would be more comfortable under the large historic oaks that dotted the campus. She went out first and he soon followed, and they strolled toward the shade [illegible] Here began a friendship that was surely destined to grow and ripen as time passed. The wind began to blow and as it rustled through the leaves it seemed to awaken in the man the holy instinct. He turned loose a profuse line of appealing similes and deceitful metaphors. Not willing to be thought inferior to the persistent colonquist, she let fall from her overflowing mind a matchless volume of the most superb phrases. Time was the most precious thing they had but it slipped so swiftly that it was time for adjournment before either of them realized it.

After brothers came out and after a formal introduction they told her it was time for them to be going. Bidding one another a pleasant good day, they parted, hoping that the morrow would soon come. He turned away from the spot made dear by her presence and sought out his brothers to begin the journey to his home. Whereas he had been very calm that morning on the way to the institute, possibly made so by the thought of having to spend a day in agony listening to the dry lectures of the instructors returning, he was lively and talkative. His loquaciousness was manifest in the superlative degree and his brothers were unable to understand what kind of metamorphasis had taken place or could it be possible that Sam had been indulging too heavily. The combined efforts of both the older brothers were unsuccessful in an attempt to ferret out the hidden reason for such strange and here-to-fore unheard-of actions. The drive home was pleasant, being late in the afternoon, but it was doubly pleasant to the youngest boy. His mind was occupied with a variety of thought not patent to the surface observation of the others. Deep down in the convolutions of the highly sensitive cerebrum of this young man were being revolved many and wonderful combinations of the thought processes. The more those thoughts ran the channels the less effort was needed to make them go that way again. As man is absolutely powerless to prevent the transient or, as one might say, the transitory thoughts that fleet unheeded, too often, through the brain, it may be safe to conclude there were no less than sixty thousand waves passing through Sam's gray matter that night. It may be a slight hyperbole to say no less than fifty-nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine were about Estelle, or something she had said the afternoon before.

By sunrise the next morning, Sam was up making preparations for a pleasant day. Much time was devoted to his toilet today, whereas his sister had been complaining of his careless habits regarding his personal appearance. When she asked him why so much hitherto unnecessary care, he replied "Like grape-nuts, there's a reason." After having completed all the required finer points of a Beau Brummel adornment, he felt himself swell with pride as he gazed into the mirror to catch an admiring glance of himself. If he was vain he was not the type that boasted of the fact, for he took care no one saw him thus engaged.

"Sam, are you going to the institute?" called out James, one of the older brothers. "If you want to go with George and me, you had better make it snappy. We have now been waiting over twenty minutes. We shall be late if you do not hurry."

Grabbing his hat and adjusting it as he went, the youngest of the three brothers made a hasty advance to the carriage. All the conversational ability displayed the previous afternoon now seemed to be lacking. No little effort was expended to arouse the flow from his vocal organs. Try as they might, his mind could not be turned from its reverie. Their minds were not to be without excitement, however for there were many things happening along the way for them to observe. So long as one is engaged in any activity either mental or physical he does not so easily feel the passing of time. Long before any of the boys was expecting it, they again arrived at the place of meeting. A few of the early comers were already on the grounds. It took no second urging to get Sam out of the carriage. He alighted and went into the building, in the fond hope of finding Miss Allie. Alas! She was not to be found anywhere, nor had she appeared when the county superintendent rang the gong for all the teachers to assemble in the auditorium for the regular routine work of the institute.

However, the disappointment was not to last indefinitely for just a few minutes after nine o'clock, the lady who had made such a deep impression on the young man, came in and took a seat not far from where he was sitting. All the vivacity of the previous day now reasserted itself. A pretext of moving nearer the front was used as a reason for a change of position. A poor excuse is said to be better than none, so he made use of the old method of seeking a bit of information as a beginning of an undertone conversation. To an inexperienced observer, this simple change of seats would have passed unnoticed, but it did not escape the sharp eyes of Sam's oldest brother. Many things that had been a bit puzzling were now illuminated and rendered comprehensible. Those strange actions on the way home were recalled and the light of this newly acquired knowledge was turned on them to see if there were not hidden many portending circumstances. The grind began in dead earnest and soon the drowsy sleepy tired look was visible on the face of more than half the crowd. To show the futility of any set of lawmakers trying to force a set of teachers to submit to the coercive tactics and to endure patiently the imposing propoganda it is only necessary to give a minute description of a teachers' institute and the reaction of those teachers to the bosses' directions I shall not here take time to do so. Recess time found Sam and Estelle going to town to "get a drink" and incidentally to escape the punishment being inflicted upon their helpless ears.

A FOREHANDED BRIDE

HAMMONTON, N. J., Feb. 27.—Responding to a call from a woman with a pleading voice, who declined to state why she wished the police, two members of Troop A, stationed here, hurried to her home eleven miles from Hammonton. At the door stood a young woman, plainly anxious. Both troopers looked well to their gats and then approached. They were met with the question: "Do you arrest husbands for beating their wives?"

When informed that the State Police certainly did take such offenders into custody they were paralyzed with astonishment when the young woman said:

"Well, I was married yesterday, and I might need you, so I thought I would call you up and find out in case I did."

The two troopers who had burned up the road responding to the appeal, could find no adequate reply, but on their weary way home they communicated freely on the curious workings of the feminine mind.—Press dispatch.

A Philadelphia man has just been sentenced to six months in prison for spanking his wife. She threw a cup of coffee in his face, and then hit him in the eye with a soft-boiled egg, he told the judge, and then he spanked her.

Commenting upon the humiliating experience of the Philadelphian, Don Marquis, noted wit and philosopher of the New York Tribune, remarks that his technique was all wrong. "If he had spanked her first—say two or three times a week, regularly, as a settled thing, a solemn domestic rite—she would never have thrown the coffe and the egg at him." confidently avers the Tribune's scribe, who goes on to say:

There are two sides to the question as to whether husbands should beat their wives, and some very pretty and cogent arguments for and against the practice may be presented. But if a husband does beat his wife, it should be before she shows signs of violence, and not after she has been violent.

Wife-beating should always be a preventive measure, not punitive.

In our estimate wife-beating is permissible only in order to keep peace and harmony in the household; it should be a dignified and serious thing, gone about as a duty and never in anger.

If it is not done in the proper manner and with the proper spirit discord is certain to creep into the home sooner or later.

Women crave masculine domination—we are aware that it is the current fashion among them to deny this—and when they fight, they fight to provoke it—although they do not understand this themselves, or else, understanding it, deliberately repudiate it.

The whole of the current feminist movement in the English speaking countries has been merely a fight to provoke masculine domination; and it will bear its real fruit later. During the "Victorian Era" a sort of pink-peppermint, Tennyson-sweetened chivalry was fed to women; it was with the utmost difficulty that they could get up a good fight with a male person. So they revolted, not in a struggle for "equality", as they said and largely thought, but provocatively, so that they could once more be trampled on by man and learn once more to adore him.

It is apparent that the Hammonton, New Jersey, lady, mentioned in the first paragraph, is a constant reader of the Tribune and a faithful follower of Mr. Marquis. She read the foregoing remarks by Marquis, and then called the police.

HEARSE DRAWN BY HORSE PROVES TO BE NOVELTY

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 3.—The unique sight of a horse-drawn hearse heading a funeral procession of mourner-laden automobiles appeared on the streets here recently.

Mrs. Lucy Rust, 72, died at Fairmount, Ky., and her body was brought here for burial. During the last years of her life, Mrs. Rust had steadfastly refused to ride in an automobile. She requested before her death that a horse-drawn hearse be used at her funeral.

After much effort, a hearse was found at Mount Washington, Ky., and brought here bearing the body of Mrs. Rust from Fairmount. Completing the cortege were the machines of relatives and friends.—Age-Herald.

MR. W. C. DICKINSON DEAD

Mr. W. C. Dickinson, a highly respected citizen of Billingsley, died February 28th at the Central Alabama hospital in Clanton.

He was buried on March 1st with Masonic honors at Billingsley, Clanton members of Century Lodge participating in the funeral services.

Mr. Dickinson belonged to that old class of citizenship that always treated others as he would have them treat him. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Few men in Chilton are more highly esteemed by their neighbors than Mr. Crawford Dickinson was during his lifetime. He was a devout church worker, Mason, and a valuable man in his community and county.

Thus has one more of Chilton's worthy men been added to the already large number who have gone to that "undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns."

As one of his neighbors expressed it to the business manager of the [illegible] you can not extoll his virtues higher than he justly deserves

He is survived by his wife, four sons and one daughter, as follows: L. C. Dickinson and W. C. Dickinson, Jr., of Billingsley; R. H. Dickinson, Montgomery; J. O. Dickinson, Scottsboro; and Mrs. B. D. Colley, Enterprise.

CENTURY LODGE NO. 567 A. F. & A. M. BILLINGSLEY, ALABAMA.

TO THE WORSHIPFUL MASTER, WARDENS, AND BRETHREN OF CENTURY LODGE 567, A. F. & A. M.

We, the undersigned committee respectfully beg leave to submit for your approval and adoption the following preambles and resolutions:

Our departed friend and brother, William Crawford Dickinson, was born July 12th, 1854, and departed this life February 28th, 1923. He married Miss Juha M. Faulkner, January 11th, 1880, and there were born to this happy marriage the following children: L. C. Dickinson, W. C. Dickinson, of Billingsley, Alabama; R. H. Dickinson, of Montgomery, Alabama; J. O. Dickinson, Scottsboro, Alabama, and Mrs. B. D. Colley, Enterprise, Alabama; all of whom together with his widow and a host of friends survive to mourn the loss of our esteemed friend and brother. Brother Dickinson was made a Mason June 7th, 1901.

Brother Dickinson was a true and tried Mason, church worker, and loyal citizen. During his entire life in Chilton county he devoted his time to his fellowman and his services for God and man were prompted by that honesty of purpose and ruggedness of zeal which won for him admiration and respect from all those who knew him. And even till the time when his soul was watted to those sublime celestial heights above, his life was characterized by that noble, sacrificial and unselfish spirit, which has made his absence on this earth greatly felt.

Brother Dickinson was laid to rest with Masonic honors at Billingsley, Alabama, March 1, 1923, with Century Lodge No. 567 officiating together with a large number of visiting Masons where the last funeral rites were paid to this worthy brother. Reverend F. A. Gibson conducted the funeral services.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, by this lodge that in the death of Brother Dickinson, his family have lost a kind and affectionate husband and father and, that in this their great loss, and in this their hour of bereavement, may their pangs of sorrow be ameliorated by the divine thought that he lived a life on this earth that was acceptable in the eyes of God, and now resides in those heights above where all is gladness. We extend to the bereaved widow and family our heartfelt sympathy and commend them to the Heavenly Father above who alone can ease the heart aches of this world.

BE IT LASTLY RESOLVED, that in the death of this esteemed brother that Century Lodge has lost one of its most devout members, an honest man and brother, a valuable citizen, whose life and character stands forth as a paragon of truth and goodness and whose precepts we can all follow with the assurance that we shall meet in that bourne from which no traveler ever returns and in that land where all good Masons hope at last to meet.

Respectfully submitted,
J. M. GAINES,

L. P. MILLS,
Committee.

LEADERS ATTACKED FOR NOT PERMITTING VOTE ON FORD OFFER

Alabama Congressman Charges Mondell With Misuse of Position; Jeffers Leads Fight Declaring Muscle Shoals Measure Should Have Been Settled

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Attacks were made today in the house on Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the republican leader, and Representative Campbell, republican, Kansas, chairman of the rules committee and speaker pro protempore, for the failure to permit house votes on Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals and on a resolution proposing government purchase and resale to farmers of $10,000,000 worth of nitrates and calcium arsenate.

Representative Jeffers, democrat, of Alabama, charged the two republican leaders with "misusing their positions" in denying a vote on the Muscle Shoal proposition "at the behest or in accordance with the wishes and desires of the great interests, such as the fertilizer power, the Chilean nitrate interests and the aluminum trust of this country."

"And, by the way," he added, "bear in mind that your secretary of the treasury is one of the aluminum kings who has the ear of the administration."

Mr. Jeffers declared that Mr. Mondell had stated on the floor of the house last August 25 that the Muscle Shoals legislation ought to be considered by congress, but that "the promise all went for nothing, although the republican leader had been "approached time and time again since that time," to permit the house to vote on the Ford proposal.

"The legislation of the farmers of the nation," declared the Alabama representative, "have been denied by these men, repudiated at the polls by their own people, but still here in authority."

Failure to bring up the nitrate bill led to a filibuster on the democratic side. Charging that an agreement to take up the nitrate resolution had not been carried out, Representative Pou, of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the rules committee gave notice that its supporters would "resort to such means as we deem fair and open to force action on it."

"You have deprived the house of a vote," he shouted to Mr. Campbell and Mr. Mondell, adding later that the action of the republican leadership was "tyranny."

Representative Mondel said that a filibuster had prevented action on the measure which would have authorized purchase of the Cape Cod Canal. The majority leader added that he did not regard the nitrate resolution as "wise legislation" and was opposed to bringing it up.

Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can be down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it may do unto others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathize enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the dull sound of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the gravel, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we [illegible] to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and [illegible] the next.

We are trying to practice the golden rule in the [illegible] and in doing so are giving our customers and publid the very best service possible. Let us serve you in any way we can.

THE PETITION ON DRAINAGE IS BEING SUBMITTED TO THE LAND OWNERS NOW

We are glad to be able to announce this week that things are moving rapidly in the drainage project.

A petition for the directive interested land owners to sign has been prepared in accordance with all legal requirements and is being put before these interested parties now for their signature.

The benefits to be derived from this project are so apparent and so far reaching in their scope that we dare say no argument will be required to create the cooperation of these citizens who will reap more largely of the monetary value in this project than any one else.

There are a few thoughts we would like to suggest on this subject that appear to bear directly on the necessity, as well as the advisibility of having these swamps drained.

First, consider the large cities. The Birmingham Montgomery, Atlanta and so on. Would they be today as trade centers and [illegible] manufacturers had they made no preparations in advance and allowed the ponds, swamps and morasses to exist as they were when these towns were first settled?

Birmingham was a perfect [illegible] in the days when it was born. Montgomery was built on a river morass. Atlanta started its great and marvelous career right around a frog pond where the cattle for miles around came to get their water.

Can you see any sign of these conditions today in either of these splendid southern cities?

They visualized the future, drained out the waste land and you see what followed.

In the next place, it is a demonstrated fact that the mosquito is the greatest disseminator of disease that we have. Swamps and marshes are his natural breeding places and common habitat. Do away with the swamps and you automatically dispose of the mosquito.

And again, the [illegible] operation on years is spread out over these swamps. But [illegible] the most fertile lands in cultivation. They are a [illegible] themselves. As in the world that is needed to make them [illegible] and productive is drainage. Remove the overflow [illegible] moisture and you will find the soil sweet and fallow, ready to do its part towards adding millions to the wealth of the county.

Besides, the manner of financing this project is such that it will pay for itself many times over before the bills will fall due.

This is not an [illegible] It has already been tried out by many communities and has never failed to finance its own way.

We hope every land owner approached will enter gladly into this scheme, and so build for the future that generations to follow may rise up to call them blessed.

WE WERE FORTUNATE

In no sense would we boast of our [illegible] from serious storms but it looks like we have been especially fortunate in escaping the anger of the elements in the past, a fact for which we hope every citizen is properly [illegible]

Last Thursday old Boreas went on a rampage all over the country. Considerable damage resulted from his devastation both near and far but, so far, we have heard of no damage of consequence in this immediate vicinity.

The wind blew real hard here about noon and the dust and sand were very discernible, but that was all. No one was hurt and no expensive damage resulted. Personally we are grateful for our escape.

This is the season of the year for twisters and every time it thunders [illegible] and our town and [illegible] continue to escape.

EDITOR JORDAN HERE

Editor W. R. Jordan, of the Alexander City Outlook, was in to see us this week.

Editor Jordan is a live wire and a perpetual booster for his home town. He gave us some valuable data on the cotton mill question and said he saw no reason why we should not land one.

He was greatly surprised to find such a nice and hustling little city as Clanton over here in Chilton.

Editor Jordan's home town is becoming the greatest cotton mill center in the state and we don't wonder if they have many men like Brother Jordan over there.

SAW MILL BURNED

We learn that Mr. Lige Jones had the serious misfortune of having his saw mill destroyed by fire one day last week.

The fire is supposed to have been accidental. The engine, boiler and carriage were not ruined and can be used again after being overhauled. Fortunately very little lumber was destroyed. The loss will be within $1,000. There was no insurance.

Since Charlie Chaplin and his half caste sweetheart have kissed and drink and made up the daily papers are certainly shy on typical front page stuff.

ONE BORN EVERY MINUTE

Barnum the greatest of show men was certainly correct in his diagnosis of the American citizen when he said that all Americans delighted in being humbugged."

For instance, last Saturday afternoon a first grade fakir arrived on our street. He paid a city license as a tobacco advertiser, but he didn't mention tobacco but one time. He [illegible] lot of absolute buncombe the people fell for the absurd idea that he had something to give them for nothing and before you can hardly tell the tale, he had succeeded in [illegible] flimflamming the crowd out of about $400 and with a grin on his classic [illegible] he had them [illegible] and drove off in his car.

The silliest thing on earth is for anyone to ever take up the idea that a stranger is going to travel around at his own expense and give valuable gifts to the public, still people would fall for a similar swindle next Saturday. A sucker is born every minute.

THE U. F. OF A. MEETING

Great Rally At Court House Last Saturday—Noted Speakers On Hand

Last Saturday seemed to be a red letter day with our friends of the local U. F. of A.

A vast audience thronged the court house promptly on the hour set apart and much interest and enthusiasm characterized the occasion from start to finish.

Mr. A. B. Baxley, state head of the U. F. of A. of Alabama, and who resides here, was in the chair and opened the exercises by a short and appropriate address as to the objects of the meeting and dealing briefly with its plans for the future and its wonderful program for the past.

Colonel J. B. Atkinson, member of the city council and prominent local attorney, made an address of welcome in behalf of the town and community which was splendidly received.

Mr. O. C. Dobbs, National Lecturer for the organization, was next introduced, and, after listening to his logical and convincing exposition of the aims and objects of this comparatively new order, one was not surprised that he should hold the position he does.

He went into every detail and angle of the barriers that confront the farmer and showed conclusively how each could be remedied and what steps would be most conducive to the prosperity of the farming class.

Mr. Dobbs received the individual attention of the large audience and the frequent bursts of applause demonstrated the fact that he was driving his truths home to many appreciative hearers.

After Mr. Dobbs had concluded his masterly effort, Honorable M. W. Lamb, the absolute father of the movement—the brainy man or brawny man—who first conceived the plans of the order was introduced. He was welcomed with round after round of applause, and when quiet had been restored he entered into a clean-cut analysis of the intentions of the organization. He was indeed master of the very inmost ideals the farmer hopes for and he told in dramatic fashion the story of agriculture's oppression that first set his logical mind to work and caused him, after many years of closest calculation and study, to evolve the system of co-operative relief for the farmer contained in the Magna Charter of this great agricultural organization.

The speaker is experimentally acquainted with the needs of the farmer and while he is in no sense an agitator or extremist, he takes a broad business view of every phase of the question and his theory of relief is based on strictly a business basis. His facts are so clear and cogent that no one can refer to him as a dreamer.

After the address of Mr. Lamb, other matters pertaining to local interest were taken up and attended to and when the hour of adjournment came we are sure that every one present went away entirely satisfied with the meeting and with the great order of United Farmers of America.

LADY BURNED TO DEATH

Last Tuesday, while engaged in washing out in the yard, the clothing of Miss Martha Morris, who lived at the home of her brother-in-lad, Mr Eason Carroll, two miles below Clanton, caught from the fire around the pot and she was so severely burned that she died Monday night at 8:15.

She was 48 years of age and was a most estimable lady, and greatly beloved in her community.

BRUTAL ASSASSINATION

TOM JONES MURDERED

Shot Down In His Own Home In Cold Blood By Some Dastardly Assassin

One of the most shocking crimes that has ever darkened the annals of our county was perpetrated last Sunday evening just about the time when the shades of night were engulfing the world in darkness.

We refer to the cowardly assassination of Mr. Tom Jones who has been a resident of our community for many years. He resided about two and one half miles north of Clanton.

At the time when the fatal deed was perpetrated, Mr. Jones was standing in the [illegible] in the front room of his home, and was peddling the instrument for the little baby girl to play. At his back was a window and some horribly black-hearted criminal crept up to the window and fired a high powered 22-calibre rifle bullet through his heart.

The bullet entered his back just beneath the shoulder blade, ranged upward and passed out in front, having pierced his heart. Death, of course, resulted instantly.

The other members of the family who chanced to be in the room say that when the gun fired Mr. Jones exclaimed: "What is that?" and at the instant crumpled to the floor and was dead.

Many citizens from town and the surrounding community hastened to the scene as soon as the news became broadcast. The sheriff with several deputies also rushed out to the bereaved home and began a vigorous investigation. They wired for track dogs to Speigner, but the wind was so high it was known the hounds could do no tracking so they failed to get them. The officers followed up every clue they could locate but failed to connect up any definite theory as to who the guilty parties are, though they are hopeful of later developments that may make this sad and mysterious murder a mystery no longer.

Mr. Jones leaves a wife and several children to mourn and miss his love and watchful care. Besides, he has several other relatives who reside [illegible] and are stricken in their old age by this terrible calamity.

The [illegible] felt in sympathy to all of these bereaved ones, and we earnestly hope that justice will reign in this matter and that the guilty party may be brought to account for this most cowardly murder.

The funeral of Mr. Jones took place Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. W. J. Parrish officiating. The remains were interred in the Jackson Chapel cemetery right near the home of the deceased. A large crowd were present at the burial, people coming from all parts of the county to pay their last tribute of respect.

A coroner's jury was empaneled Monday to investigate the killing of Mr. Jones, but after an exhaustive [illegible] to [illegible] and sadly unfortunate affair, they were forced to render a verdict that the deceased came to his death as the result of a gun shot wound at the hands of parties unknown.

Following is the jury so empaneled by Justice J. L. Wilson: Messrs. J. A. Ruffin, J. M. Vandeveer, W. S. Willis, W. E. Maddox, Roy Foshee and Lee Wills.

OBITUARY OF MRS. J. H. JOHNSON

Mrs. J. H. Johnson departed this life January 28, 1923.

Her body was laid to its final resting place in the cemetery at Temple Church January 29th, Reverend Du Bose being in charge of the services.

She leaves the following sons and daughter to pass on her noble training and true consecrated life down the annals of time:

Messrs F. H. Mims, Williams Johnson, and Mrs. J. M. Mims Clanton and Mrs. William Johnson, Sylacauga.

PATES CHAPEL

The people of Pate's Chapel and community show a growing interest in our singing society. Not only our singing, but also our Sunday School. We make our community what it is. Everybody knows the difference in a community where there is a strong Sunday School and church. Every where we see the difference in a community where there is a good church and Sunday school, and where the people meet and sing praises to God, and the community where there is nothing going on to keep the community in touch with God and each other. There is always something to be had from singing. At Pate's Chapel we try to give the people of the community and surrounding communities something really worth while to attend on every second and fourth Sunday afternoon.

We were glad to see so many visitors Sunday afternoon. We sure extend to them a hearty welcome and hope they will come again on next fourth Sunday. Some of the people who directed were: James Franklin, Harrison Hayes, Chester Maddox, J. A. Cleckler, Nora Franklin, Mae Maddox, Nettie Hodgens, Hazel Maddox and Callie Edwards. CLANTON PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Clanton Parent-Teachers Association met last Friday afternoon. If you were not there you missed a real treat. A special program was arranged for FATHERS day. We regret that so few of the fathers were present. The program was interesting, the spirit of the association was lively and the time was altogether profitable. Better try to be with us on the thirteenth of April to find out what we are ding.

No one could attend that meeting and say that the Parent-Teachers' Association is dead. Enthusiasm was bubbling over. Everybody seemed to be full of it. Come next time and get filled with the common zeal for the good of the children. Again, I tell you the schools are your schools and you ought to come around and see what we are doing. If you had eight persons working in your mercantile business nine months in the year do you think you would be too busy to go around to see what they were doing? You have eight workers at the Elementary school alone and I dare say some of you never have been to see what is being done. We want you to come to see us. If you like what we are doing, we are just human beings like other people and appreciate your telling us you like our effort. "Don't wait until we are dead to place a wreath upon our head."

No report of this meeting would be complete without praising the work of the social committee. Mrs. Jasper Calloway, Mrs. Nix, and Mrs. Heard, the mention of these names is sufficient to convince you, had charge of the social period. They are never known to fail in duty and their efforts Friday bear conclusive evidence fo their ability. Delicious refreshments were served to the largest crowd of the year.

Hoping that some of you people who were not present at this meeting will make it a point or order to be on hand at our next gathering, I am

Respectfully,
IRA PEGUES,

VERBENA CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL PRESENTS "DEACON DUBBS"

"Deacon Dubbs," a comedy drama in three acts was presented in the school auditorium in Verbena Friday evening, March 9th, by the high school pupils. The auditorium, as usual with school performances in Verbena, was crowded with an appreciative audience, and that the play was well received was evidenced by the numerous outbursts of applause that from time to time were given clever interpretation of parts. The highest compliment that has been paid it is that it was better than "Fifty-Fifty," the commencement play of last year.

It would be difficult to select any particular star, for the players were well adapted to their roles, and little improvement could be asked over the rendition of the respective parts. Paul Dansby, as Deacon Dubbs, from Sorghum Center, State of West Virginia, portrayed truly the rugged, honest, and dependable old-type farmer with an ease and naturalness that was refreshing. Miss Sara Maude Pattillo, as Miss Philipena Popover, with her eyes on the Deacon, pursued him in that naive romantic style of one whose love is finally requited. Dolphus Harris, as Deuteronomy Jones, and Miss Lorine Messer, as Yennie Yensen, furnished ample diversion from the serious side of the play, and their troubles in courtship were always sources of amusement for the audience. Miss Mary Stonecipher, as Rose Raleigh, the brave little schol mistress, handled with decided ability the leading role. Her interpretation of certain emotional scenes well nigh approaching the professional's art. William Deramus, as Amos Coleman, played opposite Miss Stonecipher, and was especially clever in handling the melodramatic role in dealing with the villian of the show. Crayton Norris, as Rawdon Crawley, in the difficult role of self-centered, calculating villian, showed versatility and ability in portraying the type without exaggeration.

Pearson Hatchett, as Major McNutt the auctioneer, carried his "documents" with him, and at the auction typified the country auctioneer. Miss Nolan Meroney, as Trixie Coleman, neice of the Deacon, was amusing and full of mischief, playing pranks on the Deacon and Miss Philipena, and cleverly added youth and levity at opportune moments. Miss Jean Gardner, as Emily Dale, the rich girl of the village, acted well her part as meddler and coquette.

The play includes a village auction, a wedding morning, a huskin' bee, a Virginia Reel. Serenades and chorus, wiye the necessary musical feature; lines and clever setting marked the play in which these young people have been able to display their talents.

"Deacon Dubbs" will show at the picture house at Mitchell Dam Friday evening, March 16th, beginning at 8 p. m. An admission fee of 35 cents to adults and 25 cents to children will be charged. Proceeds will go toward school improvement.

HAMILTON NEWS

Editor Chilton County News: This is the first time that you have heard from this part of the county, but it is never too late to do good so here you are. We have too nice and progressive a community to be left out.

Health in this section is very good, although we have a few cattle ticks. Some of the neighbors have become so wrought up over the matter that they have almost developed tick fever personally.

On Saturday evening, March 10th, a large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. Joe Terrell where a fiddlers' reunion and a cake guessing contest was held. It was "some" cake, too. Guesses cost a penny each, and after a number of guesses had been made, it seemed that no one was going to win the cake; but a little boy of nine years, guessed that there was a Ford [illegible] the cake, and he won.

NEW NOTES FROM JEMISON

Dear Editor.—I would like to mention a thought that often comes to me—wouldn't it be a great country if mothers and fathers were to go to church and other places with son and daughter, see that they are in good company and in the right place? But I think there are boys and girls who deserve credit for their good behavior for they raise themselves. God is grateful and may He ever be more grateful to our young people and cause the trend to turn toward the church and Godly things.

Mrs. David Bates and son, Norman, of Maplesville, spent several days with the mother of Mrs. Bates, Mrs. H. A. Williams.

TO MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Jemison, Ala.

Editor Chilton County News:—Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in regard to the subject on which the "Democratic Mother" wrote some time ago; and I thought some more gifted writer would reply.

Yes, mothers, it is awful that we have to see things going like they are now, and when we correct our own daughters they look at us so scornfully, as if to say, "I don't thank you for your advice." They think they know more than mother does and if they succeed in getting painted and powdered until they look like a wax figure, they are all right.

But just look at poor mother's hands and you will see who does the work! She toils from before daybreak till long after darkness has enshadowed the world without rest—but there is a rest beyond this vale of tears that no one can take from her, and poor mother will shine there more than all the paint and powder.

I know of step-mothers who have been slaves for their step-children and get no thanks for it. It seems hard for men to take some other mother's child and make a slave of her for his children; and then say: "I would not have married again if it had not been for my children." When you see a thing like that you will see a man who won't prosper in this world, much less in the next.

Now, fathers, wake up! Try to help the mothers out. No one but a mother can know the trouble it causes her when her daughter is misbehaving, and you can go to the all-day gatherings and you will see the girls out in cars waiting for some boy to come around and take them to ride; and no nice boy wants that sort of a girl for a wife.

A MOTHER.

Messrs G. D. Rutherford, B. F. Edwards, J. Z. Mims and Ed Cagmon attended the I. O. O. F. District Convention at Selma Monday. All report a good time and an interesting meeting.

A. B. Burton, of Mountain Creek, was in Clanton last Monday. Mr. Burton served as night Marshall in Clanton for several months. He is courageous and fearless when it comes to doing his official duty.

Mr. W. I. Mullins, Dr. T. J. Marcus, Herbert Davis, I. C. Ross and J. B. Atkinson attened the funeral services of Mr. W. C. Dickinson at Billingsley last Thursday.

J. R. Short, one of the valuable citizens of beat fifteen, was here Tuesday.

It is now confidently predicted by those people who are in touch with the situation, that England and Turkey will be sure to go to war right away. It is believed also that Russia and Germany are going to back up Turkey. As to what nation or nations will help England we see no suggestions, but, we suppose, France would possibly be on her side, although she is at present an ally of Russia. They'll all get into it before they quit.

Colonel A. C. Smith, of Cooper, has kept steadily improving until he is now looking as well as he has in many years. We are glad to know that he is in the best of health and ere long will be able to resume his practice again.

R. L. Lewis, Verbena, paid our sanctorium a much appreciated visit recently. Mr. Lewis is a good friend to the News and always gives us an encouraging word.

THE POLITICAL MENACE OF PROSPERITY

Senator Smith W. Brookheart, of Iowa, takes pains to assure the reporters that official responsibility has in any sense "tamed" him and [illegible] him less radical Brookheart [illegible] the bridge that carries him [illegible] state but only [illegible] platform.

But the Iowa Senator may not be a seer and prophet. He will do well, from the standpoint of personal interest, to remember in all candor that at the time he was "selling" radicalism to his constituents, Iowa, an agricultural state, was in financial distress. The farmer was in debt, his crops were selling at prices below the cost of production, and he was not only discouraged, but indignant. Brookheart told the farmers he thought he knew where the trouble lay, and that if he could but be commissioned to lead a punitive expedition against Wall Street and its clausmen, the Iowa farmer's troubles would be rectified.

But as soon as the market for farm products found a new outlet, caused by improvement in the natural economic condition of the nation, the producer began to see daylight again. Natural conditions, which we are sure had more to do than unnatural conditions with putting the farmer, the manufactured, the editor, the lawyer and the artisan on short rations, are also restoring all of these classes to a condition of substantial prosperity.

When the Iowa farmer is prosperous he is very prosperous. His land is rich and it produces easily. The Iowa farmer is a capable tiller of the soil and he understands the technic of marketing. As he grows well-to-do once more he is going to forget the surging anger which tormented his soul in 1920 and 1921, and even in 1922.

No well-to-do class of people is radical. Brookheart will be lucky if his constituents do not turn and get prosperous "on him" now before the time of the next election.—Advertiser.

THE THREAT OF WAR

Disturbance in the Near East, reinforced as it is with cold steel, gives forth not only an ominous clank to be heard in that immediate vicinity, but there is in the grim situation a note, a deeper reverberation, of serious import to us. War between England and Turkey, or between England and Russia, Germany and Turkey, or the latter three, backed by the whole Moslem world against England and France together, may not come. The sparks now flying around may not touch any of the loose gunpowder lying over [illegible] much of that continent. There are many seemingly practical indications that such a calamity is not anticipated. The behavior of our markets does not presage it, and the officials whose business is to keep their ears close to the ground do not report the rumbles of approaching war. But there is no denying that there is too much loose gunpowder and there is no guarantee as to sparks.

Every now and then some observer, detached from the restraints of diplomacy and free to speak his mind, [illegible] fresh admonition concerning [illegible] other sic[illegible] [illegible] Hamilton Lewis, returning to this country from a long sojourn in the troubled zones. Going abroad a year ago to present claims against Germany, he remained to attend the Geneva and Lausanne conferences, and being endowed with much mental acumen, he is qualified to speak with some degree of authority as to what he saw and heard. Unless the United States intervenes, the former senator states, Europe will be embroiled in another war within a month. As he sees it, the first clash will be between England and Turkey, with Turkey promptly being backed by Germany and Russia, the latter having perhaps the largest standing army in the world. Turkey itself has no mean army. Confronting the allied forces of only 25,000 she has 250,000 troops ready for immediate action. The allies do not want war and the smoke which the former senator seems to discern may be only vapor from the superheated struggles for peace, but if the clash does come it will not be for us long to occupy the role of the spectator.

Though we may remain aloof from entangling alliances in peace times, the experience of the recent war shows that we could not escape the embroilment of another great upheaval in Europe. On the contrary, so great is the force of precedent, we should probably be unable to hold aloof from participation for more than a few weeks after hostilities became general. Such is the belief, at least, of many who have given their best thought to the changed and precariously balanced affairs of the world, as they exist today. Among them is Mr. McAdoo. He recently gave it as his opinion that strong as we are we would find ourselves still not superior to such forces as would be turned loose by another European war. As remote as we are, we are not fireproof, nor could we long stand by and watch the rest of he world burn up without attempting to put out the conflagration. Our interest, therefore, in he tense situation in the Near East may be selfish, but is cannot be academic.—Age-Herald.

BAPTISTS COLLECT $38,918,000 CASH

Growth of Denominational Activities in Every Direction Is Indicated as Result of Forward Program

LARGE ADVANCES ARE MADE

REPORT ON CONTRIBUTIONS TO 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN ISSUED BY HEADQUARTERS OFFICE

DR. EVERETT GILL
European Representative Baptist Foreign Mission Board.

Up to January 1, 1923, Southern Baptists had paid in cash on the 75 Million Campaign, their five-year program for the advancement of the general missionary, educational and benevolent activities of the denomination the sum of $38,918,191.10, according to a report issued by the general headquarters office.

These contributions have come from the various states and other sources as follows: Alabama, $1,653,739.40; Arkansas, $1,165,153.35; District of Columbia, $143,564.70; Florida, $609,016.02; Georgia, $3,669,516.70; Illinois, $320,482.95; Kentucky, $4,122,039.78; Louisiana, $1,035,640.23; Maryland, $489,994.29; Mississippi, $1,591,011.74; Missouri, $1,557,067.49; New Mexico, $170,969.26; North Carolina, $3,365,330.21; Oklahoma, $1,052,438.20; South Carolina, $3,309,252.60; Tennessee, $2,210,766.77; Texas, $5,002,785.32; Virginia, $4,102,862.12. Special designated funds, Texas, $1,223,640.35; New Mexico, $403,072.68; Louisiana, $100; Illinois, $145,591.11; Tennessee, $192.53.25; Oklahoma, $59,000; received direct by Home Mission Board, $15,340; received from special sources by Foreign Mission Board, $56,103; contributed by native churches [illegible] sign field and expended by [illegible] rectly on their work there, $1[illegible]

Indicative [illegible] of the progress which the impetus of the Campaign has brought to various phases of denominational effort in the South, it is reported that during the three years of the Campaign period that have expired, Southern Baptists have had 150,000 more baptisms than they did for the three years immediately preceding the Campaign; organized 3,000 more new Sunday schools with 400,000 new pupils; enhanced the value of their local church property by $33,000,000; increased their contributions to local causes by $22,000,000; gave $18,938,862 more to missions and benevolences, and advanced their contributions to all causes by $43,480,410 during the three years of the Campaign over what they gave to all causes for the three years immediately preceding the Campaign.

Gains in Special Fields.

The Campaign has enabled the various state mission boards to greatly enlarge their programs of state and associational missions within their respective boundaries. It is pointed out; made it possible for the Home Mission Board to complete its $1,000,000 Church Building Loan Fund, extend its work among the foreigners, Indians and Negroes, administer 134,382 baptisms, secure 218,371 additions to the local churches, provide larger equipment for its system of 38 mountain mission schools, establish the Southern Baptist Tuberculosis Sanatorium, and greatly increase its work in other directions.

Some other gains in the homeland include the better equipment and maintenance of the more than 50 academies, colleges and seminaries other than the mountain schools; increasing the number of Baptist hospitals from 18 to 20, and providing better equipment and maintenance for all of them; increasing the number of Baptist hospitals from 12 to 20 and beginning the erection of three others at the same time all the older ones have been better equipped; while the number of aged ministers helped has been doubled and the stipend given each has been greatly increased.

Mission Work Extended.

In the realm of foreign missions the Foreign Mission Board has been enabled to send out about 250 new missionaries, employ over 500 additional native workers, greatly increase the equipment in the way of church buildings, chapels, schools, hospitals, publishing houses and mission residences in the older fields of China, Japan, Africa, Italy, Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Chile and Mexico, and open up new work in Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania, Russia, Palestine and Siberia. In the territory now occupied by the Foreign Mission Board there is a total population of 900,000,000, or more than half the people of the world.

Due to the enlargement of the missionary program in Europe the board has been compelled to station a general representative there in the person of Dr. Everett Gill, who has general oversight of the work on the continent and [illegible] headquarters at Lausanne, Switzerland.

CHEMIST THE "CZAR" OF CEMENT MANUFACTURE

High and uniform quality results from his rigid tests and orders

Every eight seconds, mechanical devices dip into the materials that are traveling through a cement mill and put a sample under lock and key for the chemist to test. Chemists are "the czars" of a cement plant and chemistry is their law.

Few factory processes require more care than the making of cement — thousands of test samples being taken in a day's run at a cement plant because cement must be tested in a variety of ways for numerous qualities. It is under the chemist's instructions that workmen proportion the raw materials.

These tests in which the proportions of the elements of cement are determined call for glass-enclosed balances or scales that must be accurate to the ten-thousandth of a gram. There are 454 grams to a pound. Such balances will quickly detect the difference in weight of a piece of paper, before and after you have written your name on it.

The "rule" of the chemist is seen and felt at every point in the process of cement manufacture—in the quarry or pit where raw materials are obtained—in the departments where raw materials are proportioned, mixed and ground—in the burning department where under intense heat the chemical change takes place—in the department where the raw material which has now become clinker is ground to the fine powder called portland cement.

This country put over thirty million tons of cement making material through these processes last year.

This device takes a test sample for the chemist every [illegible] "I" is the cement on a moving belt, leaving the grinding mills. "C" is a revolving hollow shaft. As the dipper picks up a bit of the flour-like material it is carried through the shaft "C" and deposited in the locked box "A".

EUROPEAN WAR IMMINENT

Prospect For War to Break Out Within a Month--Senator J. Ham Lewis Predicts

While the dove of peace is calmly flapping over us and the spring sunshine is putting the flowers in bloom and the farmers are proceeding to double their acreage in cotton, read Senator J. Ham Lewis, who has been in the Near East for more than a year studying the situation, has to say in regard to the prospect of another great European war, which, according to his view of the situation, is liable to break out right away.

We want to say to the farmers again, you better go slow in putting all of your eggs in a cotton basket this year.

Europe will be embroiled in a war within a month unless the United States intervenes to prevent a clash between Turkey and England, J. Hamilton Lewis, former United States senator from Illinois, declared today on his arrival on the Majestic.

Turkey already is prepared for a fight and is expecting aid from both Russia and Germany to enlarge her already large standing army, he said. Hungary is seeking to grab back territory ceded to Rumania, and Austria desires to regain Trieste and parts of Czecho-Slovakia, according to Mr. Lewis.

The former senator went abroad a year ago to represent claims against Germany. He attended the Geneva and Lausanne conferences.

Clyde Foshee, a student of the University of Alabama spent Saturday and Sunday with his Clanton friends.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the only hope for civilization lies in the knowledge and application of the principles of Christian religion and christian ideals can best be made dominant in life and character through the Christian nurture and training of childhood and youth and no educational system can produce the highest type of character and citizenship without religious training, and

WHEREAS, the appalling prevalence of crime and the disregard for law in this Commonwealth and even among the youth make it imperative that a greater influence should be used to bring about the right motivation of the rising generation, and

WHEREAS, the State should provide an efficient system of general education, the church likewise must provide an efficient system of religious education. Such a plan in no wise interferes with religious liberty. In our great State there are more than a quarter million boys and girls of the school age receiving no definite religious training, growing up in superstition and ignorance, which tends to crime. In order to give these boys and and girls an opportunity and make Alabama a righteous State they must be taught religion. The Sunday School is the factory of the church for this training and every boy and girl in the State in their respective churches and organizations should be given an opportunity through the Sunday Schools for this religious training, and we can well afford to set apart in each year a special Sunday for the purpose of arousing greater interest and enthusiasm in the Sunday School work and each Sunday School in the State should appoint committees and visit families and bring into the Sunday School those who are not now being trained in a religious way, in order to bring about a better condition and more interest, in religious training.

NOW, THEREFORE, I William W. Brandon, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby proclaim Sunday, April the eighth as a State-wide Go to Sunday School and Stay for Church Day and call upon the press and the people of the State to observe this day set apart especially for creating a better sentiment and bring ing into the Sunday Schools every child within the borders of this Commonwealth. All pastors and religious leaders of all denominations and [illegible] are hereby asked to join their respective denominations in making State-wide Go to Sunday School and Stay for Church Day a Red Letter Day for stressing the importance of religious training. The boy of today is the citizen of tomorrow and every influence should be brought to bear to bring him into closer relation with any movement that tends to give him religious training.

I urge the pastors throughout the State to preach on the need of an adequate program of religious education on the above day to the end that in this State we may have a better citizenship, a more consecrated people, thereby diminishing crime and creating a greater respect for law. It is urged that those in charge of the Sunday Schools in this State use their energies for the upbuilding of our citizenship and the moulding of christian character of those who are to be the leaders of the future.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this the 9th day of March, 1923.

By the Governor:
WILLIAM W. BRANDON,
Governor.

S. H. BEAN
Secretary of State.

KEEP IT UP

The building fever seems to be registering a pretty fair temperature yet. Quite a number of dwellings are being erected and several old ones are being made over and "bungalowed" up to date.

Keep the saw and hammer boys busy and we'll have a city before you know it.

VERY LOW

The entire town is made sad by the information that Mr. J. E. Evans, a long-time citizen of Clanton, is lying at the point of death.

Mr. Evans has been in bad health for quite a while and his death would not be surprising at any time.

The absent relatives have been summoned to his bedside.

Our Verbena friends, every day in every way are making their splendid school better and better. Two new auto busses have been added right recently.

TO DRAIN SOUTHERN SWAMPS

The matter of reclaiming swamp lands is of great importance to this section of the country, where such areas as could be drained are so extensive. Such a project may be favored by the next congress. The West has had much attention from the government in the reclamation of its vast arid regions which have been changed from deserts to fruitful fields, and a committee from congress is now on its way to San Deigo, where exceptional opportunities are offered for the study of this problem. Representative W. B. Bankhead of Alabama, who is a member of this committee, is a staunch advocate of the government's turning its attention also to the South's waste and reclamable lands, and he hopes for the early enactment of necessary measures. Legislation to this end is expected through the co operation of representatives from the West with those of the South, for the needs of the two sections are identical, though the processes to be employed are reversed. The reclamation of the South's swamp lands, however, would be less expensive and more immediately profitable because of the simpler problem. The fertility of the lands thus to be drained is unquestionable and in their accessibility to transportation facilities there would be an immense advantage. Unlike the vaster drouth-stricken spaces of the West, the Southern swamps lie within easy reach of the railroads and navigable rivers. Countless acres of land as rich as any in the world only await drainage to add immensely to the South's agricultural wealth and to the world's supply of the soil's increase.—Age-Herald.

Ivan Edwards, who is now a student at Auburn, is here this week visiting home folks and friends.

"A SOUTHERN CINDERALLA"

The Stanton School Gives a Notable Entertainment At The High School Auditorium

Last evening promptly at 8 o'clock the doors were opened at the high school auditorium and the Stanton school put on the boards a splendidly rendered and highly enjoyable play called "A Southern Cinderella."

Miss Heflin, principal of the school, and by the way, a niece of our Mr. J Thomas, was simply fine in her interpretation of the character of an old "mammy" of slavery days. Many were the compliments passed expressive of the appreciation of the audience of her splendid acting

Miss Vivian Schuerter, assistant principal, also demeaned herself elegantly, and won many complimentary commms.

In fact, the entire cast are deserving of the very highest praise. Every member of the audience went away feeling amply repaid for the time, trouble and trifling expense devoted to the entertainment.

Among the others who went to make up the "troupe" we secured names of the following: Misses Ola Mae Parnell, Alma Schuerter, Mildred Schuerter, Inamaree Huff, Francis Woolley, the latter of whom played "Cinderella" to the queen's taste.

Between the acts some highly interesting and cultured readings were given by Miss Louise Dyer, who is matriculated at Howard College, and Miss Louise Gallagher, a polished young lady from Birmingham.

Both of the young ladies acquitted themselves with great credit and their readings were certainly greatly enjoyed by their hearers.

Clanton invites you young people to come and see us agin.

THE TANGLED SKEIN

A ROMANCE

By IRA PEGUES
Copyright Pending.

The cooing of the mocking bird to its mate or the pathetic appeal of the robin as he calls, cannot compare with the eloquence of this heart-strick en youngster, loveiorn, enraptured and spell-bound. His mind was set, his heart was set, and all the world could not change him. Infatuated as he was, he felt happy only when he was in her presence. It seemed he could hardly bear to be away from her long enough for her to go to lunch with her brothers. Evidently it must have been a case of "primo spectaceleum amo." Love took up the harp of life and smote on all the chords with might. The evening and the morning were the fourth day." Time for adjournment would soon come and then the time for parting of happy lovers. Some men say love does not come that easily, but is a result of long-continued association. Such men have never been in any real love scrape. Adieus were said and separation came.

Going back to his school in the famed Cumberland Mountains, he felt more keenly than ever the loneliness of his lot and hardness of fate. School the first day was a farce. A fifth grade boy shoved a book under his nose and drawled. "Teacher spell this word:"

"Spell it," bawled the teacher.

Estelle,' the teacher spoke prompt ly. "That's a girls' name."

The boy went back to his seat. In a few minutes his class was called. The teacher asked him to read. He began:

"The ... river empties---'

"What did you call that river?"

"... That's what you told me."

There was fifteen minutes of real comedy in the reciting of that lesson, but the teacher was not one bit of the fun. His mind looked at it from a different angle. To him ... the name of Estelle had been used in vain.

When school dismissed Sam hurried home and wrote the following letter:

August 4, 1914,
Hytop,-----.

My dear Miss Allie:—Ever since I told you good-bye my thoughts have been of you. Your very image is stamped on the surface of my brain. I think of you day by day and dream of you by night. Never in my life have I met a girl who made so deep an impression on me. The sheool books seem to be filled with pictures that suggest our happy hours together. Every time I see a word beginning with E-S-T, I thing of your ... A boy wanted me to pronounce Estelloche for him today and I called it Estelle.

As you sit out under the big oaks that shade your home, let your mind revert to the time we were sitting in the shade of those beautiful trees on the old---high school campus. As you recall those scenes, please think of me. I have been very lonely since telling you adieu. You have a part of my life, it is gone out to you. I feel that you do not and can never appreciate the depth of my love. When I play, I play with all my ability and when I love, I love with my whole heart.

Write me soon and cheer my drooping spirits. Yours lovingly,
SAMUEL HOWARD.

Several days past in the regular run of school work. Minor things take preparation for the daily tasks were not to be allowed to get in the way of his love-making. Like the hero of "As You Like It," he would write verses to his mistress' eyebrows. In his despondent moods he would quote Sir Thomas Moore's poem, beginning:

"Oh, ever in my childhood's hour,
I've seen my fondest hopes decay;
I never loved a tree or flower,
But 'twas the first to fade away."

It was on Saturday afternoon. The day had been spent in hunting to drive dull care away. As he was returning along the path that led from the post office over to the home of the star route rider, he spied that popular person slowly coming in with the past two day's mail. The carrier shouted: "Letter for you. Howard." Eager heart and anxious mind soon covered the distance between them. One glance told Howard the writer of that message for it was postmarked Fort----. Anxious as he was to know the contents, he took out a small knife and carefully slit the cuvelop so as to appear calm and self-possessed.

Fort-----,
August 10, 1914.

Dear Mr. Howard:—Oh! I can never tell you the joy your letter brought me. I had been thinking of you all that day. It seems so long since I saw you, I know it must have been a month.

Last night I went out to the lawn swing and as I sat there staring into the nightly stillness, my mind went back to the day we met each other. Oh, for that bliss again!

Surely you were joking about that little incident that happened in the school room. It does not sound possible. I would just like to "drop" in on you some day while you are having a ... Be a little more careful and don't give yourself away next time.

Gee, but I had the funniest time the other day. I met a Mr. Harris from near Sylvania. He reminds me of you in size and features. His eyes are deep ... Long hair combed back gives him a resemblance to you. And you should just hear him make love. My! that man is a perfect love-making machine. It is just as natural for him to make love to a girl as it is for the Chattahoocha river to come out of the hills of Habersham. Before I had known him two hours he had proposed to me three times and every time he did it a different way. He did sure sure as pie.

You remember those kodak pictures we took? They were all too dark. I am so sorry too, for I was very anxious to have one of you.

Write me often for I love to hear from you. Lovingly,
ESTELLE ALLIF.

Sam began school the following Monday with a new spirit and a cheerful smile. It was noticeable and more than once he overheard the pupils asking one another what had come over the "old man.' Little did he think how much really was imagined.

To be continued.

JEMISON NEWS

Over one hundred dollars was realized from the fiddlers' convention, which will be used to pay for school equipment.

For a long time Jemison has keenly felt the need of an accedited high school and now we have one. Prof. Lawrence received word last Tuesday February 27th, from the State Department of Education that Jemison Hi had been placed on the state accredited list. In honor of the event both High and Grammar schools joined in a parade and marched over town ringing bells and otherwise expressing their joy. Above the procession Old Glory proudly waved.

The whole town was awakened and enthused over the good news.

On Tuesday, February 27th, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Langston gave an entertainment for the high school in celebration of the receipt of the news of the school having been placed on the accredited list. Most of the high school body were present. Everyone enjoyed the occasion to the utmost.

On last Friday afternoon the J. H. S. base ball team motored to Thorsby and engaged in a terrific struggle with the Thorsby Institute team. The score was 6 to 10 against us, although our boys played well for the first of the season.

On Saturday evening, February 24th Miss Hazel Collum entertained a few of her intimate friends at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Darby and daughter, Constance, Mrs. Fitzhugh, and Mr. H. T. Watkins motored to Lock 12 Sunday afternoon.

R. F. Deason, route three, was among those who paid us a visit this week.

Are you doing anything towards getting a cotton mill here? If not, why not?

Shot guns and pointer dogs are taking their annual vacation now. The open season for earth worms and fishing tackle is with us again.

Wonder if the young men of Clanton are going to organize another winning base ball team this year. We see very little indication of it so far.

Why is it that some of our "idle rich" crowd have not started up a golf team here. That's the game of the rich and famous.

Small calibred people are the kind that have the big head. And the smaller the calibre the bigger the head.

Henry Ford last week paid $4,000,000 of debts that he did not owe. That's a big chunk of publicity to buy in one package.

The eastern war clouds are thickening. Soon will open up the lightning and thunder. Like most approaching storms, the "weird work" is traveling in advance.

Our intention is to go fishing one day pretty soon, but we are not announcing the date, because if we did the weather man would break his neck to have a snow storm served up on that particular occasion.

An organization has been perfected now to attend to the local drainage question. There is a good deal of preliminary work necessary before they can get ready to attack the subject direct, but, in good time, the project will be put over.

Villa, the American negro, who became notorious and wealthy as a Mexican bandit, is becoming restive again. He is not satisfied with his 20,000 acre ranch the government gave him to be good. He wants more loot.

A fellow could buy him two of the late style skirts now and have a real comfortable pair of pants by locking them together at the top. He would have to be a dwarf, though, or they would be too short.

Has America gone to seed in the way of great men? The Review of Reviews says there only four more men in public life today who have the broad and distinctive brain capacity of leadership.

The anti-Ku-Klux propaganda that emanated in such quantities from Bastrop, La., a few weeks ago seems to have vanished into thin air since the real court has taken the matter up. Governor Parker evidently failed to connect that time.

People are living too fast in this day and time. A novelty becomes out of date before you can get it properly introduced. The wonderful radio broadcasting system, with its cheap and simple receiving station, has apparently ceased to amuse or entertain.

The American people are the limit. They tax themselves fabulous sums for various objects of public welfare and then go on about their business, year after year, and see their good money squandered and never say a word about calling a halt nor adding a little common sense and efficiency to the game.

The first mocking bird of Spring sung for us last Saturday morning. We know you all did not hear for you didn't get up soon enough. It was barely sunrise, but his trilling notes certainly carried a bright vision of hope with them, for they sounded like the death knell of old winter.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Fifth Sunday Meeting of the Chilton County Association will be held at the Thorsby Baptist church on April 28-29. All the churches in this association are earnestly urged to send delegates.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

THE DRAINAGE PROJECT

Last Wednesday, in answer to a call issued by Mayor Gragg a large and representative crowd of citizens assembled at the court house to inaugurate a drainage project for the swamps lying adjacent to Clanton and the surrounding territory.

Organization was perfected by electing Hon. W. W. Fox as chairman and Editor Mac Wyatt as secretary.

A number of speeches were made and much technical information put before the meeting as to the proper and legal mode of procedure in a project of this kind.

The organization at present will be known as the "Walnut Creek, Poley Bridge and Goose Creek Drainage Project."

They have already mapped out their plan of campaign and, while there will be many technical matters to adjust, they know now the route to be pursued tand are going to move forward with the project just as rapidly as can be done to be consistent with the legal requirements in such cases.

This organization is in earnest and they mean business and their final success is already a matter of assurance. It will take time to make all of the necessary preliminary arrangements and to get the matter in shape for actual physical work to begin, but they fully realize all of this and the difficulties that may be in their way, and have already discounted them all and are going to proceed in an orderly and legal manner so that no future calamity can befall their efforts.

This movement is one of the most important to this section and is full of more lasting benefit and profit than any other single improvement that could be undertaken.

Not only will a constant menace to health be most efficiently removed, but as the same time many thousands of acres of soil, productive as the Mississippi bottoms, will be added to the agricultural wealth of this section.

It affords us pleasure to note this step and to extend to the movers in this enterprise all of the co-operation that lays in our power.

Now is the time for all of the good citizens of this section to demonstrate their local patriotism and, forgetting any and all other differences that may exist among them as regards other questions, to unite to a man on this subject of public weal and heartily assist, every way possible, the speedy fulfillment of this splendid scheme.

The bootlegger is of few days and full of trouble. If the sheriff don't get him, behold, there is Walter Gillespie who gathers him in. And if he continues to evade both of them, there is the invisible Ku Klux who lie in wait for his unwary footsteps. Verily, verily, his days are filled with sorrow and his nights with grief.

DON'T GROUCH

Grumbling and grousing don't get you anywhere.

Meet the world with a smile on your face and don't let it wear off.

Be polite, kind and considerate with big and little, young and old, black and white. They have right to live and be happy if they can.

Greet your friends pleasantly when you meet and make them feel like you are their friend.

Be honest, tell the truth and don't take a business advantage of anyone especially the poor and needy.

Let all of your actions be prompted by what your own conscience tells you is right and you won't go far wrong.

Give even the dumb brute the rights that belong to him and don't abuse him because you imagine you have the most sense. The chances are you haven't.

In other words, be a four-square individual, and you will be happier, live longer, prosper more, sleep good at night and won't be scared to death when you see a bad cloud coming up.

Try it out!

Read the ads in the News and visit the advertisers. Tell them you saw their ad in the News and called to see if they could do what they said. The man who sells goods the cheapest and largest advertises, as a rule, is always the man who sells goods the cheapest.

KEEP UP THE COTTON MILL AGITATION

Now that the drainage question has been taken up and put on its feet don't get it into your head that we must wait awhile on the cotton mill movement.

The carrying forward of the drainage work is only an added argument in favor of the cotton mill. So far as the financing of them are concerned one will not conflict with the other in the most minute degree.

With the swamps drained out we do away with the mosquito and the malaria that is said to wait on his footsteps. Our showing on a bill of health will be greatly enhanced abroad, when people might think, at present, that these adjacent swamps would cause sickness. It would not really look that way to those who do not know the facts.

The truth is now that the health record of Clanton cannot be surpassed by any locality in the State as it is.

But let's get back to the mill question. We notice in the paper every day or so where some great cotton mill corporation is preparing to invade the South. We also notice now and then, where some real live and hustling community has captured one. WHAT in the world is the matter with us? Why don't we stir our stumps and get in the game? This "secretive" work in things of this kind don't get you anywhere—if it ever does in any other line—let everybody talk, hustle and help. There will be glory enough for all of us if we can land a cotton mill. We are trying to do all in our power to secure a mill for Clanton, and if success should crown our efforts, we are willing to pass the credit along to anyone who wants it—just so we get the mill.

Be public spirited one time in your life, and get out and work and talk for a cotton mill in Clanton. You can have all the glory, for our part, just so we get the mill.

Let's dig a grave so deep that "even the arms of the resurrection" can not fathom it and bury all of the selfishness in our system and then come out whole-heartedly and help land that cotton mill.

WILL THE COTTON PLANTERS UNDO ALL THEY HAVE GAINED AND FALL IN A TRAP?

Indications from over the cotton belt are that there will be a large acreage in cotton planted. Fertilizer is moving out in huge quantities; country papers are quoting some farmers to the effect that all possible acreage is going to be put in cotton, and every effort made to produce a large crop to take advantage of the high prices occasioned by a small crop.

But, will the high prices continue if there is a bumper crop made? The Manufacturers Record offers a suggestion worth while:

It is true that the world is short of cotton, but the world is eagerly proclaiming this fact in order to encourage Southern farmers to plant an increased acreage. Back of much of the propaganda in this country and especially abroad about the world's cotton shortage is the hope of these who are proclaiming that fact from the housetops that they may thus induce the South, tempted by this shortage and by rising prices, to plant for a big crop. If the world went out that the South had put in a large acreage, and entirely without regard to whether that acreage meant meant a larger total yield or not, prices would instantly be beaten down for the coming crop and the speculators would once more reap their harvest of the Southern farmer and Southern prosperity.

It may not be so much of a speculation if the farm people will put their farms more nearly on a self-sustaining basis—but they won't do it. Amazing figures compiled by the census show that the farms with plenty of poultry, or with a good garden, or an orchard, are in the minority in Alabama. Presumably this condition obtains generally in the cotton belt. If every farm produced its ultimate in the way of foodstuffs, and cut down the outgo of cash or obligation, the owners could afford to gamble a lot on what cotton will bring. But, when most of the food is bought, and cotton money is swapped for necessities which ought to be produced on the various farms, it is a precarious condition of affairs.—Birmingham News.

The boys have put on that dying calf expression and the flappers are adding a more deceptive goo-goo look into their eyes. The oak tress are budding out and the dog wood out in bloom and by heck we are almost prepared to say that spring has come.

I several little hints that have anced to leak through to our ears. Some of the bootleg boys are "kinder" troubled in their mind as to what position the local Ku Klux are going to take on the moonshine question.

The thing that seems to frustrate the boys is that they cannot get a line on "who belongs." They are afraid to make a sale for fear the buyer may be a member of the "invisible empire" and proceed to report the same to the sheriff.

J. E. EVANS PASSES AWAY

Sunday morning, March 18, Mr J E. Evans breathed his last.

The deceased had been in bad health for several months and his end was not unexpected by his family nor friends. Mr. Evans was 63 years of age and had been a resident of Clanton practically all of his life. Before the hand of affliction fell upon him he was an active character in the business life of Clanton, having merchandised here for many years.

Away back in the eighties he was united in marriage to Miss Glennie Phillipp, who has made the long journey by his side and is left now in saddened widowhood by his passing over to the other shore.

To this union there came one daughter Miss Glennie, who is now the wife of Mr. Evan Parrish and five sons. Two of the boys are grown up and are in business in Birmingham while the other three being too young to leave the home nest, are at this home here in Clanton with their bereaved mother.

Mr. Evans had been for long years a faithful and devoted member of the Methodist church and, since the first days of his illness, there has been a vacant pew at that church that it will be difficult to fill by a more consecrated worshipper than the deceased.

As the biting winter winds swept the city of the dead Monday afternoon at one o'clock, a large and sorrowing crowd of relatives and friends gathered there to pay to Mr. Evans the last sad tribute of their love and respect.

Reverend C. C. Wilkerson, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Dr. S. J. Ezell, Baptist pastor, both officiated at the funeral services.

The following well known local business men acted as pall bearers: J. M. Nix, M. A. Gore, G. C. Armstrong, M. C. Broadhead, W. H. Sartor and J. B. Atkinson.

So has passed away another good man and the world is poorer to that extent. The News would respectfully tender its most sincere condolences to those bereaved ones.

CARD OF THANKS

For want of a better medium, of which we would avail ourselves were it possible, the bereaved family of Rev. D. S. Martin are taking advantage of the courtesy of your paper to extend the gratitude they feel toward the multitude of friends in Equality, Eclectic, Nixburg, Wetumpka, Alexander City, Rockford, Deatsville, Clanton, Marvel, Jasper, Tuscaloosa and elsewhere, for the kind tokens of love and sympathy in the irreparable loss of the precious wife and mother. All of these, we hopefully pray, we may be able to cherish not only in this life but that we may even carry them on to the great beyond where as an Angel band we may tell "Mamma" about it there.

REV. D. S. MARTIN and family.

A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it, I may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we live up to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and little in the next.

We are trying to practice the golden rule in this bank, and in doing so are giving our customers and public the very best service possible. Let us serve you in any way we can.

This is a rare opportunity for our Baptist folks to hear one of their great leaders. You can not afford to miss these services. No collections will be taken.

WINTER DIES HARD

Old Winter is giving up the ghost in a most spectacular manner this season.

During the past week he has pulled off two of the worst storms and blizzards in the Northwest that has visited that section in years. A snow fall of two feet on the 17th day of March is a record for Iowa, Nebraska and Indiana.

It is to be hoped that his supply of icicles is exhausted now and that he will politely and genteelly move out of the way and give gentle Spring a chance.

BE READY THE FIRST

Mr. M. A. Gore tells us that the large office apartments he is having added upstairs over his wholesale feed store will be ready for occupancy by April 1st.

Being so handy to the court house, we judge a general collection of lawyers will assemble up there.

MOVED OFFICE

County Solicitor G. C. Walker has moved his law office from over the Downs Wholesale house into his own building, which is just across Second avenue on Seventh street.

The entire building has not been quite completed yet, but the Colonel was anxious to sit down under his own vine and fig tree, so he had some office rooms fixed up and put himself inside.

BUSINESS RUMOR

It is rumored on the streets and among the trade, that Mr. Lee Smith, the pioneer wholesaler of Clanton, who has just severed his connections with the Smith and Downs Wholesale Grocery Company, will, in a very short time, open up again in a general wholesale business here.

Mr. Smith was the first wholesale man to break the ice in Clanton and is, perhaps, in better touch with the trade situation here than any other one man, and we predict for him, if he does open up again, a successful trade from the start.

HARDWARE TRANSFER

The old reliable Downs Hardware Store has changed hands twice right recently.

First, it was bought out by Mr J. J. Pickens, but in the course of a few weeks after his purchase, the health of his wife demanded an immediate change of climate, so he sold out to Mr E. M. Jones, who is now the proprietor and will continue the business at the same stand.

The trade is sorry to lose Mr. Pickens, but extends a welcome to his successor and the News wishes him much success.

MILLER-PINSON

Last Sunday afternoon, at the Baptist parsonage, Mr. George Dewey Miller, of Ohio, and Miss Vera Mae Pinson, of Cooper, were united in marriage by Dr. S. J. Ezell

Mr. Miller, we understand, is at present employed at Mitchell Dam.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Pinson, of Cooper, and is a young lady of rare loveliness and many attainments.

The News is sincere in joining with their many other friends in wishing for them a long life of happiness and prosperity.

DON'T fail to see the pretty Easter Dresses and Silk Sweaters at McDonald Mercantile Company.

THE DEADLY TRIANGLE

Across the railroad, in the rear of the New Wilson Hotel, grim visaged tragedy hurtled through the atmosphere for a brief period Sunday morning.

It was a chapter from the same oft recurring story—A husband, a wife—and another man.

The plot runs something like this. Some months ago an aged and well-known colored man about town forgot the snows of winter that lay heavy on his brow, and took to himself a dusky damsel for a wife.

For a time the aged birdegroom was able to bring in a regular pay envelope, but the day came, as it always will come, when he was no longer able to stand his hand with younger men in the battle for life, and the wolf drew nearer and nearer to their door.

There is where the tempter comes, and he arrived promptly on time in this family. Finally, the husband got wise to the state of affairs and he became vigilant in his watchfulness.

Sunday morning the tempter was on the scene and the outraged husband had all of his suspicions confirmed. Then chaos came. Armed with a big club and a gleaming double bitted axe the erstwhile loving hubby was transformed into an incarnate nemesis of vengeance as he went on the war path in search of gore.

His unfaithful spouse saw the handwriting of destiny on the wall and, grabbing a bundle of "duds" she dodged out among the lumber stacks and soon her flying skirts disappeared around the depot as she sought safety from the just wrath of her husband.

Other colored men quickly appeared on the scene and succeeded in diverting the chase of the avenger while his longed for victims made good their escape.

A husband, a wife and another man, correctly assembled, will almost always form this sort of a "Deadly Triangle."

J. J. PICKENS AND WIFE GONE WEST

Last Sunday morning Mr. J. J. Pickens and wife left for an extended trip to the far West and Northwest.

Owing to the impaired health of Mrs. Pickens, the doctors thought it best for her to go out to the higher and dryer climate of the far Northwest.

The travelers will make their first stop in Denver, Colorado, and possibly may remain there for a time, provided the health of Mrs. Pickens improves. If not they will journey farther out in the Rocky Mountain country. Their little children are here with their grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Downs.

HOW ABOUT A UNIFORMED POLICE

Far be it from us to knock on the city or its system. We feel like the present Mayor and Council are doing wonderfully well in handling a trying situation.

Before you criticize the management be certain to inform yourself in regard to the bonded indebtedness they are having to care for. Our splendid water works and sewerage system we could not do without, but they have to be paid for and this present Board are doing it.

But we certainly would like to see our police force in nice uniforms. It would look better for us in the eyes of strangers. Can it be managed some way? Can we put them in uniform?

LARGE BUSINESS DEAL

The wholesale grocery firm of Smith and Downs, which has been doing an immense business here for the past few years, has been dissolved. Mr. Lee Smith retiring, having sold his holdings to his partner, Mr. J. B. Downs.

The business will continue at the same stand under the new management and the store will, at all times, be ready and anxious to continue to take care of the orders from their large list of customers.

$1,000

The above reward will be paid for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of J. Thomas Jones on March 11, 1923.

NEED A MEGAPHONE, NOW

Some of the Ford truck boys have adopted a plan of fastening a section of stove pipe on to their engine exhausts to augument the noise. It works pretty well too, but we believe a large sized megaphone stuck in the end of the stove pipe will also help some. Try it out, boys, we don't charge you anything for the suggestion and always like to help you out.

MR. RETHERFORD WRITES ABOUT THE JURY COMMISSION

Editor Chilton County News—Please allow me space in your paper to say a little in regard to my appointment to the Jury Commission.

I want to say that I did not ask for the appointment. Three years ago I was requested to accept it. At that time I was working by the month, and I tried to beg off for fear I would not have time to attend to the duties as they should be attended to, but I finally agreed to take it and do the best I could—and I believe I have done my duty and can prove it by the other commissioners.

Not knowing that my time was out, on the second of January I received notice that I had been reappointed. I proceeded to qualify and the Secretary of State wrote out my commission and forwarded it to the governor for his signature. I understand that some "good democrat" went down to the Capital and held up my appointment. What is the trouble? I can tell you.

First, some of the people here in town know that I will do the right thing redardless—and that is something they could not do if they wanted to, for they don't believe in that policy when it comes to politics.

Second, because I was appointed by Governor Kilby.

Third, because with some of the best democrats in this county the fact that Judge Reynolds recommended me to the Governor is a good reason for them to be dissatisfied with me—in their opinion.

Now, here is the question—does this make me any better or any worse? Why, I once had a sheep-killing dog and while out hunting with him one night, he treed an oppossum. I don't care how mean you think a man is. Some time or other he will do a good deed.

Now why don't you people who are fighting me come out in the open and tell me about it? If I have not done my duty come and tell me about it. If you will prove to me that I have failed I will get out and give some one a chance who will. They say: "You are too close to the republicans—your son-in-law is one, and we are afraid you will not do the right thing."

Now, you fellows who said that knew that no bigger lie ever fell from a man's lips than that. And if you don't like it you will find me around the corner in my furniture store next to Carter's Garage. Also, if you are who I think you are, I will tell you something else that I can't put in print.

Now, Mr. Editor, I dislike to worry you but this thing got on my nerves. Just to think! Because Kilby appointed me to office when in fact no one else at that time could do it, and because a republican recommended me they want to knock me.

Furthermore, there has been a number of people ask me" why was it that their names were never put in the jury box." I could not tell, to save my life, whose name is, or is not, in the jury box. One thing I do know is that there are names in the box that have been there ever since I have been on the commission. We put your name in the box and the Judge draws them out, and if you stay in there forever we can't help it. If you will read the laws you will find out why some people are not in the box.

Well, Mr. Editor, I will wind up by saying that there are some people in this county so crooked that they think everybody else is too.

Respectfully,
G. D. RETHERFORD.

If it's in town you can find it at Elmores.

AUTO ACCIDENT

Mr. John M. Vandeveer was the unfortunate victom of quite a serious auto accident Sunday.

He was alone in his Ford and was enroute to Birmingham. About two miles beyond Pelham, owing to the excessively wet and muddy roads, his car suddenly skidded and went over an embankment, turning over three times.

Mr. Vandeveer is under treament in Birmingham and is quite painfully hurt, though our best information is that no bones are broken and that he is not seriously injured. His wife went to him on No. 2 this morning.

We all hope to see him on the streets again right away.

BUY YOUR CAR HERE

Did you ever thought of it? No less than nine of the most serviceable cars made are on sale in Clanton. The Lawrence Garage handles the Dodges, the Overland, the Willys Knight and Mr. Oliver McSwain is their salesman.

The Wade Motor Co. sells the famous Chevrolette car and Mr. Guy H. DeShazo is salesman.

Polk Bros. handle both the Gray and the Studebaker, and "Si" Foshee is salesman.

Mr. Guy Roberts sells both the Durant and the Star and he and Mr. Lonnie Parrish are both on the sales force.

The Clanton Motor Co. handles the old dependable Ford, the Fordson and the Ford truck. Messrs J. W. P. Murphy and L. E. Deifendurfer are salesmen.

Now, you see how it is. If you want a car, truck or tractor you can get it in Clanton. Or if you want any part or piece of either you can find it here. Or if you want a car repainted, repaired or made new, just bring it to Clanton.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to our friends our thanks and appreciation of their kindness during our recent bereavement.

RECENT STORMS

A week ago last Sunday night a terrific hurricane swept over Tennessee, parts of Kentucky, Ohio, Oklahoma, and several other states.

It covered more territory than is common with bad storms. It was not of a cyclonic nature but rather a hurricane, covering states in its march and blowing a straightforward gale. Some 65 people killed and many more wounded, mostly in Tennessee.

Alabama was not very seriously hit, though considerable damage was done in some localities, but no fatalities.

Monday night a similar storm swept across northern Florida, south Georgia and on up the Atlantic coast causing shipwrecks at sea and much devastation on land.

Again let us all be thankful that we have escaped so far and hope that the future may still deal as gently with us.

THE FREEZE MONDAY

From the best information we can obtain the fruit crop has been quite seriously injured by the Monday night freeze.

Pear and plum trees were pretty generally in bloom, also a large per cent of the apple trees. Peach trees were not quite so forward and many of them had not bloomed out, though the cold probably injured the swelling buds. Early gardens got it in the neck pretty extensively and, all in all, the damage will be serious and early vegetables and fruit will be scarce this year. The planting of corn will be considerably delayed by the cold snap.

Mr. J. S. Bone, of Autaugaville, was here recently. Mr. Bone informed us that his father, Reverend W. J. Bone, route three, was improving. We are glad to know that this veteran minister is geting better again.

We have been delayed with wind and rain and sleet and ice ever since. Our disposition to go fishing has been abandoned now until July 4th. So look out for open Spring weather.

According to an eminent American electrician, who has just returned from a year's visit to Germany, where he went to study up on the developments they have made over there along electrical lines, the Germans have perfected a plan for taking nitrates out of the air, that is so cheap that a ton of nitrate of soda will not be worth over $4. If that be true, the plant at Mussel Shoals, as a nitrate producer, is a collossal failure and Mr. Ford would not be in the game at all.

MR. S. M. EDWARDS WRITES AN INTERESTING LETTER ABOUT POSSIBILITIES AND NEEDS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Thorsby, Ala., Mar. 23, 1923.

Editor Chilton County News: Please give me space to say a few words in regard to the several nice enterprises our local papers are advocating.

I believe they are all needed and would greatly benefit the entire county and we should have them.. A good cotton mill and a cotton seed oil mill combined would be a good asset to the county;and a cannig factory would be of equal value to us farmers.

But one other thing that it seemed to me had escaped your consideration in looking over the field of possibilities for Chilton county, and that is a creamery establishment. This it seemed to me would be one of the greatest assets Chilton could have, no matter in which part of the county it was located.

Let us see just what a creamery would mean to us all. First of all it would give the farmer a real chance to diversify with a nice weekly income the year round. Next, it would mean more hogs to take care of the milk:milk is also a fine chicken feed, therefore, it would mean more chickens and eggs. It that all? No, it would give us a chance to use our waste lands as pastures. It would give us a chance to build our farm land instead of running it down with cotton so much. It would give more independent jobs than than anything else to your boys and girls, besides grown ups. Children could learn to be dairymen and become independent. It would create a demand for better roads, for we would want dairy routes to collect the cream each day.

Then think of the swamps that are about to be ditched out. Instead of raising mosquitoes, we could raise dairy cows, and make our property worth more. So I would like to hear someone else on this important subject.

Respectfully,
S. M. EDWARDS.

WILL RELIEF EVER COME?

For several years we have been paying more or less attention to the general modus operandi of the various law courts in Alabama.

Anything resembling a uniform system of procedure does not seem to exist at all.

Suits of the same nature appear to be decided under different laws in different law courts.

Even the ablest lawyers in the State cannot furnish you with any data as to what the probable outcome of some simple suit may be, nor the process of law that may be invoked to decide said case under.

Then, again, crimes are committed, the culprits haled into court and, perhaps, a conviction may follow and the prisoner be in the pen almost before he can realize it. Another case exactly similar may come up, with evidence equally as clear, some other section of the code will be invoked and the prisoner goes free.

Sometimes a conviction is obtained an appeal taken to the Supreme Court, the years roll by and you never hear of the case again. Where did it go?

The same crime under one statue is proven to be highway robbery, which technically, is a capital offense in Alabama. The identical same crime in th next case may be tried under a different section of the same code and the result be a verdict for petit larceny..

The whole procedure has become so nebulous and confusing that the common people are rapidly losing all confidence in the justice or wisdom of the courts and the majesty of the law, with many good people, has become a favorite subject of ridicule.

When the laws and their enforcement fall into such disrepute as they have in many sections of Alabama, can you wonder that law violations are increasing at such a wonderful rate as they are?

Every two years we send down a new assignment of "law makers" to Montgomery. They are not selected at all for their ability, experience and fitness for the job, they are just raked up hap hazzard from among the strongest ward heelers of the cities and the county politicians with the biggest pull and there you have the scrambled mass of intelligence that forms our collossal system of law.

This system has been in operation for a number of years. These illustrous assemblages of legal jurisprudence never take time to repeal any laws, but every one of them is so full of some pet local "bill" that he hopes to buy another term with from his constituents, that they go to trading among themselves and passing more "laws," until today there is hardly any crime in the decalogue but what is susceptible of being tried under, perhaps, a score of different sections of the code.

There must be, at least, three or four thousand different laws that we are expected to obey at one and the same time and the result is, hardly a citizen in the State ever retires at night without having willingly or unwillingly been made a criminal of by some one or more of our multitudious statutes.

The good people are too careless in this matter. They don't stop and see where they are going. The most of the voters, the male voters especially feel like when they have cast their ballot they have done all of their duty. We sometimes feel like that a large per centage of the people do more by voting than by refraining from voting.

Unless the future instills in the minds of the male and female voters of Alabama the necessity of voting intelligently, with due regard for what they want, and in selecting representatives competent to carry out their wishes, the existing conditions will go from bad to worse.

GAME SPORTS

There has been to date more than double the amount of fertilizer sold in Clanton than was sold here last year.

That means but one thing—the cotton acreage is going to double.

The farmer is a game sport and even a freeze-out game to a finish has no terrors for him. He seems to be willing to stake his all and make or break on the issue of one crop.

That may be good policy, but we can't see it that way. Still, we are with them, sink or swim. We certainly hope that luck will play on their side this time.

It is to be hoped that all the season will be propitious, that the boll weevil will utterly lose his cunning and that no war will break out anywhere to give the speculators an excuse to double cross the game.

If the seasons are favorable, if the boll weevil doesn't eat it all up, if no war breaks out, if the speculators all turn honest and get religion, if no labor troubles develop, if freight rates can be kept within the bounds of reason and prosperity smiles on all the world, the farmer will win and we will all rejoice in an era of good times next year.

These are just a few of the odds against the farmer in the game and it looks like a professional hand at the game should hesitate before staking his all on the game, but not so with the farmer. He is a dead game sport and if he looses he will cuss a little, abuse the merchants some, and give the government the devil and then he will prepare to play the same game over the next year if he can put up the stakes.

BACK FROM CALIFORNIA

Editor Chilton County News:—Allow me space in your paper in which to express my good will and best wishes to my many friends of Chilton county, upon my recent return from California.

I note with deep appreciation many important changes in Clanton and throughout the county, and also many industries of a higher progress in Clanton, among which are the expansion of the residential section, the construction of a new Baptist church and the contemplated erection of a cotton mill. These are worthwhile improvements and the lapse of time will bring to their supporters a greater appreciation of their importance.

It is indeed pleasant to be among my good Southern friends again and to enhale the atmosphere of the Southern hospitality again.

Respectfully,

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL AT THORSBY

Mr. Ernest D. Holmes, of Thorsby, was in our office Monday and among the other interesting things he told us that Thorsby was embarking on a campaign to have a consolidated school located there.

Thorsby has always been noted for its broad gauge educational policy and has, for years, maintained a splendid school, and we see no reason why that would not be an excellent center for consolidation.

Those people up there are hustlers and know how to do things, and we dare say they will land this school. Good luck to you, Thorsby hustlers.

BENNETT WEAVES GLOOM INTO TEXTILE SITUATION

His Claim New England Mills Will Be Driven Out Brings a Rejoinder That If They Do Succeed Under 48-Hour Law Citizens Will Lose Nothing By Removal.

A desolate picture of the waning of the state of Massachusetts in the textile industry due to the forty-eight hour law was today presented by E. Howard Bennett, editor of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, before the committee on Social Welfare. Mr. Bennett introduced a bill for the repeal of the law, but, before speaking, he presented a substitute measure which would merely change the law to make a fifty-four-week the minimum.

"It is not an idle threat that the textile mills of Massachusetts will move South. They are already started he declared. Mr. Bennett said that the forty-eight-hour law gives mills in this State but ten and one-half months' operation in a year as compared to the twelve months' operation in States averaging fifty-five and sixty hours of daily labor. The argument that increased speed and efficiency here makes up for shorter working hours had been disproved, and he quoted statistics to show the production decrease was in excess of the decrease in working hours. He said that when a depression comes in textiles it is the Southern mills which continue to operate.

He said that a mill had been offered for sale in Massachusetts at a price of $5 a spindle, were the replacement cost was [illegible] not a buyer can be found. Another mill had closed [illegible] on the law became effective and has not reopened. Only [illegible] mills under construction in the State but contracts have been let in the last year amounting to [illegible] spindles.

Mr. Bennett declared that the law was passed when the minds of the people were in a war frenzy, and that the law was at the behest of labor agitators. Out of seventy-two thousand textile operatives in Fall River and New Bedford only eight thousand are organized and that many operatives do not want their working hours restricted.

Mr. Bennett declared that Southern labor is not only cheaper but much more efficient than Massachusetts labor and that the South is conducting an agressive campaign for Northern mills by advertising free factory sites, cheaper labor, restriction of hours and that Southern representatives are now in this section asking mills to move. He denied that Northern mill owners created competition.

WHAT IT TAKES TO GOVERN A FREE PEOPLE

Some Things That The Average American Citizen Is Too Busy To Think About And Should

The Budget, a paper published by the National Budget Committee, introduces Americans to some figures which it will interest them even to read, even if it does not profit them. Speaking through Mr. William P. Helm, Jr., the budget explains that each one of us who labors with hand or brains is, on the average, contributing one day's work a week to the expense of governing this nation of free people. One-seventh of the annual earning of workers of every kind go to buy government in some fors.

One out of every 20 employed persons in the United States is engaged in the administration of government, either Federal, State, county or municipal. It takes eight and a half billion dollars a year to buy the government which the 20,000,000 officials administer.

Here are the money figures:

Cost of maintaining the Federal government, $4,000,671,954.

Cost of maintaining 48 State governments $1,008,[illegible]0,252.

Cost of maintaining 253 municipal governments in cities of more than 30,000 inhabitants, $1,638,296,052

Cost of maintaining the municipal governments of all towns and cities of from 2,500 to 30,000 population, $431,-287,059.

Cost of maintaining municipal governments in [illegible] incorporated communities of less than 2,500 population, $123,147,687

Cost of maintaining county governments in the States. $592,068,972.

Total cost of American government in 1921, $8,[illegible]587.

Please note that the Federal government costs more money than all the 48 States, all the counties and municipal governments combined. So much for centralization of power and duties.

If all this had to be paid in gold, Mr. Helm says, and all the gold in circulation around were put together it would not be sufficient to pay this cost for a year. If the national income of Americans is $60,000,000,000, and that is thought to be substantially correct, we find that the cost of government is 14 per cent of that figure, or more than one-eighth.

It can be said 3,000,000 workers were to contribute labor instead of dollars to pay for their government every worker would give as his share more than seven weeks' labor each year.

"Such is the price we pay today," comments Mr. Helm, "for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness under our present intricate and far-flung system."—Advertiser.

COTTON MILLS RUNNING FULL TIME

The surest index to general prosperity or the absence of it is the cotton mill. When times are good people buy more clothing and mills hum night and day to meet the increased demand. Having this in mind the Star man investigated to see how fared it with the local mills. According to the barometer reading, good times are ahead.

The two Ozark mills are almost at the peak of production and are sold up to about May 1st. The larger mill is on double shift with its 6,000 spindles turning out the finest quality of cotton yarn which commands a high price in the market and is much sought after for manufacturing the best grades of knit underwear and hosiery. Northern knitting mills on good orders are pouring in every day offering to purchase in large quantities for forward delivery well up into the summer. The management, however, is conservative, and in view of the rapidly vanishing stocks of raw cotton and the rapid and wide price changes, absolutely no risk is being taken by making uncovered sales for forward delivery. The contracts already booked for spring delivery and which are already fully covered by cotton purchases not only insures continuous production at full limit for several months but guarantees a handsome profit for the entire period of operation. The Rainbow mill is engaged in the manufacture of yarns of slightly lower grade than the older mill and is not as yet on double shift, but the closed contracts guarantee continuous operation for several months and a handsome net profit on its operations is insured. This mill is also being duly besieged with orders for forward delivery. Just as soon as the cotton requirements are in sight, more orders will be accepted and there is no thought of closing down either mill at any time. On the other hand the Rainbow mill will also go on double shift.

These mills are owned by home capital and under the management of home people. The directorate and official roster carry the names of a number of Ozark's most popular, conservative and substantial citizens.

The bi-weekly payrolls of these mills turn loose to boost Ozark trade about $4,000 a month. The mills are the city's greatest single asset.

New Gasoline Tax Law Will Require Dealers To Make Report of Gasoline Sold.

Montgomery.—Every retail dealer in gasoline and other motor fuel in Alabama will be required to render a statement of gasoline sold, to the state tax commission, under the law levying a tax of two cents a gallon on motor fuels. This opinion has been given the state tax commission by Harwell G. Davis, attorney general, in interpretation of the gasoline tax law.

The attorney general having been consulted as to ambiguities in the law.

The choice of words only will prevent retail dealers from avoiding the law. One section in defining persons involved in the act, stated that "The retail dealers shall include any person herein defined as 'distributor,' who is also engaged in the sale of gasoline as herein defined at any place in the state in broken quantities." If this was followed literally a retail dealer not engaged also in the business of distributing gasoline (wholesaling) would not be required to make reports and pay the tax to the tax commission.

But Attorney General Davis cited decisions of the court to show that the terms "shall include" does not exclude the general meaning of the word and that since the general meaning of retail dealer is a person who sells in broken quantities, retailers must make the report.

Acting under authority granted by the Brower bill which became a law in February the public service commission has issued a formal order for a revaluation of the property of the Mobile Gas Company and set the case for consideration March 12. Formal notice was given to the Mobile Gas Company by certified copies of the order.

The city commission of Mobile has voted to pay one-third of the cost of revaluation. Work will be started without delay and the public service commission proposes to make a minute inquiry into all elements which are recognized by the law in the establishment of a valuation on the property of the company.

The Mobile Gas Company is resisting in the federal court the valuation of $1,700,000 placed by the former commission under an order for reduction in rates, which was based on the valuation. The commission will seek to show the revaluation order has rendered the case in the federal court a moot one. The city commission of Mobile is interested in the revaluation because every [illegible] previous order [illegible] a valuation of $1,700,000 show[illegible] the rates based on this valuation consumers of gas would be saved from $50,000 to $60,000 annually, according to the estimates.

With all members present the recess code commitee has begun the work of reading and revising the draft of the state code prepared by Judge James J. Mayfield code commissioner. Sessions will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday until the task has been completed and a report prepared for submission to the legislature at the adjourned session which will begin in July. Judge Hugh D. Merrill, speaker of the souse, is chairman of the committee, Henry R. Howze, of Jefferson is vice chairman.

Will Blackman of Jefferson, negro convict, sentenced to death in 1918 for murder and whose sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Henderson, was killed by Sam Hardwick of Talladega county, short-time convict, at farm No. 4, Montgomery county, while the two engaged in a fist fight.

Copies of the general acts of the recent session of the legislature, in leaflet form, have been forwarded by Secretary of State S. H. Blan, by mail, to all state and county officers, so that they may be able to observe the proper application of the newly enacted laws.

David Roberts, a trustee of the Monterallo Mining Company, has concluded negotiations with Governor Brandon and the state board of convict supervisors for the labor of state convicts.

No decision is expected to be rendered by the supreme court of Alabama on the Mobile port amendment question before April when they hold their regular session.

Jim Hundley, Calhoun county convict, sentenced to five years for manslaughter has been released on parole by Governor Brandon.

For the first time in many months there were fewer convicts in state prisons at the end of February than at the end of any other month. The total number imprisonment when the records closed for the month was 3,076, compared with 3,112 at the beginning of February.

All records of the capture of stills were broken by the state law enforcement during the shortest month of the year. The total for the month was 124 or two more than the less vious months.

Summer had been passing rapidly. Many letters exchanged between the young couple. School was drawing to a close. Sam was wondering what he would do during the winter months. He was not able to go to college and his father was not able to help him. Should he teach or should he get a job at out-door work? The question was answered for him. That afternoon when he [illegible] found a letter from his father. It ran thus:

"Dear Son: I have been worried about you for no way seemed clear for you to get a college education. The other day I had a letter from an old friend living in Nashville. He says he is anxious to have him the first day of September and the work he is to will take him from home most of the time. He want me to send one of my boys to live with him and go to school. Board will not cost a cent. I wrote him that you would come on the twelfth of September. This certainly a God-sent blessing.

Time for closing of school came and all the patrons gathered, as was their custom, to hear the pupils recite pieces and to work problems at the board. By the middle of the noon recess there were more than twenty of the most eager supporters of the school gathered on the play-ground. A little of every thing was given from "Mr. Finney and His Turnip" to the "Boy Stood On The Burning Deck. A race was given in addition to see who could add eight columns of figures the quickest and with the fewest errors. The race was won by a red-headed boy with a pug nose. All things good and bad have an ending, so with these exercises.

The next day Mr. Turpentine drove the teacher to the foot of the mountain where a man from the teacher's home was met who carried Sam the rest of the way. Making preparations for college was an exciting time for Sam. He thought of so many things he would need. In all the rush he did not forget a set of thin pads that had been used for sliding down hill. [illegible] Having heard ex- [illegible] on "inspection" night. They were [illegible] and could be adjusted so as to arouse the suspicion of the wily [illegible] homorees.

Thinking it would be a great surprise to Estelle, he did not let her know anything of his plans to go to college. His surprise was destined to be the greatest for as he was walking up 19th street, he met her face to face. Her first exclamation was:

"Where did you come from?"

"Home. When did you get here?"

"Last week. Am visiting my sister."

"I am going to college. Father's friend from boyhood wants [illegible] stay with him as business will take [illegible] out tonight."

"That's the best thing I have heard You are sure lucky."

"When're you going back?"

"Tomorrow, been here a week?"

"Where does your sister live? Mrs [illegible] Lawrence Lowering [illegible] Avenue C Yes you may [illegible] call."

"See you at eight, goodbye."

Sam went and needless to say it was a bit of heaven on earth to him. He [illegible] that she had ever dreamed [illegible] countenance was continued to several years.

In the spring of 1917, the war drums began to beat and the flag of battle was beginning to unfurl. These came the formal declaration of war. the call for volunteers. the cry of "Down with Germany." The old fighting blood of the Confederate was too strongly [illegible] stilled in Sam for him to stay out of it. He volunteered. Then came the life in the training camps. In the spring of 1918 he was sent to France. Here real life began to be enacted before his eyes. Germany was making a superb effort to reach Paris before the Americans could be seasoned for the fray. In July came the last trump stroke of Bismark strategy. Back across the Marne the French were hurled. On the eighteenth of July began the counter offensive. wave after wave of American doughboys were pouring over the top. Back of them the artillery was laying down a creeping barrage. Boom, boom, boom for hours the cannon roared. A German shell fell at the placement of an American gun. When the smoke had cleared away, lying under a part of the demolished implacement was found an unconscious sergeant. A glance at the identification tag told his name as"No. 1234567, Samuel Howard. 234 artillery corps." He was sent to the base hospital at Lorent, where it was discovered [illegible] penetrated his [illegible]. Four months [illegible] [illegible] there, hoping against hope for a [illegible] sauce to return to the land of the [illegible] and the home of the brave. The nurses were so kind to him that he could not have any wish within reason which was not granted. But a wound such as his heals slowly and more than once the physicians felt some doubt of his recovery. Dakin's solution, a new medicine for gun-shot wounds, was kept on the injured places continuously. The old army-and-navy remedy, iodine, was not in good standing with the health officers over seas. Skillful treatment, careful nursing, and proper care of himself, finally brought bright hopes for recovery. The [illegible] and sunny autumn days were [illegible] [illegible] bright blue weather of October, to which he had been accustomed in America, did not seem to have an over abundance of loving af- [illegible] Lawrence. Lowering skies [illegible] rain, and ever present fog [illegible] [illegible] conditions most conducive to good health. But [illegible] good fortune, however, Sam got well.

There was no happier day in Sam's life than theone on which the doctor told him he was to catch the first homeward bound steamer. It was the [illegible] day of November, 1918, when with [illegible] joy, the ambulance carried [illegible] doorway, to the hospital and bore the homesick soldier to the port of embarkation. On the morning of the tenth, the Leviathan drew in sight of New York. The human mind is not capable of a fitting description of the sight that meets the eyes as the [illegible] pulls up to the dock to [illegible] nothing of the feelings which swell within the loyal true-hearted followers of the Stars and Stripes. As the ship passed by the Statue of Liberty, and Sam saw for the first time "the lady of the harbor," he was wild with joy. The words of Sir Walter Scott burned in his ears. He, too, could say with much feeling:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead.
Who never to himself has said:
This is my home, my native land;
Whose heart has ne'er within him burned;
As homeward footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

"There was a woman in the case.
The old man said, and down his face
The gushing tears began to race
Like streamlets on the lea.
"My life had been an endless song
And I was going good and strong
And then the woman came along
And ruined me!
She was a queen, a painted dame,
And I was young and played the game
And all my hopes went up in flame
Amid the evening shades.
A fortune stared me in the face
And all I needed was an Ace
I drew the Woman in the Case
The Queen of Spades!"

DRIFTING ON TO DOOM, TWO BOYS GO SINGING "NEARER MY GOD TO THEE"

The dispatches of March 13 told of Harvey and Tom McIntosh, of Mondamin, Ia., being marooned on a sandbar in the Missouri River, a sudden rise in the river having swept away their boat. Then, say the dispatch:

Their cries brought many persons to the banks, but all attempts to send aid to them failed, owing to a heavy flow of ice.

[illegible] perched themselves on a stump as darkness fell and water covered the bar.

Huge bonfires were lit by the watchers on the banks.

The crest of the flood came on [illegible] to the men's attempts.

"We have caught an ice cake," they shouted cheerily shortly after midnight.

And then out of the darkness of the river came the strains of "Nearer My God To Thee," that grew fainter and fainter as they floated away in the darkness toward the falls below.

No trace of the bodies have been found.

Somehow, the story seems particularly dreadful—but with the one gleam of brightness—the courage of those young men clingig with half-frozen fingers, awaiting the end bound to come in a brief period, yet turning their thoughts and voices in homage to the Creator.

And yet, how is it so different from the Stream of Life upon which all of us float for a little while—only, to go over into the dark abyss at the end? The surroundings may not be floes of ice and freezing water, but the rest of mankind is just as powerless to rescue just as futile, as those who lined the banks of the river and saw these young men pass slowly on to their doom!

Yet in that little space of time, much of it is taken in mean, small strivings for personal advancement; for the satisfaction of grudges and jealousies, to the wreaking of spites and vengeances the attempt to injure one another. Who can tell when the hold on the frail support will slip, and the individual disappear even before the allotted time in which to reach the brink? Yet the stream is full of struggling, writhing, lashing humanity—mainly endeavoring to injure those whom they think may have gained a better handhold, or whose position they covet! One of the most sickening sights is that of a carload of pigs being conveyed to the slaughterhouse. They are fighting, squealing, each endeavoring to hurt the other; crowding, shoving, tusking each other with a ferocity surpassed only by humans.

Close to the chasm, the pigs are still pigs. Close to the end sometimes mankind turns to the only solace. Only, most persons would be really nearer to God if they realized earlier that the current is inexorable and the time is brief.—Birmingham News.

Poor puny man, in his supreme egotism, may rant and theorize about God and His works. They argue and rave, in their infiniestinal orbit, about what "science" teaches and science cannot err and God and His works are only a myth—a bugaboo gotten up to frighten the ignorant and render miserable the lives of men and women. But when the grim mouster of death suddenly appears on the scene and the mortal end of all things stars them in the face, that underlying soul within our bosoms brushes aside all of these profane theories and reaches out for aid and comfort from that eternal source—that everlasting Being—whose sentiments and attributes are the only thing, in heaven or earth, that shine in harmony with the cravings of that innermost spark of life that pulsates to the last breath and can, in the end, see beyond the vail. In that sad hour all human sophistors melt into nothingness and only the great God will suffice.

WIFE PRAYS HUSBAND SHE SHOT MAY LIVE

CHICAGO, March 18.—Dropping to her knees on the floor of the Cook county jail, Mrs. Grace Hartley, pretty 23-year-old wife of Harry Hartley, a young mail carrier, prayed Sunday that her husband, whom she shot when he came home crazed by moonshine, might live.

"Oh, God, let him live," she prayed. "I know he loves me now and we'll get along so much better and be so happy."

The young wife told the police how she learned that Hartley really loved her as he lapsed into unconsciousness from a bullet she had fired into his head after an alleged assault.

"Don't tell the police you shot me, Grace, he gasped. "Tell them I was held up outside by three man. Then if anything happens there'll be no trouble for you. Do not forget dear."

Mrs. Hartley did tell the police about the "three men," but hospital attaches heard Hartley in his delirium moaning the instructions he had given her, and told the police the correct version.

When questioned Mrs. Hartley admitted she had fired the shot into her husband's head and explained it by saying he had come home crazed by moonshine.—Age-Herald.

MOVED INTO NEW QUARTERS

The Main Street Garage has moved this week two doors west on Second avenue, into the splendid new garage building built especially for them by Mr. R. Q. Wade.

The building vacated by them is being entirely overhauled and put in condition for a first class store house, and, as soon as it can be put in readiness, will be occupied by a gentleman from Birmingham with a general merchandise business.

BUILDING BOOM STILL ON

Mr. F. [illegible] Woodson is carrying forward quite an extensive building program up on west Fifth avenue.

Having just completed one nice bungalow house and overhauling one or two other dwellings he is now having erected another new bungalow. All of this work is up in the neighborhood of the city school. That section of Clanton will soon be full up with homes as it has built up very rapidly in the last twelve months.

OPERATED ON FOR APPENDICITIS

It was quite a shock to many of the Clanton people Tuesday morning when [illegible] was carried to the hospital for an operation for appendicitis.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin, and is a favorite with all her acquaintances and friends. She was so vivacious and full of life that she seemed to exhale health and happiness, and it is hard to realize that she should have been smitten with disease. The News certainly sympathizes with her and her stricken parents and earnestly hopes that she will speedily be back to shed sunshine on our end of town again.

NEW STORE OPENING UP

Mr. Thomas M. Parrish, who, for something like ten years, has been connected with the dry goods house of Mr. W. A. Kemp, and who has friends all over central Alabama, is opening up this week, a large, lovely and brand new stock of dry goods, shoes and notions in the new building just finished up by Colonel G. C. Walker.

Mr. Parish has had long years of experience in this business, not only as salesman, but as a buyer and is well up on the latest fads and fancies of fashion, so, no doubt, he will show a lot of the very niftiest cuts there are in up-to-the-minute styles. Give him a call.

A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we live up to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and little in the next.

We are trying to practice the golden rule in this bank, and in doing so are giving our customers and public the very best service possible. Let us serve you in any way we can.

CANNING FACTORY AND WAREHOUSE

The new farmers organization, United Farmers of America [illegible] one of the few institutions of recent times that depends on real work and demonstrated ability for its success, rather than on a lot of "hot air" with nothing to the way of visible accom-

This magnificent co-operative move [illegible] introduced into our county by Mr. A. B. Baxley, state manager, [illegible] like a year ago. Its growth has been phenominal.

[illegible] the membership embraces a large per cent of all the farmers in the county and its scope of actual the farmers has been extended until all the products of the farm [illegible] nder its influence and derive efits of its co-operative system keting.

Baxley and his efficient co-workers in this great mission of helpfulness, is still enlarging and broadening his sphere of direct marketing facilities and all of them are bending every energy in connecting up and [illegible]ating their already extensive connections with local conditions as they exist here.

The U. F. of A. made a most convincing appeal to the average farmer last fall in securing him a better price for his cotton and then again in the spring their influence on the price of fertilizer has been an object lesson that has made a lasting impression.

Then, again, while we have all been talking, and suggesting ways and means for locating certain industries here, they have gone quietly forward and have arranged to put up an extensive canning factory here to can for the fruit and vegetables to be grown this year and they will also build at the same time an extensive warehouse that they will use the year around, as a storage place and shipping center for any and all crops that may need to seek a market in foreign fields.

When the next cotton crop is ready they will be prepared to [illegible] store, and sell their own cotton, under their own supervision and on their own premises.

They have purchased 7 acres of land in the Gowan addition where their buildings will be located. As soon as they can complete the necessary buildings, they will remove their general state office from its present site on Second avenue into their own structure.

We learn that practically all of the stock in the organization has already been taken and several hundred acres already pledged to grow truck for the canning factory. In other words, they have forgotten nothing in making their plans and have worked out a system that is obliged to succeed.

During the months when the canning factory is in operation quite a nice pay day will be handed out each week that will go to swell our gross output of business. When the canning season closes the cotton season will be ready to open up, so still quite a neat sum in wages will filter out in to trade channels. In the spring time the seed and fertilizer business will loom up as an asset to labor and the pay envelope will still be a pleasing feature of every Saturday afternoon.

Clanton welcomes this new departure in business and everyone wishes for the enterprise unbounded success. We feel like this venture marks the first step in an era of prosperity for the farmer, and if for him, then all of us, for he totes the whole load.

EASTER EGG HUNT

Children all over the city are anticipating with eager glee the fun which is sure to be theirs Saturday afternoon when they attend the Easter Egg Hunt on the lot where the Weigle Curry tent meeting was held.

The party will be at 3 o'clock under the auspices of Circle No. 1 of M. E. church. All kinds of pleasures will be awaiting the little folks. Peter Rabbit will be there and quantities of Easter eggs. Candy will be sold.

Everybody is invited.

We learn with much pleasure that Jack Hayes, son of Dr. J. P. Hayes has made the base ball team at the Gulf Coast Military School at Gulf Port, Mississippi. Jack will hold down third base and you may count on it that whenever a ball is thrown to third base it will be held if it is any where that it is at all possible for him to even touch it.

FACTORY SITE CHOSEN

The announcement is made by the United Farmers of America in Clanton that they have practically determined the location of the canning factory on a very desirable piece of ground in the Gowan Addition, within the corporate limits of Clanton. It is stated that sufficient buildings will be erected, not only to accommodate the immediate needs of the canning factory, but office space to take care of the state headquarters of the United Farmers of America. A. B. Baxley, of Clanton, is state manager of this organization.

Much enthusiasm is manifested among the farmers about the canning factory, as this proposition is the first of the kind to be undertaken by their organization. In other words, this will put to the test the plans of the United Farmers of America for operating strictly co-operative institutions of this kind, and the outcome here is watched with interest from local people as well as national authorities of the United Farmers.—Birmingham News.

"WHY DON'T YOU ALL GO TO" SUNDAY SCHOOL?

[illegible] you do not know what you are missing by staying at home on Sunday instead of going to Sunday school.

Mrs. Hester has something worthwhile for her class every Sunday.

[illegible] is coming now and those beautiful Sundays we will have! Let's none of us fail to go every Sunday. I am sure when you go a few times you will wonder why you have not been going all the time.

The manner in which Mrs. Hester [illegible] the lesson and tell us the meaning of everything shows [illegible] shirking her duty at all. Why can't we be there every Sunday to encourage her by our presence? Our co-operation to carry the blessed work on. Surely she is one of God's chosen disciples. For if she was not, he wouldn't be so faithful to her work.

Mrs. Al Foshee, too, is always there and with her few well-chosen words and her pleasant smile, makes [illegible] feel so welcome and that your presence is needed every time.

Now, all of you who have been neglectful in attending, just make a start and see how much you will enjoy the time and the sweet words that our dear teacher has to say to us every Sunday. Long may she be permitted, with good health, to continue her good work. And may her class get larger and larger every Sunday.

A HIGHWAY TO SELMA

Some of the most prominent men of our county and of Dallas, are interesting themselves in a project to put a high way through from here to Selma.

It has always been said that you could not have too much of a good thing and we all know that good roads are good things, so on that ground alone we ought to have it. But aside from that feature, there are many cogent reasons why a road from here to Selma would be a wonderfully good thing for us as well as for our Dallas county friends.

In the first place, it would open what might be termed a trunk line road through the best and most progressive section of farming country in central Alabama, giving these good people a dependable road over which to transport their crops to market. They need it, they deserve it and they ought to have it.

Then again. Many tourists and travellers going South desire a route to the west gulf coast without having to detour all over south Alabama to get there. The State highway will bring them to this point and, with a highway from here to Selma, they would have exactly the route they want.

We are heartily in favor of this movement and trust the gentlemen who are moving in the matter will meet with complete success.

GREAT BRITAIN IS DOGGEDLY PAYING ON WAR DEBT, WHILE OTHERS MAKE NO MOVE

Whatever else may be charged against our British cousins and brothers in blood of most of this people, there is in the British a streak of rugged honesty and determination to do the right thing. Great Britain was the first country to appoint a debt settlement commission that actually functioned; and even before that commission was appointed, the British government was remitting every dollar she could spare to be applied on the interest on her debt to us. We drove a rather hard bargain on the settlement, but the British did not complain, but accepted in that spirit of game sports manship characteristic of the Anglo Saxon. She has [illegible] remitted $4,128,065 [illegible] on account [illegible] the [illegible] though the first [illegible] of instalment of interest of $8[illegible],000 is not due until June, and the principal payment of $28,000,000 in December, the remittance has come in to be applied to account. Other and more temperamental Allies haven't given an indication of when they will even talk about a settlement. Some of our people are prone to abuse old England, but John Bull pays his debts!—Birmingham News.

Up to this writing the democratic [illegible] favored aspirants for the presidential chair.

People are so full of deceit these days that a person cannot even rely on the evidence of their own eyes and ears.

If the world continues to operate until these times become the history of the future, this age will be known in every school book as the "Age of Graft.

Hog-weeds, Johnson grass and sucking dogs will all prosper without cultivation. But the democrats of Chilton should realize the fact that their party does not belong to that class.

The democrats of Chilton county devote about 30 days in every six years to the building up of their party. The other hand, our republican [illegible] ever sleep on the job. [illegible] no results. Truly, "eternal [illegible] is the price of liberty."

It is hard to say which is most [illegible] to a person. To stock up on [illegible] and really feel like the world could hardly do without him, or to "hide his light under a bushel" and [illegible] for the world to drag him out.

Sporadic fishing parties go out now and then, but you hardly ever see [illegible] return. It is said they slip back [illegible] night to dodge the horse laugh that awaits them when they arrive [illegible] the old time proverbial "fisherman's luck."

President Harding is going to try [illegible] job of President again. Having failed to redeem any of the [illegible] campaign, it would be really interesting to know what kind of "platform" he will erect this time.

[illegible] the arena emanating from guano has anything to do with its productiveness, there has certainly some been [illegible] this county this year that [illegible] wish the natives. It smells so perfectual awful, that all the insects, except the boll weevils, emigrate as soon as it enters the field.

What [illegible] on hole did they file the [illegible] anti-trust law in? We notice [illegible] meat packers have gone into a "merger" openly and in defiance of that old document. Big business can do any old thing they pleases when the republican party is in power. Poor folks and "yaller" dogs catch the devil, though.

[illegible] are some mothers and fathers around Clanton who have a penchant for abusing other young men and boys but they forget they have [illegible] and this one of these days with a thud that jolts the community, but these same parents are as [illegible] as the tomb. Chickens come home to roost."

The French Chamber of Deputies have passed a law that women must not appear on the stage in tights. They hold that tights are suggestive of vulgarity but absolute nakedness is "artistic," so in future their female stage dangers will have to appear only in the garments of nature. We predict from that the influx of bald headed [illegible] [illegible] will [illegible] the [illegible] of Paris to the limit.

The United Farmers of America are becoming a power in this section. They are investing in local property and are going to put the co-operative system of marketing farm products to the test. That is the financial salvation of the Southern farmer if they will stick together. Keep out of politics and put their many products on the market in a business way. All success to them. When the farmer prospers the rest of us won't starve.

Mr L. M. Rowell, one of the real democrats of the county and a much appreciated reader of the News came in Friday morning and brought us a sack of very fine Porta Rico potatoes. They were in excellent condition—sound as a dollar. If you need any seed potatoes, see him right away and he can supply you.

Sarah Bernhardt, a French actress who has held a leading place on the stage for 50 years, died last week at her home in Paris. Away back when we can first remember, she was famous on the stage, in the divorce courts and at maternity hospitals. She has always been worshiped as a great "artist" by that low born set who accumulate money without morals and who bow down at the altar of public immorality rather than encourage a spirit of personal chastity and decency

Wilton News.

Several years ago the Methodists here got busy and constructed an elegant church building that has been and will continue to be a credit to our live and progressive little city for many years to come.

The Baptists have recently erected an edifice of worship that would be a credit to a town much larger than Wilton. This building when completed, will cost about $11.00 or $12,000. It is constructed of brick and is well equipped for Sunday School work as well as church worship.

The people of this hustling little city are now contemplating erecting a school building that will be in keeping with their church buildings. In the not far distant future we predict that along by the side of our magnificent church buildings will be seen a school building appropriate for this day and time.

Joe Higgins, a student of Massey's Business College, came up from Montgomery Saturday returning Monday after a pleasant stay with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Higgins.

Professor W. E. Martin is now [illegible] in for the Ware Motor Company. If you want to purchase an automobile see Mr. Martin before buying. It will be remembered that he served as assistant postmaster here in Clanton for quite a long time, being thorough, efficient, courteous and accommodating. Remember, Mr. Martin is selling the Chevrolet car.

A ROMANCE

By IRA PEGUES

Although the ship arrived on the tenth, it was announced that the men would not be allowed to leave the vessel until the next day. About four o'clock the next morning the boom of the forward guns on the starboard side aroused Sam just in time to hear the beginning of the unison whistle of the factories in the city. Why all this unearthly din was too much. He could not believe the city was on fire for if so why fire the guns for a few moments. To quiet the passenger, the captain ordered "Full in." When all were lined up he gave them the glad tidings that the kaiser had taken "French leave" and the huns had given up the idea of eating Thanksgiving dinner in Paris." War would cease at eleven o'clock in France, and the firing had already stopped, the meaning of it all astonished everybody. It surely could not be true. There must be some false report. No! The inevitable had happened, the power in a sufficient amount had convinced the Germans that it was safer to eat wienies on the other side of the Rhine.

Writing out a telegram, Sam sent it ashore by the messenger boy who had come aboard. It said: "Landed here today. Coming South soon. To be discharged twentieth.....Sam." Every reader can guess the destination of that message. A girl's heart leaped up when she received it. There were two reasons for her peculiar feeling, one because she did not have any hopes of seeing "him" again; The other will be evident late

True to Sam's expectations the command came the fifteenth for the wounded men to entrain for the hospital at Camp Gordon to receive final examination and if physically fit to be given immediat discharge. On the morning of the twentieth he got off the train at Fort.....and took a taxi for the home of Miss Allie. She received him cordially and asked him a million and one questions about his experiences, but somehow she did not seem to be so enthusiastic over his marvelous, yet dangerous adventure, and misadventures. If he was surprised then he was shocked a few days later when he read in the daily paper the following article on the society page:

Allie-Harris Wedding.

The friends of Miss Estelle Allie were much surprised yesterday when she eloped with Mr. Charlie Robie Harris. They drove over to the home of the Methodist minister and were united for the "long journey through life."

Mr. Harris is an enterprising business man of Atlanta. He is in the grocery business, having a large wholesale house on DeKalb avenue besides his retail store downtown.

The young couple left for a brief stay in Washington City, after which they will be at home at No. 37 Peachtree street.

When Sam had finished reading the news item, he felt as though all his friends were dead; that the world was a cruel place in which to live and that it was useless for a man to aspire to anything. He retreated to the secret haunts of his own room, there to hide his grief from his home folks. After spending some two or three hours in secret meditation and serious reflection, he came out fairly well composed, in body, at least. Just what he would do was an unsolved question.

Christmas holidays came and passed without so much as stirring in Sam the slightest feeling of happiness usually found at Yuletide. There seemed but one thing to do; that was to return to college to finish his course. This he did.

Graduation day was the crowning day of his life. There was one boy who had defeated Sam in several contests in oratory, but on this day the sting was wiped away by the awarding of the Inter-Society Oratorical medal to the here-to-fore defeated boy. The thrills crept up Sam's spinal column as he arose stately and walked to the edge of the platform to receive the much-coveted medal.

After finishing college, it was only natural that he should return to the profession in which he was engaged before he started to get a higher education. So, we find him busy trying to secure a favorable location. He wanted two things: to get near home and to get a school where high school subjects are taught. After much deliberation and a load of letter writing he accepted the principalship of a consolidated school near Winchester, Tenn.

Here Sam learned that he had to unlearn some of the stuff pumped into him in college. He tried to work the finespun theories of the professor of teachers' courses, but to his utter amazement he learned that a wide gulf intervenes between the theoretical and the practical. The test of any teacher's ability is his or her success in crossing this gulf. Discipline was not difficult, though his very diminutive size would have led one to expect the children to have very little respect for his authority. His military training was a valuable lesson for him for it taught him firmness above everything else.

However much he may have wanted to be left to himself that year, he was doomed to disappointment. The people in the community would not let him brood over his recent troubles and love disillusions. He was put on a bunch of committees for the betterment of the surroundings of the school. He tackled the job with the stoical attitude which had developed in him during the late war. If a barrier arose he merely moved on until he came to it and then found some way either to remove the barrier or to surmount it. He had learned his lesson in the school of experience and was not daunted by hard knocks. He was a firm believer in the law that the force of the impact is measured either by the strength of the rebound or by the effect upon the receiving object. Many times did he recall the old saying which he had heard for boyhood, "The harder you hit her, the higher she bounces."

God works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform."

COOPER SCHOOL CLOSES

On Saturday, the last day of school, the students of the seventh and eighth grades with Professors L. T. and G. D. Graham motored to the Capitol City for a picnic. Everyone appeared to have that spirit which goes to make a day of enjoyment. The entire class had the pleasure of meeting Governor Brandon, who gave the class a hearty greeting with the "old time" hand shake which characterizes "Bill."

After the introduction to the Governor, he wade them an impressive talk in which he pointed out that the Governor is just an ordinary man with heavy responsibilties, and that every boy and girl has an equal opportunity of being Governor.

In all, the day was well spent, while the attraction seemed to center on Master Asken Rockett and Miss Lucille Taylor. Asken had the honor of being Governor for quite a while, the entire affairs of the State being turned over to him and he seemed to be well fitted for the position that was intrusted to him.

Miss Lucille Taylor's turning flapper [illegible] Governor a waited for opportunity for a "kiss" which seemed very [illegible] by the other state officials who were present.

From the Capitol the class motored to the principal points of interest in the city, after which they motored over to the river bridge and spread lunch. Of course, this was one of the principal features of the day.

En route home the State Convict Farm, at Speigner, was visited, which showed the boys and girls, to some extent, the need of an educationwhich will enable them to be better law-abiding citizens. The day closed with the trip home. Those enjoying the picnic were:

Professors L. T. Graham and G. D. Graham, Roy Taylor, Charles Moore, N. J. Robinson, Askew Rockett, Clyde Deloach, Leo Taylor, Pearlie Minor, Mary Wise, Lucille Taylor, Mae D. Jones, Pearl Grout, Myrtle Grout, Ethel Dupree, Eula B Taylor, Genie Grout Lottie Van[illegible] and Beatrice Grout.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Our singing society on Sunday was a large crowd of good singers. The directors were Messrs Newton Gilliard, S. M. Yates and Amil Boswell. Our organists were Miss Jewell McDonald and Mr. Amil Boswell.

Everyone is cordially invited to meet with our singing society for we are expecting good results from our new President, Mr. Newton Gilliard.

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

We are glad to announce the following speakers of our commencement exercises on Wednesday evening, May 23rd.

Dr. J. O. Williams, pastor of the First Baptist church at Athens, Ala., will deliver the commencement sermon. Dr. Williams is one of our own Chilton county boys and is one of the leading speakers (preachers) in our own state.

Dr. B. T. Waite, pastor of the First Methodist church of Bessemer, will deliver the graduating address, May 25th. Dr. Waite is a leading pastor of the North Alabama Conference and has strong and pleasing personality. He has a great attachment for our school, having been a teacher of history in the Birmingham Southern College. The Jemison High School and community of Jemison will receive a great benefit in inspiration in the visit of these two men.

March 23rd marks the end of the public school, but by special arrangements, the J. H. S. is keeping two teachers on till the 25th of May. We are indeed sorry that we cannot keep the other teachers on (Miss John Lee Thacker and Miss Belle Mammons), but as they sever their connections with this school in which they have so long and faithfully labored as teachers, we deeply regret the necessity of losing their helpful and endearing presence and most fervently wish for them a future of active usefulness in their chosen field of new associations and interests, and, remembering the good influence of their well-ordered life, we wish them a happy and prosperous future.

The J. H. S. base ball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Thorsby Institute last Thursday afternoon. The game was full of thrills throughout, but the T. I. came out victorious.

We deeply regret the absence of our much esteemed school mate, Miss Connie Darby. She is deprived of the privilege of attending school on account of her eyes. We trust she may, in the near future, return to her work in her usual hopeful and cheerful spirit.

The senior debating society again met and four of the pupils engaged in a debate. Those contesting for honors were Lloyd Langston and Rob[illegible] Misses Bea[illegible] Reynolds and Lena Glasscock—negative. The subject of debate was: "Resolved, That The Horse Is Of Greater Use To Humanity Than The Automobile." The affirmative side was victorious.

Miss Kathleen Ross entertained a few of her friends at her home last Tuesday evening.

The Home Economics class are busy planning for a spelling match against Jemison. There will also be in connection with this, a heated debate between two of the sophomores against two of the seniors. Everybody is cordially invited to come and take a part in the spellings match. This event will be given from the "Old Blue-back Speller.

Miss Mary Johnson and brother, entertained a few friends at their home last Saturday evening. The reception was greatly enjoyed by those present. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Ralph Glass made a visit to Clanton last Saturday night.

Mr. R. B. Johnson and Leo Langston motored out to Center Hill church last Sunday evening and enjoyed the singing.

MACEDONIA NEWS

"When it's hot, we want it cold, and when it's cold we want it hot—We want it what it's not." Anyway we have just experienced some very cold weather for March, and the farmer, more than anyone, has to baffle with the weather. However, they are getting in some time plowing and will soon be ready to plant.

The little infant of Mr. and Mrs. David Vines, of Mitchell Dam was brought to Macedonia for interment last Thursday.

Mrs. Mamie Veazey went home with Mrs. David Vines and her son Wilbur, last Thursday and will stay until Sunday.

SAMARIAH B. Y. P. U.

Last Sunday night the Samariah B Y. P. U. put on a program at the Baptist church here.

Promptly at 6:30 the meeting was opened by the president, Mr. Z. J Mims.

After a few remarks by the president the numbers were taken up in order and well rendered by those serving on the program.

Mr. G. F. Harris conducted the Bible Drill, making it a general lesson by asking personal and practical questions.

The introduction of the lesson for the evening was given by Miss Vallie Allred. "The Monthly Concert of Prayer," by Dewey Mims. "Cary Sails for India," by Ida Smith. "The First Foreign Mission Board," by Miss Mary Pearl Johnson. "American Baptist Organize" by Edgar Johnson. "The [illegible] Convention" by Miss Fran[illegible] "The Southern Baptist Convention," by Mrs. Lois Mims. "The Seventy-Five Million Dollar Campaign by Miss Lillian Dennis. "Recognition of Visitors by the President, Mr. Z. J Mims.

Each one on the program did his or her part well. In addition, no one had to use the "Quarterly" to render his or her part appropriately and effectively. Thus we see what can be accomplished when several persons of mature years will take charge and aid the young people in the kind of work that means so much at the present as well as in the future to our boys and girls.

After singing a hymn we were dismissed after prayer by Mrs. G. F. Harris.

The Young People's Union at Samariah has a cordial invitation to visit us at any time.

Masey Jones, not "Casey" James Huckabee, Chief of Police J. Harvey Foshee and the business manager of the News motored to Mitchell Dam Sunday in Mr. Jones' new Star.

GOOD ROADS MEET AT SELMA

Editor Chilton County News.

Dear Sir: A delegation from the western part of the county was here last Saturday in the interest of a good road from Selma to Clanton and invited as many of our citizens as could conveniently do so, to come to Selma next Thursday to be at a meeting of the State Highway Commission in the interest of this proposed road.

I intend going to the meeting if I can get off from my office. It seems to me that this road would be a great benefit to Chilton county. It would give us an outlet west that we need, and I feel like our people will be glad to see this road built.

I hope there will be a good number of our people at the meeting.

Respectfully,
L. H. Reynolds.

THE BITERS BITTEN

It is evident that the proprietor of Piggly Wiggly stores doesn't want the stock of his company to be made the sport of gamblers in Wall Street. Consequently he went out and bought up all he could on the stock exchange and incidentally caught a lot of speculators on margins. The stock exchange ordered no more trading of the stock within its jurisdiction, which appears to be just what the chain store president wanted to accomplish. Perhaps Wall Street wouldn't have accommodated him if it had learned the true situation earlier. Gambling in stocks adds nothing to their value, while flurries in stocks are apt to cause distrust of the security on which they are based. The feature of the stock exchange which permits and invites speculation of the sort that seeks to profit by the other fellow's gullibility is of the same reprehensible kind that is forbidden by law in other games of chance. There is many a stage skillfully set to ensnare the unwary into purchase of stocks in which there is produced an artificial activity, and to short sales in the hope of great profit. Such fluctuations in values are often fictitious and due to some deep laid scheme to obtain money under false pretenses. It is no wonder that the officials of a reputable concern are beginning more and more to object to such manipulation of their stock and are moved to resolve them from such bandying back and forth.

WHICH REMINDS US—

Now that the campaign for presidential nominations has been tentatively opened by the announcement that President Harding would be willing for another term the people are going to hear more about party spirit than for many months. Party spirit may be expected to run high. All kinds of claims are going to be made on both sides. Pointing with pride and viewing with alarm will resume business at the old stand.

All of which reminds us of an observation by Thomas Carlyle when writing about the high party spirit in England during his active career. He said: "But there's no party spirit like the spirit of the party next door who is not invited to the party." How often do we come in contact with just such a situation these modern days of political and other climbing!—Age-Herald.

ROBINSON—COX

A marriage of wide interest in this section occured at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cox, on fourth avenue, last Saturday morning at 8 o'clock.

Miss Lurline, the lovely and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cox, was led to the matrimonyial alter by Mr. Earl C. Robinson and they were happily united in marriage by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the first Baptist church

The home was tastefully decorated with ferns and pot flowers and presented a most lovely setting for the nuptial event.

Only invited friends and relatives were present.

The bride was robed in an exquite bridal dress, with all of the accompanying trimmings that go to make up an elegant and appropriate costume for such happy occassions.

Miss Cox has only just bloomed into the beauties of womanhood and has been an active and enthusiastic worker in the various charitable, educational and social endeavors of the community and in her marriage the younger set have lost one of their most tireless workers.

The happy groom Mr. Earl C. Robinson, is a young man of sterling worth and high moral character. He has been, for a number of years, an employee of the Alabama Power Co. and is now holding a responsible position with that company.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left by automobile for Calera, where they caught No. 1. for a honeymoon trip to New Orleans and other points.

We feel like we voice the unanimous sentiment of the entire community when we extend to this happy young couple our very best wishes for a long, prosperous and happy trip across the matrimonial sea.

STANTON'S NEW SCHOOL BUILDING.

For several months it looked like the people at Stanton were going to fall down on the proposed new accredited high school building. However, those of us who took that view of it were not aware of the citizenship that prevailed in that little city and surrounding territory.

The completion of their modern, well equipped, commodious school building is now an assured fact. When completed it will have seven or eight recitation rooms, music room, and an auditorium that will seat six or seven hundred people on any occassion. Up to the present time Jemison has been the only town in Chilton who had gone forward with her building as this day and time demanded, but now Stanton can be ranked right along with her in rising up to the occassion and doing her full duty toward her boys and girls and thereby assuring the future of an intelligent lawabiding and frugal people who know the value of a truly educated citizenship.

MR. FRANK ROGERS and Children

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURAL TRAINING SCHOOL LOCATED AT ISABELLA

Last Friday, March 30, the State Department of Education through the recommendation of the County Board of Education decided definitely to locate a Vocational Agricultural Training School at the site now occupied by the Isabella school.

The leading citizens of that community and the adjoining communities have by no means been sleeping along the needs of a more highly educated citizenship together with a practical educational along vocational and agricultural lines. They are preparing to make rural life on the farm as attractive or even more so than in the city. Thus they have gone down the line and raised a large sum of money for the exclusive purpose of equipping a building which the State and Federal government will accept. This building must contain class rooms and shops as well for the industrial training. The local community must furnish not less than $650.00 worth of equippment in addition to the building necessary to run such a school. The government also requires one acre of land to go with the building fenced against chickens, hogs, rabbits etc.

From the above briefly stated facts it will be readily seen that the people in the Isabella district realize what Rosseau meant when he said, "God made the country, but man made the town."

The following leading citizens of that part of the county were on hand lats Friday to show their interest zeal and determination for the cause of education.

Prof. J. D. Griffin, D. M. Martin, D. O Manning, T. L. LeCroy, W. H. Veasey, A. D. Martin, R.L. Veasey, S. J. M. Webb, W F DeShazo, H C Childress, W. M. Wright, R. L. Williams, and W. M. Walker.

MRS. FRANK ROGERS DIED WEDNESDAY NIGHT MARCH 21st.

Mrs. Frank Rogers who lived four and one half miles north of Clanton, died at her home March 21st at ten thirty after being confined to her bed seriously ill for the past two months. She was buried at New Salem cemetery Friday morning at eleven o'clock. The funeral services were held at the church being conducted by Rev. Lowery of Thorsby.

Mrs. Rogers was born in 1863, living in Chilton county her life time. She was a faithful neighbor in her community and was loved by everyone. Her loss will indeed be one of sorrow

She was a member of New Salem Baptist church and lived a christian life which speaks for itself to all who knew her.

She leaves her husband, Mr. Frank Rogers, one son, Mr. Sam Rogers and two daughters, Mrs. Jasper Oakes and Mrs. Cola Belle Teel, also a number of sisters two brothers and ten grandchildren.

A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we live up to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and little in the next.

We are trying to practice the golden rule in this bank, and in doing so are giving our customers and public the very best service possible. Let us serve you in any way we can.

THE TANGLED SKEIN

A ROMANCE

By IRA PEGUES
Copyright Pending

This heart-broken, dejected, love born, brooding, piece of would-be manhood kept at the trade of profession of teaching. He made a fair success everywhere he went, but his success never was heralded on the front page of the daily press. In all the All-wise providence of an Omnipitent Heavenly Father. The simple faith of his childhood was too firmly implanted in his nature to be shaken by the gentle breezes of this world With purpose fixed and eyes on God he kept steadily on, trusting in the right to prevail. "Know you are right and then go ahead." Right did prevail; something did happen. A wonderful effect it had on Sam too.

One day just after the close of the school year, Sam received this telegram:

"Mr. Harris very sick, asks for you. Come."

However embarrassing it must have been, his old love for Estelle bade him catch the first train for Atlanta He found HER husband lying at the point of death. Callig Sam to the bedside, the husband said: "My friend I am not going to live long; my time is almost here. Estelle loved you once, she loves you yet. Won't you be her friend and see that she does not suffer want?" Sam was loth to speak but finally said: "Mr. Harris, I poured out my whole life to your wife. She was the apple of my eye; the one end of all my hopes and dreams. To serve her will be a treasured pleasure. I told her I would always love her, I hate to say it but I have to tell you that I have loved altho she has been your lawful wife. God has so made me that I can never forget. The better part of my nature went out when she went to you. I did not blame either of you. You had a perfect right to win her and she had a perfect right to choose the man of her own heart's longing. I pledge you now that so long as it is in my power to help, she shall never suffer harm nor come to want."

Calling his wife to the bed, Mr. Harris said: "Estelle, I sent for Mr. Howard for I knew he was a old sweetheart of yours. I knew he could be counted on, for true love once on fire in the lowest depths of the heart never burns out. He has promised to befriend you on all occasions. I can now die in peace. Kiss me goodbye." As she laid him back on his pillow, his soul left the body and began its flight on the wings of angels to the home not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens. Tears began to rain from the eyes both the wife and the friend.

The days of mourning passeed at last. Long drawn-out days were they to the ever anxious heart of Sam. He had too much respect for Estelle to even to see her unless he had some business for he was afraid people might not understand the motive of his visits. When the three years of mourning had pased, one day the courage rose in him. He dared to talk of the old days; of the days when they were in the high school building; of the time spent under the shade trees on the the campus. She told him how many time she had thought of it after she had married. Her life was not the full life; it was overshadowed by the pleasant reminiscences of the old days with Sam and the htought of what "it might have been." Very calmly he told her that his love had never died; how that when she disappointed him and married the other man he had gone into his room for two hours and there had fought out the battle with his inner man. To the outsider there was little to show his true feeling, so completely had he won the victory in that battle with himself back there in his private quarters.

The floweres are blooming, the birds are calling to their mates to come away to the tree-tops through which the gentle breezes sigh as they scuffle among the leafty boughs. Earth is all aglow! Nature and nature's God rule supreme in the elements. Down the lane of life comes a couple who have just begun their journey together. He is radiant in the love of his mate; she in the joy of his protecting care. As they pass on from our sight there seems to come a voice out of the clouds bespeaking for them for them a journey of unending fellowship and beckoning them to land that lies beyond the veil. In accents almost stilled by distance I hear her whisper. "Sam." He murmers softly, "Estelle."

COLDEST EASTER DAY

The coldest April day ever experienced at many points east of the Mississippi river today brought Washington an Easter temperature as low as 15 degrees, seven under the record set April 19, 1905, and lower than ever registered after March 21 in any year since establishment of the weather bureau here in 1870.

Fair weather prevailed almost general cast of the Rocky mountains, however, and late in the day temperatures mounted in the Atlantic states, the lake region, the Great Central valleys and the plains states. Local rains were reported in the plateau region and the Pacific states while snows were in the eastern portion of the northern Rocky mountain region.

A rapid rise in temperature in the vicinity east of the Mississippi was promised for tomorrow an Tuesday but that did not save the day for the traditional fashion parades.

Washington's Easter demonstration consisted chiefly of a large number of comfortably dressed spectators and a few shivering flappers.—Age Herald.

GRAY DEMONSTRATION

George Polk, of the firm of Polk Bros. local dealers for Gray motor cars, promises to give us a demonstration, on the streets of Clanton next Saturday April 7th, to show the stability of the Gray car. If you are a motor car driver who cringe and trimble at the sound of slashing gears, and whose soul is filled with a great fear of repair bills, and there are lots of people who do not drive just for this reason—maybe you are one of them, andif you are, and just the same if you are not, you will be astounded at the demonstration. We do not know just what George is going to pull off, whether it is make the Gray car walk, shimmy or what not, but he promises us that it will be stunts never before attempted on the streets of Clanton. So if you are interested in motor cars and want to one put to the supreme test, do not fail to see George pull off this thrilling demonstration Saturday.

MAKE YOUR VOICE HEARD

Secretary Mellon of the treasury, in a letter to Representative Fordney, chairman of the committee on ways and means of the house of representatives, says: "Ordinary expenditures for the first three quarters of the fiscal year, 1921, have been $3,783,771,996.74, or at the rate of about $5,000,000,000 for the year. . . According to the latest estimates of the spending departments. . . ordinary expenditures during the fiscal year, 1922, including interest on the public debt, will be over $4,000,000,000.

"The nation cannot continue to spend at this shocking rate. As the President said in his message, the burden is unbearable, and there are two avenues of relief. 'One is resistance in appropriation and the other is the utmost economy in administration.'"

R. C. Ledlingwell, formerly an assistant secretary of the treasury, whom I have quoted previously in these articles, and who is still deeply and actively interested in securing retrenchment in national expenditures, commenting on this utterance of Secretary Mellon, says: "Why should there be retrenchment in public expenditure? Why does the secretary of the treasury speak of current and estimated expenditures as shocking? What is the evil that we are discussing and what is its effect?

"Government expenditures must be met from taxes. To the extent that they are met promptly from taxes and from honest taxes directly laid upon the incomes of the people, and in proportion to those incomes, exaggeration of the evil of government expenditure is avoided. Government expenditure takes the money of all the people for the supposed benefit of a portion of the people, honestly or dishonestly, equally or unequally, avowedly by direct taxation, or surreptitiously by the indirect taxation which results from inflation of currency and credit and of the public debt.

"Government expenditure takes the fruit of the earth and the labor of the people and diverts them from the productive and reproductive enterprises of men, from the natural enjoyment of the men, who by their prudence, foresight and effort, created the wealth and made it available, to the sometimes benevolent and sometimes belligerent, but almost always economically wasteful, purposes of government.

"Government exploits all of us for the benefit, or supposed benefit, of some of us. Yielding to the vague aspirations of men for a better world or a better distribution of the good things of this earth, government imposes upon all of us ever-increasing burdens in the effort to benefit vociferous and organized minorities.

"Each of the executive departments is concerned to improve its service and to discover new and useful fields of service. The entire organization of the army, of the navy, of each of the departments, independent offices and agencies of the government, is devoted to an important task. Its particular function seems of vital usefulness, even necessity. Experts in each are alive to its defects and to the opportunities for usefulness which have not been availed of.

"The secretary, or other head of the department, drawn from private life, perhaps wholly ignorant at the outset of the nature and extent of its problems, promptly becomes the advocate of the policies and demands of his permanent assistants and bureau chiefs. If he does not become such advocate, he may break down the morale of his organization and possibly lose the confidence of his personnel.

"Behind it all is the pressure of organized interests in the constituencies, which are the beneficiaries of specific expenditurer, operating upon politicians, executive departments, senators and congressmen. The strident voice of greed is heard in the market place and in legislative halls; the voice of the people is barely audible.

"The fact that each project is considered separately, without reference, either in executive departments or congress, to ways and means of financing it, prevents concentration of popular opinion on the awful total. All agree that there must be economy, but as each item is presented all seemingly agree that that is not the proper field for economy. There must be economy, but there must be a merchant marine, whatever the cost. There must be economy, but the government must pay high wages to railroad employees and furnish transportation on the railroads at less than cost. There must be economy, but the World war soldiers must have their bonus. There must be economy, but Civil war pensions must be increased. There must be economy, but we must prepare for war, regardless of expense."

You know this is true. The new budget law will help very much this condition, but unless you are interested, continuously, actively, openly interested, your money will not be saved.

D. A. Morton and Dr. W. E. [illegible] have been exonorated of charges of malpractice in performing a surgical operation by a jury in the circuit court at Gadsden. A $50,000 damage suit was brought by Mrs. Mattie Stewart who alleged that her husband, J. L. Stewart, died at the conclusion of an operation due to negligent administering of choloform but the jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

Twenty-one members of the graduating class of 1923 in the school of arts and sciences at the University of Alabama have been elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa honor fraternity, acknowledged the highest honor that can come to a college graduate. The number selected is the greatest chosen from any graduating class of the University as only 15 per cent can be chosen from any class.

Milk inspection which has been confined to the large dairies serving Gadsden and neighboring cities will be extended to all sources, large and small, by the county board of health, it has been announced. It is said by this means every person who sells milk in any quantity in Gadsden, Alabama City or Attalla, must submit to an inspection and regulation of his premises, barns and cows.

Alabama's capital is looking forward to one of the greatest building booms ever recorded within its limits for the present spring. Almost daily word of a new structure that is to be erected comes in, and business men state that it all indicates that an unprecedented era of prosperity is in the offering for Montgomery.

Assistant Sanitay Engineer H. G. Menke, of the state board of health, has completed his work at Albany-Decatur and returned to Montgomery. Mr. Menke's work was to see that the right dosage of chemicals had been placed into the new 1,000,000 gallon coagulation basin lately put in by the Alabama Water Company for the Twin Cities.

Gas rates in Montgomery and surrounding suburbs will be materially reduced on April 1, according to a scale of rates announced by the Alabama Power Company. The scale, it is said, has been satisfactorily passed by the Alabama Public Service Commission.

State Fire Marshal Johnson has been notified that four school buildings have been burned in St. Clair county during the past 30 days and that information indicates that fire bugs are responsible. An investigation is being made.

Five hundred bales of cotton were destroyed in a fire that totally destroyed warehouse No. 4 of the Montgomery Warehouse Company at Montgomery recently. The total loss by the blaze is said by officials of the company to approximate $60,000.

From preparations being made by the farmers of Coosa count, a larger acreage will be planted in cotton this year than last. Commercial fertilizers are being received and many young mules are being sold over the county for farming purposes.

One of the most profitable and pleasant trade stunts ever undertaken at Albany-Decatur will be repeated early this summer when the entire county will be visited by the Twin Cities "booster" party.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the United States Army air service, accompanied by Maj. Roy Brown, of the local air station, from Jacksonville, Fla., recently inspected Montgomery's air station recently.

Work on the Boy Scout camp in Walker County wil begin on March 21 and scouts will gather from al parts of the county to put up the buildings. The scouts will do the work under experienced carpenters.

The recent rise in cotton is proving a great incentive for the farmers all over the state to double their efforts in cultivation and already there has been a heavy increase in the acreage compared to the acreage last year.

The Mobile County School Board has selected a site for its new $700,000 high school and has selected Dwight Perkins, of Chicago, as the expert architect to compile the speci[illegible]

[illegible] compiled by the banks and [illegible] sales day held there [illegible] the largest, ever achieved in Oneonta in one day. People from all over Blount county attended the event.

The Jefferson County Poultry [illegible]ion recently distributed 400 [illegible]gs of eggs of the finest breed of chickens worth over $1,000 to the boys and girls of the county in order to further the gospel for better poultry and more eggs.

MR. BRYAN'S FAMILIAR TACTICS

Mr. Bryan has boosted more dubs for the Presidency than any other distinguished American. For a year preceding National elections it is customary for reporters to approach the Commoner and say:

"Commoner, what of the night?"

And the watchman replies, after surveying the ceiling above his desk, and stroking his two chins.

"Well, there's Milligan Bo-ash, the ukelele merchant of San Francisco. Nobody knows him but me, but I'll tell you he's the cat's mittens. He would carry the West—and the South, if the Democrats should nominate him. He's progressive; has never been to New York in his life, and so is not a tool of Wall Street.

Then there's F. Marmaduke Mohair, chief of the fire department at Joplin, Mo. I know Marmaduke well. He has long been chairman of the city executive committee [illegible] proficient at reciting, "The Lips That Tetch Licker Shall Never Tetch Mine," and so is acceptable to the moral forces of the nation. He might well be nominated for President. We have done worse.

"I can think of many others—such as Saccharine O. Muttonshire, secretary of the board of health at Walla Walla, Washington; T. O. Ginkyhind, of St. Louis, who sells ice cream; William Rommell O'Flaherty, of Omaha, who manufactures wagons—and, Oh, there are many excellent men who could be drafted.

"But I simply can not stomach any of your so-called well known men who are being groomed. They won't do. Utterly impossible, all of them."

This has happened for 20 years, just before time to nominate a ticket. The present is no exception. In the current issue of The Commoner, Mr. Bryan, after saying that the next nominee must be known as very dry and must be known to be free of Wall Street domination, declares that in his opinion Representative Ayres, the only Democrat in Congress from Kansas, fills the bill and would suit Mr. Bryan.

Have you ever heard of Mr. Ayres before?

Mr. Bryan apparently can find no enthusiasm for McAdoo, or Cox, or Underwood, or Smith, or John W. Davis. He is never enthusiastic for the big leaguers.—Advertiser.

LETTER FROM LAMMAR JEFFERS.

Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

I want to ask you to kindly print this letter in your valuable paper as a matter of information. This will be a help to me, as well as to your readers who may have matters which they wish to take up with me.

Since Congress adjourned a great many people have written to me at Anniston. Naturally they supposed that I went home immediately after Congress adjourned. Their letters have been forwarded to me from Anniston all right, but that cause such letters to be a little late in reaching me.

My family is with me in Washington, and we have a young boy in school here, and rather than to break into his school term by taking him out right in the middle of it, we will remain here until the school term is finished.

So I expect to be at home in the district by the latter part of June. In the meantime it will be best, therefore, for all correspondence to be addressed to me at my office here, Room 312, House Officer Building, Washington, D. C.

In this connection I may say that although Congress has adjourned, I still have the correspondence from the district to attend to here, and then, too, I am closer to the various governmental departments while I remain here.

Thanking you, and with best wishes, I am,

Yours very cordially

MACEDONIA NEWS

The old saying, that if March comes in like a Lamb it will go out like a Lion. Came pretty true this time, as the first two days were mild and pretty, but the month turned out rough and especially the latter part of it. Also the first of April-Easter was quite cold too.

Farmers have'nt planted much corn yet, but if the weather is favorable guess they will get busy.

The Easter Egg hunt at Mr. C. G. Glass was greately enjoyed by the little folks last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. P Nix visited her daughter Mrs. Etha Vines of Mitchell Dam last week and reports a pleasant visit and Miss Etha getting along fine.

Miss Sallie Gipson, who has just undergone two operations at Birmingham is at home, but we are sorry to say is improving very slowly.

Mr. F. D. Nix and wife of Maplesville visited the latters sister, Mrs. B. McCary of this place last Sunday.

Mr. J. A. Ward and son made a business trip to Maplesville last Saturday.

Let everybody come out to Sunday school next Sunday the 8th.

You know what you want in an automobile. Your problem is to find the car that most exactly meets your requirements.

You want comfort—the roominess of body, the flexibility of springs, the smoothness of motor, the depth of upholstery that assures your mental and physical comfort on every ride you take.

You want dependability—the mechanical excellence that results in instant response to your every demand without necessity for constant adjustment and repair.

You want economy—the Gray holds the world's economy record officially established by the Gray Economy Run from San Francisco to New Yourk, under sanction of the American Automobile Association, with an average of 33.8 miles per gallon.

You want luxury—the refinement of finish, the completeness of appointment that made you proud of your car in any company. The worth of your car should be reflected in its appearance, not in price.

Compare the Gray, point for point, with any other car in a similar class. See for yourself how admirably it fits your description of what your motor car should be.

MARCH WEATHER HELD AS FICKLE, IS DEFENDED IN HORTON'S REPORT

Although March has the reputation of being a month of uncertain and fickle weather, with the lion and the lamb battling for supremacy, records show that March is a very orderly month, with respect to weather conditions. And the past March was no exception, the month ending with honors about equally divided between the lion and the lamb, according to report of E. C. Horton, local weather observer.

Despite the great range of temperature during the month from the highest, 81 on the 12th, to the lowest, 21 on the 20th, the average of 54 degrees was only 2.3 degrees less than the normal average for March. And further evidence that March is not such a changeable month is shown in the past 28 years, indicating that the average temperatures have never ranged more than 11 degrees either way from the normal average of 56.3 degrees.

During March there were 12 clear days and 12 cloudy days, with seven days partly cloudy. There were 203.1 hours of sunshine out of a possible number of 371.4 hours which compares favorably with Florida or California weather. Total rainfall for March was 5.15 inches, only .61 inch less than the normal of 5.76 for the month. Average hourly velocity of the wind during the month was velocity reached was 45 miles an hour on the 11th.

During the past 28 years the coldest March was recorded in 1915 when the mean temperature for the month was 45, and the hottest recorded was in 1921 when the mean temperature was 64, according to Observer Horton's report.—Birmingham News.

A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square and for earning it I may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of, darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of sort footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

A LUCKY PEOPLE

(By W. B. Corley)

Hardly a day passes that you do not hear of car accidents in or around town.

Sometimes lurid tales of serious injures come in, but upon investigation happily, so far, they have proven mythical.

Cars are demolished in head on collissions, in capsizing into ditches, in skidding down embankments and so on, but the human freight is rarely ever hurt seriously.

The pitcher was carried to the spring 99 times before it got broken, but the next trip was fatal.

Is it not a good time now for you reckless and careless auto drivers to take some thought about your future behavior? Phenominal luck will not hold out forever. The first thing you know the undertaker will bring you in from the scene of your last wreck. Then all you will have coming will be six feet of ground in some cemetery and a write up in your local papers and you will not even be here to enjoy that.

I dont expect this warning to do you any good, but I will have the personal satisfaction of knowing that I tried to save you.

FOURTH AVENUE BRIDGE

It is said that some of the material for the 24-foot bridge across the railroad on fourth avenue is now on the ground and that the railroad will proceed to erect it in the very near future.

This bridge will prove a wonderful convenience to the traveling public and a great safety appliance for the railroad for it will relieve the often dangerous congestion of traffic at the second avenue grade crossing.

J. LEE SMITH

Mr. J. Lee Smith, the pioneer wholesale merchant of Clanton, the sale of whose interest in the wholesale firm of Smith & Downs has been told in these columns before, has opened up another Wholesale Grocery business and is now ready to serve his large lists of customers.

For the present he is located in the large warehouse in rear of the W. A. Kemp store where he will be happy to see his friends.

This gives Clanton another wholesale house and still there is room for others.

JUST AS WELL GET READY

The city council intend to enforce next month several sanitary ordinances and you just as well prepare for them.

If you have any open closet filthy hog pen, or other offensive and unsanitary arrangements about your place, go to removing them now to avoid trouble later on.

They are emminently right in taking this step because such things are too dangerous to health to allow them to go over through the heated summer period.

EAGER FOR SPRING

Every time the clouds roll away for a day and old Sol gets on the job, truck load of merry joy riders may be seen going fishing, picnicing etc.

They are not crowding the date any, but the weather man has declared the open season for picnics, red bugs and seed ticks as yet

THE SCHOOL OF OPPORTUNITY

Mr O H Mastin the local manager of the U. F of A for Chilton county is leaving next week to enter the School of Opportunity at Blythville, Ark. to take a course in Cotton classing, Grading and Stapling.

He is a young man of splendid ability and ambition to learn and will no doubt, return to us well qualified to protect his farming friends from any loss that might occur to them through their lack of technical knowledge of the cotton market and its different angles.

The U F of A is a great movement in the right direction and it is gratifying to see them going in to the business in a busines way.

Good luck to Mr. Mastin and his splendid organization.

UNITED FARMERS OF AMERICA
Hold County Council Meeting in Clanton April 10th

About twenty eight out of the thirty three Councils in the county were represented in the meeting of the United Farmers held in Clanton Tuesday April 10th.

The meeting was homonious and enthusiastic all the way through. Expressions of satisfaction were heard from every corner of the house. Many were positive in their statements that no other farm organization had ever accured such result as the U. F. of A. was bringing about. Still the half hath ne'er been told

The county Board of Directors was selected with every precaution. From seventeen nominations nine good men were selected to look after the interest of the organization in the county for the next twelve months. These men are as follows:

T. J. Dominey, Emmett Wilson, Howard R. Oden, Robert N. Scott, J. Pate Parrish, C. C. Williams, N J Morris, J C Veasey and M C Childress.

From the above men Thos. J. Dominey, N J Morris and J C Veasey were selected to compose the county executive Committee who will be very closely connected with the county affairs of the organization

The three men named above unanimously recommended O H Mastin for re-election to the office of county Business Agent. This met the hearty approval of A B Baxley, State Manager and it is hoped and expected to also meet the approval of M. W. Lamb General Manager.

Mr Mastin will leave within a few days to enter the School of Opportunity at Blythville Ark. where he will be trained and educated at the expense of the Chitlon county U. F. of A., to class and staple cotton to the finest point and broaden his sphere in general office work.

CROWE—POPWELL

The marriage of Mr. H. D. Crowe, of Mitchell Dam and Miss Jewell Popwell of Clanton which occured April 1st at Columbiana, Ala. has attracted much attention and interest owing to the promience of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by judge Riddle at his home. Only a few close friends were present.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Popwell of this city. She is a young lady of much capability and accomplishments. She is a graduate of the County High School, receiving her diploma there in 1921.

The groom is a promising young man. For some time he has held an important position with the Alabama Power Company at Mitchell Dam. We have learned that he has recently accepted a position with the Danville Light and Power Company at Danville Virginia.

The News extends congratulations to this happy couple and wishes them all the success and happiness that married life affords to all who travel this journey through life.

GRAY DEMONSTRATION

Quite a large number of people gathered last Saturday to witness the demonstration of the Gray put on by George Polk on the streets here.

Sie Foshee, salesman for Polk Brothers, was in charge of the demonstration. He ran the new Gray car that had never been run any only from the depot to Carter Brothers garage up and down the street by Jones Hardware and M. A. Gore's Feed store at the rate of something like 20 miles per hour reversing the car while running at that rate without doing any damage to the car. The rear wheels plowed down into the hard ground, and the Gray remained those who were looking on at the performance of a Texas pony trying to get rid of his rider. He like wise put 12 men on it and started off in high without the slightest trouble

The only break being the universal joint which cost only $1.25 that was quickly replaced.

After this Sie pulled several steering stunts that proved to the large crowd of spectators that the Gray was a substantial car. Not satisfied with this Sie put 17 men on the car and moved off easily in high.

QUITE A WRECK

The most independent and arrogant thing I can think of is one of these gigantic freight engines as it goes roaring and snorting along in front of a string of cars nearly a mile long. It actually seems to emit impudence with every exhaust, but if you want to get a glimpse of intensified and absolute pitiful humility and helplessness, just take a look at one of them when it has made a misstep and landed on the ties. It is one of the most humble and docile looking giants you ever saw then.

Yesterday morning a freight train going South had a broken brake rod. It caught in the switch point at the south end of the local yard and partially sprung open the switch. Shortly a North bound mammouth "15" come along. It entered the split point and landed, with the tender and two cars, on the ties.

No one was hurt but a large amount of trackage was torn up and traffic delayed for several hours

The derailed freight was just ahead of the flying Pan-American and that fact doubless saved a very serious wreck, for if the Pan had hit that split switch at the speed it usually travels at, the entire train would no doubt, been torn to splinters, and many lives lost.

U. F. of A. MOOVING UPWARD

When Mr. A. B. Baxley came into our county about one year ago our people told him that he would utterly fail in his efforts. But now it looks like the man's train since it started. "They will never stop her." But we throw our hats in the air and shout "Let her go" The U. F. of A. is one organization that proves her faith by her work, and her works are becoming more and more manifest each day.

Only a few weeks ago Mr W. M. Lamb, the founder of the organization, and Mr. O. C. Dobbs, the National Lecturer, were heard in Clanton by hundreds of farmers. These gentlemen know their business, and gave some of the most practical lessons on co-operation ever heard in our town

Then to still further the work, Mr. Dobbs returned the latter part of last week and assisted Mr. Baxley in a number of meetings out among the farmers.

Friday night they were at Shiloh where a smal lbut enthusiastic bunch of farmers were much encouraged by the sensible and practical talk given by Mr. Dobbs. Saturday night Mr. Baxley went to Samaria, while R. D. Horton and Mr Dobbs went to Union Grove. Much good was accomplished in these meetings.

The work of the canning factory, mentioned previously, is still climbing toward the top. This all goes to prove the United Farmers of America mean business. Every citizen in the county should rally to their cause.

MRS. LOUISE ORR ENTERTAINS

Miss Louise Orr entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. Earl Robinson, a recent bride. The large living room was artistically decorated in cut flowers of pink and white and candles of the same color shed a soft light over the room

The guests were greeted by Miss Orr and invited into the living room to meet the bride who was becomingly attired in Sand and blue Canton Crepe with accessories to match.

An interesting feature of the afternoon entertainment a contest entitled "Advice to the Bride." Mrs. Robinson in turn gave advice to the Brides to-be. At the close of the contest a prize consisting of a beautiful hand made sachet box was presented to Mrs. J. P. Hayes for the best advice.

Miss Roberta Curry furnished music throughout the afternoon and then to the strains of the Mendelshon wedding march a miniature bride and groom, Master Billie Retherford and Olive Painer Elmore slowly decended the stairs and presented numerous and useful gifts to the bride.

An umbrella of pink and white suspended from the celling opened and showered still more gifts upon Mrs. Robinson.

The color scheme of pink and white was further conveyed when an ice course heart shaped cream and cake were seved.

During the afternoon about fifty guests called and extended good wishes to the bride.

The public is anxiously listening for the report of the local drainage commission.

If I was engaged in any kind of business that publicity made me quit a line as often as the weather does the weather man I'd quit if I had to hoe.

Unless the weather becomes more favorable the farmers will not be able to get their crop of fertilizer planted before July.

The crop of Guano notes is the largest this season of any recent year. We fear great trouble will be had in gathering them all in at harvest time.

Ask Dr. Upchurch how high in the air a trout will jump to catch an artifical lure these days. He can tell you.

No matter how many passengers an auto may be carrying one good thing about it is, there is always room for one more—if she is young and handsome.

Twenty-five years ago young ladies objected to riding with a young man in a narrow seated buggy. Now I notice when there are not more than four young men and ladies riding in a car they all occupy the front seat.

A high brow Mexican talking to a reporter in New York the other day said that his people were much more devout and religious than Americans are. Well he had not said very much for them when he said that.

The men of Clanton responded splendidly to Gov. Brandon's proclamation in regard to attending Sunday School last Sunday. There were 62 in the men's class at the Baptist church Sunday morning.

An educational campaign to amend and improve the present so-called educational system, instead of calling for more and more dollars to perpetate it will meet with the solid and the support of the people, who have to pay the freight.

Our junket ing legislative committee that was sent out over our sister states to see if they could learn how to make laws has returned. The only thing they have reported as having learned is that "Seed potatoes in Arkansas are bad."

The tiresome thing about these oft recurring and everlasting "Commissions" that meet ostensibly to ameliorate and improve all conditions extant is that they all shoot too high. The laboring class and the small farmer is not even hinted at in these "plans" and resolutions.

As long as fresh fish remains at 30 to 35 cents per pound my folks will eat no fresh fish unless we can have the luck to catch them. I draw the line on paying that price for fish heads and scales while the other fellow has already had a dollar a pound worth of fun catching them.

The sporadic attack of cotton mill fever that raged here quite recently seems to have passed away and we have fallen back into the same old ruts with a dull thud. The open season for landing cotton mills is nearly over-new, so I judge Clantonities decided they did not wish to bother with one. Maybe the "third or fourth" generation will get one here.

In the days of old Pharoah Tut a curse must have meant more than it does now. When he prepared to take his last long sleep he pronounced a curse of death against any one who ever disturbed his repose. That was 3,500 years ago. A few weeks ago Lord Curazon, of England, broke into the tomb and despoiled it of its relics. An insect bit him while ransacking the home of the dead King and now he has gone to offer his excuses to King Tut beyond the grave.

The dew berry is like the flapper. it blossomed out at the very first hint of Spring, the freeze came and the dew berry is conspicious by its absence now. The old reliable blackberry is still holding its blossoms and, like the real home spun girl, you can rely on it for promptness and reliability.

Our nation seems to court trouble. All of the lawless and Bolshevik issues that make the old countries wallow in blood and rapine continually send their emarisaries over here and they preach their vile doctrines with impurity under the guise of freedom, and we stand for it. Great foreign and liberty loving socities and societies are encouraged to carry on their damnable work again in our midst, when one of them have an oath of membership the most heinous dastardly treason to this country that could possibly be put in to words. The battlements of our security and freedom are being done before our eyes. What do Americans mean?

I notice from the press that there is quite an exodus sentiment among the farmers of England to this country. Let them come on, they are kin to us anyhow, and there will be plenty of room for them next fall after our home grown farmers have been up against their fertilizer bill for the year.

Dr. Welch wrote a letter to Dr. Armstrong in which he said: "My attention has been called to a Boston dispatch in the New York Times which credits you with saying in effect: 'Young men, stay north and avoid the south with its malaria and hookworm-ridden population.

BIRMINGHAM PLANING FOR GREAT CONVENTION.

Montgomery, Ala., April 9th—Secretary Ellzey of the Alabama Sunday School Association has been spending a good deal of time in Birmingham the last few weeks assisting D. R. Price, Executive Secretary of the Birmingham Sunday School Council of Religious Education, and Chairman of Sub Committees on arranging for the 40th Annual Sunday School Convention, which is to meet in that city April 17, 18, 19, First Methodist Church.

Birmingham homes are being thrown open to entertain the delegates, and the Sunday School workers of the city are cooperating in making the Convention a memorable occassion for the promotion of Christian Education.

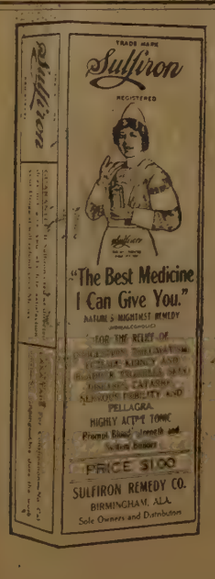
Reports are coming from all over Alabama to the effect that large delegations will attend. In one District Conference in North Alabama, every Pastor and lay delegate present signified their intention of attending the State Convention. It is expected that more Pastors will attend this Convention than has ever attended a Religious meeting of any kind in Alabama. Already registrations are coming to headquarters.

Indentification Railroads Certificates for special railroad rates have been sent to all railroads Agents. Delegates should find out if the supply is [illegible] since some of the Stations fewer certificates than will [illegible] rates are urged to [illegible] early in order that they may be satisfactory entertained.

SENATOR HEFLIN GAVE TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT

In an article on the front page of the Washington Post this morning, it is stated that J. P. Cannon, the apostle of Communism in America, in a speech in the Capital of the Nation last night, endorsed the Bolshevik regime, or Soviet government, of Russia, and he is quoted as saying that over three "Com[illegible]ist" ideas are urged as against Christian ideas."

This is a bold attack upon Constitutional government in America. It is a deliberate assault upon the intergrity and sanctity of the American home, and a premediated attack upon the sacred tenets of the Christian Religion. This bold speech in the Capital of the Nation is a challenge to every American who would protect and safeguard his country against the evils of communistic theories. It should be regarded as a nation-wide call to the Christian ministers of the country to preach a crusade against the un-American, dangerous and deadly doctrine of communism.



WE DO NOT CARE

We do not care what the world may say
If those we love is true;
We do not mind the toil of the day
If we know the dusk and the dew
There waits some one who will welcome us
As we come home to rest—
Some friend who will say, "Dear heart, I know
That today you have done your best"
We do mind if the thorns are sharp,
Or the pathway is rough and steep,
We do mind if we plow and sow
For others to come and reap.
If we can but hear when the twilight comes
And the red in the West grows gray,
Some dear voice whisper those words of cheer:
"You have fought a good fight today."
For the heart don't care what the world may say,
If those whom it loves are true,
For 'twas ever and always the heart's own way
To long for love and rue.
You forget the gain, the loss, and the pain
That tortures your pulsing breast,
If there's one who always in sweet, blind faith
Can say: "You have done your best."
—Alabama Traveler.

MACEDONIA NEWS

We are having a few pretty days, and farmers are making use of it, some planting corn and some preparing land for cotton. We fear there is going to be too much cotton planted this time; judging from the amount of fertilizer that is being hauled out. Well we may go to the wall and we may make good, can't always tell.

BLOUNT "YOUTH" PLANS TO QUIT WHEN HE GETS OLD; 75 NOW

"I aim to quit when I get old." remarked W. Y. Adams, who is attending the A. E. A. convention from Blount county, Thursday morning. Mr. Adams is 75 years old and has been teaching school in Alabama for 55 years. A chipper young fellow, who carries a cane more as an ornament than of necessity, he was the spryest of the spry as he hunted for the meeting of the county superintendents at the Sunday school building of the First Methodist church Thursday morning.

During his service as a school teacher Mr. Adams has had time to have a hobby that requires time and personality. This hobby is government, or, in the language of the streets politics. He is at present Blount county's representative in the Alabama legislature. He is a former county superintendent of the county.—Age-Herald.

CONDITIONS ARE SOUND

Secretary Hoover is quoted as saying that "the country's output is entering promptly and directly into consumption." In the same connection he declared: "The present prosperous conditions of the country are on a sound basis." The two statements are to be considered together. The conditions are sound because consumption keeps pace with production. The stuff that is being made at factories goes promptly into use in new construction and into gratification of wants made possible by employment on full turn at good wages. There is no pilling up of production on a speculative basis. So far as the board absorbs the new production as it comes fresh from the mills. The prolongation of this condition means the prolongation of prosperity. In this connection it is gratifying to note the quiet prevailing in the iron market following four months of steady buying. This is not because the iron production is not being absorbed, but it is because melters have covered for the remainder of the second quarter, and fairly well into the third quarter, and they are not momentarily concerned about further supply. The iron makers on the other hand do not seem desirous of forcing the market. They show a disposition to nurture a sound condition and to prolong its life. This makes promise of a balance in production and consumption. So long as that lasts the good times will last—Age-Herald.

WORK BEGINS ON NEW METHODIST CHURCH

Monday morning bright and soon workmen began on the [illegible] down and removing the old Methodist church building preparatory to the erection of a handsome new structure on the same site.

All preliminary arrangements have been completed and the work is to be pushed to completion as rapidly as is consistent with first class work.

The building being torn down is one of the oldest in town and has stood there for many long years as a landmark as it was well built and broadcasted with the material of the [illegible] days.

The lot is one of the prettiest sites for a church that could be found in town and is almost centrally located as regards the residence districts.

The News is glad to extend congratulations and best wishes to our Methodist friends in this forward step they are taking, which will place them in a class with their larger city brethern when it comes to a comparsion of church buildings.

CANNING FACTORY GOING STRONG

Mr. Harvey E. Clay, one of the live wires and best informed men we have met on the merits demerits of the Canning industry, has been interesting himself in a [illegible] ing the people [illegible] be located in Clanton.

This plant will be primarily a farmers' project, erected under the encouragement and auspices of that great and growing organization, the U. F. of A., but local capital will also be interested in the industry.

Mr Clay is engaged now in placing stock and arranging for acreage to be planted this year. In both lines he is having eminent success and you may safely reserve your [illegible] this year, as the factory is assured thing and will be prepared by the time the crop is ready to care for all that may offer.

Any additional information you may desire, as to the plans, methods etc. of the factory, will be furnished you with pleasure by Mr. A B Baxley, State Manager of the U. F. of A. whose headquarters for the state are located on second avenue here, just a few doors east of the railroad.

THE DEBATE

On Friday evening the mooted question: "Resolved that the moving picture show, as now conducted, is beneficial to the public." was threshed out at the High School auditorium by Messers. Pierce and Dice, of Thorsby, and Messers. Moore and Curlee of Chilton Co.

The visitors had the affirmative and won out by a 2 to 1 decission.

A capacity audience was on hand and greately enjoyed the hotly contested war of words.

Both sides demeaned themselves with ability and the question was [illegible] shed up from every angle.

Col. Victor J. Heard, of Clanton, Prof. W. E. G Sutton, of Verbena, were two of the judges. The other member of the judicial was from Thorsby but we failed to secure their names.

STILL GROWING

When Col G. C. Walker decided to enter the real estate field it really meant something.

He bought three valuable business lots on North seventh street just beyond second avenue and right down in the business district and proceeded to erect a splendid two story brick building. On the ground floor he has an elegant store room which houses the Dry Goods, Shoe and Notion establishment of Mr. Tom Parrish and upstairs he built for himself a splendid office suit.

Now, he has sold the North ally corner to Dr. Elland, who is going to have erected for his own use a brick structure for his medical office and drug business just as soon as the weather will permit.

Col Walker then is going to build up the intervening lot in brick to house some other business enterprise.

Young men like Col. Walker are worth a great deal to a town. He has the vision of the future and the confidence to invest his money in making a bigger and better town out of the place he has selected as his home.

PROGRAM FOR UNION MEETING OF THE CLANTON MISSIONARY SOCIETIES

The canning factory is now assured. All who have not subscribed for acreage, and are contemplating growing tomatoes will please notify the United Farmers of America at their office in Clanton, either in person or by mail and specify the amount of acreage you will plant.

THAT COTTON MILL

(By W. B. Corley)

A graveyard at midnight is not more silent than the question of building a cotton mill here has been for a week or so. Is the the street [illegible] a loss of interest in the project or is it the breathless stillness that usually precedes the storm?

Now and then a faint whisper reaches us that the Commercial Club has something on this line up its sleeve. As they don't seem to be giving out anything. I do not know whether they are moving in the matter or not. One thing I do know and that is we need a Cotton Mill and the was to get what you need is to work for it.

Mills are springing up all over the South and here we are, with every industrial and every element that the cotton mill people want, lying at our doors and still we are getting no mill.

There is bound to be lost motion some where. Somebody is out time getting properly. Event move too rapidly in this motion time for the red tape and circumlocution. Go after a Mill any old way so you get it. After you get it located and its operation then sit down and wind you red tape.

Get some real pep in your system people, and lets get a cotton mill for Chilton county while the open season for cotton mills is still with us. Just a little organized effort in the right direction and the trick is done.

Are we going to let 1923 go by without starting up the music of a thousand or so spindles?

QUITE SICK

The many friends of Mr Traverse Headley will be grieved to learn that he is quite ill at his home in West End with a case of double pneumonia.

Mr. Headley is a life long citizen of Chilton county and one of those who has been successful in farming here and has amassed quite a fortune by hard work and good management.

From the different Alabama papers we see splendid comments on the series of moving pictures put out by the Alabama Power Co., called, "Minerals and Metals."

The Power Company is doing this to advertise our State, and to educate our own people as to what wonderful possibilities lie ahead of them.

We hope the local picture house will secure these films at an early day and let our home folks absorb a little data on the subject of the mineral wealth of our state.

A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we live up to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and little in the next.

I bet Czar Welch will not permit any of this long distance dancing stuff in Alabama.

Trying to worship at the shrine of "Progress" has just about brought Americans into the slough of absurdity.

So far April has not been in sympathy with the Volstead law. It has been "Wet" and that almost continually.

The official weather prediction last Monday evening was "Fair Tuesday, no change in temperature, sure enough it was raining and cooler Tuesday morning

I carried a box of salmon home one day last week so my family would not forget how fish smell. It rains so much I can't go fishing.

Just my luck. Its going to rain so much that the local creeks will not get in fishing condition before the season is over. In fact, I'll have to try a tub.

Seven years in the prepartory school Five years in the High school and six years in College puts education utterly out of reach of the average child in Alabama.

Pure Americanism is decaying very rapidly when the question of using infidel evolution text books in our schools is even debatable.

Two cars crashed together on second avenue Sunday afternoon. One lost a bumper and the other a fender but they went on their way rejoicing.

A few more speed maniacs need to go up before the mayor in Clanton and need it bad, before they kill some real worthy person.

If man evolved from the monkey, why is it that some of them evolved upwards and some of them downwards?

The recent tariff builders certainly took the lid off and made the sky the limit. Provisions are going up so fast that even an aeroplane would be a piker in the race.

Harding as candidate on an "open shop" platform would be at least consistent. His party makes no claims to being the friend of the laboring man.

If we can't skin you enough in the News office try the new barber shop just opened up in one corner of our building. Perhaps they can finish the job.

It's about time now for President Harding to release for publication some of his Florida fish stories. Being president he ought to be able to tell a hum digger.

The old fashioned eel worm variety of fisherman has lost out. The fish are all educated now and if you don't carry with you a full assortment of the very latest styles of artificial flys, minnows and so on, and don't also train yourself to deliver them with proper deftness and artistic beauty, you need not waste any time angling for "those days are gone forever."

That "kill a hawk week" may be all right in some localities, but we have one bright hawk in Clanton that we especially hope will always be immense Clanton needs that Hawk.

The person who will maintain that a girl can go half clad in public, kiss every man who will allow it, smoke drink and lay out at night, is as pure as the old fashioned girl, is the kind of a fellow who would call a rattle hog wallow pure drinking water.

The Lone Star State comes to the front with a young female who danced 65 hours and 14 minutes. If they carry this thing much further an iron-clad affadivit will have to be attached to every "record"if it gets by. Most of the sane population have already backed up on this sort of dope.

The Cubans are raising cane because their sugar market is glutted and they can not sell for over 2 cents per pound. Over here the importers intrenched behind a sky high republican tariff, are unloading our sugar on us at a bit per pound and howling don't get us anything. A person is a hopeless bone head if he can not see in to that.

This thing you call "Science" is certainly a wonder. They have now succeeded in routing and scheduling all storms. The grand trunk line for cyclones and blizzards encircles the world and the schedule for a first class storm is about 8 days from Chicago for the round trip. Now we hear that they will go a step farther and find out a way to wreck every one that starts out before it gets to Clanton

SUPPORT THE BASE BAL TEAM

Tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock the Chilton Hi Base Ball Team will play the Dalas County Hi on the Grid iron at the Polk ball park.

Everybody go out to see the game and give our boys the backing they justly deserve. Remember home support will give our team victory. Then again, you may rest assured the small finincial support you give by going out will be highly appreciated by the team.

OUGHT TO SHOOT THE BONES.

Talk about luck, just listen. Mally White went out to the river one night last week and put out over 200 hooks on trot lines and limbs, all nicely baited up. The previous night he left one lone hook out baited with a minnow. Next morning he did not get a smell on the 200 hooks and was starting home with only a good nose of "fisherman's luck," when he chanced to remember the one lone hook. He went to it and got a 3 pound yellow cat. Shoot bones, Mally. Be a millioniare.

THE DRAINAGE QUESTION

(By W. C. Corley)

Upon authority of Mr. W. W. Fox Chairman of the local drainage committe, I am glad to learn that the drainage project is moving forward as favorably as could be desired.

There seems to be no question but what the success of the plans put in operation a few weeks ago is assured. The parties directly interested are waking up to rare possibilities and great advantages that lie dormant in these swamp lands.

Other localities have already tested out the drainage mater and without a single exception, they are enthusiastic in their endorsement of the system the lands this reclaimed have invariably proven more productive and satisfactory in every way than they had dared to hope for.

It is to the personal interest of every good citizen of this country to aid this project in every way possible.

Chilton county will not only add hundreds of acres of wonderfully fertile land to her tax assessment, but a vast area will be freed from the scourage of the malarious mosquitoe with its attendant evils.

Right now is the auspicious moment for all of the people of this section to write their in one grand effort to land some of the crumbs, at least that fall from the chariot of progress which is certainly touring the South.

No matter what our faith, creed or politics are, we are all effected by the same influence, the same betterments and the same calamities, so far as our business and industrial existence is concerned. The blessings and the curses that hit any community in a business way fall alike on the just and the unjust—the saint and the sinner, the democrat and the republican. You cannot spite your neighbor by blocking progress for fear he might reap some of the benefits, without cutting off your nose to spite your face. Together must all rise, or together must all fall. Try ever so hard and you will find these enexorable limitations will invariably rise up and smite your efforts.

Try to widen out your vision sufficiently to realize these truths and then, when the opportunity comes for you to forward in the van guard of progress and improvement, step out with all the vigor and energy you can possibly call to your aid, and do your full level part as a man and as a citizen being assured of the fact that the resultant blessings will not be limited by party lines nor religious creeds, but that you, and all the other citizens of your section, will share alike in the fruits of the effects put forward to build up and not destroy.

This is the broad, the business and the American view point that all good citizens must assume if they would see prosperity blossom like gragrant flowers in their land and country.

Take these matters to heart, now and put your every effort forward to hasten the day when the dredgen will be at work on our swamps and the quagmire and the habital of the mosquetoe will be made way with corn tassels and cotton blooms.

Mr. H. E. Smith, of Wilsonville, was in town Tuesday. Mr. Smith is vice president of the Anniston Marble and Vault Company. At present he is engaged in putting a monument over the grave of Mr. W. C. McCraw out at Mulberry cemetery. Before leaving Clanton Mr. Smith will erect a monument over the grave of Mr. C C Raspberry in the cemetery here.

PLAYING THE FARMER FOR A SUCKER

(By W. B. Corley)

For the past sixty days the "big dailies," and even some of the so-called "Farm Journals," have been shot full of a propaganda intended to fool and hoodwink the farmers into planting extensively of cotton this year.

Grave arguments are offered to prove that this is the phycological time for the farmers to all grow wealthy by raising an immense crop of the fleecy.

They have figured the visible supply of cotton in the world down to the vanishing point, which is absolutely false, and these same cotton gamblers will tell you so after your large cotton crop is planted and you can't back up, for they intend to buy your crop on a ten cent basis next fall, and this "Surplus" stock is always the excuse they stuff you with when they are swindling you out of your cotton in the fall.

One of the prominent Trade Journals backing its opinion on past observation, we suppose already sees the Southern farmer, swept off his feet as usual, by this campaign of time worn propaganda and it states that the "Southern farmer will buy largely of the Northwest next winter in grain, meat and lard."

He takes it for granted that the Southern farmer will swallow the bait, sinker and all, just like he has done so often in the past and will stake his all, even his food and feed crops, in the great gamble against the cotton sharks and speculators and all present indications seem to indicate that he not far wrong in his guess.

These propagandists have bamfoozled the farmer so often before, that they appear to have lost all respect for him as a rational or reasoning creature. Just listen at this, one of the latest baits they have thrown out for suckers: "Under existing conditions, even if a 13,000,000 bale crop should be made there is no reason why the price should go below 30 cents.

It dont look like they would have the gall to attempt to fool an idiot with that sort of rot. There is not an intelligent man in the country but what knows such a statement as that is absolutely false. Experience demonstrated that lesson over and over to us in the past. The last bale of cotton I raised brought me 3 1-4 cents per pound because 12,500,000 bales had been made that year.

Who is going to buy for immediate consumption that amount of cotton? Our own country does not require but a little over 5,000,000 bales for home consumption. Our cotton, to bring anything like a first cost price, has to be largely marketed abroad. Texas and Georgia can make all the cotton the United States needs and if the Southern farmer makes 13,000,00 bales of cotton this year he will not realize over 6 cents per pound for it—if he can sell it at all.

For the first time in my life time January the first this year found the Southern farmer in a position to have a say in the dictation of his own destiny. With an all cotton crop this year he will turn back the hour of his independence at least 20 years. With a relatively small and surplus acreage planted in cotton this year, with plenty of food and feed crops and to spare raised, the South would find itself next fall more prosperous and independent than at any period in its history since the civil war. With a return to the days of "all cotton and no food" next fall will usher in the dawn of another decade, or more of depression, poverty and pain the like of which we have not seen in recent years.

No matter what anybody tells you, your own common sense ought to teach you, that an absolutely impovished Europe can not buy your cottop as they did before the war, and you have no possible market elsewhere.

VALUABLE FARM BY-PRODUCT

One of the most convincing articles on the dairying industry as a farm by-product ever penned is a simple recital of fact. It occupies a fitting place as a leading editorial in the current isue of the Industrial Index, Columbus, Georgia reading as follows:

Mr R R Finn is a farmer-dairyman living near Cordele, Georgia. He has fourteen cows, and ships his cream from his dairy to the Cordele creamery. His cash receipts for cream in November were $260.15, for December $268.85 and for January $284. Mr Finn paid out nothing for feed, as he raises all the feed on his own farm; he paid out nothing for labor, milking the cows himself. In addition he had the skimmed milk from these fourteen cows to feed his hogs and chickens and the fertilizer to enrich his farm. Mr. Finn's place is a 20-horse farm. On it in 1922 he raised 103 bales of cotton and did not have to go in debt one penny for the raising. The creamery checks enabled him to pay cash for what he bought.

Comment is superfluous. It is recital of fact, convincing profert of cause and effect, the abstract and the concrete, the practice and the precept, all in one. It is as complete as the parable of the sower. To add to it would be to spoil it. It constitutes a catechism that would not be out of place in every Southern farm home. Age-Herald.

WHAT THE RAINMAKER FORECASTS

One of the famous Ringling brothers has bought ten airplanes to be used as rainmakers in the dry spots of Montana. His plans will make regular trips to the dry areas, and by the induction into the air of electrical current, positive and negative, will discharge ions from the upper wings of the planes traveling at fast speed

These ions will form the nucleus of of rain drops, which will hover over the earth in the form of clouds. Ringling says he will then be able to cause precipitation by a process which scientists have developed for him in New York.

If the artificial rainmaker has really arrived, and it appears that he has, then the work that the irrigator could but begin will be extended and completed wherever necessary. The desert will have to yield its secrets and riches—if it has any—to man. Man does not know where he is going, but he is on his way.—Advertiser.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSES UP TO DATE

The airplane as a weapon of war developed faster than means of defense against its attack—which is not surprising when it is remembered how very new aircraft is, and how recently its first war experience occurred

It is recognized that the wars of the future will be fought in the air. The nation that ignores this truth is cursed with ignorance and will pay tragically and bitterly for its folly.

Fortunately, our nation is not ignoring the truth altogether. While responsible experts fear that Congress has conducted itself shabbily in the matter of fostering aviation as a means of defense, and offense, the country is positively assured by the government that anti-aircraft denfenses have not been neglected, but have been fostered and developed to a point which leave them second to none in the world. That's what thoughful people wish to hear, as far as it goes.

The ordnance department has been continuing every effort to perfect anti-air-craft artillery and menas of detecting the approach of planes and of finding the target with greater sureness than was achieved by any government in the late war. Delicate instruments of fine character have been made for this purpose, and the subject in no way has been neglected. This is all very reassuring, especially to residents of coast cities and cities not far inland Advertiser.

BACK FROM REUNION

Hon. F. A. Gulledge, of Verbena, took in the Confederate Veterans Reunion at New Orleans last week.

He reports a fairly good time, though he said the city did not make any special attempt to welcome or care for the old boys. There were practically no decorations and hotels, boarding houses and cafes had evidently made special arrangements to absorb all the spare cash the old Vets might happen to have with them.

The next reunion is to go to Memphis. Mr. Gulledge is not enthusiastic over that prospect. He attended one in Memphis and says that experience satisfied him. They are not prepared to care for an entertainment of that sort.

Dallas Tex., was a bidder for the next session and Mr. Gulledge regrets that the old boys did not accept and try out that live Western city.

STUDEBAKER SALES ARE MUCH INCREASED

From Jan. 1 to April 10, inclusive, the Studebaker Corporation produced approximately 42,000 cars, sold 41,500 as compared with sales of 25,500 in the same period of 1922, and on April 10 had 4,000 cars on hand as against 8,400 on the same date last year. Unfilled orders were nearly 13,000 cars. Studebaker will have sold during the first four months of 1923 about 50,000 cars, indicating 150,000 for the year as compared with a total of 110,000 cars sold in 1922. Of course, it is generally understood that this is the most active season for the automobile industry. —Birmingham News.

A GOOD WORK.

Looking over the current issue of the Literary Digest I notice where an Alabama representive of the Alabama Power Company has been meeting with some peculiar experiences up North and also doing some wonderful effect ive missionary work in the interest of our state.

The absurd notions entertained by some of the Northern people he met in regard to us in the South are ridiculous beyond expression.

One young civil engineer told him that he wanted to come South to live and work, but he had heard that we shot all the northern people who under took to live among us, so he was afraid to come.

Another ice manufacturer told him he would like to move his great plant South on account of the short season for ice sales at the North, but he had been told that Southern people were all too poor to buy ice. A number of other ideas he heard expressed were equally foolish.

This gntleman began to give them a few facts and figures in regard to social and business conditions down South and before he finished he clearly demonstrated to them that Alabama was nothing like what they supposed it was, but was really one of the foremost states in the Union as regard law and order, progress in business financial opportunities and general desireability as a home.

One cotton mill man told this gentlemen that he was anxious to move his Mill to the South, but feard he could not operate it successfully with negro labor. When the Power Company man sited him to the cotton mill labor statistics and decided to him the fact that 100 per cent white labor operated the Southern cotton mills, he was absolutely dazed, having lived all of his days with the idea that all southern labor belonged to the negro race.

The Power Company is spending thousands of dollars annually in advertising throught the North the advantages of Alabama and their systematic efforts are going to result in much good. A better business understanding between the North and the South will wipe out the Mason and Dixon line and weld the whole country into one grand harmonious whole.

TRADE HOLDING UP

The merchants tell us that trade is holding up wonderfully well so far this year.

Although the continued rains have given the farmers the blues most of them are game sports and are buying right along knowing that some day the sun will shine again.

Mac is a past master in the finer details of the printer's art, is up-to-date as a newspaper man and is a close and careful business man. I predict for him a successful career in his new field.

I learn that he will retain his financial interest in the Union-Banner, but that it will pass under the management of his brother, Mr. T. E. Wyatt, who is also a competent man in all the lines covered by a job and news printing plant.

The people of Fort Payne will find Mac a live wire, ready and willing to aid them in every laudable enterprise and a mighty clever fellow to deal with. best wishes go with him

LOOKS NATURAL

It certainly looks natural to see Mr Gilvary Foshee back on our streets.

Some months ago he sold out his large intesests here and migrated to the "Land of Flowers." He has been back on a visit of several days and his old friends keep him busy shaking hands.

Day by day, in every way, that government investigation committee seem to fix it better and better for the sugar barons. At all events, the price gets higher and higher.

One farmer told me yesterday he waited as long as he could and that he had planted twenty acres of cotton and ten acres of corn. Haste ma make waste in this instance.

The Raido fad seems to have vanished from Clanton. I never hear it mentioned now.

You want comfort—the roominess of body, the flexibility of springs, the smoothness of motor, the depth of upholstery that assures your mental and physical comfort on every ride you take.

You want dependability—the mechanical excellence that results in instant response to your every demand without necessity for constant adjustment and repair.

You want economy—the Gray holds the world's economy record officially established by the Gray Economy Run from San Francisco to New Yourk, under sanction of the American Automobile Association, with an average of 33.8 miles per gallon.

You want luxury—the refinement of finish, the completeness of appointment that made you proud of your car in any company. The worth of your car should be reflected in its appearance, not in price.

FORD INTERESTS IN SOUTH

The report is printed that Henry Ford has invested $1,000,000 in graphite land in Georgia.

This, coupled with his purchase of mineral land in Kentucky, indicates that Mr. Ford is awakening to the increasing value of properties in the South.

We, the people of Alabama, almost to a unit, wish the gentleman would investigate and invest in Alabama properties. However, as a part of the South, we are glad to see his awakening to Southern values.—Alabama Traveler.

NEW BARBER SHOP

Mr. Jesse C. Jones will open up a first class barber shop in the near future in the front part of the building ocupid by the News, next door to the post office.

Mr. Jones and George Wyatt has recently finished a course in the Birmingham Barber College. He is courteous, conscientious, accomodiating, and can be relied on to do his work satisfactory to himself and customers. Mr. Jones and Wyatt will be well prepared to cut hair, shave, massage and everything else that can be done in a barber shop. Also hot and cold water shower baths can be enjoyed at their well equipped shop.

Remember when you need work of this kind they are operating an absolutely sanitary barber shop. Their prices will be reasonable. They are a firm believer in the old adage, "Live and-let Live."

BASE BALL FOR CLANTON

From some few sporadic indications and from what I have been able to pick up in the way of base ball data, it looks like Clanton is going to put out another pennant winning club again this year.

The weather so far has been against all out doors sports and especially base ball, but the prospect is more favorable ahead now for an open spring and I am expecting the base ball club to bloom out with the violets.

Now to begin with lets arrange so there will be no misunderstanding among the players and no dissatisfaction about the management. Fix all preliminaries right to start with and then stick to one system and one policy the season through. The main thing is for every player, at every game, to play ball. No laying down nor sulking. If you have to sulk, fight first and get it out of your system.

Let each player resolve to be a dead game gentlemanly sport, win or loose.

Clanton has some of the finest base ball material in the state and if the boys decide to have a winning team and go at it in earnest they will have it.

Given a team of true loyal sportmen who believe in and practice clean, honest and high-toned methods the fans in Clanton will see you through. Go to it.

THAT CANNING FACTORY

Local Citizens Take Hold With The Farmers.

A meeting was held at the Court House Monday forenoon to discuss the immediate construction of the Canning Factory.

Col. V. J. Heard called the meeting to order and started the ball a-rolling by a few timely remarks.

Mr. A. B. Baxley, State manager of the U. F. of A. then took the floor and in a few well chosen words explained to the audience the exact situation of the project up to date. He made a splendid argument in favor of the united co-operation of all classes in the building up and increasing of any town or community. He stressed the importance of the farmers and the merchans pulling together and he did it well.

The sentiment expressed by Mr. Baxley is the very cornerstone principles of successful progress and the co-operation of the business men with the country brother is absolutely essential if we ever achieve that prosperity to which all good citizens hope. United we stand, divided we fall. The gospel that Mr. Baxley preaches is the kind that makes for more prosperity, more independence and more happiness.

Our own W. W. Fox next took the floor and, as usual when he gets to the point and carried out it the true punch of get up and get busy. He came right down to brass tacks and urged for an immediate start to work in a tangible way. He is dynamic in his ideals and he always wants to see action.

Next Mr. Harry L. Case with the Peterson Construction and Supply Company, of Chicago, being present was called on for some real expert information in regard to the canning industry. His company specializes in the building of plants of that kind. He responded with a brief epitome of what canning factories can and are doing. He also stressed the fact that we were ideally located for such an industry and told how the many truck and crops that at present go to waste in our section can be made in to dividend paying products.

Col. Victor J. Heard was next elected chairman of a stock committee to go out and place Clanton's share of the stock, which is something like $50,000. The U. F. of A. have already subscribed to two thirds of the necessary stock and Clanton will absorb the other third.

The factory is to be ready to take care of the tomatoe and other late crops this year. It is to be hoped that no delay will occur in the plans.

SENIOR B. Y. P. U.

This organization meets each Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at the Baptist church.

The young people are doing a good work here and they cordially invite all the young folk, both resident and visitors to come out and meet with them.

HAVE TO SHOW US

I am willing to plead guilty to a well developed bump of credulity, but these early Spring fish stories leave me the limit.

Big fish tales are all right-if now and then a real visible fish is attached to the tail but when one or two fishermen go out day after day and bring back stories of great catches made but not even a scale to back up, a natural curiosity is aroused as to what they do with the fish.

Sometimes they claim to have caught them all up, but a careful observation of their physical make up, as compared with the size, number and weight of their alleged catch, makes another attack on your credulity that is difficult to repell.

It requires at least a little occular demonstration to put over oft repeated fish tories and love tales. We don't want to be shown sometimes.

YOU CAN'T BEAT HIM

Broadus is one of our home boys and such stunts as that are just an average days work for him. He is a best first baseman and best batter, the most professional class in Alabama.

M. E. CHILDREN SERVICES

The children composing the Methodist Sunday School held their annual Children's Day Services last Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

Owing to the tearing down of the Methodist church building preparatory to erecting a splendid new one, our Methodist friends are now temporarily worshiping at the Court House, so these pleasant exercises were held there.

The Court room was beautifully decorated with ferns and spring flowers and the exercises were lovely and interesting.

A large crowd were on hand and a nice collection was made for the State Sunday School Work.

The program was prepared by Mesdames M. A. Gore, Evan Parrish and V. J. Elmore and reflected great credit upon them by its beauty and fitness.

REV. WILLIAM JOB REYNOLDS DEAD.

(By W. B. Corley.)

For several days Rev. William Job Reynolds who resided a few miles north of Jemison, had been in feeble health, and on last Thursday the summons came that called this aged christian and pioneer citizen to a home beyond the vale of sorrow and care.

At the time of his death he was 79 years of age, 51 of those years he was a member in full standing of the Methodist church. He was of true American stock in whose veins ran the love of country ever flourished. Even in his boyhood days when the dark clouds of civil war hung out great long in twain and when the colonies of an invading enemy threatened his Southland from all sought but a line in years the call to the colors was too urgent to him to resist so he tore away from home and kissed he tender bosom of the ruthless bullets of the foe, freely offering all that he possessed on the altar of love for his fatherland.

For four long years he went hungry, sore and hungry, in the glorious ranks of the Confederate army. At last a bullet struck him just below the eye and he was left for dead. But he rallied got well came home and took up the battle of life and for all year he carried unheeded a ball which bore the memento of the cruel war. Finally it became so troublesome that he had it removed. His family have this bullet now and it weighs two and one half ounces.

Sixty four years ago the deceased joined with the Baptist church and remained with that organization to the day of his death. He was twice married, having 10 children from the first union and 3 by the second. His last wife and one child survives him at the old homestead. He had 54 grand children all of whom are still living except 1. He also had 24 great grand children all of whom are living except 1.

He lost his first wife 30 years ago. He was father of Judge L. H. Reynolds and Mr. W. A. Reynolds, of our town, also leaves two sons, Messers. B. F. and A. W. Reynolds of Birmingham.

The remains were buried at his home church, Providence, right near his home.

Rev. T. H. and Rev. C. C. Wilkerson of Clanton, officiated at the funeral. A large concourse of neighbor and friends assembled at the grave to pay this last meed of respect to this good man.

Undertaker Martin from Clanton had charge of the burial arrangements.

Mr. J. W. Nelson and son Jessie, of Calera were in town Monday.

CARD OF THANKS

The children and grandchildren of the deceased William Job Reynolds wish to extend their deepest appreciation to the many friends who were so kind and unstinted during the last sickness and death of our father and grandfather. We also wish to thank our friend for the beautiful floral tributes presented and for the kind assistance at the funeral. We are made grateful to Brother Wilkerson and Lord for the beautiful sermon rendered. May each of you receive a portion of God's richest blessing.

THE FAMILY

CLUBBING HER HUSBAND

The play given by the ladies of the M. E. church at the High School auditorium last Friday night, called "Clubbing a Husband" was a great hit and a large audience were enthusiastically entertained from the very first curtain to the final fall of the same.

Mrs. Hugh Simpson was general director and stage manager for the occassion and is deserving of great credit for the high class of entertainment.

They netted quite a neat sum, I am told, which will go to swell the grand total of the general church building fund.

Any law contrary to public sentiment is as dead as a boll weevil with no cotton stalk to live on.

It looks like the smaller the job the "public servant" has the larger becomes his cranium expansion.

White, Nabors and Co. went fishing Tuesday but they have been too busy to talk since their return.

Some people have all the qualifications of being a crook and lack only brains enough to hide their tracks.

The law says that every car that gets in a wreck with another car must always stop. That's the reason so many of them never do.

Baby airplanes for pedestrians is the next urgent need in the way of inventions. No more room left to walk in. They'll have to take the air.

Mr. O. M. Carter is kinder strutting around this week with his head in the air. Its a little girl and arrived last Sunday afternoon.

The long suffering democrats of Chilton have at last reached the limit of their forbearance. They intend to stir up something. Glory be!

President Harding cant tolerate old mother League of Nations, but he is absolutely hog wild about her first born baby, Miss International Court.

There are two bad pay masters. The one who pays in advance and the one who never pays. Some of our good Chilton county democrats belong to the [illegible]

The drainage prospect is about a certainty now. Good. How about the cotton mill? A concerted effort right now will put that over too. Go after it while the spirit is right.

Weather is getting warm. Hog pens and open closets are building flies a million a minute, besides they perfume the atmosphere on damp days until a gas mask would be a boon. Are we going to have any relief?

The dwelling house robbers have struck their stride at last in Montgomery. They are specializing on the homes of State and city officials now. If they can get anything out of them they can beat the general public.

The republican Campaign Committee is flooding the country with statements that the tariff did not cause the price of sugar. If it did not, why not tell us what did. They acted in unison.

Mrs. Phillips, the hammer murderess, has been captured in Honduras and they are preparing to bring her back. Why not let her stay over there and practice her new method of murder on those foreigners? We don't need her back here.

Past observation indicates that the gubernatorial chair in Alabama is the political grave of every man who sits in it. Plain Bill better look out. Platform promises are dangerous rocks to have tied about the neck when we go in swimming.

It would be humorous, if it were not so sorrowful to read the newspaper accounts of the various church functions that are pulled off these days. Only one feature or measure of success is mentioned and that is the amount of the collection.

If you think your great grand children will have any cause to go into litigation you better file the suit for them at your earliest convenience so the courts will be able to take them up before the is-to-be children die with old age.

Vaughn's well and favorable known Quartette will be at the county high school building in Clanton under the auspices of the Chilton County Singing Convention the third Sunday in May. Prof. W. G. Culp will have charge of the day. Come out and hear the finest music that you have heard in many days.

THE MYSTERY GROWS

The following from the columns of our neighbor, the Union-Banner, only serves to deepen the "Great Jury Box Mystery."

"Women and Democrats seem to be barred as Chilton County jurors." —Chilton County News. This is plain talk to our jury commissioners and circuit judge. And incidentally we notice that the circuit judge and all of the commissioners except one are Democrats—Union-Banner.

Admitting the truth of that statement, can't you see that the mysterious effects that emanate from that box every time court meets assume even more wonderful and suggestive possibilities?

If the entire handling of that box is left in democratic hands, as the Union-Banner intimates then the results of its manipulation are even more mysterious.

It is asking a large stretch of a person's credulity to want them to believe that an all democratic jury commission would so arrange a box, that in drawing out a panel of 42 names only 7 democrats would appear, especially in a county where the census indicates about an even number of democrats and republicans, where the last election indicates a 50-50 division and where the tax books indicate a decided plurality of democratic tax payers.

Some mysterious and malignant spook, insect or microbe must infest that sacred box some where during its season of "inoccuous desuetude" between its periods of usefullness on a diet or democratic names or in some other mysterious manner so direct the machinations of those names, when the "drawing" season is on that they contrive to evade the anxious fingers of the judge when he is probing for jurors.

A good suggestion would be to thoroughly cleanse, purge, disinfect and deoderize that mysterious box and then refill with new material and see if the spell would not be broken.

AGED CONFEDERATE VERY ILL

News reaches this office that Mr. Fox, an aged Confederate Veteran of Maplesville, and father of Messers G. W. and John Fox, is quite low and not expected to recover.

Only a comparatively few of these grand old heroes are left now and as they pass "over the river to rest under the shade of the trees," the earth grows poorer in a type of glorious citizenship that is not equalled in the pages of history.

In the words of a noted minister who recently said the last farewell over one of these grand old men. "They have a right to die. They have fought a long and faithful battle and it is only just and fair that they go to claim their reward." What a splendid and consaling thought that is.

OBITUARY

William Job Reynolds, one of the pioneer citizens of Chilton county departed this life at Jemison Alabama on April 19, 1923. Mr. Reynolds was born in Macon County, Alabama on March 24, 1844, where he spent his early boyhood days. He volunteered and joined the Confederate Army when he was 16 years of age, serving four years and was wounded at Perryville Kentucky, just as he was going over the breast works, making a charge on the enemy. A minnie ball struck him in the face, lodging just above the right eye, and remained there for 48 years before it was extracted in 1912. The ball weighed two and one half ounces. Shortly after the war he came to Chilton county and resided here until his death. During his early and middle age years he was a farmer by occupation but about thirty years before his death he became a Baptist Minister and reamined in this service until his death, having joined the Missionary Baptist Church when he was a young man. During his career as a minister he established and founded four Baptist Churches.

He was a man of the old school, of the rugged and pioneer type, a man who believed in the teaching of Christianity, in the protection of Country and home even until death itself. His life in a financial way was a struggle, but he was ever willing to share whatever he had to assist a needy brother. It is said of him that one of his outstanding characteristics was his unchanging patience, that he could look adversity and prosperity in the face and treat those two imposters just the same, that he accepted his lot without a murmur and was found seadfastly true to his trust even until the last breath of life had left his senile body. His work for the service of God, and his love for humanity, and his pertinacity to his trust mark him for a well spnt and profitable life.

He leaves behind to mourn his death, a widow, his first wife having died in 1892, thirteen children, fifty four grand children and twenty five great grand children, and a host of friends.

He was laid to rest at Providence Church where his first wife was buried and where his membership had been for fifty years, Brother E. Z. Izell and C. C. Wilkerson of Clanton officiating.

In the death of this man, the county has lost a type of the passing Southern gentleman one of those old gentleman who saw our State and Country in its formative period, and helped to instill those principles upon which we so much pride ourselves.

In the passing of this good old gentleman we can not mourn his loss with that spirit of reverential awe which he so rightly deserved. But we are consoled in the belief that he has passed over, like his other comrades in the cause, to that land from whose bourne no traveller ever returns, and where all is happiness and sunshine, to meet once again his comrades of old.

The doctors of New York state are trying to get a law passed to force operations on people when ever they decide it is needed. This is going too far. If the doctors will leave the law making more in the hands of the duly elected law makers and confine their attention to the wonderful possibilities of their profession they will retain the confidence and respect of the people to a most greater degree.

ENDURANCE DANCING

Most people know that manw dancers art out after the "endurance record" which goes to the one who can dance continuously for the greatest number of hours. People know that they are doing it, but nobody as yet has found out why. The present record, that is, at this writing, is held by a young woman who danced for fifty-two hours and eleven minutes, seconds not recorded, and wore out three pairs of slippers. And in the meantime there are both couples and that record. Undoubtedly it will be beaten. Perhaps somebody will succeed in dancing sixty hours, or seventy. Very well, what then?

Perhaps psychologists, scientists and physicians will be able to glean something of value from the performance. For example, it already appears that women can dance longer than men, but then that is conceded by almost every young man who has had ballroom experience. It also probably proves that those who endure are free from corns, bunions, spavins, curbs, splints, throughn-pins ringbones, coffin-joints lesions, elephantiasis and flatfoot. The chances are, however, that they will have some or all of these ailments if they keep it up. It is not certain that the psychologists, who deal in mental phenomena, will have much to work on. The physicians will probably be called in afterwards. The scientists are very likely busy at something else. Perhaps, after all, the human race will derive no benefit from these endurance dances. —Age Herald

BILBO SENT TO 30 DAYS IN JAIL FOR COURT CONTEMPT

Oxford, Miss., April 16—Theo G Bilbo, former governor of Mississippi, went to the Lafayette County jail Monday to serve a sentence of 30 days for contempt of federal court.

When Mr Bilbo appeared in federal court here to answer to a charge of contempt because of his failure to Governor appear as witness in the suit of Miss Frances Birkhead against Governor Lee M Russel, last Fall, he pleaded guilty. Judge Holmnes fixed the sentence at a fine of $100 and 30 days in jail.

Bilbo asked for a suspension of sentence until he could try a case in Poplarville, his home town, where he is a lawyer. The judge denied him the request.

"Had you been a common laboring man," said judge Holmes, "the sentence would have been the same. You are intelligent enough to know when the summons was served on you that you should have appeared.—Birmingham News

THE SUGAR INVESTIGATION

The price of sugar has doubled in a few weeks. For the first time in history the government has ordered an investigation and prosecution in speculation in food stuffs.

France has laws forbidding speculation in food stuffs. Such a law has not been enacted in America, because of the general American idea that the prices of all commodities are regulated by laws of supply and demand. But the sensational rise in the price of sugar, is to the Republican administration a grave, even tragic, matter. The whole matter of a protective tariff is at stake. A basic principle of the Republican party, the party of high tariff, is at stake. It is their claim that a protective tariff can be imposed without raising the price of the necessity of life. The rise in the price of sugar is in a political sense "good medicine" for the Democrats. Every defeat and disaster to the Republicans has been brought about by high tariffs. Progressivism traveled under many names, but its real origin was in the resentment of the Western farmers at the imposition of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. The Republicans see the Democrats preparing for another aggressive tariff fight because of the Fordney tariff bill.—Advertiser.

ADVERTISING COSTS ONLY TWO PER CENT

The advertising of American business in American monthlies and weeklies amounts to about $150,000,000 a year, and newspaper advertising to about $800,000,000 in all, which is about as high as the bill for America's chewing gum, or lip stick, rouge and powder.

The value of what the United States produces amounts to about $40,000,000,000 and this advertising bill of $800,000,000 is therefore, only about 2 per cent of the total amount of goods produced. Advertising is an important and essential element in distribution. It is more than that—it is the self expression of business enterprise and keeps it wholesome.

BRITISH REDUCE TAXES

Announcement that the British have reduced their tax rate, coming as it does so closely on the heels of our debt agreement by means of which we relieve the British people of a large interest obligation at the expense of the American taxpayer, somewhat takes the edge off our enthusiasm at having been so lenient If the British are able appreciably to lower their tax rate, they were not in such dire need, as they protested, of interest cancellation from us. On the other hand, since we made the concession for their benefit we cannot blame them for taking advantage of them. The reduction only bears out the opinion expressed at the time by The Age-Herald when it held that it was unfair to American taxpayers to make the concession. The British didn't need it.

Americans, however, should learn from the British action that where there's a will to amend taxes there's a way to do it. The British have done it under odds for greater than confronted our congress during its period of consideration of tax revision. Congress fumpled the job, as is changed by Republican as well as by Democratic and independent journals. It is believed that proper revision of our national tax laws and practices would make the burden more endurable while at the same time actually increasing our nues from tax sources. The capital thus set free would more than produce the additional wealth necessary to protect our national income.

The British reduction may be more or less chimercial, as suggested by the New York World's cartoon depicting John Bull hewing limbs off of the tax tree. Anybody acquainted with trees known that there are certain varieties which when pruned put forth new limbs most vigorously and more than make up for the growth lost. Perhaps the present lopping off of British taxes is merely deferring the undertaker. Certain public expenditures when will grow in volume because of postponement. Time will tell. It is hoped, however, that the British is all that is claimed for it.—Age Herald.

GRAY DEMONSTRATION AT CALERA AND MONTEVALLO

Last Saturday Sie Foshee demonstrated the durability, strength and many advantages of the Gray car in Calera at eleven o'clock before a large crowd. Sie did not fail to make equally as good impression there as he made in Clanton recently proving the value of a Gray car.

Not satisfied with this Sie went on to Montevallo where at three o'clock on the main street of that city he ran up and down it thirty one times before a large number of people Sie ran the Gray at about twenty miles per hour without touching the clutch, he pushed over into reverse. The car stopped, the back wheels spun backwards just a second then started to back up. He gave it all the gas then going backwards, he pulled it in low. The gears clashed, the Gray trembled and then started forward. Sie then made a sudden stop making the wheels buzz up and down like a young mule trying to get rid of his rider. After this Sie put sixteen full grown men on the Gray and drove up the main street in Montevallo. Thus closed the demonstration showing the many advantages of the Gray car.

WHY WOMEN OUT-TALK MEN.

"Why do women talk more than men?" is a question around which an interesting discussion is raging in London. The question should be answered according to the American style by asking another question. "Do women talk more than men?"

But the London disputants seem to take it for granted that they do. An American doctor, lecturing in London [illegible] their reasons why women talk more. The first of these is that women having a smaller vocabulary at their disposal than men find the words closer at hand; but men having a more scattered and more numerous vocabulary, take more time in expressing themselves.

The doctor's second explanation is that women can talk over their normal work, cooking, sewing and [illegible] and therefore they keep in practice, whereas a man whose [illegible] concentration of the right talks but little. Like the proverbial parrot, those who say least think most. Hence a writer suggests the unpopularity of chess with women.

An English psychologist gives another explanation. He assured his readers that talkativeness as a woman's characteristic was inherited from primitive ages. The woman was left at home with a small tribe of children who asked perpetual questions, and compelled the mother to talk, but the man was away hunting which compelled silence. Another and more complicated explanation was that the special convolution of the brain in which the speech faculty originates was developed only on one side by men and on both sides by women. The reason [illegible] that women's speech is more fluid, dexterous than man's and therefore her brain is more fully exercised. The four explanations of an old enigma are offered, without comment. There may be others to come.—Advertiser.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

Charles M. Schwab said at a dinner in New York:

"The advocates of government ownership—government-owned railroads and mines and what not—do not shout so loud since Russia showed the world how this idea works. When Sir. Eric Gedders was trying to introduce economies into England's government services last year he often noticed, in a passage in Whitehall a sentry in uniform. He asked the sentry one day what his duties were. The man said he was there to warn people not to touch the wall. He had been stationed there issuing that warning for years. Why? He didn't know. Well Sir Eric Geddes investigated the matter, and he found that a war minister's wife had brushed her sleeve against wet paint on that wall thirty-five years before. A warning sentry stationed there that afternoon had remained ever since."

A SURE WAY TO GET ONE

(By W. B Cooley)

I Notice a news dispatch in the papers that tells how people really do things when they take a notion.

It come from Geneva, way down in the wire grass region of Alabama, down where they wear jeans pants and overalls to church, if they want to and its perfectly all right.

These good people decided they wanted a cotton mill. They called a preliminary meeting and in less than 15 minutes they raised $100,000 to build one. They concluded they wanted a larger plant than that, so they called a general meeting of the entire community with the result that they raised their first subscription and now they are incorporating and making arrangements to go to work right away erecting a cotton mill to cost $250,000.

You see how they go about these things when they really want business They realized the importance and value of furnishing their own independent market for their cotton and so they proceeded in a business like way to do it.

This same thing can be done in Chilton county, all we lack is the energy and ambition to go at it. Our people are too secretive and they procrastinate too much when big issues are at stake. There is no place in the march of progress for selfishness. A policy of the greatest good to the greatest numbers is the only policy, that is ever successful in building up and making great any community.

I know a town in Georgia, way down on the banks of the Chattahoochee river, that is no larger nor richer today than it was 30 years ago, and all because the people who owned the available land were so selfish that they drove all capital away by a selfish system of robbery in real estate prices.

A genuine public sentiment must prevail if prosperity is ever induced to bless a town or community. A real desire for the public weal must dominate the movers, as well as a desire to get a legitimate profit out of your labor and capital.

This sentiment of "Me and my wife, my son John and his wife, us four and no more" has never resulted in accomplishing anything that would redound to the public benefit

Another thing I have noticed all my life long. When ever you propose to do something for the general uplift and benefit of the general public, one of the most essential things to do is to take the public into your confidence. Let the truth and the light shine into and upon every phase and angle of the subject. Take the people into your confidence and enlist everyone you can in the campaign with you. Make each individual feel like that it is his or her own fight. Get the interest and support of the people by dealing with them frankly and honestly and, believe me, even the financing of a $250,000 cotton mill here would be no job.

What is the use to wait and see if some [illegible] cotton mill on a waiter? I have noticed that the localities that go down in their jeanes and buy what they want are usually the Marthasvilles that become Atlantas, or Elytons that became Birminghams as the years go by. They are the kind that spit on their hands, roll up their sleeves and go after what they want.

Do less corresponding and more personal work if we want a mill. Don't wait on the other fellow to play Santa Clause and bring us a cotton Mill in our stocking. Call a meeting. Send out your campaigners and see what we can do. Get all the people together and settle the matter, once for all. If we want a Cotton Mill lets go to work and build one. If we don't want one, why that's the way to find it out.

Santa Clause might bring us a sack of peanuts, but I don't believe he is carrying any Cotton Mills in stock.

HOUSEWIVES AND CONSUMERS ARE AIDING IN THE CONTINUED RISE IN SUGAR PRICES.

Of course, the Republican tariff started the upward trend of sugar. Then the United States Department of Commerce issued an ill-considerd and somewhat incorrect report indicating great shortage in world supply of sugar. The speculators got into the market, and then the celebrated stupidity of the consumer aided in the work of mulcting himself and his kind. Or rather, her kind—for the women are the purchasing agents of the households, and they are the ones who have boosted the demand. Hearing about a sugar shortage—having some vague sort of information about it—they began buying heavily, laying in supplies for canning, preserving and other uses. Some began hoarding sugar precisely as some people did in war times.

Now, dispatches from New York indicate that it is this silly buying by housewives that is giving the main strength to the speculators and artificial demand which has put sugar up to war prices. This persistent buying and hoarding by housewives has forced refiners into the raw sugar market in order to supply the calls for refined sugar, and as the refiners had to have raw sugar, the price was raised again and in turn the refiners advanced prices and the women and other hoarders had to pay for their folly. In anticipation of the demand from preservers and canners, jobbers and wholesalers are insisting upon sugar, and this is forcing the refiners to buy more raw, and is causing another advance in price.

If the housewives would stop this silly buying; cut down the use of sugar to an absolute minimum, cut out preserving and buy from the commercial preservers and canners (it is no saving putting up preserves with sugar at 9, 10 and 11 cents), the price would come tumbling down in less than sixty days. The women are sustaining this price: they can end it, if they will.

SOMETIMES THE SCIENTISTS OVERLOOK SOMETHING—AS IN THIS CASE!

The scientific and anthorpological world is greatly agitated over the discovery of aboriginal savages in French Indo-China which has no alphabet and a language of only 500 crude words. These wise boys had to go a long way to make such a discovery. Why did they not investigate that curious tribe, females of which are called "flappers" and the males by various designations "jelly-beans," or "curbstone cooties, or "cake eaters"? This race is truly aboriginal in many of its characteristics. The women smear their faces and lips with paint, wear a very abbreviated skirt, and little else. They hang long celluoid and immitation jewelry pendants in their ears, pluck their eyebrows, and cut their hair short to save trouble of combing it. Judging from appearances it is never combed after being so cut.

As to vocabulary, the 500 words of the Indo-Chinese surpasses the "Flap-Beans," as they may be termed, by at least 350. In fact, the Flap-Bean gets along with about fifty, chief among which are grand, awful, cute, lovely, wonderful, dress, lip-stick, cat's ankle, sweet papa, every little thing. I should worry, how'd you get that way, dumbbell, sure let's eat.

The male of the Flap-Beans usually wears, in addition to an expression of vacuity, a curious sort of coat with a belt accross the back, and split up the back to the third dorsal vertebrae. The main occupation of this tribe is leaning against store fronts, smoking cigarettes, eating and drinking that which someone else pays for and calling the female Flap-Beans. Their vocabulary is also very limited; usually to such expressions and words as search me, nifty Jane, lovely shanks, gimme a pill, gimme a match squab, chicken, skirt, doll-baby, peach, live one, Jane, oh baby, vamp, sweet one, lookit the face, nifty ankles.

While undeniably human, this tribe is usually considered far below the bug-eating Digger Indians in general intelligence, and perhaps will give those Indo-Chinese a race for the place at the bottom of the list. The sevants are invited to Birmingham to study the specimens numerous hereabout—Birmingham News.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK

Alabama is consuming timber four times faster than it is producing it, declares Governor Brandon, and our 20,000,000 acres of forest lands are fast being depleted. We now have only forty-two billion feet of standing timber.

Because of this condition the Governor has proclaimed Forest Protection. Week from April 22 to April 28. He hopes that the people will give serious thought to the whole question of forest conservation, and particularly that the subject be brought vividly to the attention of the young who constitute our school pupils.

DR. ARMSTRONG CLAIMS HE HAS BEEN MISQUOTED

Corrects Impression Created in Boston Speech Regarding Health Conditions in South.

Birmingham, Ala. (Special)—Dr. D. B. Armstrong, Secretary of the National Health Council denies having stated in an address before the Boston Chamber of Commerce that the South is hookworm ridden and that malaria makes it an unsafe place in which to live.

In a letter to Dr. S. W. Welch, State Health Officer of Alabama, and in a signed statement given to the New York Times, Manufacturers Record, Textile World and other trade publications, Dr. Armstrong asserts that he has been misquoted and declares further, that the health progress of the South constitutes one of its "greatest economic assets."

Following the publication of Dr. Armstrong's recent speech before the Boston Chamber, in which he is alleged to have painted a frightful picture of health conditions in the South, representatives of the Alabama Power Company appealed promptly to Dr. Welch of Alabama to refute the charges. These were construed as an attempt to stem the tide of northern capital to Alabama and the South, as it is known that northern interests are viewing with interest the systematic campaign of the Alabama Power Company and civic bodies to bring new industries to the state.

Dr. Armstrong's talk evoked a storm of indignation. Letters of protest were sent promptly by Dr. Welch, followed by similar letters from health officers in other Southern states. They brought a prompt denial from Dr. Armstrong of the statements accredited to him about health conditions in the South.

In his letter to Dr. Armstrong, Dr. Welch of Alabama, declared that the South is determined to get the textile industry of the northeast and warned Dr. Armstrong that he might as well prepare to accept the inevitable.

Dr. Armstrong is now making a conscientious effort to correct the false impression left by his talk. He has issued a statement which has received as wide a circulation as the report of his former speech, in which he characterizes the accomplishment in the field of disease prevention in the South as "nationally conspicious," and pays a glowing tribute to the work of Southern health officials.

Among the outstanding accomplishments in this field in the South Dr. Armstrong mentions:

1. The bringing of hookworm under gradual but effective control.
2. The certain early relegation of malaria to the problems of accomplished history.
3. The vigorous attack upon the tuberculosis problems; the questions of infant welfare, etc.
4. Remarkable provision in many neighborhoods for the welfare and health of industrial workers.

"All of this," says Dr. Armstrong, "is tending to make the South a better and safer place in which to live and a more advantageous section for the development of industry."

ASKS AUTHORITY TO USE POWER AT LOCK 17 DAM

Power Heretofore Wasted at Government Navigation Dam to be Made Useful by Alabama Power Co.

Birmingham (Special).—A petition has been filed with the Federal Power Commission by Alabama Power Company for license to develop power at the Government's navigation dam, Lock 17, on the Warrior River, about 20 miles above Tuscaloosa, according to an announcement by Thomas W. Martin, President.

It was also annound that a similar petition had been filed with the Alabama Public Service Commission requesting the approval of that body of the proposed development.

While the dam at Lock 17 is 63 feet high and 1200 feet long, the flow of the Warrior is so varied that its use for the development of power has long been considered economically impractical, and officials of the Power Company state that any power development of any kind at that point is possible only because of the Company's ability to tie in the proposed Lock 17 plant with its six other hydro-electric and steam generating stations. While at certain seasons of the year the Warrior is a raging torrent, capable of generating several thousand horsepower of electricity, at other seasons the stream flow is barely sufficient to turn the water wheels. During these times, however, it could do what is known as "float" the generators on the line, making the plant valuable as a voltage booster for the Tuscaloosa District, which is at the end of a single-circuit line. The proposed use of Lock 17 by the Power Company is considered a boom to Tuscaloosa, as it will be the means of bettering the power service of that city.

Belief is expressed that the application of the Power Company will be granted, especially in view of the fact that it is the sole agency in the state with sufficient reserve steam plant capacity to make use of seasonal power, such as that at Lock 17. It is pointed out that when the water is low in the Warrior, the shortage could be supplied from the Power Company's reserve steam plants at Gorgas or Gadsden, or from the Muscle Shoals plant leased from the Government, and that when there is sufficient water in the Warrior to operate the Lock 17 plant its use would be the means of saving many tons of coal.

In addition, the Government would derive some revenue from the use of this power, which has been going to waste since the completion of the dam in 1915. A powerhouse would have to be constructed by the Power Company and water wheels installed, calling for a large expenditure of money, giving employment to several hundred men and ultimately resulting in the payment of taxes to the State and County on the investment made.

No details are available as to the size of the proposed development, it being necessary for the engineers of the Power Company to work these out in conjunction with the Federal Power Commission. It is understood, however, that work would be undertaken as soon as the grant of license [illegible]

TO OUR CORRESPONDENTS

The News appreciates you every one and tries to its utmost to please you all and give you proper and prompt service, but please remember there are several contigencies that may arise between the posting of your letter to us and the final issue of the paper.

Frequently your letter does not get to us as soon as you think. Then again it occurs that part of the paper may be already printed before your letter arrives. We can't unprint that part, you know, so often it is the case you see matter in there that you think we could have left out to give place for you. We would have been glad to do so, but you came too late.

A newspaper cannot be gotten out in one day. It has to go through its regular routine to get out on time

Sometimes a rush of late ads come in and we have to set out live matter to get them in. And so on. Your letters have to be typed, proofed, read corrected and made up before it gets in the paper, so you see, we are not always to blame if you don't get in on time.

Then, again, You should always write all names of persons and places extra plain, for while they are perfectly familiar to you, to us they are absolutely strange and all we can do is guess at them to the best of our ability and if we miss, we have done our best. Proper names have no rule for governing the printer. There are all kinds of names and unless you write and spell them plain and correctly it is just luck when we get them right.

We invite you all to write often and we are going to do our best to serve you every one.

WANTED. MORE TREES AND AIRPLANES

Many, many moons ago the streets and all that in them is or maybe, was turned over absolutely to the auto. A pedestrain who presumes to intrude therein is a flagrant tresspasser and deserves his fate.

Now, behold, a later state of affairs has come about. A large portion of the sidewalks in the residential district have been preempted by the smaller boys, both male and female, and the grass no place left for the lonely pedestrians to travel unless he chiefly a tree or boards an airplane.

Of course, a person who is so sorry he can't own a car doesn't deserve any consideration but if you do away with this class who is going to do the work? The auto class don't have time to work, you know.

Better open up gate ways through the back lots so they can dodge their way to and from their labors.

"Them days is gone forever" when people observe the law any more than they do Sunday.

The law says a child under 16 years of age shall not be allowed to drive a car. Do you see any of them at it?. A city ordinance says bicycles must not be ridden on the sidewalks. "They don't ride them any where else.

When I was a young man legislative lobbying became so bold and the laws became so lop sided and obnoxious that the people demanded a law against lobbying and it was passed. History is repeating itself and the interference of the lobbyist is again becoming very distasteful to the public. Class legislation and class rule may thrive for a season, but sooner or later it is bound to collapse and smother its adherents in the wreck.

CITIZENS OF GIRARD WANT NAME OF TOWN CHANGED TO BRANDON

GIRARD, ALA., April 28—"Brandon", next stop Columbus, Ga. This will be the cry of the Central of Georgia porter if the voice of three thousand men and women attending a mammoth aftermath mass meeting tonight is heeded. And no more will Girard shine out in the railway guide as "the last chance."

Three thousand men and women changed the name of Girard and Phenix City, or resolved that it be Changed to "Brandon", adopting by unanimous a motion to this effect made by Rev. A. V. Pickern. The adourned session of the Alabama Legislature will be petitioned to make the change in names. The mass meeting followed Cheers on the heels of a meeting in the afternoon at which Governor W. W. Brandon delivered the principal address. The meeting was attended by [illegible] persons.

Governor Brandon told a group of Girard city officials and citizens that before that Walter B. McAdory, chief law enforcement officer of Alabama will personally direct a campaign to "clean up" the city with as many men under him as the situation necessitated.

While Chief McAdory and his men are going after the illicit rum traffic and other law infractions with which the city officials say they are unable to cope, citizens of Girard and Phenix City, pursuant to a suggestion by the governor, will set about the business of consolidating the two into one municipality.

Governor Brandon, who characterized his address to a [illegible] urged consolidation as a solution of the problem of the two cities and a [illegible] toward making the work to be done by McAdory's forces permanent. At the conclusion of his address Mayor Clyde M. Knowles of Girard and Mayor Claud Gullatt of Phenix City told a representative of The Advertiser that they are heartily in favor of combining. They also said that other city officials are in accord.

Brandon Gratified.

Sentiment in both cities is said to point toward a unification of the municipal governments. Following his address which was delivered in an evangelistic tent on the line dividing Girard and Phenix City, Governor Brandon expressed gratification with the demonstration his speech evoked, and predicted that conditions in Girard will be greatly improved within a few weeks. The chief executive of Alabama left at 4:30 p.m. on Montgomery with Attorney General Harwell G. Davis and Chief McAdory, who accompanied him on his mission to the city. Girard was quiescent so far as illicit liquor traffic was concerned, when the governor passed through the district, a few hours ago and is said to have been freely dispersed over the bar, in open defiance of law.

The above taken from Monday's Advertiser is indeed gratifying to see the Governor Brandon is in favor of law enforcement in Alabama.

The Governor has let law violators know right in the beginning of his administration that they will get very little sympathy from Alabama's present chief executive.

DESTROYING WHISKEY

The Alabama State Law Enforcement Department reports the destruction of 207 stills in March.

There was $6865.20 collected during the month in fines. The expense and salaries for March was $4,922.19; leaving $1,042.02 of income above expenses.

Walter K. McAdory, Chief of the Department writes in report, thanks to Sheriffs and others for helping him.—Alabama Traveler.

Vacation days will soon be here. For a few days pupils will enjoy them. After that those who are beginning to realize the importance of school days will begin to yearn for autumn days again so that they can associate with his or her friends and get back to work and be content and happy.

Mr. F. F. Merchant, of Jemison, was in town last Saturday on a business mission.

The remains were brought to Clanton Tuesday by Undertaker Martin and burried in the city cemetery, followed to their last sleeping place by a large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives.

According to reports there are 5,000 young ladies and young men will graduate in the county high schools this year. This is said to be by far the largest number that ever finished the high school course in Alabama in one year. A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we live up to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and little in the next.

We are trying to practice the golden rule in this bank and in doing so are giving our customers and public the very best service possible. Let us serve you in any way we can.

BILLINGSLEY NEWS

The Fifth Sunday Meeting was held in our new Baptist Church Sunday, and a number of people enjoyed the day. Quite an interesting program was carried out.

We had with us Rev. W. T. Edwards of Jemison, who made a splendid address on the value of Religious census in building the Sunday school. He also delivered a very inspiring sermon, his subject being, "I am a debtor" After which we adjourned for dinner and everybody had plenty to eat and some left for our next meeting.

The afternoon program was the value of the W. M. U. as an Educational Factor in the Church. By Mrs. J. C. Hughes.

The next on program was the pressing needs of our churches. Spoken to by Prof. I. L. Johnson of Clanton. L. B. Pounds of Joffree, and Rev. W. T. Edwards also W. T. Johnson of Clanton.

One of the best features of the day was the scriptural recitations by Miss Ruth Mahan of Vida Ala.

Among those that attended our meeting was Bro. L. F. Askins and wife and G. C. Billingsley of Indian Grove church, also Mr. T. J. Wright of Bibb Spring church. We were glad to have them with us.

We are very glad to have this meeting to come our way and we ask that it be repeated when convient to do so. Those that did not attend this meeting missed a great deal.

Miss Mae Dismuke, one of our former school teachers spent the week end with Mrs. Gandy.

Misses Mildred and Vivian Schurter returned from Vredenburg Friday, where they spent last week with their brother Mr. Henry Schurter.

HOW TO RAISE TOMATOES

The first thing to do in raising tomatoes is to get a good seed bed. To do this the ground ought to be plowed to a depth of seven or eight inches. That gives the ground a chance to settle and become more compact. If plowed too shallow the roots will curl up and lay close to the surface and will not get the moisture they ought to have.

I would advise planting the seed in the hill three and one-half or four feet apart each way and from three to four seed in a hill. Then when the plants are up five or six inches pull out all but one, leaving the best plant to stand.

Give the plants a thorough cultivation when small and as they grow cultivate more shallow. You must not get too close to the plant during the cultivation or you will bear off the little roots and injure your crop.

Do not stake or prune the plants. Let them go and grow in the way that nature intended for them. Do not put any straw under the plants as that will cause sunburn

When your crop is ready to market the processor will visit the growers and instruct them as to the condition of the tomatoes and how they ought to be for canning purposes. He will go into details fully with you.

JEMISON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

(By R. B. Johnson)

The base-ball game scheduled for last Friday, between J. H. S. & T. I. and Calera was called off on account of Calera's previous challenge with another team. The game will be played the coming Friday on the Calera diamond. Everybody who is particularly interested in our school Athletics should go and witness this game. Lets boost our team to the top by constant interest.

Messers Albert Simms, Charles and Leonard Glass and Erman Shaw were in Thorsby last Sunday evening conversing with their Thorsby friends.

On last Sunday night, Dr. John J. Milford of Birmingham delivered an excellent sermon to an enthused concourse of people at the Baptist church. His subject was: "Keeping time by signs." Then on the following address which proved cumminently good to both, students and Faculty. His theme for Monday morning was "higher aspirations of each individual." He then gave expression to a few thoughts to the Senior class filled with inspiration, encouraging them to keep up their valor in preparation for future successful service and leadership.

Mr. Martin Lawrence made a trip to New Salem last Sunday.

Ralph Glasscock made his annual excursion to Clanton last Sunday evening.

Messers R. B. Johnson, Seymour Reynolds, and Eb on Atkinson attended the singing at Providence last Sunday where they enjoyed the occassion.

Mr Comer Lenore one of our former reliable school mates was in our auspicious little town last week end.

Clayton Letcher accompanied Mr. W. T. Edwards to Bilingsley last Sunday morning.

We were glad to see Miss John Lee Thacker, one of our former public school teachers back in the presence of her Jemison friends last Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Kathl[illegible]s and Eleanor Summers were a[illegible] the many who attended the [illegible] singing at Providence last S[illegible]

Miss Christine Jo[illegible] on one of [illegible] Fever, was reported on account of her sickness. We deeply regret her absence and sincerely hope she may in the ne[illegible] future assume her daily school ta[illegible]

School again resumed work Monday morning in the usual state of progress, being absent last Friday, owing to two deaths and burials in this vicinity.

Clayton Letcher and Albert Simms motored to Clanton last Saturday night to witness the motion pictures.

Misses Rosalie Martin and Lesta Cobb were in Thorsby last Sunday. They were there giving time and attention to the wonderful lectures and addresses which were delivered by several of the State Sunday School and Educational workers.

The Jemison Base-ball team walloped the Union Grove team last Saturday by the lop-sided score of 8 to 2. The Jemison batters went on a hitting spree in nearly every frame. Clayton Letcher started at bat delivering 3 times out 6 trips to plate 2 singles and a triple. Watkins our renowned pitcher had his opponents at his mercy throughout the entire game. His delivery was a complete puzzle to the Union Grove batters which only a few could solve. He kept his hits well scattered and should have had a shut out to his credit but in the 8th frame 2 men were on base and a Union player leaned against a fast one which was correctly a foul. Hence 2 runners crossed the plate.

Mr. S. J. Reynolds paid our school a welcomed visit Monday morning. Mr. Reynolds is one of our Trustee's and is intensly interested in the upbuilding of our school for he has contributed liberaly and has shown many other favors in numerous respects.

Mr. Reese Wells one of our much estecmed school-mates made a trip to Montgomery several days ago with his father.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Edwards, our English and Science Instructers motored to Wilsonville last Thursday evening to visit his parents.

On last Saturday morning, April 28, the Legislative Educational Committee spent the day with us. At 11:00 a very enthusiastic meeting was held in which the members of the Committee and several of the Town citizens made short talks relative to Educational matters. We were glad to have with us citizens from Verbena, Clanton, and Stanton. Mr. Howard Foshee and Mr. Callaway of the county School Board were also present. The future for the Jemison High School appears very bright at the present. "COME ON" citizens and lets co-operate and pull together and rank our school up to the standard of any High School in the State. We can do it so lets prove our ability to the surrounding country and state by getting under the proposition and forcing it to the best. We have the right spirit, so we must make it visible and at present no other thing will bring it to light any better than the erection and equipping of a school building that we may look back in later years with pride and joy and say our work was not in vain.

EDUCATIONAL RECESS COMMITTEE

Senator S. M. Adams, Thorsby, Ala., Senator J. C. Inzer, Gadsden, Ala., who is chairman of the Senate Committee on Education; Representative C. S. Culver, Gadsden, Ala., Representative Louis Bowen, Birmingham, Ala. Representative G. E. Hubbard, Troy, Ala. and Secretary C. A. Verlack, Gadsden, Ala. [illegible] Members of the [illegible] committee on Education, were in Chilton county Saturday. These men are studying the Educational needs of the State along Educational lines. [illegible] Whereever they go, they interview different citizens as to the best ideas. They first went to Jemison visited the school and then met with a band of citizens at the Baptist church. Here every member of the committee made a five minute speech. Following these speeches various townsmen were called on for short talks. Mr. W. H. Conway who was for a number of years County Farm Demonstrator, made the opening speech for the citizens. Members of the Committee pointed out every man in the house and asked for his opinion concerning the present method of electing county superintendents and concerning the proposed millage tax for education advocated by the Governor.

Leaving Jemison they returned to Clanton. At 2:30 in the afternoon they went into executive session in the office of the county superintendent where a number of Clanton people were called in and given full opportunity to express their views. At the close of this meeting a band of the leading citizens of Verbena escorted them to their young metropolis.

They were met by a large crowd at the Methodist church where an enthusiastic meeting was held. The program was about the same as at Jemison in the morning, after talks by the members of the Committee the citizens spoke of the needs of the schools and their opinions of the present school laws of Alabama. It can now be said that the leading citizens of Verbena and vicinity are thoroughly aroused to the importance of good schools and you can count on them in going 100 per cent or as the old familiar phrase was during the "going over the top" in all school matters and in fact in every thing pertaining to the upbuilding of their community.

Every person who has expressed himself regarding the visit of this committee speak in the highest terms of their earnest effort to find out just what the people want. We hope much good will result from this visit to Chilton county

The Best Picture ever Put on in Clanton

"Master of Men"

A splendid cast has been afforded "Masters of Men," the great sea story by Morgan Robertson, which the Wadesonian Theatre will show next Saturday, headed by Earle Williams, Alice Calhoun, Cullen Landis and Wanda Hawley. The story is striking, vivid picturization of life at sea with the background of a heart stirring love drama involving the four principal characters.

It is a picture of American youth and it is as fresh and wholesome as a breath of the sea upon which the action occurs. Dick Halpin, an orphan living in a small town, is falsely accused of a theft committed by the brother of the firl he loves. He accepts the blame in order to spare her humilitation, runs away and joins the United States Navy. While on shore leave Dick and Lieutenant Breen, his superior, are shanghaied and flung into the forcastle of the "Mary Earl" commanded by one of the most brutal of old time sea masters. The boys fight their way out of their difficulties and manage to escape and rejoin their ship just as the Spanish fleet is coming out of the harbor of Santiago. Dick's heroism helps save the day.

Two phases of sea life are relaistically portrayed: the clean, wholesome conditions on board a United States battleship and the brutality and cruelty men suffered on board a sailing ship. Vitagraph has spared no expense in staging the ordinary seaman's days before the mast, and assisted by the United States Navy Department the producers have been enabled to show the most authentic scenes of naval life ever filmed.

"The Leader"

A CLANTON LIABILITY

(By W. B. Corley.)

For several years my work here in the newspaper field has focused my attention on a few startling facts that are to be deplored.

One of them is that Clanton is rapidly building up in spite of itself.

Had you ever thought of that? It is as true as gospel.

We have some wealthy people here who seem absolutely content to sit idly by and trust to luck for theirs and who do not seem at all interested in the future, nor even the present, of their town.

They consistently refuse to back any program that aims to build up their own town and double the value of their property.

Fortunately the entire citizenship is not built on that plan. There are some big, broad minded men here, who can visualize the bright promises of the future and who are willing to work and contribute to any legitimate cause that has for its aim the greatest good to the greatest number, and to this class entirely Clanton owes its ability to make the wonderful strides it is, and has already made, in the march of Progress.

To me it looks hard, in fact, it looks unfair, that a certain few of our monied men should be forced to do all the work and all the paying, while the results achieved benefit the idle unprogressive class just as much as it does anybody—more, in fact, because they do none of the work and pay out none of the cash.

Considering the wonderful amount of improvements that have been made here during the past four years and then checking up the parties who were responsible for these improvements is a surprising picture.

Just suppose that every citizen in Clanton who owns property that is being enhanced in value daily by these improvements, had put his shoulder to the wheel and helped the thing along, why already the busy spindles of a cotton mill would be making music here. The Drainage of our swamp lands would be an accomplished fact. The co-operative canning factory would be ready for business and numbers of other pay day industries would be oiling the wheels of business until every day would be just like Saturday.

Get some modern pep in your system, get into the swim and try "taking your own chestnuts out of the fire" awhile." You will feel better, be happier and live longer if you will.

Every citizen of Clanton owes it to himself and to posterity to get in the march of progress right now and keep his energy hitting on all six for the betterment and building up of his home town and community.

Thousands of tons of fertilizer were put in the ground last week. The flood of Sunday morning doubtless distributed a very large per cent of that amount all the way between here and the Gulf of Mexico. Even the elements seem to delight in taking a whack at the farmer.

JOS. P. VANDEVEER DIES SUDDENLY

The Deceased had for 45 Years Been Prominent in the Business and Fraternal Life of Chilton County

(By W. B. Corley)

Last Saturday, as the blazing sun dipped behind the western hills and another day had died on the calander of time, the spirit of Mr. Joseph P. Vandeveer burst the bonds of its tenement of clay and soared away, mid the fast falling shades of night, to that other clime from which no traveller ever returns.

His passing away was as he could have wished it. The day with its joys and cares had just closed and he was seated at home peacefully at rest in the company of that adored life partner, whose love and presence meant more to him than all things else on earth.

The summons came, and without pomp and ceremony and alone with that faithful wife whom he adored he passed over to the other side. No a struggle but as peacefully as a tired child passes in to the land of slumber clasped in its mother's arms he "fell on sleep."

Mr. Vandeveer was born in the city of Montgomery Nov. 30, 1858. He was a graduate of Georgetown University in Kentucky. He came to Chilton county 45 years ago, locating on Clear Creek, not far from Jemison. While living there he met, wooed and won Miss Cornelia E. McMath, who became his life long partner and who is now sadly bereaved and left alone to mourn and listen for the tones of a dearly loved voice that is stilled forever, and for a familiar footfall that will never gladden her heart again.

Later he and his wife moved to Jemison. In 1892 he became Clerk of the Circuit Court and moved with his family to Clanton. He held that office for 6 years and was then made Back Tax Commissioner, which place he filled until the office was abolished by the Kilby administration.

He was made a Mason in Jemison in 1891 and moved his membership to Clanton the following year. He went to the top in that order and was a member of Zamora Temple of Birmingham, to the hour of his death.

On Monday forenoon, at 10:30 o'clock, his remains were laid to rest in his private lot in the city cemetery. His Masonic brethern went with him to his final resting place, the Knight Templar rank were in charge of the ceremonies and were present in uniform 30 strong. His Blue Lodge brethern also were on hand about 40 in number, to pay to them honored and esteemed brother this last meed of love and respect.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church, where Dr. S. J. Ezell delivered a most appropriate sermon replete with historical memories of the dead.

Perhaps the largest and most representative funeral cortage that has ever assembled in Clanton on a similar occassion, followed the remains to the grave.

The floral offerings were not only profuse, but they were beautiful beyond compare. The touching and symbolic ceremony of the Knight Templar Rank consigned the deceased to his tomb, and thus the earthly career of this unique and respected southern gentleman of the old school was closed and finis written to the last chapter of a long busy and checkered career.

Mr. Vandeveer was exact and precise in all dealings and a lack of absolute order and system was utterly impossible to him. He was more familiar with the intimate history of Chilton county and its people than any other one person, and could give you the data on almost any piece of real estate in the county without hesitation or reference.

Besides the lonely wife, the deceased leaves three children, one son, Mr. J. M. Vandeveer, of Clanton, and two daughters, Mrs. J. R. Pou, of Birmingham and Mrs. A. S. Richards, of Jackson, Tenn. Besides these children who are living he had two other son who are dead. His oldest child was a boy, W. T., who died some years ago. Then we all remember his youngest J. P. Jr., who died in 1918 during the terrible flue epidemic.

In the passing of Mr. Vandeveer there is a vacancy left in the business and social world of Clanton and Chilton county that will hardly ever be filled again with the competency and skill displayed by him.

The writer would respectfully extend to the bereaved ones his most sincere sympathy in this bitter period of their mundane experience while offering this last tribute to the deceased.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend to the good people of Clanton and Chilton county our most earnest and sincere thanks for their great kindness and consideration shown us in our recent sad bereavement.

CATON—JOHNSON

(By W. B. Corley)

June with its romance and roses has not quite arrived yet but cupid in his darts regardless of time, place and season when true love guides his hand.

In keeping with the age old story of "Loves young dream" and in defiance of the fashionable predilection for June weddings, one of the most auspicious and happy nuptial events of recent occurance in our community was the marriage yesterday morning of Mr. Arustus B. Caton, of Andalusia, Ala., to Miss Hilda Mae Johnson, of Clanton.

The groom is a handsome and promising young business man. A young man of great promise, and will no doubt, climb high up on the ladder of fame.

The bride is the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Johnson and does credit to her most estimable parents. She is well educated and talented not only in the social world, but she is also a most accomplished young lady in the art of house-keeping and knowing how to make the home happy and attractive.

The ceremony took place at the Baptist pastorium and was beautifully performed by Dr. S. J. Ezell.

The happy couple left immediately after the ceremony for a brief bridal tour, after which, from May 20, they will be at home in Montgomery where they expect to make their home.

The writer together with a large circle of friends here, wishes for the happy pair all of the happiness and success possible in an existence on this mundane sphere.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

"Clean-up Week-May 15 to May 30."

In the interest of public health, civic pride and civic beauty, I am asking the hearty co-operation of every resident of our town to join in a united effort to make Clanton one of the cleanest and beautiful towns in Alabama. I am therefore proclaiming May 15th to May 30th as "Clean-up Weeks."

It is not scriptural to say "That Cleanliness is next godliness," but it is of the essence of truth. It is also true "That a thing of beauty is a joy forever." "Clanton clean and Beautiful" is our hope and goal.

To reach this end, we must have the united co-operation of every family and every business house of the town. The ladies of the Civic League have offered and are giving their hearty co-operation to make Clanton a clean town. I am asking them to make a City-wide inspection of all business lots, vacant lots, and premises on May 31st. The lots and premises which show a worthy co-operation will be awarded a White Flag to be displayed as an award of honor for one week.

This the 9th day of May, 1923.

LIKE OLD TIMES

(By W. B. Corley)

Sunday last the Grandmothers and Mothers class at the Baptist church had charge of the opening exercises at Sunday School.

They selected and dispensed the music for the occasion and it was indeed a happy service for some of us old fogies.

Songs with such tender sacred and beautiful sentiment as "Come Thou Fount of every Blessing" and Nearer My God to Thee" were rendered in the same old devotional way that still awakens fond memories in some of our hearts, and it was indeed a feast for the soul to once again listen to these dear old soulful tunes of our fathers.

The Semi-Operatic tunes of these ultra-modern days in which we are living possibly means at much and gets as close to the heart of the iniated as did these good old time songs in the long-ago, but to me they seem to lack something in rythm as well as in sentiment.

Some of the fondest recollections of my life are woven into memories of other days when good old time revivals were in progress and these good old songs were being sung with the "spirit and the understanding" who, sometimes it seemed like the very spirit of God was pulsating in every note.

I am not grumbling at all, but I bet what I have written will still find an echo in many a heart.

BAD WEATHER FOR BUILDING

For the past week or so it has rained so continuously that all building operations have been practically at a stand still.

Our Methodist friends started on the excavation for their new church building nearly two weeks ago, but the rains kept up until they had to abandon the job and wait for better weather.

This is regrettable too, especially as they are without a home until they can build and they are anxious to push work as rapidly as possible.

Dr. Eiland and Col. G. C. Walker were also forced to stop excavating for their new buildings for the same reason.

Several other residential jobs have also been held up for better weather and taken altogether the wet spell has been not only inconvenient but expensive in Clanton.

SAM PARRISH SICK

Last Saturday night Mr. Sam Parrish was suddenly stricken with something like paralysis and was rendered helpless and speechless for something like 18 hours.

We are glad to report now that he seems to be slowly convalesing and it is to be hoped that he will soon be out again and entirely recovered.

This stroke came to Mr. Parrish and his friends as an utter surprise as he is a comparatively young man and in apparent splendid physicial condition.

He is a son of Mr. Elijah Parrish and brother to Prof. Jno. M. and Dr. W. L. Parrish.

TO BE GONE TWO WEEKS

Dr. S. J. Ezell, the popular pastor of the Baptist church left yesterday enroute to the Southern Baptist Convention that convenes this year at Kansas City, Mo. on May 18th.

Dr. Ezell went on thus early as his wishes to stop over with friends in Kentucky for a day or so.

While he will not occupy his pulpit here for the next two Sunday's, it will not be because of his trip, as next Sunday will be given over to the Commencement and the following Sunday to the annual meeting of the Chilton county Singing Convention that meets here at the High School auditorium on the third Sunday.

The famous Vaughn Quartette will attend this convention and will dispense some more of their splendid music.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Mrs. Sid J Dupriest who resides near Mineral Springs was brought to the hospital Monday with both bones broken above the wrist.

The information that reaches us is to the effect that she, with others, had gone out on a truck to gather some berries. As she was preparing to alight the driver let the truck jerk suddenly forward and she was thrown to the ground, catching on her hands and breaking both arms as related.

The surgeons attended to her arms and she returned home, where it is hoped she may speedily recover.

JUST A RUMOR

(By W. B. Corley)

It has been whispered around that some one has captured a 45 pound cat fish out at the river and keeping him tied out and a kodak handy so that disappointed fishermen can hire him and the kodak for a few minute and manufacture visible evidence to back up their fish stories.

OVER THE TOP

(By W. B. Corley)

The stock for the canning factory is all in sight. Clanton, as usual has done her part and the factory is an assured fact.

Organization of the stock holders and the election of a board of directors will take place immediately and the contract for the building and equipment will be let right awa.

This is grateful news to us for a great deal more than the securing of a canning factory depended on the issue so far as Clanton was concerned.

We might have been able to do without the factory but we could not afford to do without the sentiment of cooperation that the financing of our part of the factory meant.

When it comes to a show down Clanton always measures up to the specifications.

COMMENCEMENT NEXT SUNDAY

The closing exercises of the High School will be on next week.

The commencement sermon will be preached at 11 a. m. next Sunday at the High School auditorium.

Sunday school at the various church es will convene an hour earlier next Sunday so as ao give every one an opportunity of attending the commencement service at 11:00.

The final examination and the awarding of diplomas will come off during the week, and a number of social functions will be staged.

It is expected that next week will furnish quite a number of social events of interest.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

A few years ago young ladies in passing along the streets always turned their heads when they passed a barber shop or an open saloon.

The saloon is only a memory now but the barber shop is still with us and some of the best customers they serve are young ladies of today.

If the saloon had remained on the job do you recon the same addition would have been made to their trade.

SOLDERING ON THE LID

The fellow who has been accustomed to taking his "eye-opener" and "night-cap" has fallen on hard times around Clanton now.

Sheriff Littlejohn and Deputy Culp seem to have an uncanny intuition that directs them in their sorties out after the potent juice. Sometimes they bring in a lot of the bottled lightening and two or three disgusted looking leggers, and then again they go out and bring in the whole works.

Copper stills are no curiosity now and Chilton county could open up a first class distillery with the outfit on hand.

These officers are making the lives of the bootlegger and moonshiner anything else than a bed of roses. If you are not looking for trouble you better leave the succulent corn juice alone now in Chilton county.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

This week and next is clean-up week at the Clanton Cemetery. Everybody is urged to clean off their lot.

A Man's Prayer

"Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them to do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and to the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of the other fellow, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and sympathetic enough to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple—Here lies a man."

If our sentiments coincide with the above lines, and we live up to them, we have nothing to fear in this world, and little in the next.

We are trying to practice the golden rule in this bank, and in doing so are giving our customers and public the very best service possible. Let us serve you in any way we can.

If you want a fresh item just released for publication by Dr. Welch here it is "Swat the fly."

No danger of the Volstead law being modified. The multi-millionaires are making too much easy money out of the bootleg traffic.

The little word "if" is the most popular part of speech when the average fisherman is relating the wonders of his recent trip. Had you noticed it?

What I want to know is, did the Age-Herald take the Cooie treatment. If it did, the cure is vindicated for, "Every day, in every way, the Age-Herald is betting better and better. Herald is getting better and better."

Make the immigration laws more strict in every way. "America for Americans" should be the eternal slogan of every liberty loving soul in our land. Let politics go hang, but let's save our country.

When they get so large you have to fold them up like a pocket knife to get them in a full sized touring car. I hardly know whether to class them as a fish or a Whale. Ask Mally White.

Had you ever thought about it? The canning factory would be the best investment the business men of Clanton ever engaged in, even if it never did pay a dividend. And that's a fact too.

If the world continues in operation there is bound to come a time in the future when the farmer will price his own products the same as all other manufacturers. I would love to live long enough to see that day.

It must be to laugh for Woodrow Wilson now. The republican party must either swallow his league of nations or go busted. They are damned if they do and damned if they don't. You sir.

If it were not for the earning capacity of "father" and the good obedient servant qualities of "Mother" these days, parents would rapidly pass to the great beyond. They are awfully in the way of this emancipated element that infests the world at this time.

If some one will introduce a substitute for sugar in the manufacture of moonshine liquors, the price of that necessary table asset will get back in reach of the ordinary citizen. My opinion is that the liquor trade is using as much sugar now as the household demand.

Takes 4 yards now to build the average ladies dress. It costs about $10.00. It used to require on an average 12 yards and the cost was $1.20. Quite a reduction in the consumption of the material, but a devil of an inflation of the consumption of the weekly pay roll.

There surely is not an intelligent person 50 years of age in the United States who does not realize the utter rottenness and indecent absurdity of our present social system. If God and His Word is not a myth we are doomed to a horrible awakening in the future. History repeats itself.

With the State Auditor drawing down two salaries, the Public Service Commission a monumental farce, the State Health Department under a cloud of suspicion and the prospect of a direct raise in taxation Alabama deserves credit for being [illegible] put.

President Harding has decided to risk it and has made the plunge. He is out and out for the League of Nations plan now. It will be a strange freak of American politics if he can win now as an advocate of the very thing that four years ago he opposed with all the spite and venom of his system and made a record winning.

CHILTON COUNTY DEMOCRATS

This is to be an absolutely personal talk on my part. I never belonged to any ring or clique and have never played the game of politics for one 5 cent piece in money, nor with any desire or inclination for office. I have been a democrat, dyed-in-the-wool from my cradle up until this good day.

Before my majority in the days when our republican friends, like our present president, tried in every possible manner to ram the negro down our throats. I did my bit to the limit of my ability, to uphold the standard of democracy and white supremacy and to guarantee to every honest white man his inalienable rights as a free born American citizen.

From that hour on down through the long years, even until this good day, I have remained steadfast to the faith of our fathers, not because of the noble traditions of our Southland centered around that standard, nor because my sainted father, a man in whom there was no guile, had fearlessly espoused and fought for those ideals, but because I have never yet been able to figure out any tenable place in the life and freedom of the South where a person of any other faith could stand and be true to himself and the land of his birth.

My own career is almost run, soon I will be gathered to the fathers, but believe me, I ask no nobler epitaph to mark the end of my voyage than the simple words: "A Southern Democrat."

I have been a citizen of Chilton county about 16 years. I have watched and wondered at the peculiar conditions that prevail here. I have been amazed at the voluntary isolation these good people impose upon themselves. Surrounded on all sides by a United spirit of democracy that dominates, not only our State, but all of the broad and fertile areas of the South, what motive could induce a people to willfully deny themselves of all the advantages and happiness that a spirit of harmony and co-operation is bringing to all other sections of our fatherland and cut themselves adrift a tiny speck in the midst of the great ocean of sentiment that prevails now, and will for untold years to come.

Surely there can be no rhyme nor reason in such a course. To live and move and be but the vassal or puppet of some organization that has no influence whatever beyond the meager confines of a county, and to exclude oneself from having any voice or influence at all in the making of the laws under which one has to live, is a mystery too profound for my solution.

In some good day these things will right themselves. The dark clouds of prejudice will roll away. The people will awake from the hypnotic spell that has so long held them in thrall and cajoled them into allowing themselves to be played as pawns in a game of personal supremacy, with no care or thought for what the real results be, and then will come an awakening. "Old things will pass away and all things will become new."

Another amazing thing that I have observed in Chilton county is the methods pursued by the democratic party here. There are lots of good democrats in this county. In fact, a political check on the last census indicates a bare majority in favor of the democrats. The tax books also make a remarkably fine showing for the democrats. A business political directory is also wonderfully favorable to the democrats. All of these figures have been accurately compiled, but I do not care to go into details right now.

This bein the state of affairs that exist in your county and these facts being known abroad, do you wonder that a Chilton county democrat can not command the recognition he is entitled to in the counsels of his party, because they can't possibly understand what kind of democrats we are, to sit tamely by and submit to political isolation, when it looks to them like we should walk up and put our county in line with Southern principles. Can you blame them? Do we not deserve their doubts and distrust of us?

All the latter years of my life before I came to Chilton were spent in communities that were solidly democratic. We had no outside foe to combat and no special necessity for party organization, but I never knew a year to go by without at least as many as two great party rallys. An organization will not hang together and function that does not meet, mingle and discuss the questions of the day oftener than once every six years. Even a church would go absolutely dead that did no better than that.

In 16 years I believe I have known of the Chilton county democrats having about two rallys. They ought to meet, at least, twice a year. There is always plenty of things that need discussion and action. Poll tax should be looked after every year and must be if you ever expect to come into your own. If you have not got enough democracy in your system to make you willing and anxious to meet and work for the cause, why you have exactly what you deserve and you may just make up your mind to put up with it.

Two or three people can not hold a party together and make it a winner. That is a cinch.

Another thing. If you want to win in any kind of a public enterprise and have the confidence of the people with you, it is absolutely essential that you take them into your confidence. The people have been fooled and tricked so often by unscrupulous politicians that they are taking very little for granted these days. The inate principle of the average American is fair play. If you expect to carry much weight with him you will have to put your hand on the table.

I knew a political campaign of much promise to be murdered once in the office of a livery stable and there were only about 3 persons present. You all may have heard of it. I knew an election that was positively won once that was lost by taking the issues away from the people and shutting them up in secret conclave with a "committee." I have seen victory turned into ignominious defeat by forsaking a clean, open, honest fight before the people and diving down into the very vilest and lowest depths of mudslinging. The main thing is to keep your party organized at all times and give them every one a fair and equal deal in its affairs. It would be a good plan to turn down every man who seeks an office and let the office seek the man awhile.

If you Chilton county democrats expect to go forward in the work you have begun you better get together now and then and keep in touch. You better devote a little time to thinking for yourself and don't depend on the other fellow.

As soon as the rush of planting is over and a little lull occurs on the farm call a general meeting. Get together and reorganize your forces and line up for a strong poll tax campaign this fall.

W. B. CORLEY

THE BATTLE IS ON

(By W. B. Corley)

A few sunshiney days have come at last and the lines are being tightly drawn now between the farmers on the one side and the forces of General Green on the other.

So far all of the weather conditons have been favorable to the campaign of the invading enemy, but the weather man gives promise now of fairer skies for awhile and, if this prediction proves true, the farmer will have an opportunity of marshaling his forces on the front line and then the enemy may back out.

Owing to the continued rains many crops are not even planted yet, and perhaps, that may prove beneficial in the long run, for by planting now a large crop of young grass will be destroyed and the crop planted will have an even break with the grass in getting up and starting on its way.

Where the crops have already been planted is where the biggest fight will come. The grass is already on the ground in wonderful profusion and it will take close and persistent work to recapture the little cotton and corn from its grasp.

If the season will just be kind, however, the farmer will win in the end and not so much harm will have been done after all.

WANT NO CHANGE

(By W. B. Corley)

Quite a number of the leading citizens of Tuskegee have gone to Washington to lay their objections before President Harding in regard to his expressed intention of removing the white managers of the Tuskegee Institute and replacing them with negroes.

Gov. Brandon was to have gone with them but pressing matters of state made it impossible for him to get off.

It begins to look like the President is more narrow than we had at first supposed. I hardly believe that even the republicans of the south will stand behind him in his apparent determination to meddle with the social conditions of the South.

CROP PROSPECTS

(By W. B. Corley.)

As every one knows this has been a most backward and discouraging spring for the farmers. It has rained almost continually for the past two months. In fact, this has been a year so far, without any spring.

It is also a fact that the farmers, in this section at least, have more than doubled their bills for fertilizer this year. They made their plans for a tremendous cotton crop and bought fertilizer in the same proportion.

Now, the future prospect does not loom up as promising as it did back in the winter. Some of the evil eventualities that intrude themselves upon the business of farming have already appeared on the scene. The farmer is not going to get the early start he had planned for in outwitting the boll weevil, and it will be necessary to devise other methods for combatting the evil influences of this pest.

General Green is also taking advantage of the protracted rainy season and is marching his forces for a fight to a finish. The forced idleness of the farmer is not only going to give the boll weevil an even start with the crop, but the grass is growing now by leaps and bounds and by the time the little cotton plant gets large enough for cultivation to begin, the grass is going to be so intricately interwoven with it that it will take untold care and labor to destroy the one and save the other.

There are some of the inevitable conditions that confront the farmer at this stage of the game. He will be compelled to meet them in one way or another.

If the farmer concludes to stick to his original plan and plant largely to cotton, he should arrange to put on a whirl wind fight with the plow and hoe and make it continuous and snappy. It will take constant and unremitting labor to win out against the grass and it will take all the pushing you can possibly give the crop to beat the boll weevil out of even a half of it for the farmer. That is my experience and I have tried it.

On the other hand, it is not too late to change your plans and substitue food and feed crops for at least some per cent of your cotton and, perhaps, that would be a wise thing to do. If a person has a full corn crib and smoke house I have always noticed that he could manage all the rest.

At all events, the conditions are just what they are and we have to meet them whether we want to or not. So there is no good to go bug. Put a smile on your face and faith in your soul and go forward. God will take care of the rest.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH BUREAU OF PUBLICITY

A. B. Tucker, Director

Montgomery, Ala. May 7—Reports for over the state reaching the State Board of Health indicates that the people of Alabama have awakened to the importance of ridding the state of malaria by eliminating breeding places for mosquitoes.

The large land owners as well as the small farmer are beginning to realize that the malarial tax is far more burdensome than the gasoline tax, school tax and road tax combined.

Yellow fever, once the bugbear which kept investors from coming to southern cities, especially coast cities like Mobile, New Orleans and Pensacola, has been absolutely eradicated and in eradicating yellow fever, malaria was also controlled to great extent because the fight against the mosquito which carried yellow fever also led to a fight on the country cousin of the yellow fever carrier—the Anopheles.

According to reports on file at the State Health Office, there are eight counties in Alabama which suffered no death last year from malaria. These are: Cherokee, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, DeKalb, Fayette, Tallapoosa and Winston.

The same report shows ten counties in each of which one death was charged to malaria and ten in each of which two deaths from this disease occured. The counties of one death of which each follows: Blount, Chilton, Coffee, Cullman, Jackson, Lee, Marion, Pike, Randolph and Russell. The counties which paid a toll of two death each follow: Autauga, Covington, Elmore, Franklin, Lamar, Marshall, Shelby, St. Clair, Sumpter and Washington.

By proper drainage and a continued fight on the mosquito it is possible to practically eliminate this drain upon the people of Alabama.

Mr. J. H. McMath, of Decatur, who is a brother of Mrs. J. P. Vandeveer, was here Monday at the funeral of Mr. J. P. Vandeveer.

WHAT HAS BECOME OF THE CROQUET SET?

Anniston Star.

What has become of the once popular croquet set?

Once every lawn had one and in the late afternoons groups of interested players, masculine, feminine, young and old, could be seen enjoying the mild excitement of the game.

Now one seldom sees a lawn with a croquet set. It is a pastime that has passed. More strenuous ones have supplanted it.

It is not an admission of extreme old age to recall the days when you and others, no older than you, would take mallet in hand and with great care and not a little pride, start the ball toward the goal, through the wire arches, striking with great precision, that you might get in good position for the final drive to the colored stick which marked the end of the effort.

It requires skill to play croquet as it should be played. Good players were proud of their ability and poor ones always seeking an excuse for their unlucky strokes. And, croquet, above all other games of its day, was a social game. One could play and talk at the same time, and there were many moments during every game when the man and the maid could exchange verbal expressions of mutual admiration.

One seldom got overheated playing croquet, and there were few excuses for losing one's temper. Yet it gave opportunity for a mild form of exercises in the late afternoon that many found helpful and delightful.

People nowadays have little time for the old-fashioned forms or recreation and sports. The waiting car has a stronger call than croquet ever had. The tennis court offers a chance for greater excitement. The golf links are much more inviting, with their greater freedom and their greater novelty and excitement.

Yet one cannot help regretting the passing of such a delightful form of exercise as croquet. It brought the family circle, and the neighbors we liked into friendly and intimate touch under the protection and satisfying environment of the home. Now the tendency is to get away from the home place for recreation and pleasure.

THE PEACE THAT CAME TOO SOON

The proposed offer of Germany to France to settle the reparation controversy and commented upon in these columns, has been definitely rejected by both the French and the Belgian governments. The thirty-billion marks offered in settlement, they say, is inadequate and the offer itself is a scheme to divide the allies and to have other governments interfere between Germany and France.

The Ruhr invasion and the hopeless misunderstandings between France and Germany again remind us that it was a dangerous thing to make a peace based upon an unrealizable ideal. It was wrong to end a great and costly war with a negotiated peace. There could not have been a complete or satisfactory peace, that did not involve Germany's submission on the field of battle. Readers of The Advertiser will have no difficulty in remembering that this paper protested when the American government accepted the feelers of the German government to obtain a negotiated peace. We thought it unwise then to develop these tentative negotiations and to make the offer of the so-called Fourteen Points, which were not maintained in the negotiations.

To some readers, we were reminded that it seemed a heartless and cruel suggestion to recommend that the allies not follow a peace at any price policy, which at least would save the lives of several thousand allied soldiers which would be lost in the completion of those movements and maneuvers, which would have inevitably brought about the surrender on the field of battle of thousands of German soldiers and which would have been the best guarantee of peace in the future. But the Germans were given a negotiated peace, their soldiers returned home to have flowers flung at their feet and to pass under floral arches erected to the memory of "the ever victorious army." At the peace conference it was the feelings and interest of Germany, not of France, that were considered.

The unsatisfactory peace tended to put the future peace in the keeping of Germany. To the thoughtful man, the man who had read history, it was no surprise that the peace failed. The general widespread war in Europe ended but there has been fighting there ever since. There has not been and thre is no peace now between France and Germany. The terms demanded of Germany by the Versailles Treaty were hard enough, but no chimere was left.

The old antagonism between France, have not sheathed their swords and Germany may realize her hope steadily maintained of avoiding the provisions of the Versailles Treaty.—Advertiser.

LODGE DOES NOT ESPOUSE LEAGUE COURT: A NASTY MEAN FIGHT SEEMS INEVITABLE

Two years occupancy of the White House has been sufficient to prove conclusively that President Harding never has been and never will be the leader of his party. Even as a reformer he breaks down. Indications point to the belief that he will have hard sledding in getting the League Court idea through.

It is pointed out that any sort of compromise with the Wilson plan is in direct opposition to Republican policies, and that this fact will be worked to the limit when the hour comes for debate. Those who have construed Senator Lodge's letter of Gov. Hyde of Missouri as a tacit approval of the international Court have not studied the correspondence carefully enough. They have not read between the lines. gotten his cunning. He has by no means approved the court idea. He has instead predicated a fierce fight in the Senate and has anticipated reservations. From Lodge, the country should know what that means. It means sapping the underpinnings of the plan. Lodge does not presume to forestall the action of the Senate. He but refers to the reservations already suggested by Secretary Hughes, viz a declaration of the refusal of the United States to join the League of Nations and a declaration that the United States shall have equality of representation when the League is selecting judges of the court. Then he goes father foxily and cunningly to say:

These two suggestions of the Secretary of State are vitally important. It will be the duty of the Senate there to frame conditions under the last two suggestions of the Secretary of State and it also may be assumed that the Senate may very possibly discuss and propose other conditions.

Between now and the time the Senate acts Senator Lodge will have ample opportunity to feel the pulse of the country. Remembering his stubborn record and his cordial dislike of Wilson, it needs no speculation to say that he will observe the same reactionary policy that he has in the past.

Woodrow Wilson himself opposes any sort of backdoor entry to League membership. This newspaper, always in thorough sympathy with the former President's policy touching the League of Nations, is yet of the opinion that half a loaf is better than no bread. But whatever real contrition the Republican Party may feel for having wrecking the largest hope ever permitted. Neither the Democratic Party nor Mr. Wilson, in the opinion of the News, should oppose the slightest effort on the part of the Republican Party to get itself right, be it in ever so timourous fashion, with the largest aspiration of the world.

Should the Republican Party refuse deliberately to follow the advances made by President Harding, then The News belives that the Democratic Party could well afford to wrest the torch from Harding's failing hands and carry it into the national election. Birmingham News.

INSPIRATIONAL MEETING AT THORSBY

Dear Editor:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words about the fifth Sunday meeting at Thorsby Baptist church.

The meeting was attended by delegates from all parts of the County. Dr. Milford of Howard College and Rev. Sam Heath, also of Howard, were with us. Brother Ezell of the Clanton Baptist Church was an honered guest. We were much delighted to have Mrs. Lamblin and Miss Northington, State workers, present during the day.

The meeting was a success from beginning to end. Saturday night, April 28th, will be long remembered by all. A speech was given by Rev. T. J. Deason, after which Dr. Milford preached a splendid sermon.

On Sunday, April 29th, we had another glorious service. The morning service was composed of "A History of the Chilton County Baptist Association." The Sunday school activities were well discussed by Mrs. W. T. Edwards. The W. M. U. work was explained by Miss Northington who made an appeal for unpaid campaign pledges. This appeal met with response from all parts of the house. Dr. Milford again delivered an admirable sermon.

A most delightful dinner was served at the noon hour by the ladies of the community.

The afternoon service was a great success. Speeches were made on "Stewardship" and many pledged themselves to "Tithe" their incomes. A "Laymen's movement" was organized in the Chilton County Association. The conference that followed the close of the meeting were very helpful to the difrent branches of the Baptist work.

The results of this meeting will long be remembered by Alabama Baptists, especially the Chilton County Baptist Association.

The tomato seed for those who have subscribed an acreage for the canning factory, have arrived. Every subscriber is urged to get his seed immediately from his local business agent. If your business agent has not yet received the seed, call at the C. F. of A. County Office at Clanton and get your seed. As it is advisable to have all of the seed planted as nearly as possible at the same time everyone is required to plant th seed btween May 9th and 18th.

In regard to fertilizer will say that successful tomato growers recommend an 8-4-4 mixture applied at the rate of 300 to 500 lbs. per acre according to the nature of the ground. A mixture composed of one part of kainit, one part of nitrate of soda and two parts of aicd phosphate is very good. Care should be taken that the fertilizer does not come in contact with the seed as it will injure thef andpossible cause a poor stand.

THE 4th AVENUE BRIDGE

The city is going forward putting in the necessary fills for the bridge across the rail road on fourth avenue. That is, they are trying to go forward between the down pours of rain.

It will certainly be a great convenience for travel and it is to be hoped that everything will coospire to bring about its early building.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT HIGH SCHOOL

Commencement exercises will begin at the high school next Sunday with a class of 27 graduating on the following Friday night. The commencement sermon will be delivered by Rev. H. C. Threadgill, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Anda Vista, Ala. Mr. Threadgill has been in great demand this season for commencement sermons and we may expect a masterful sermon on that day.

Miss Roberta Curry will present her pupils in the annual high school recital Tuesday evening beginning at 8:15 o'clock. This program will be a splendid feature of commencement.

The Undergraduates play "When East Meets West" will be presented Thursday evening. This is expected to be the best play of the year. Every character has had quite a bit of previous exercises in dramatics. You will see a high class performance on this night.

The culminating event will be the graduation exercises on Friday night. The auditorium will not hold the people on that night. Very fortunate indeed were we to secure Dr. Spright Dowell, President of Auburn, for this occasion. Dr. Dowell knows the school situation of Alabama from the smallest country school to the highest college of the state. We may count on him for a splendid address to the graduating class.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT NEW SALEM SUNDAY

The citizens and leading church members in the community of New Salem several years ago adopted the custom of meeting Saturday before the first Sunday in May and cleaning off the cemetery and also holding a memorial service on the first Sunday in May.

Last Sunday beginning promptly at ten o'clock the people of this community together with several hundred persons from many parts of Chilton county assembled to pay that respect and homage to their deceased love ones at New Salem church who have preceeded them to the great beyond.

The song service was taken charge of by Mr. Bill Hayes. Prof. T. A. Coe sang a solo. Next was the welcome address by the business manager of the News. After the quire led by Mr. Hayes sang a song.

Rev. S. M. Adams preached an excellent sermon appropriate [illegible] casion.

Then Mrs. Maud Cox and Mrs. R. M. Smith took charge and formed the Sunday School pupils in line followed by the audience and went to the cemetery where those who had loved ones burried placed wreaths of flowers on their graves.

At the noon hour a bounteous dinner was spread and every person present had the privilege of enjoying a dinner that was well prepared. Those who had never been there before learned that the people in this part of the county know how to grow strawberries and prepared them along with the other things as well that suits the tastes of any people who thoroughly enjoys a good meal.

The afternoon was devoted entirely to songs led by the following leaders of music: Prof. T. A. Coe, Prof. Cook, and Messers Akin Collins, Archie Glass, Jessie C. Jones, G. D. Retherford, J. B. Riggins and Vester Campbell.

The organists were Profs. Coe and Cook and Mrs. Maud Cox.

To add to the pleasure and entertainment of the Memorial services Prof. Gainus Quartette of Birmingham was present. It is a well trained quartette and after each director for several times they favored the large audience with many highly pleasing as well as inspiring numbers on the program. This well trained quartette is composed of Prof T. A. Coe, V. B. Busby, Asa Collius and J. B. Riggins were reared in this county. We are glad to see our county young men coming to the front by being up on music well enough to belong to such a well known quartette.

The Clanton Quartette composed of Jessie C. Jones, Renfroe Jones, Mrs. Renfroe Jones and G. D. Retherford was also present and rendered several numbers on the program. We are particularly proud of our local talent and more than glad to see so much interest taken in making quartette singing a feature of public worship.

The building at New Salem was crowded from the opening until the day was closed. Large numbers wanted to gain admission but were unable to do so for the lack of room.

This was the most successful Memorial service that we have ever had the pleasure of attending.

THE BOOTLEGGER

(By W. B. Corley)

Behold the bootlegger, he toils not, neither doth he spin, yet Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like unto him.

But his days are few and full of trouble. He flourishes for a season like the green bay tree, then behold, he is cut down and cast into the hoose gow.

He amasseth his shekels like unto a Rockfeller, verily he gathereth them without the sweat of his brow, but lo, the sheriff lyeth in wait for him and the judge sizes his pile and taketh it.

Follow not in the footsteps of the bootlegger for his end is likely to be an appartment in the Kilby palace.

Verily, verily, all is vanity saith the preacher.

WHAT THE SOUTH NEEDS

(By W. B. Corley)

My entire life has been spent in the South and I have had in consequence, good opportunities of studying conditions and in observing the cause and effect of the various phases and business conditions from time to time.

The sum and substance of my observance has been that the lack of earnest, friendly and comprehensive cooperation between the business and professional elements and the farming and laboring class has done more to clog the wheels of progress than any other one thing.

Since I can remember, whether justifiable or not, the sentiment has always existed among the farmers that the "town man", with his white shirt and starched collar, considered himself a higher class of individual than his farmer neighbor. They have always felt like the town man did not look upon them as their equals, either socially or otherwise.

This sentiment has grown and waxed more intensive as the years separated us further and further from the aristocratic days before the Civil War. To some extent the town man has been to blame for this, but the farmer, in many instances, has been too ready to jump to conclusions.

I have lived on the farm and I have also lived in town. I believe I know exactly how both sides feel, and this unfortunate sentiment is largely a mistake, for which both sides are to blame.

For selfish reasons, if upon no other grounds, the town man should be glad to cultivate a friendship with the farmer. He realizes that our financial system depends, almost entirely on the crop conditions, and if the farmer fails the entire financial structure goes to pieces and remains in that condition until fortune smiles on the farmer again. All of our prosperity depends on the farmer and it fluctuates just exactly in keeping with the success or the failure on the farm.

Now a gospel of mutual understanding needs to be preached and practiced by both classes. More social functions should be enjoyed in common. All day gatherings, attended and shared equally would go a long ways towards begetting a closer understanding of each other. The thing is to meet and make friends. Don't talk business nor politics, but just have a general social time.

Call each other "Jim or Tom" and shed all formality. The town man may have the advantage in polished conversational gab-he has to practice it every day in his business, but he wont stack up any ahead when it comes down to good, honest, hard common sense. The farmer will be with him there.

Don't only get acquainted but make real friends out of each other. Get interested in the hopes and aspirations, one with the other, and learn to know the real man instead of the imaginary form you have been seeing perhaps for years.

It would be a pleasant surprise to both parties and you will soon find out that there is much more of the real "milk of human kindness" flowing in the views of the average man than you ever dreamed of before.

Then, last but not least, co-operate with each other. Knit your common interests together and unite, confer, plans and work together. Then see how prosperity and happiness will flourish in our land.

STILL BUILDING

(By W. B. Corley)

The building boom shows not signs to have abated enough you can tell it yet in Clanton.

Dr. Elland has begun work on his brick office and drug store on North seventh and third avenue.

Col. G. C. Walker is also going to go forward at the same time with a new brick business house adjoining.

As refered to in another column, the work has already started on the $35,000 Methodist church building.

There are three other down town buildings that are assured and ready to go forward. There being rather an indeffinite idea as to what route the State Highway will finally decide to take through the city, these parties are waiting, so they can arrange their buildings with an eye to that.

Dwelling houses are also popping [illegible] parts of town. M. H. F. Chandler has just completed a neat bungalow house and is going to build two or three more. Mr. Mar Hosey has just completed him a splendid home on West second avenue. notice several other new homes going up in the Gowan addition but failed to get the names.

Hurry up that drainage job, fellow Clanton is crowded for room. It is stated by expert statictician in population data that Clanton has the potential territory for a city of 25,000 inhabitants. The thing to do is to prepare for them and then get busy and induce them to come.

Go after th Canning Factory, the Cotton Mill and other industries and the rest will follow.

THE PRICE OF 'SHINE ADVANCING

(By W. B. Corley)

Sheriff Littlejohn and his deputies must have conspired to advance the price on booze. The way they are going on here they will soon have a absolute corner on the market so far as the local trade is concerned.

From the best information I can gather the price in the local market is soaring and a deal in futures has become so uncertain that the future market is accepting no more orders at present.

THE SACRED HARP AND HARMONY SINGING

Held its Semi-Annual session at New Harmony church near Lomax, on Saturday and Sunday, May the 5 and 6, was crowned with success.

Saturday was very good despite the unfair weather and many visitors were present, whom we gladly welcome in our midst.

During the afternoon business matters were attended to and officers for the ensuing year were renominated and reelected as follows:

J. L. Jones, President, T. J. Jackson, Vice-president, and Era Sanders, Secretary

A Committee which was formed in the beginning of the session arranged for the directors. Also time given each director being fifteen minutes each.

Sunday was particularly good. It seemed that the Supreme Judge guided the destiny of that Sabbath day as the first bright face we beheld upon it was that of "Old Sol."

The Convention was called to order by singing "Canaan's Land" directed by the Vice-President, T. J. Jackson, followed with prayer by J. W. Hayes.

Directors for the day were: The Vice-President, the Secretary J. W. Hayes J. L. Martin, A. A. Jackson, Misses Ida Scott and Edna Jackson, Mrs. Essie Clackler, Mrs. Sarah Bates, C. C. Callaway, Rev. Lawley, T. C. Jackson, J. L. and W. A. Hayes, T. J. Baker, Jack Langston, W. L. Sanders, W. L. Jackson, Will Morris and Prof. J. W. Evans.

Prof. Evans is of Fort Payne. We appreciated his good help in the song service and wish to extend an invitation to him to meet with us in all the other conventions that we may have the pleasure of attending. Also to the singers of Birmingham, who so greatly contributed to the services.

We thank you for your kind assistance and wish to assure you that your presence on this occasion was inspiring.

The music was sweet and uplifting—sung by such a large number of singers and it affords us great pleasure whenever we think of the vast audience of listeners.

The hospitality of the surrounding community was unstinted and we feel sure that every one did his best toward making the convention a success.

May we meet in many more just such good conventions is the earnest wish of

ISABELLA TRAINING SCHOOL

Saturday night the business manager of the News and county Superintendent of Education, H. L. Foshee, went out to Isabella School house in the interest of aiding in the raising of funds for purpose of completing the arrangements of the location of the Vocational Agricultural Training school.

After a few introductory remarks by B. O. Manning the business manager of the News made a short talk. Mr. Manning then introduced Superintendent Foshee who answered all the questions in regard to the requirements that was expected of the local community in locating such an important school.

Before the meeting closed Messers O. O. Caffee, W. H. Veazey, and S. J. M. Webb were appointed on a committee to make definite arrangements about raising the finance to erect the building for an up to date Vocational Agricultural School. We are more than glad to state that this committee got busy the first part of the week and the necessary arrangements for raising the money has been made.

The building committee is composed of Messers T. L. LeCroy, W. T. White and D. O. Manning.

The erection of one of the best school buildings in Chilton county at Isabella school is now an assured fact. The people of this section of the county are by no means sleeping and in the not far distant future will be seen one of the best schools in the county in that progressive district.

Save One Third of the Gas

You know what you want in an automobile. Your problem is to find the car that most exactly meets your requirements.

You want comfort—the roominess of body, the flexibility of springs, the smoothness of motor, the depth of upholstery that assures your mental and physical comfort on every ride you take.

You want dependability—the mechanical excellence that results in instant response to your every demand without necessity for constant adjustment and repair.

You want economy—the Gray holds the world's economy record officially established by the Gray Economy Run from San Francisco to New Yourk, under sanction of the American Automobile Association, with an average of 33.8 miles per gallon.

You want luxury—the refinement of finish, the completeness of appointment that made you proud of your car in any company. The worth of your car should be reflected in its appearance, not in price.

Compare the Gray, point for point, with any other car in a similar class. See for yourself how admirably it fits your description of what your motor car should be.

FORD TO ESTABLISH OWN COTTON MILL

Huntsville, Ala., May 12.—(Special)—A report has reached here that the Ford Motor company has decided to establish a cotton mill for the manufacture of all the cotton fabrics that are used in the production of its automobiles. It is presumed that the plant will be located where hydro-electric power can be obtained to a practically unlimited extent and in that case the Tennessee Valley, it is believed, will stand a good chance of obtaining the plant. The Huntsville Chamber of Commerce will seek more information on the subject immediately.

HARDING AND 1924.

Some of the observant Washington correspondents dispose of third party movements by predicting that none of them will fructify. A third party could be built around either Borah or LaFollette or Henry Ford, they agree, but it is not likely that either will make the dash into unknown fields under present conditions. Ford is thought to have his eyes on the democratic nomination. Borah has never been a very daring bolter. He has made threats from time to time, he was with Teddy in 1912 until the moment arrived to decide whether old ties should be cut. Then Borah wavered and finally decided to stay in the fold. LaFollette could carry Wisconsin and probably North Dekota, if he should head the party, but LaFollette's heart is on a republican nomination, now as it has been for 15 years. But this will be denied him. If Harding should be repudiated by his party convention next year, some other man than LaFollette would be nominated.

But there is every reason to believe that Harding will be renominated without hesitation. Other republicans under circumstances would make stronger candidates, but the republican leaders are not going to assume the responsibility of going into the campaign with a fresh steed, with the people back behind asking why they did not renominate the president. It is much more certain that Harding will be renominated than that he will be re-elected.

There is no Theodore Roosevelt in sight to split the G. O. P. as wide open as it was split before. LaFollette is ruthless enough to do it, but he lacks the necessary strength. Borah is more cautious and less ruthless—in fact, Borah is altogether a better type of politician than LaFollette. Albeit, we sometimes think he eats too many prunes.

MR. CLAY GONE HOME

Mr. Harry E. Clay who has been in Clanton and Chilton county for two months left for his home which is in Chicago Monday morning.

Mr. Clay came to Clanton some time ago as a representative of the Peterman Construction and Supply Company which has headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Clay has been in every part of Chilton county or rather in practically every nook an dcorner of the county. It is useless to say that he is quite an affiable gentleman and is very quick to catch on to the customs and manners of any people where his labors call him. By his good management and ability to show the people what it means he had no trouble in getting the farmers in the county to take their share of the stock to locate a canning factory here. He to-gether with Mr. A. B. Baxley, State manager of the U. F. of A. succeeded in getting the farmers to subscribe more than ten thousand dollars to construct the building and buy the land to put it on.

Mr. Clay stated before leaving that he was leaving Clanton and Chilton county with regret. He says that we have good people here and he has thoroughly enjoyed our hospitality. Also he wishes to expresse his sincere thanks to the Clanton Chamber of Commerce who opened up the correspondence that brought him to "Dixie Land," the United Farmers of America, the business men of Clanton and the citizenship of the county in general for the hearty cooperation given him in locating this canning factory in central Alabama.

From a business and personal standpoint Mr. Clay made many friends and acquaintances in Clanton and Chilton county who wish for him the merited success that a well bred and courteous man of his type justly deserve.

INVITING DEATH OR DISASTER.

Last Saturday afternoon, for instance the streets were congested with cars and traffic. I was on my porch, at the intersection of second avenue and the B. & M. highway. There was one young male person in particular who used the highway, from there to where it turns down the hill to the creek for a race track or speedway. He made round after round with his Ford wide open and doing every bit of speed he could get out of it.

While this was going on an innocent little boy was knocked down and escaped death by a miricle Providence.

While all of this race track speeding was taking place on the most busy street of the town, and at an hour of the day when it was thronged with incoming and departing Saturday shoppers. Another male person with a "cut down" was trying to lower the record on the West end of Second avenue, using the railroad crossing as a hopping off place, apparently.

People who do such fool stunts as that are hard to classify. It neither makes for popularity nor prestige. It is a dangerous and flagrant violation of the State, county and city laws, subject to fine and imprisionment at hard labor.

The people who do these things, willfully and openly violate the law and then laugh about it.

They not only viciously make outlaws of themselves, but they are potential murders at heart, whether they know it or not. The fact that you "did not mean to do it" when you have finally maimed or murdered some child or other innocent person on the streets, will not remove the blood stains from your soul.

If I was Mayor Gragg I would break this practice up or bankrupt the town in the effort. Put hard labor sentences on a few of these speed feinds, who are not only a menance, but a notorious disgrace to a community that pretends to be law abiding.

This is plain talk but the situation demands it and no one can deny its truth.

COMMENCEMENT NOTES

This is commencement week at the county high school here. We have found on investigation that Miss Willie Higgins has made the higest average for four years, having made an average of 93 per cent. Miss Clara Vines comes second with an average of 92 per cent. Elly Daniels is third with an average of 91 or practically 92 per cent.

Miss Clara Holley is fourth with an average of 91 per cent. Miss Gladys Kemp is fifth with an average of 90 per cent.

It is interesting to note that four of the five leading graduates are young ladies. Two of these, Miss Willie Higgins and Gladys Kemp went from the Clanton Grammar school four years ago while Miss Vines is from Cedar Grove school and Miss Holley is from Sumatra school.

Mr. Daniels is making an effort to get one of the scholarships offered by the Birmingham News. We trust that he will be successful. He is worthy and deserving of this honor.

IN MEMORY OF HENRY N. MAHAN

Life is a mystery from beginning to end. This mystery may be the result of our fathomless but it seems that God never intended that we should unravel the mystery veil which separates life from death. It seems equally certain that He never intended that man should live always in this low land of sorrow. If man never died, how long would it be until the world would be overrun with humananity? This is true with every kind of flesh from the smallest insect to and including man. It was God's wisdom to institute an agency by which this world is evacuated and replinished by troops of succeeding pilgrims. We are here at the most, but a few short years.

Uncle Henry Mahan, as he was frequently called, on April the 29, reached the second state of quality; we are all equal twice—in the cradle and in the grave. In his death, an irreparable loss is felt; his nature knowledge of life, his respect for humanity, the noble principles for which he stood, the kind, simple home life which he led, his straightforward rouged honesty, and in fact, his farsighted sighted vision, pass before us in review, as but a few of the many noble qualities of his pleasing personality. He was plain as an old shoe, gentle accommodiating and neighborly. He was a friend to the poor and needy. He was the head of one of the strongest families in Chilton county-sturdy, gallant sons, kind promising daughters. He has in his time, witnessed a variety of experiences. He has seen peace and war, adversity and prosperity in their succeeding turn. He was in the reconstruction of the Confederate war; he saw a reunited nation carry to a successful conclusion the Spanish-American war, and last but not least, the consummate depression in the aftermath of that great struggle.

We trust, we believe we hope that he is at rest. He has completed life's work.

Build the more mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll.
Leave thy low vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler that the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at lengtH are free.
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea.

A friend.

NEGROES MOVE NORTH

There is a constant and increasing exodus at least 300,000 have gone in a year.

The negro is dependable common labor, and as such has largely remained in the South.

The negro is being educated, becoming skilled, becoming more valuable.

The negro believes that he has a better chance North than South. Never mind the facts, he is sure he will do better, for himself and family [illegible] South, and is going.

The migration of the negro will cause better housing conditions, better cropping conditions, better wage scales in the South.

TOLBERT SHOW HERE NEXT WEEK

"Over the Hills to the Poorhouse," the feature play of the week at the big Tolbert Tent Theatre, was decided ly a starring vehicle for Miss Ada Burrus, who gave a performance of Mrs. Saunders, the mother that displayed an extraondinary histronic ability that is unusual in a tent theartre company.

Miss Burrus portrayal of the character carried her audience with her from the heights of pathos to the depths of her despair in a manner heretofore unheard in this city and brought tears to the eyes of the enthralled hearers.

"Over the Hills to the Poorhouse" is a powerful sermon on moral rectitude in addition to being an intensely pathetic drama and was performed in a manner that would be a credit to any company anywhere.

Miss Burrus was ably supported by the entire company which is decidedly the best company that has ever been assembled under the Tolbert Theatre in the many years this company has been appearing in this city.

The characterization of Charles Saunders the wayward son as so ably presented by Mr. Jastrom, was one of the most fisished portrayals that Dothan theatre goers have ever witnessed.

Mr Leon Phillips, in the heavy character part of Judge Jenkins, plays Mr. Phillips as an actor of sterling ability whose disgusting scheme brought clouded looks from every seat in the big theatre but at the same time indicated with what rare skill he handled this difficult part assigned him.

Miss Dolly Seymour, in the part of the vamp, gave a clear and perfect rendition of the extravagant wife of the spendthrift while the part of Sadie March, the ingenue, as presented by Miss Stella Sheldon, brought forth ripples of laughter at the true to type characterization of the city girl.

James Watson, the heavy, was given by Mr. Lew Childre in a manner that was most pleasing and shows the ability of this young man to go much higher in his chosen profession.

The ever popular Hi Washburn who is a prime favorite of Dothan audiences, brought out the real comedy of the piece in a manner that only the "funny" Hi can do and was the cause of the laughter bringing scenes in this otherwise deary production.

Dick Sanders, the second son of the Widow Sanders, who brought his mother back from the poorhouse, was given by Mr. Boyd Holloway in his characteristic manner, while his sweetheart, Lillian Clark, was a part not up to the ability of that sterling actress, Mrs. Tolbert-Holloway.

The Tolbert Company are to be congratulated on the policy they have adopted to give plays that carry a moral as well as giving entertainment and also on the splendid corps of actors they have assembled to give their patrons plays that are not usually seen or hear under canvas.

Any community will be benefited by having the Tolbert Company visit them and every community should have entertainments of the high moral character that is making the name, Tolbert, synanomous with clean, moral entertainment.—Dothan Eagle.

The Tolbert Show will play a weeks' engagement in Clanton beginning Monday, May 21.

HUMAN MIGRATION

Official reports show that in 1922, there migrated from farms to towns and cities in the South Atlantic States 324,000 men, women and children.

Why that migration?

Preach as you may, plead as you may, urge as you may, that migration will not decrease but will continue to increase, until the $14,000,000 property of farm life has the same opportunity to enjoy comforts and conveniences and luxuries that the owners of $14,000,000 other properties now enjoy.

Provide for farm credits and farm loans, farm markets and farm supplies, farm homes and farm life, until it is comparatively tolerable, farm people will go to where those opportunities are to be had.—Alabama Traveler.

You want comfort—the roominess of body, the flexibility of springs, the smoothness of motor, the depth of upholstery that assures your mental and physical comfort on every ride you take.

You want dependability—the mechanical excellence that results in instant response to your every demand without necessity for constant adjustment and repair.

You want economy—the Gray holds the world's economy record officially established by the Gray Economy Run from San Francisco to New Yoork, under sanction of the American Automobile Association, with an average of 33.8 miles per gallon.

You want luxury—the refinement of finish, the completeness of appointment that made you proud of your car in any company. The worth of your car should be reflected in its appearance, not in price.

BE BACK FOR SUNDAY SERVICES

A card from Dr. S. J. Ezell, ... tor of the Baptist church here, who has been away for a couple of weeks and who took in the Southern Baptist Convention at Kansas City last week, requests us to state that he will be home and fill both of his appointments next Sunday.

He says they had a fine convention and splendid spirit and he sends regards and best wishes to all.

WORK PROGRESSING NICELY

Superintendent Dixon, who is in charge of the construction and installation of the canning factory, informs us that his work is progressing nicely and that he will be ready to take care of all of the vegetables that may offer this season.

This is pleasing news and will enable some of our good farmer friend to pull down a pay day some what in advance of the advent of King cotton

PLENTY OF WORK

While we do not hear much complaint in the city about a real scarcity of labor, we notice that almost everybody is employed. Of course, every community is infested with a certain number of loafers who live without work, but it is a noticable fact that our quota of that kind has about dwindled down to the vanishing point.

Work is plentiful now and the pay is fairly good. Let us all hope for a long continuance of that condition

Tuesday for Dadeville, Ala., where Mr. Willis will be engaged in the market business. We regret to loose this excellent family. Mrs. Willis is one of the very best church and Sunday school workers.

AN APPEAL TO PARENTS

We all know that the automobile has arrived and that it has come to stay and we are glad of it. It is a wonderful asset in doing business, and it is ths greatest adjunct to pleasure that we know. In fact it would be absolutely indispensible now that we have become acquainted with its possibilities, so we may just as well accommodate ourselves to it and its habits now as later on.

In the hands of a person with proper skill as a driver and with an average amount of gray matter in his dome, the automobile is comparatively safe for its occupants and for the innocent bystanders, but unfortunately, like a great many other good things, it falls, now and then into awful careless and incompetent hands and then it becomes a serious menace to all who may be abroad, both young and old.

Now to the point. In view of these conditions that are certain to prevail, we think it would be exceedingly wise for parents to endeavor to keep their small children from playing in the streets as much as possible. A ball or a marble in play is liable to bounce right out in front of a passing car. The child, interested in the game, jumps out to recover it and never gives a thought to the approaching vehicle. Then, even a good careful driver is liable to kill the child in spite of all he can do.

Reckless driving and foolish speeding should be condemned by everyone and be punished to the full extent of the law, at the same time the automobile is a necessity and we can not do without it and it is nothing but right and fair that parents should co-operate with autoists in trying to take care of their children.

CONTRACTOR ON THE JOB

Contractor Price, from Ozark, Ala. who is going to construct the splendid new Methodist church here, has arrived and is now in charge.

The excavation work is not entirely finished yet, but Mr. Price is so directing it that the work in that line will not materially interfere with the starting of other parts of the construction.

He is intending, as soon as a sufficient amount of building material can be assembled, to put on quite a large force and rush the job to completion as rapidly as is consistent with first class work.

Our Methodist friends are, at present, using the Court House as a place of worship and are getting along splendidly, but we know they will rejoice when they can move back home and be housed in their beautiful new home.

KEEP THIS A SECRET

Last week our local base ball team had arranged for a battle with the Tallassee bunch.

The foray came off on time but from the looks of things there had been some mistake made in the routing of the visiting team and we must have got up against the New York Giants instead of Tallassee.

The tale is too pitifnl to tell in detail The score of 14 to 0 in favor of the visitors is enough said.

MASS MEETING TO INVESTIGATE COOSA AND CHILTON BOUNDARY

It is reported that Coosa County has a delegation before the State department of Engineers with the object in view of changing the boundary line between Chilton and Coosa counties, so that they may be able to take in Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam in their county. As this is a question of great concern to Chilton County, Judge Reynolds asked us to announce a meeting of everybody interested to be held at the court house Friday night at 8:00 o'clock. So if anyone has any information as to this matter or any plan to offer, let them be present at this meeting. We are going to try to have our Senator and Representative present, if possible.

PLEASANT GROVE SINGING

There will be an all day singing at this place the fourth Sunday in May The noted Vaughn Quartette will be there. All singers and lovers of music are invited to attend and bring your song books and a lunch for yourself and a friend. This place is located four miles Southwest of Jemison.

JAMES FRANKLIN

THE K. K. K. ON PARADE

Last Tuesday evening about 8:00 o'clock, as the tired clerks and merchants and the happy shoppers were wending their way homeward, a fiery cross appeared in the center of east second avenue and the tinkle of a tiny bell was wafted to the ears of the passers by

Then a long line of white robed figures began to appear in the back ground and in a few moments a silent procession, the like of which has never been seen in Clanton before, moved, like phantons out through the business district and disappeared in the dim distance of west second avenue.

Without spoken word or command the ghostly looking line passed along with stately tread and without a sound. People paused and gazed in wonder as the flaming cross marked the line of march.

In about an hour the spectral looking parade appeared again, coming south on 8th avenue and finally disappearing in the shadows of darkness enveloping the scene.

We all know now that somewhere in this section dwells a Klan of the "invisible empire" and we want to say right here that personally we are glad of it. We stand first, last and all the time for "America for Americans" and if the Klan can do anything towards aiding us in keeping our fatherland for us and our children we bid them welcome and God speed in the great and important work.

FACULTY FOR CLANTON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL FOR THE COMING YEAR

The faculty for the Clanton Elementary School for 1923-24 has been selected. They all are teachers of experience from one to eight years. Most of them are old enough to be steady under severe strain. The list follows:

Mr. Walter Martin, Seventh Grade and Man Principal

Miss Cassie Beck, Bowden, Ga. 6th ade

Mrs. Cury D. Thomas, 5th grade and lady principal.

Mrs. R. D. Horton, Utility, grade not assigned yet.

Miss Eva Jones, Highland Home, Ala., 4th grade.

Miss Bessie Floyd, Clanton, 3rd ade

Miss Alice Selman, Goodwater, Ala., 1st grade.

I appreciate the crowd who came out to see our Seventh grade get their diplomas. The end does not always justify the means, but I believe that as true in this case.

I wish to thank each person who let us have pot flowers for the occasion. Also I thank those pupils who worked so arduously to arrange the flowers.

The Library will open at least one day each week during the summer. Mrs. John Vandeveer has kindly agreed to check out the books and check them in. As a caution to the pupils to bring the books back on time and to take good care of them we are going to require each pupil to pay fifty cents. If a pupil has not lost or destroyed any book the fifty cents will be given back to the pupil next September when school opens. So you see the fifty cents is just put up as a guarantee that the books will be returned and taken care of properly. The books are there and I hope you let your children put up the fifty cents and use these books during their vacation.

If you will help put over the three mill tax election on the fifteenth day of June, it will help our school considerably. The School Law guarantees that we get all we now get and entitles us to a share of the tax on Lock 12 It can not raise the tax here for this district has all the tax allowed under the law. If Clanton turns this down, it will not share in the tax on Lock 12 Let me urge everybody to vote "YES"

BACK FROM LOS ANGELES

Mr Claud Marcus, son of Dr. T. J Marcus, of our town, who has been located on the Pacific slope for several years engaged in large campaigns of promoting and developing work, and who saw several years service for Uncle Sam, came in this week on a visit to his parents.

Mr. Marcus is a young man of much experience and extensive travels and possesses the happy faculty of being able to tell you interestingly of what he has seen and heard.

This week he is over in Selma for a few days, but says he will return here again before he finally "hops off." He can report first hand on Hollywood, the great moving picture center and he says the scandleous reports about those people out there is absolutely false.

The Clanton ball team went over to Tallassee Wednesday on a return engagement with those hefty swatters over there.

But they neglected to shake off fthe jinx before they left and so the score went against them again. 8 to 1

A bad beginning always makes a good ending, so don't get discouraged, boys. Before the season is over you will get in to your stride and have that bunch over there tame enough to eat out of your hand.

CHILTON COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION HOLDS SPECIAL SESSION

Last Sunday probably the largest gathering that has ever attended the Chilton county singing Convention assembled at the county high school building here.

Long before the hour for the singing to begin the large auditorium at the high school building was filled every seat being occupied. When the singing began large numbers of people were anxious to gain admission, but were unable to do so. Of course the previous announcement that Vaughn's Quartette would be here was enough to assure a successful singing convention. This well and favorbaly known quartette needs no introduction in Chilton county. They are by far the best trained quartette that has ever visited this county. They are particularly well talented to entertain any audience with amusing, interesting, and inspiring songs. This quartette is composed of Messers Vaughn, Collins, Seals and Bernard.

The leaders for the day were Messers W. G. Culp. President of the Convention, Jessie C. Jones, James Franklin, Annie Boswell, J. W. Cagle, J. C. Veasey, Authur. Baird, Jasper Robinson, J. L. Gore, G. D. Retherford, L. D. Hulette, O. R. Robinson, A. H. Glasscock and T. L. Robinson

HOMESICK COUPLE WED AND 'GO BACK TO ALABAM'

When the midnight choo-choo left last night for "Alabam" it carried a happy young honeymoon couple even if they were homesick. A few hours before. Justice of the Peace Robert Scott had made them one. They were Miss Helen Pierini and Claud E. Marcus. both from the South and both employees in the office of the University of Southern California.

The young couple had known each other only a short time, but as both were homesick they had a lot in common, and just before Marcus left for his vacation in Alabama, he proposed, and now they are going back together.

BOLL WEEVIL ON THE JOB

Several reports have reached us that the boll weevil is not allowing the late and rainy season to interfere in the slightest with his plans nor his schedule.

In a number of place in the country we are told that he has already arrived and can be found perfectly at home in the bud of the small cotton plant

We have not farmed any since the advent of the weevil in our section, but have been a close and watchful student of the habits of this pest and our opinion is that these forerunners are usually very prolific and that their early appearance indicates an early crop of weevils that will be ripe and ready to take care of the first form that develop on the cotton plant

If there is any time when poisoning will be of service, we believe that it would be a wise idea to poison these first arrivals.

In this connection we want to say that it is not too late yet to plant corn, velvet beans and other food and feed crops

By the way, an editorial in the Birmingham News, of Monday, rather predicts 10 cent cotton next fall

Study out the problem of the boll weevil and cheap cotton and govern yourself accordingly.

Up Hill—Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class; you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

One good thing about being a country editor. There is no danger of eating yourself to death unless you go fishing.

We hear it intimated that the contract will be let in July for the building of the Chilton county section of the S. M. highway. We heap rather see work in progress than to hear about it.

The campaign is being conducted especially by the various organizations to have the [illegible] system abolished at once. Avarice and cruelty on the part of lessees have rendered the system a curse.

Sentiment is being pushed by the people of Alabama now to have adopted an 8 hour work day for the state. We can endorse that and feel it will make limitations will make it possible of enforcement. An eight hour law can not be made to cover all occupations.

UNSPEAKABLE GALL

The following batch of sacriligious quotations from the Bible appear on the reverse side of a so-called "complimentary press ticket" given out by the Milt Tolbert Shows now operating in Clanton.

THERE WERE NO PASSES GIVEN IN THOSE DAYS

Thou shalt not pass. (Numbers xx: 18.)

Suffer not a man to pass. (Judges iii: 28.)

The wicked shall not pass. (Isaiah xxxix: 10.)

This generation shall not pass. (Mark xiii: 30.)

Though they roar, yet shall they not pass. (Jer. v: 22)

He paid his fare and went. (Jonah i: 3.)

For an illustration of pure blatant, monumental gall we pass that up as a record breaker.

The palpable impression conveyed by those quotations is an insult to every self-respecting newspaper man who receives one, and we hope there is not an editor in Alabama who would stoop to the use of such an intentionally humiliating "pass" as that.

As a rule all Southern editors are courteous and it is a regretable fact that their courtesy is so often abused and not appreciated.

As a case in point, the representative of the Tolbert Show came in to our office some two weeks ago and, upon his earnest solicitation, we gave place in our columns to about $5.00 worth of space carrying a quotation from the Dothan Eagle. For this we made no charge whatever, but gave it in a spirit of courtesy to, what we supposed, was a clean entertainment put on by clean people.

The insulting "pass" referred to above is what we received in return.

We imagine that an organization capable of thus maliciously insulting the very people who attempt to extend to them the gratuitous favors that enable them to do business, does not go very far as a high class entertainment.

Common courtesy is a distinctive mark of the real business man or woman.

NEW LAW FIRM

Cecil Smith, son of Colonel A. C. Smith, has opened up a law office on sixth street just opposite the court house. He and his esteemed father will be associated together, there in the practice of the legal profession. Cecil is a graduate of the county high school here and has recently graduated at the law school at the University of Alabama. He is a promising young man and we predict that ere time passes away that he will be one of the leading attorneys in this part of Alabama. His father, Colonel A. C. Smith is well read and informed on all points of law. This will be of untold advantage to young Mr. Smith in having the privilege of beginning his carreer with a person whose success and experience will pass on down to his son.

Frank Mullins and John Ellis returned the early part of the week from East Lake where they have both been students in Howard College.

Mrs. D. B. Lowe went to Tuscaloosa the first part of the week to be present at the graduating exercises at the University of Alabama. Their daughter, Miss Edna, received her diploma at that institution the first part of the week. She is a well educated and an accomplished young lady.

Prof. W. T. Edwards, of Jemison, and his brother, Mr. J. I. Edwards, a student of Howard College, were in Clanton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wilson and little daughter, Miss Mattie Pearl and son Master F. D. Wilson Jr. of Pletcher, visited Clanton friends Monday.

Senator S. M. Adams filled the pulpit at Samaria church last Sunday owing to the fact that Rev. Lawrence was called to Birmingham on account of the serious illness of his father.

Mr. R. P. Lewis, of Rockford, has recently moved his family here. He lives on 8th street. Mr. Lewis is busily engaged in work for the Federal government.

CO-OPERATIVE FARM MARKETING NOTES

Department of Agriculture Plans to Study Scientific Distribution Equally With Production.

More attention must be given in the future to the economics of agriculture and to better marketing methods, without lessening efforts to promote efficient production, it is declared by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in a contribution to the Banker-Farmer, the bulletin of the American Bankers Association Agricultural Commission. Under the direction of D. H. Otis, the commission is giving particular attention to co-operative farm marketing.

* * *

"When land was advancing rapidly in value the farmer could afford to take some of his profit in the increased value of his land," says Secretary Wallace. "We are past the period of advancing land values, and, if agriculture is to be maintained, it must be on a basis which will yield a fair profit one year with another. So I have been studying this department with a view to strengthening our economic work."

* * *

"We have gotten into the habit of looking upon agricultural production as a sacred obligation, and so it is in one sense, but it is no more sacred or binding than the obligation to market crops without waste. If we do not do that we might as well not produce them," says Mr. Wallace.

* * *

He adds: "It is the purpose of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to inquire into everything which affects marketing and price, with the thought that we must serve the agriculture of the nation as thoroughly on the economic side as we have served it in the past on the productive side. As to working our way out of the depression, the first responsibility rests upon the individual farmer. If he is to get help he must help himself, both as an individual and by joining with other individuals in co-operative efforts. The Government is under obligation to clear away any obstacles which do not give to the farmers, individually and collectively, a fair chance to help themselves. The farmer is entitled to exactly the same rights and the same opportunities that are enjoyed by other citizens. He is entitled to a square deal."

* * *

"It is not the obligation of the Government to give the farmer any privileges not given to others," Mr. Wallace continues. "If I understand the minds of the farmers of the United States, they are not asking for special privileges. All they are asking is that they may be assured of equal opportunities, of open and competitive markets, and the right to organize and market their products collectively, and to have the same access to the nation's money pool as other people have. Farmers can meet together, pass resolutions, make speeches, and go home feeling better for a time; but this sort of thing alone will not get them very far. The time has come when the farmers must themselves organize agriculture in a thoroughly businesslike way; adjust their production to the needs of consumption; stabilize their products and market them efficiently; study conditions agriculturally and industrially which influence the demand for and consumption of their crops; get a better understanding of the administration of the credit machinery; and employ trained men to do for them what they can not do for themselves."

* * *

That is to say, in substance, that agriculture must be put on a par in efficiency of method with other Big Business.

* * *

It has been pointed out by the United States Department of Agriculture that insufficient business and poor management are the outstanding reasons for the failure of many farmers' co-operative associations. Lack of capital, liberal extension of credit and dishonest management are the minor causes for the failure of 243 farmers' buying and selling associations since 1913. At the same time it was learned that out of 70 co-operative creamies, their average length of existence was a little over seven and one-half years.

* * *

The State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association is now compiling facts of successful co-operatives of all kinds and in all parts of the country, with the idea of building up a body of sound method and experience to serve as a trustworthy guide in the further development of the co-operative farm marketing movement.

Good Advice for Bankers

E. J. Bodman, representative of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association for the Eighth Federal Reserve District, says: "Every one of the more than 30,000 banks in the United States would make more money by helping our six and one-half million farmers to make larger profits. The banks and business interests of the entire country cannot make the largest profits until the farmers as a whole have reasonable returns from their investments and labor. This includes every bank, from the small ones in the country to the largest ones in the great financial centers."

A REAL PLAN FOR WORLD HELP

Fred I. Kent of American Bankers Association Initiates Move to Grapple With Problem.

SUGGESTS TERMS OF U. S. AID

Proposes European Economic Agreements—Better World Business for America in Return for Credits and Partial Debt Cancellation.

Agreements by Europe to make, in exchange for American financial help, economic reforms that will insure profitable international business for the United States, is the basis of a plan for world rehabilitation worked out by Fred I. Kent, chairman of the Commerce and Marine Commission of the American Bankers Association. Mr. Kent, as a delegate of the association, recently laid this plan before the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce at Rome. He pointed out that the United States has no desire to attempt to dictate to Europe, but that "when it comes to loaning our money we have a right to demand satisfactory agreements before we do so." He continued:

How America Can Come In

"As America has not the right to demand that the budgets of European countries be brought into order, that inflation be stopped, and that mutual understandings between the Allies and Germany be developed, these matters can be approached only on the basis of what America has that she can give to Europe in exchange for agreements which she believes, if carried out, would result in increasing the trade and commerce of the United States in sufficient volume to justify such action.

"From the standpoint of America there are two questions of primary importance are, what taxation is necessary to meet the requirements of our government, and, second, what can be left to the American people in the payment of taxes.

"Allied debts have said in full the people of the Entente States will not ... meet Liberty bonds outstanding against them through taxation. If the buying power of Europe is not restored to total national income of the people of the United States will be less than otherwise. If a portion of the Allied debts can be cancelled in exchange for agreements which will promptly place European countries on a sound economic basis, the restoration of the buying power of Europe will be greatly accelerated, and the total national income of America will be increased.

"Improvement in foreign markets for American products is an essential element in Mr. Kent's plan. He says: 'It, after deducting taxes necessary to cover the portion of the Allied debts ... to ... increase in the total national income of the United States would be the result. It would seem no doubt but that the people would vote for cancellation and would assure greater national net income, with economic peace and greater happiness for all peoples.

"The real question, therefore, is whether it would be possible to cooperate with European governments on such lines that, in exchange for cancellation of a portion of the Allied debts to the United States, they will give agreements aiming to ... lines in their countries ... economically unsound, ... not cancelable how more can ... could be anything but harmless accompanied by economic ... assessment all along the line. ... further, assessments along the ... mentioned would not be made ... tive unless the whole reparations ... is settled. CIVIC BODIES TO ADVERTISE STATE Conference Called in Birmingham June 9th to Launch Campaign.

Chambers of Commerce and other civic and commercial bodies throughout Alabama are banding together in a state-wide movement to advertise the State of Alabama and its resources to the outside world.

Following an enthusiastic meeting held in Birmingham, May 5th, of Chambers of Commerce Secretaries from Gadsden, Mobile, Tuscaloosa, Bessemer, Montgomery, Samson, Alexander City, Huntsville, Albany-Decatur and Birmingham, a joint invitation has been extended to all county commissioners of each county, members of the State Harbor Commission, Governor W. W. Brandon, executives of railroads operating in the state, editors and executives of public utilities to meet in Birmingham on June 9th to set in motion a nation wide advertising and publicity program about Alabama.

The projected campaign will deal with the agricultural advantages, mineral resources, industrial assets, manufacturing opportunities and economic and civic progress of each portion of the state with due regard to equitabe representation for each section of Alabama. The campaign will be directed towards attracting new industries and farmers to the state. The cooperation of each community sought in every county will be sought, following a survey to determine what each community and section has to offer in the way of industrial, commercial or agricultural advantages. The advertising and publicity campaign will be conducted through the medium of magazines, newspapers and other periodicals of national circulation.

All Chambers of Commerce and similar organizations in every city in the state are cordially invited to attend the conference on June 9th. O. L. Bunn, Secretary-Manager of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, who was elected general chairman of the campaign at the meeting on May 5th, urges the attendance of at least one representative from all commercial and civic organizations. "This is the most significant and far reaching movement ever launched in Alabama's history," Mr. Bunn declares. "It should consolidate the civic interests of each community into a centralized effort on behalf of putting Alabama in the spot light of public attention."

A business like program, featuring however, a few speakers of note and ability, will be presented at the conference on June 9th. An executive committee, authorized at the first session on May 5th, will have general supervision of the campaign, and will hold a meeting in the [illegible] ... movement is the first ... time in the history of Alabama, that Chambers of Commerce have united in behalf of a statewide publicity project. W. F. Black, Secretary of the Montgomery, Ala., Chamber of Commerce, declares that it is Alabama's great opportunity. H. A. Wheeling, of Huntsville, asserts that it is going to draw all sections of the state more closely together in the bonds of common effort for the benefit of all. Every Secretary who attended the first meeting is enthusiastic in supporting the movement, and in addition numerous letters of endorsement have been received from cities not represented.

A wonderful line of Pep Caps at PARRISH'S.

THE LECTURE TUESDAY NIGHT.

It is to be regretted that every white American citizen of Chilton county did not hear the address of Dr. W D. Parrish at the Court House last Tuesday night.

It was replete with a fund of information that sooner or later, the people of this country are going to learn, whether they want to or not, voluntarily or of necessity.

The information given out in regard to the Ku Klux Klan would be of value and interest to every American, whether he favors the Klan or not.

Quite a nice audience greeted the Doctor, a large number of ladies being present.

At frequent intervals the speaker was interrupted by round after round of applause, and the crowd seemed to be in sympathy with the ideals he represented.

ON A SOLID BASE

It will doubtless be good news to some people in the county to learn that there has been some changes made in the finincial concerns of the Chilton County News that have put it on a solid foundation, and it can now look out with absolute confidence for years to come. You can safely bet your money that it is on the job to stay.

ALL DAY SINGING AT LIBERTY

We have been requested to announce that there will be an all day singing at Liberty church next Sunday, June 3.

The Gainus Quartette, of Birmingham will be present and take part in the exercises.

Everybody is cordially invited to come and participate.

RELIEVING THE SITUATION

Col. Tom Curry and Dr. Upchurch two of the prominent and expert pretorial artist of the city, have relieved to some extent, the incredulous spirit that began to assume considerable dimensions here, as story after story of almost fabulous catches of fish were retailed by returning fishermen and no fish, not even a smell produced in evidence.

Friday Col. Curry came in and brought and put on exhibition a yellow cat that tipped the scales at 58 pounds and then on Saturday morning Dr. Upchurch arrived with a 30 pound member of the same fish family.

The streams all being out of the banks and the swamps full of water, it has been suggested that these lucky Nimrods may have found these insipient whales out grazing and ran them down and caught them.

Be that as it may, they had the fish all right and they both stand now, at least partially vindicated.

These fish were the real thing and no Kodak representation.

Up Hill---Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class, you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

TRIP NOTES

Southern Baptist Convention
(By S. J. Ezell)

At the repeated solicitation of the Editor, he has virtually forced me to give a few notes on my trip to Kansas City.

The first thing of geneeral interest is the fact that it is cold and raining everywhere. My trip carried me through seven states, Tenn. Kentucky, Indiana, Missorui, Kansas, Arkansas, and Mississippi and everywhere I found crops a month late and the folks wondering when it would cease raining. In addition to seeing conditions in these seven states I heard of conditions in Texas, Georgia and South Carolina. Cheer up, its raining there too. Crop conditions in all these states are about like they are in Chilton One of the Kansas City dailies was trying to cheer up its readers by telling them that they had no summer at all in 1810. This may be so far back as not to interest us, but the editor said all ended well at last.

An other fact that impressed a southerner as he passes through these states is the wonderful carpet of green that covers their broad level acres. These green carpets of the earth are acres and acres of wheat, oats alfalfa, and blue grass. Surely for sheer beauty—almost universal—it is unsurpassed anywhere. The traveler who crosses these states with their varied agricultural interests ceases to wonder where we get all our bread and meat No sight is more pleasing to a countryman than to see thousands and ten thousands of fine thoroughbred cattle and hogs feeding on these green plains.

One is made to wonder how we southerners make a living as he contrasts their broad black fertile plains with our red sandy patches. The truth is that our living is poor as compared with theirs. Diversification of crops has made them wealthy in clean farms and elegant homes in contrast to our poorly kept farms and too many dilapidated shacks.

Kansas City, "The Heart of America," is a village of about 500,000 souls. Its tall skyscrapers are hard on the eyes and necks of folks reared in the country. Fortunately for this scribe he had been through some cities before. Kansas City has 500 miles of the finest drive ways I have ever seen. In cleanliness and beauty of buildings it surpases anything I have ever seen—not excepting Washington D. C. Without a known exception the 5,000 Baptists attending the convention were delighted with their reception and treatment. I for one do not see how it could have ben better.

The outstanding facts of the convention were its speeeches and resolutions in keeping with old time orthodox views. They left no ground for a question mark as to what Baptists believes and where they stand on all the fundamentals. The addresses of President Mullins, Hon. W. J. Bryan and Dr. George W. Truett should be read by all who love the truth. In conclusion, your scribe feels the need of some corroboration of a 4 hour visit to the Armour Packing Plant, in Kansas City. Anyway I am but recently "from Missouri" and will venture the tale since so few will ever be able to see for themselves.

The plant is a marvel in construction, efficiency and cleanliness. It covers 42 acres with buildings two to six stories. There are 3,800 clean employees—every man or woman—with his or her particular job. They kill and make ready for the market daily 2,500 cattle, 4,800 hogs, 6,000 sheep, 2,200 calves—a total of 15,500 animals daily. Now who hath believed our report? But this is not all, for this is one of their smaller plants. Armours Plant in Chicago, kills and prepares for market 24,400 animals daily. Every pound of this meat is inspected in the yards which cover 205 acres, and in every process of its preparation by "Uncle Sam's" inspectors. You need not fear to eat it for it is both clean and pure.

A GOOD OPENING FOR THE RIGHT PARTY

Not so many years ago, before the wave of progress struck our town, we doubt very much whether a real up-to-date dairy would have paid here.

But "them days are gone forever." Clanton is no longer just a wide place in the road but is rapidly becoming a city of parts. The days when every family could keep their own cow here have gone never to return. There no place for promiscuous cow pens in Clanton now. There is not room.

There are, perhaps, not a family living here who would not use more or less butter and milk if they could arrange to get it with regularity and could depend on it.

If some real dairyman, who understands the business and knows how to operate one on a systematic basis, would put in a real sanitary dairy close in, with a herd of 15 or 20 real cows he could mop up.

So far as we have learned there is only one gentleman around Clanton who even pretends to deliver milk regularly and he just supplies what customers he can handle without interferme with his other business.

DROWNED AT MITCHELL DAM

On Wednesday, May 23, Mr. Jas. B. Brown, of Leona, Tenn., who was employed by the Alabama Power Co., at Mitchell Dam, accidentally fell from the dam into the terrible whirlpool, that is caused by the water pouring over the dam, and was drowned.

His body was recovered on Sunday following the accident near Knights Ferry some distance below the dam

We learn that the deceased had been in the employ of the Power Company for a number of years and was a most exemplary young man. Honest, sober, steady and reliable, he had become a favorite on the job and leaves a large number of close, warm friends among foremen and men employed by the Company.

Undertaker Martin was called on Saturday night and went down and brought the body here, where he prepared the body for shipment and forwarded it to the home of Mr. Brown in Tennessee on fast mail train No: 2 on Sunday forenoon.

The deceased was only 23 years of age and leaves a wife only 19, whom he married just a few months ago. He is also survived by a father and mother and several brothers and sisters

DISASTEROUS STORM IN WESTERN PART OF COUNTY

Mr. W. G. Deshazo, from the western part of the county, was in our office Saturday and gave us a detailed account of the hail and wind storm that visited that part of the county last Thursday.

He said the wind blew down a number of outbuildings and timber, but, so far as he had heard, there were no fatalities. The down pour of hail was what played havoc. Young corn and cotton was literally swept off the ground and in many instances the crops will have to be abandoned or planted over.

He said there were some cases where renters, not being able to see their way any further, had thrown up their crops and decided to look for other work.

The hail storm covered a large area, extending over into Bibb county, sweeping up the young crops as it went Some of the farmers will replace their ruined cotton crop with a late planting of corn.

The scarcity of farm labor is one thing that militates against the possibility of doing much effective and prompt replanting. It is to be hoped that the situation will right itself and not prove as disastrous as at present it looks to be.

ANOTHER BIG CONTRACT

One of our livest citizens, Mr. C B. Cox, who has been engaged for several months building the Shelby county section of the State Highway, informs us that he has about completed the grading up there and has just signed a contract to construct seven miles of railroad just above Tallassee and will move his steam shovel, mules, scrapes and other grading machinery over there this week.

Charley is perhaps, the best qualified and equipped road contractor in this section of Alabama and his efficiency keeps him generally on the firing line.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

People who are familiar with the history of our country will remember that just a year or so before the lamentable civil war broke out, that the state of South Carolina revolted or nullified, as they called it in that day an obnoxious amendment to our national constitution.

The sacred principles, (or rather what was considered sacred in those days,) of States Rights had been violated by the general government, and they were quick to resent the invasion of their rights by an unconstitutional interference with their home affairs by the government at Washington.

This disturbance was not more than cleverly compromised and hushed up before the entire South blazed into a state of absolute secession and for the same reason. Washington was, then as now, eager to centralize all authority at the head of the general government, notwithstanding the fact that the very bed rock of the article of federation under which the various states agreed to go into a union was the sacred obligation that each separate state should retain its absolute freedom and autonomy, should enact its own laws and govern itself entirely free from any interference or coersion by the federation.

This clause of the federation stands unimpaired to this day and that guarantee of autonomy constitutes what you have so often heard sneeringly refered to as States Rights. They may be ignored and hooted at with impunity in these peculiar days of common expediency, but they stand today as the basis plank on which this great country was originally built. It is possible when that plank is finally destroyed that civil war will again overwhelm us.

The other day the legislature of New York state reenacted the role that South Carolina played in those days so long ago. They "nullified" the 18th amendment in so far as it applied to their state. They did this on the principles involved in the question of states rights, maintaining that the citizens of that great commonwealth do not endorse that amendment and do not intend to enforce.

The Federal government claims they will force that amendment upon them if it takes an army to do it. So there you are.

Is this flare up of the old time question going to blaze up into civil war as it did before? Is history going to repeat itself the only difference being a change of location?

The question of States Rights is a much liver one than some cheap politicians would have you believe.

CITIZENS MEETING AT JACKSON CHAPEL

A citizens meeting at Jacksons Chapel is called for next Saturday nigt June 2nd at 7:30 p. m. to discuss the pending 3 mill tax issue.

Every one interested is earnestly urged to be present and listen to a number of competent speakers who will be on hand to discuss the question

Come out and learn what the issues are.

THE MEASELS

Quite an epidemic of measels is raging pretty much all over the county and in some cases, they have been real severe, though we have heard of only a few deaths resulting so far.

There is one peculiar thing about measels. Every person you meet will give you at least 500 sure cures for them, but we notice that the measels continue on in the even tennor of their way and are no respecter of persons. About the only thing you can do is to keep close and tough it out. That is remedy No. 501.

DO WE WANT LAWS ENFORCED

Many, many laws are passed, both paraded before the public as a demonstration that we are supposed to want a cleaner and a safer country to live in, but like the picture in the funny paper, they don't mean anything

Now and then, by accident we suppose, a real needed and meritorious law gets on the statue books and its enforcement would be essential to the safety and best interest of every one and it would seem that unanimous public sentiment would demand its enforcement and it does so long as the enforcement does not reach the wrong party but then, you are supposed to keep your mouth shut and pretend like you did not know it.

It is a noticable fact all over the country that when any person interests himself in attempting to aid in a campaign of law enforcement, regardless of who the violater is, that he is immediately marked down as an undesirable citizen and an insidious campaign of persecution, from various sources, is what he finds himself up against.

That very condition is greatly to blame for the notorious fact that people are ceasing to respect the law

If a law is bad it is a law until it is repealed and the way to hasten its repeal is to rigidly enforce it. If you allow it to remain on the statue books and undertake to kill it by ignoring and disregarding it, you only make bad matters worse by establishing a precedent of law breaking, and people so inclined take advantage of that precedent and violate other laws in the same manner

Law is supposed to be a fair and just obligation resting upon all in equal proportion and is not primarily intended to play any favorites, neither is it intended as an engine of spite or revenge to be privately used in paying up personal grudges.

If you persistently violate one law you are a criminal to that extent and, to that exent, you are not a good, law abiding citizen.

The great boast of the law is that all people are equal before it—the rich and the poor, the nabob as well as the humblest vagrant.

Is that the kind we have? Think it over and we would like to have your answer.

HERE SATURDAY

Hon. W. G. Patterson, President of the Public Service Commission and also a member of the State Highway Commission, passed through Clanton last Saturday.

It is to be hoped that he will have a feeling realization of our needs for a completed State Highway and do all he can to speed up the letting of contracts for the balance of this important road.

Entered in the Postoffice at Clanton, Alabama, as Second Class Mail Matter Under Act of Congress.

Wedding month begins tomorrow. Look out, boys, your liberty is in danger.

We have been living quite a while but this is the first year we ever saw without a spring.

Greece and Turkey have come to a diplomatic understanding and agreed not to fight, both parties are still massing troops along the frontier.

Farmers, saw mill men and day laborers are getting it tough during this rainy season. The balance of us will get ours next fall.

There were 2,780 people killed or wounded by auto vehicles in New York during the month of April. Just look how lucky Clanton is.

When the question of abolishing in reality the convict lease system comes before the summer session, we will find out definately who rules in Alabama—the people or the capitalists.

The only way to reduce taxation is to reduce expenses. We wish every voter in Alabama would burn that truth into his brain and register a solem oath to insist on a big crimp in the machinery or turn down the whole bunch

Henry Ford has definately stated that he will not be in the race for president under no circumstances. Thus, one unknown quanity has been eliminated from the field and the dope prophets can now proceed to arrange all of their figures and predictions.

There is a constitutional edict that prohibits the masquerading in public of men in female attire, or women in [illegible] garments. But it is like the 18th amendment, it don't seem to mean anything.

The forward looking man looks in to the future and makes his arrangements to meet the conditions. It would be the part of wisdom for Chilton county to prepare to meet any and all conditions that may arise on the boundary line issue between our county and Coosa.

The ladies now are wearing the "Tut Skirt". All it takes to make one is 4 yards of cloth to use as a bandage. Begin at the waist line and wrap down ward. One trouble about it seems to be the impossibility of taking care of the loose end. It dangles around the feet and looks unitdy.

The prohibition extremists have, at least, managed to get up serious complications with five foreign powers, by attempting to regulate the rum drinking on foreign vessels trading here. That is the way to drive off our foreign commerce and make cotton sell for 5 cents per pound.

It is to be regretted, but we learn that the backward spring and excessive rains have so discuraged some of the farmer renters that they are giving up their crops and going to public work jobs. This leaves the landlord in bad shape for farm labor is hard to get now.

Senator Borah and Lord Loyd George are going to debate the League of Nations question in several of our largest cities. Both is against and Loyd George for the League. Both are able and brilliant men and deep students of foreign matters and the people are going to have an opportunity of learning something about this mooted subject before they get through.

Listen! Put this in your hat. This is the year when everybody should cut expenses to the bone and economize in every possible way. The late, wet spring makes the crop prospect doubtful this fall, and money will be scare in proportion. If you want to play safe, right now is the time for you to get in the game. Sqeeze a little bit off of every nickel you spend.

THE WRONG END.

Since the wild, wonderful days of inflation and false values introducted by the war and its attendant extravagant prices and expenditures, the entire world seems to have lost its prospective and there is no standard of values and no appreciation of any relative connection between primary cost and final price.

This same spirit dominates Congress in its aimless efforts to standardize and stableize the business of our country. There has not been an effort made in Congres s, nor in Montgomery for that matter, so far as we have been able to discover—a real effort we mean—to check up and find out whether expenses could be reduced in operating the various and multitudinous departments or not.

The entire eloquence and effort of our law makers is directed solely to fleecing the people out of more and more tax money to defray the uncheced raid of the departments upon the treasury.

The people are paying out fabulous sums every year to keep up war organizations that are utterly out of date now and of no possible benefit to anyone except the officials who draw down the pay for these useless jobs, and the politicians who keep their "machine" in good working order by dealing out these so-called jobs to their ward heelers and close political backers.

In Alabama this last legislature made a spasmodic play to the public by repealing the tax adjuster law. Already they see the value of this county unit in keeping the "home fires burning" in their little old political machine, so they have decided it will be necessary for the tax assessor to be put on the pay roll and function right on in place of the "adjuster." All the difference will be in the name and the expense will go on just the same.

It is our honest opinion, backed up by a good many years of study and observation of the system of government, that the affairs of our state can be administered with less friction and more efficiency by reducing the personal force 50 per cent, than is being done by the cumbersome, over lapping and duplicating system now in force. Run it with the precision and business astuteness that distinguishes the wonderfully successful corporations and syndicates that are manufacturing millionaires every year, and half of the present force feeding out of the tax payers pocket, will be forced to engage in some self-sustaining avocation or business.

If our law makers could get this inflated idea of more and more money out of their heads and do a little real constructive figuring at the other end of the question, taxes could be reduced and no branch of the government that is really essential and worth while would suffer.

The only real progress and advancement that amounts to a baubee is the kind that learns how to increase service and reduce operating expenses. The operation of a government like ours is primarily and unequivocally a matter of business and the application of business principles instead of the playing of politics is all we need in Montgomery to put Alabama on the high road to prosperity.

We are spending too many good dollars and getting service on a parity with the German mark.

THE LEASING OF CONVICTS

When the Alabama Legislature convenes again in July for its summer session, the question of leasing out State and county convicts as a source of income is going to come again for final action. There is too gheat a public sentiment demanding an adjudication of this matter now for the legislature to ignore this time and that some public sentiment is going to demand the prompt repeal of all legislation that permits any semblance of a convict leasing system in this state to exist any longer.

The recent frightful exposures made in Florida of the avaricions and brutal results of this system, has focused public interest in the matter, together with the reports that leak out now and then of beastly cruelty in our own state convict camps, has crystalized and awakened sentiment of righteous indignation and revolt in the minds of the people until they are going to demand a change, to be effective at an early and fixed date, in the present mode of handling the unfortunate criminal class in Alabama.

Our state is years behind the march of enlightened thought on this subject. Most all of the other states have long since abolished this system of legalized slavery and brutality, and the idea of gathering up this criminal class and selling them into the most merciless and heartless state of bondage ever devised as a means of financial profit to the state, has become utterly hateful and obnoxious to the better element of society. The leasing of convicts is a system that belongs to the dark ages, and no place can be found for it in this day of enlightenment.

When it is proposed to do away with the lease system the objection is always raised that the state can't do without the income derived from the selling of these poor unfortunates into bondage. Has it really come to that pass? Has the great state of Alabama become so impovished that they must needs sell their prisoners into a state of brutal and murderous slavery to be able to function.

Not on your life. We are carrying a vast amount of dead timber. We are overloaded with feeders from the public crib who draw down rich salaries and are a real detriment to good government. Do away with this blood money and cut expenses to match. Is there a citizen of Alabama who takes pride in the fact that his child is being educated at the expense of the sweat, blood and very life of these legalized slaves? We hope not.

There is no one thing that builds up and enriches a state more than a broad system of good roads. It is a fact that our state has the poorest roads to be found in the United States.

Why not work our state and county convicts on the roads? You need not argue that it can not be done successfully. It is being done by other states, Georgia has worked her convicts on the public roads for years and the result is that you hear all auto travelers bragging about the good roads all over that state.

When convicts are employed in keeping up the public roads every citizen is benefited and the convict is kept under the supervision of the state, is taken care of and treated humanely, with a good chance of ultimate reformation, but when he is sold into slavery he becomes only a chattle and his purchaser has only one aim and that is to make a profit out of his labor and the greater the profit the better the deal. Expenses are cut by cutting the ration and clothes bill and profits are boosted by driving the poor slave to the last limit of human endurance, and if death results, that is perfectly all right too. There are plenty more where that one come from.

The summer legislature can not pass the buck to Brandon, like our two former legislatures have done and get by with it. The public demand positive action and they want it at once. No more haggling and no more talk about the educational outlook. The people don't want their children educated any further on the blood money of legalized slavery.

THE DIFFERENCE

There is now and has existed from the very first day that the Republican party saw the light in our country two distinctive marks of difference between that party and the Democrats In fact, these two basic points of disagreement resulted in the birth of the Republican party and have been responsible for its continuance to this day.

The very nature of these differences, when properly understood and analyzed, will clearly demonstrate to any fair minded investigator the position that each party occupies and represents relative to the people who go to making up our 110,000,000 of population.

The Republican party believes in and always enforces a very high protective tariff when they are in power. Who does a high tariff benefit in our country? Does it benefit the poor man, the laborer or the farmer? Is 3 cent Cuban sugar a benefit to the poor man at 12 cents per pound? Is meat sold to Europe at 6 cents per pound a benefit to the home consumer at from 22 to 60 cents per pound? Are shoes sold to France at $1.44 per pair a benefit to the home buyer at $5.50 to $8.00 per pair? Are ginghams for your wife's dress at 25 cents per yard a benefit to you when you remember that the very same ginghams is sold across the border in Mexico for 8 cents? And so on.

This state of affairs is the positive and intentional result of a high protective tariff. It functions exactly like it was expected to. It was made for no other purpose than to place the home consumer in a helpless position so he could be held up and safely robbed by the rich manufacturer. You can not get relief by trading with foreign dealers because a high protective tariff has the foreign manufacturer absolutely barred out. The tariff is prohibitive to foreign compitition and it automatically enables the home manufacturer to hold up the home consumer for the difference. That surely is plain enough for anyone to understand and is the undisputable truth.

Now, are you in favor of a high protective tariff that pauperizes the public and makes multi-millionaires out of a select few.

The other distinctive mark of difference between the two parties is a question of States Rights.

The Republican party favors a strong central government—meaning that the government at Washington should have authority to govern locally in the states.

By reference to the constitution, under which the original thirteen states formed this powerful federation known as the United States, you will find incorporated therein a positive and unmistakable guarantee of unfettered and unmolested home rule for each state. In fact, history tells us that the various states were so jealeous of their home government that it was extreemly difficult to so word that particular clause in the constitution as to make it meet with their ideas of absolute independence and home rule. This clause still stands as an important feature in the document under which we sware to live defend and do business.

The Democratic party stands for that document in toto without reservations and primarily is pledged to the doctrine of states rights as much today as it was in the days of the immortal Jefferson.

A strong centralized government invariably means a government for the classes as against the masses and, in fact, is first cousin to an Empire. Real freedom and pure liberty can not exist under a system like that.

These are the two fundamental differences between the two parties, and no matter how much these two issues may be clouded by political campaigns and oratorical bombast, these two issues mark the distinctive differences that exist between an intelligent Republican and an intelligent Democrat

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Baptist Sunday School Convention of the Billingsley district was held last Sunday at Big Springs church near Haynes.

A large audience was present to enjoy the proceedings of the convention and an interesting program was carried out.

At 9:30 a. m. Miss Ruth Mahan recited the Fifth Chapter of Matthew. After this Prof Clive D. Golson discussed the important subject, "How to build a Sunday [illegible] He brought [illegible] on this subject which was appreciated by the large audience present.

At 11 a. m. Rev. J. W. Mitchell, of Brent, preached a good sermon using as his theme the scripture, "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." He also in addition to delivering a splendid sermon he gave a brief synopsis of his trip to the Southern Baptist Convention that was of more than the usual interest to his audience.

At the noon hour a well prepared dinner was spread on the table fixed for such occasions. All enjoyed this excellent social hour.

At 1:30 Miss Ruth Mahan recited the 27th Chapter of Matthew.

At 1:45 quite a large number entered into a round table discussion on the topic, "Factors that have helped to build our Sunday School."

The last topic on the program, "Problems of the Intermediate Department" was interestingly discussed by Mrs. J. C. Hughes. Mrs. Hughes is one of the best church and school workers in central Alabama.

The business session of the meeting was taken up and Prof. Clive D. Golson was elected president of the district, but the vice president's name we failed to get, but Mr. W. H. Dennus was elected secretary.

Dig Springs has a splendid church building, good Sunday School and one of the very best of citizenship.

FRIENDSHIP BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be a special meeting at Friendship Baptist church next Sunday night, June 3, at 7:30.

The membership is earnestly requested to be on hand, especially the male members, as business of vital importance will come up.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS.

On last Friday, May 26, the County Board of Education met and proceeded to elect a County Superintendent and nominate a Principal for the High School.

The present incumbent, Prof. Howard L. Foshee, was reelected, without opposition, as County Superintendent.

We feel like this was only a fitting recognition of the splendid and comprehensive manner in which Prof. Foshee has served us in the past. He has been tireless and unremitting in his efforts in behalf of the constant improvement of the educational situation in our county and has met with wonderful success.

In behalf of the good people of Chilton county we wish to congratulate the Board upon the wisdom of their choice and we look forward with confidence to another term of honest efficiency and increasing improvements in the educational situation.

The Board also nominated Prof. Pegues, who has been in charge of the city school for the past two years, a principal of the High School, to succeed Prof. Alverson, who we are sorry to say is going to leave us.

Prof Pegues is not only a good organizer, but his executive ability in the management of schools is first class. He is a good disciplinarian and will, no doubt, maintain a high order of systematic efficiency in every department of the school.

One very important action taken by the Board was the appropriation of $1,500 to the High School, such appropriation being contingent upon the complete abolishment of "hazing" in its every phase, from the school.

The board also voted to call an election in the Fairview and Popwell district to determine the question of consolidating the schools.

The Superintendent was instructed to notify all Trustees to select their teachers for next year not later than July 1st and to promptly notify the Superintendent when their selection is completed.

The scale of salaries for next year remains unchanged from the schedule of the last two years, except in the case of principals, where some slight change were ordered.

It is a subject for congratulation that apparant harmony seemed to pervade the session of the Board and the absense of all politics was especially gratifying.

MUSIC IN BOTH SCHOLS
MRS. ROBERTS TO TEACH MUSIC IN BOTH SCHOOLS NEXT YEAR

I believe in keeping the public informed as to school work. Having been officially notified of my election as principal of the county high school, I can now announce two of the faculty. Mr. J. A. Peterson will be assistant principal and teacher of science. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from "Auburn," is old enough to be firm in dicipline, and has had four years experience as a teacher.

The music Department will be in charge of Mrs. Barney M. Roberts. Mrs. Roberts will have charge of the music in the Public School also. She has studied for the past two years with Mrs. Edna Gochel Gussen, one of the South's leading musicians. I consider Mrs. Roberts qualified to give her pupils the very latest improvements in either class work or private teaching.

At the present time I am about to secure two extra good lady teachers for literary subjects. They will be announced as soon as I secure approval of the proper authorities.

Respectfully,
IRA PEGUES

NEGRO EXODUS

As the fast trains go by on their northward trip it is becoming quite a usual event to see a car or two of negroes emigrating towards the north. Labor agents are working over time, and the continued rains, forcing a cessation of work temporarily, conspires to make the negroes dissatisfied and an easy prey to the labor agent with his golden stories of wealth to amassed, without effort, in that happy northern clime, where money grows on trees and where a "negro is just as good as a white man."

The departure of the negro labor in serious quantities, would be a present disaster to the South, so far as the present crop is concerned, because it has been planted depending on the negro to take care of his usual quota and to that extent the south will suffer, but if the negro decides to remain away, and tough it out with his northern friends, then, when another year comes the south will readjust itself to the new conditions and move forward with less friction and more clear money than ever before.

It may compel some people to go to work, who are accustomed to having it done instead, but it will do them and their children good for years to come.

The white people of the south need a lesson in independence and a great labor shortage will teach it quicker and more thoroughly than anything we know of.

Modern farming then would take the place of the old before-the-war plans, and diversified crops and farming machinery will appear on every hand.

A real and permanent exodus of the negro would be as great a blessing as could hardly be poured out on the material South.

TRIP TO KANSAS CITY

Dear Mr. Editor.

I want to say a few words through your paper having just returned from the Southern Baptist Convention which was held in Kansas City Missouri. This was indeed a wonderful meeting. Thousands sang making thrilling music. This made one attending this gathering feel like he or she was nearing the Heavenly Portals.

I have often heard of the Gospel Train, but it now ceases to be a story to us and becomes a reality since we have had the distinct pleasure of taking a ride on the Gospel Train. As we were returning home we began to gather from the various coaches into one coach until it became so full of people that it was impossible for even one more to gain entrance. Then we began to sing and prey. Next we had a wonderful sermon delivered by Dr. Cree of Georgia. He used as his text the familiar scripture, "My Grace is Sufficient for Thee." 2nd Corinthians 12th chapter and 9th verse. As this able consecrated man of God brought this promise of God to His children we were made to feel the presence of God and that He was guiding while the busy train was measuring off the miles in the State of Kansas. When the sermon was over we had a testimonial and proclamation of determination by many that were present. Such a service no one in the coach had ever had the distinct pleasure of witnessing. So Mr. Editor, the Experience on the Gospel Train is what I came to tell

Yours truly,
E. A NORRIS

A LOAN TO AUSTRIA

Of all the nations prostrated by the war the plight of Austria has been most desperate. This nation, once proud and haughty, is now helpless and abject, a suppliant at the feet of the world. Her people dispirited, her territory reduced, her credit gone, her currency debased, her factories idle, her population in want, and her hopes blasted, Austria has made almost no recovery from the war collapse. Now there is a ray of light on her horizon, and hope is rekindled, for the powers have taken pity on her helplessness and have arranged for an international loan of $130,000,000. Of this sum, $25,000,000 will be underwritten by American banking firms, on the assurance of the Morgan firm that the security offered is adequate protection for the bonds.

The action of the powers is significant, for it marks the first constructive step from the outside to assist the recovery of any of the central powers. The whole rehabilitation of the depressed portions of Europe may date from this loan, for its success will pave the way for similar loans, not only to Austria, but to other nations now struggling to regain some of their lost prosperity. The loan is good business from every viewpoint, for the recovery of the European states in a necessary preliminary to their demand for our goods. World trade has halted because the nations could not get going, chiefly because of lack of credit. Now that a way has been found to supply this credit recovery should be rapid for the needs have intensified with deprivation and it will take years to fill the void.—Advertiser.

MAKE A DOLLAR

Editor Chilton County News:

School is out and most of the boys and girls do not care for more study now.

But if any of the Chilton county young people want to tackle a good problem in Algebra—for fun or fame or a dollar—here is the chance.

I am offering a prize of one dollar, open to anyone, who has been a pupil in a Chilton county school during the past year, who will solve, unassisted, the problem below and send the solution to reach me before Sunday, June 25. If more than one original and correct solution is received, two dollars will be diveded between the successful contestants.

Send with your solution the statement that you have solved the problem without aid. Also the name of your school and teacher. If you want a correct solution sent you in case yours is incorrect, enclose a stamped envelope.

Here is the problem:— A farmer, breaking a rectangular piece of ground, twice as long as it is wide, begins at one corner, and plaws 15 times around the field to break up one acre. In the next 16 rounds he breaks another acre. What is the acreage of the field and what is the width, in inches, of his furrows? Give answers correct to two decimal places.

MACEDONIA

The outlook for crops is somewhat gloomy, however, we get in from one to two days a week with the plow, so possibly we can keep the grass hammered down till we can have some weather to kill it. So lets not get discouraged.

Mr. A. B. Baxley will lecture next Saturday night at 6:30 oclock at this place on the importance of organization.

Everybody cordially invited. Ladies have special invitation.

IT WILL HAPPEN

Sunday night; while the beautiful stars were twinkling in a soft June sky, Walter Gillispie and Sheriff Littlejohn had a hunch.

They boarded their trusty fliver and sped out in the rural districts for a little spin. Their hunch proved to be the real thing, for they captured John and Cobb Burnett, white, and Jim Knight, colored in the act of transporting a lot of mountain dew.

Their invitation enduced the trio to accompany them back to town and so, three more cases for violating the prohibition law have been placed on the local docket.

LOST—You will have lost the opportunity of a life time to have a good time and lots of fun if you miss the Barbecue here July 4th.

HE CAN TELL IT

You should wind up Dr. J. P. Hayes on the subject of his recent fishing trip to Florida. He can sure tell it. The Doctor was fortunate and had good luck, and to a man of his view and push it goes without saying that he gave the fish all that was coming to them while he was among them.

You can tell he worked faithfully on the job for he got a fine coat of tan and the cuticle was peeling off his face and hands from the effect of sunburn when he first got home.

A WHOPPER

Last week Mr. Ben Roberts brought us a cabbage that was in a class by itself. We did not take time to weigh it, for we wanted to hurry it to the pot, but when we tell you that even the hungry family of an editor had to eat it on the installment plan you can form some idea of its wonderful dimensions. It was a whopper, all right.

THEY MUST HAVE THOUGHT HE NEEDED IT.

The Jury in Birmingham last Thursday that brought in a verdict of "Not Guilty" in the case of Dairyman Jacks charged with being a party to the flogging of Health Officer, Dr. Dowling, some time ago, took only 46 minutes to make up their minds.

There must be some angle to the case that was not aired in court.

THEY ALWAYS GET 'EM

Last Saturday afternoon Federal Enforcement Officer, Walter Gillispie and sheriff, Tom Littlejohn, made a little sortie out in the country and soon returned, accompanied by T. S. Peavy and Joe Lenders, colored, whom they escorted to "old 86".

They caught them making the suculent corn juice and also selling some to their thirsty trade.

They boarded their trusty fliver and court on the two offenses and will probably not be troubled looking for a job for quite awhile.

Up Hill---Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class; you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

THEY DIE HARD

The "old court house ring" of odorous memory die mighty hard. They were the product of those corrupt reconstruction days, and in many instances, they served a good purpose in their time. But "Them days have gone forever" and the necessity for that sort of politics has passed away.

The people are going to get in the saddle now and the "old ring" can no longer find a place in the scheme of things. Now and then they bob up and make a little noise, but that is only their death struggle. They must go.

CAN YOU BEAT IT?

Mrs. L. P. Handly, of Route 4, brought a cabbage to town Monday morning that weighed 9 pounds and 10 ounces.

Now some of you expert truck raisers come to the front and beat that. If the season had been favorably it would have probably required a Ford truck to have brought Mrs. Handley's cabbage to town.

WE ARE GOING TO FATTEN UP

Monday morning bright and soon, our special good friend Mr. L. M. Rowell, of Route 4, came by the office and left us a cabbage, fresh from the garden, that was a dandy.

Even the life of a country editor has its bright spots, and such remembrances as that from our friends tends to hearten us in our work, for we feel like we are working for and with our friends.

We thank you, old timer.

NULLIFICATION

Well Governor Al Smith, of New York, has signed the act that repudiates, so far as that state is concerned, the Volstead Prohibition Enforcement act of Congress.

Gov. Smith claims to be a prohibitionist, but not one of the "fanatical" kind. He believes that each state should be permitted to fix the per cent of alcohol that shall be allowed in any beverage sold in said state, while Congress should fix a "reasonable" maximum over which no state should go.

BOUNDARY LINE MEETING

Next Saturday June 9th every citizen of Chilton county who is interested in the establishment of the boundary line between Chilton and Coosa county is earnestly urged to meet at the court house at 2 p. m.

The Rockford Chronicle, a paper published in Coosa county, has carried a notice that a bill would be introduced in the coming session of the Legislature this summer to definitely establish the line between the two counties. Many of the older citizens of this county know of information that would be of untold value in regard to this matter that is of so much importance to the citizens of each county.

"Dont forget the Date, Time and Place." and hour of the meeting at the court house next Saturday.

SINGING PROGRAM FOR JULY 4th

We announce as our singing program for July 4th following arrangement.

We want everybody in the county, (and out of it too) to be here. As a committee on music and entertainment we have decided to have a contest on singing.

To do this we want each community in the county to get up a class of about 20 and make it interesting.

We will have a contest on the best male quartette and the best mixed quartette.

We know there are some good singers in this county, so select your director and get busy. All who desire to get in on this contest let us know it not later than June 24, so we will know how to make our arrangements.

We would like for each community to get in this contest. We know we can't get all the blue ribbons, but let's make the crowd who does get it stand up and take notice.

For further information write either of the following committee.

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY

An insidious and concerted effort has been going on for several years to do away with the American Sunday.

This is not the ultimate and real object that inspires this fight. The idea is to strike a deep and decisive blow at the protestant sentiment upon which the very foundation stones of our system of government are laid.

What was it that sent our pilgrim fathers to these shores in the first instance? It was religious intollerance, and persecution that deprived them of this privilege to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience, and that same intollerant spirit has now followed them up in their new home and is beginning to hack at the rights and liberties they bled and died to win.

Do you realize that Americans are the most careless and short sighted people on earth? It is a fact. For instance we all get busy attending to our personal affairs, feeling confidence and assurance in the institutions and the government our fathers built for us, and we never stop long enough to look around and see if any enemies are invading us, or any danger threatening us and our children.

Listen. How many of you had ever stopped and considered the fact, that the New Testament, God's own and only revealed plan for the salvation of our souls, can not be read in the public schools of this great, so-called protestant America?

The Claim is made that it would be "sectarian" to allow the New Testament to be read. In the name of common sense, is not the refusal to admit the New Testament to our schools vastly more "sectarian."

About one tenth of our population object to it and the other nine tenths are in favor of it.

Please also notice that the little element that objects to the New Testament in our schools is composed almost entirely of foreigners.

If they don't like our institutions, why do they come over here?

The idea is to undermine our entire fabric of government and the attack on the American Sunday is one of their main offensives.

Our country suits its rightful heirs just as it is and if the other fellow don't like it, let him get out and stay out—or better still—put him out.

INFANT DIES.

The infant son of Col. and Mrs. Lawrence F. Gerald was buried Monday at the city cemetery.

FLORIDA COMES THROUGH

Florida, by voting to abolish the convict lease system entirely from that state, has joined the majority, but has at the same time left Alabama out in the cold as the only state in the Union which defends or even tolerates the system. Florida abolished the state lease system several years ago, and now sets next January 1 as the date that shall see the end of the leasing of county convicts. More than half of Alabama's counties lease their convicts, and the state is indefinitely committed to the horrible traffic. The people of Alabama, who utterly abhor the system which they must still involuntarily countenance, congratulate the people of Florida upon their emancipation from their disgrace. The people of Alabama hope that by the time the legislature meets again the people of Florida will be able to return the courtesy.

In the discussions that have taken place throughout the state during the past few weeks, almost exclusive attention has been directed at the leasing of state convicts, and Florida's case has been held up as a horrible example, without stress being laid on the fact that the outrages were committed on county convicts. When Alabama's legislature meets, therefore, the people will expect it to make a clean sweep of the abouination, county and state, in order that this whole matter will not have to be threshed over on some later occasion, but that the whole practice in its entirety may be wiped out at one stroke.—Age-Herald

THERE IS A LEAGUE AFTER ALL

There are people who deny the existence of matter. One noted leader of a cult even goes so far as to declare that the earth is flat. There are politicians who deny the potency of the League of Nations yet, strangely enough, the official representatives of the very administration supposed to be aloof from the league are at this very moment knocking at the doors of the league to ask co-operation in the fight to halt the world traffic in harmful drugs. It has been said that the league is partial to the drug traffic, with no mind to interfere. It is hard to believe that, for the most powerful members of the league are committed to a program looking to control of the drug trade.

It will be hard for our government hereafter to ignore the league, now that it has actually come to beseech the league's co-operation in a matter of international concern. The status to be occupied by our delegates will also be somewhat peculiar, for they have no right there except that of sufferance. The league might very properly hold that our failure to join is a barrier to our intercourse with the league. Yet the league has shown on former occassions a disposition to conciliate the United States and to disregard technicalities whenever there was a common ground of discussion. Perhaps the league members percieve what is now hidden from many of us, namely, that the time is coming, and is even now not far off, when for us to join the league will be as much a matter of course as for us to take part in other international activities which depend for their success upon the co-operation of all nations. We now have to go to the league as outsiders to seek a boom which only the league can confer. Surely such a status will not long be tenable for a proud and sovereign nation.—Age-Herald.

MAY IT PROVE TRUE.

It is rumored that a large commodious and modern hotel is one of the several improvements that will be realities as soon as the route of the state Highway through Clanton is definately settled.

We have two splendid hotels already but the rapid strides Clanton is making in development these days will amply justify the addition of a third.

Day by day, in every way, Clanton grows bigger and bigger.

"Hold her, Newt, She's a rearin."

Thirty years ago four years in school gave a person a pretty fair English and mathematical education and they also made some real big statesmen in those days too. Now it requires 13 years to get sorter a start in learning and modern statesmen are scarcer than hen teeth. But it is counted high treason to say anything about it.

Mr. C. F. Edwards, was in Clanton last Saturday.

A SUGGESTION

We have no intention whatever of attempting to advise or dictate to the Clanton Chamber of Commerce in any way whatever, but if they will pardon us we would like to make one suggestion that has been impressed on our mind many times by the comments we so frequently hear in regard to that body.

Whether it is true or not, the impression prevails almost universally out side of the city, that the Chamber of Commerce here is a strictly local affair and that it is not working for nor particularly interested in anything that does not pertain directly to Clanton.

So far as we know this may be a fact, but if it is we submit that it is a most unfortunate and unwise situation. We hardly think it can be literally true. Our impression is that the intentions of that body is to be helpful in a much broader sense than that.

Now, our suggestion is that it would be a wise thing for the Chamber of Commerce to put on an intensive and vigorous county wide campaign in an attempt, not only to increase their membership, but primarily to put itself right before the rural population and thus gain their influence and co-operation.

We think this almost a necessary movement if we wish to derive any of the benefits of a real Chamber of Commerce.

With all due respect to those who compose the present Chamber of Commerce, and with no intention whatever to dictate to or critisize them or their actions, this suggestion is offered in good faith and we believe, that although a country editor suggested the idea, if you will feel out the situation as it is, you will be forced to agree with us.

Misses Ruth Jones, Mary Kennedy, and Woody Rollinson left Monday to enter the summer school at the University of Alabama.

Miss Irene Jones is now in Montevallo attending the summer school there. Miss Jones will be one of the teachers in the city schools at Bessemer Alabama next year.

Mr. W. C. Dyer and Rev. W. J. Ruddick, of Stanton, were in Clanton last Friday attending to business matters.

Stanton has one of the best, modern up to date school buildings in the state according to Professor Ledbetter of the Department of Education in Montgomery. The News wants to congratulate the people of this live little city for having staid by the guns until this building has been completed

Miss Irma Powell, of Pascagola, Mississippi, spent several days last week with Miss Lena Downs, route two. Miss Powell is now at Auburn attending the summer school for teachers.

Miss Gladys Culp has returned home after spending several days with her aunt at Haynes, Ala., Mrs. Grover Trawick.

Mr. J. T. Tyus, of Notasulga, came up Saturday and was the guest of friends and relatives here until Tuesday the day he returned home.

ISSUES OF THE NEXT NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

The issues to be involved in the next presidential election are already assuming shape and form, and the present outlook is that the major points of difference between the two old parties will be, at least, threefold.

The first great rock upon which the lines of the two old parties are going to split asunder, will be the same old question upon which the republicans won such a signal victory three years ago—the League of Nations idea, no matter what name it may travel under.

The people have realized all over this country now that America must of necessity take a leading part in shaping world affairs. The ultimate peace we all desire, and even the more powerful and potent question of dollars and cents will force us to enter in to the general economic affairs of the world. Both parties now, recognize this and both will attempt to frame a platform along that line that will mean a plenty but will appear innocent on the face of it. As a leading issue in the next general election it is a certainty.

Another prominent plank in the platform will be the tariff. Whether the people want a high protective tariff, with its attendant almost prohibitive prices on all the necessities of life, or whether they want a tariff for revenue only on the luxuries, similar to the Underwood document, will be fought out.

Then the next important issue is going to be one that has lain dormant for a number of years. That will be the old time honored and constitutional question of "States Rights."

This issue for long, long years was strictly a democratic plank. Upon the merits of this issue the South was enabled to rise from the ashes of the great civil war and attain its independence and white supremacy.

During the campaign of hysteria that swept over the country when the 18th amendment was railroaded across the, South forgot its traditions and its safety and surrendered its standard of States Rights to the enemy.

Now, the rather pecular situation arises that we find New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin, and several other original abolition states contending for the clause in the Constitution of the United States, that guarantees to each separate state full and free governmental authority—absolute local self government.

This will be in no sense a fight on prohibition, but will be an attempt to reestablish that old doctrine that is our main guarantee of freedom and our sole protection against a rule at Washington that would be, to all intents and purposes, a full fledged Empire.

The most peculiar feature of this last issue is that both parties have worn allegiance to the doctrine of States Rights, and th is fact is going to put the chronic politician at a loss as to where, when and how to throw his hat in the ring.

There is one thing that is a certainty. Washington has already assumed too much authority over the internal affairs of the various states and unless the people rise up and call their hand it looks like we will soon have, in effect at least an Empire instead of a republic.

THAT BOUNDARY LINE

We see from the Alexander City papers that Coosa county is going to put up a stiff fight on the boundary line between their county and Chilton.

We would not presume to advise the great leaklers in our county, but from the strange freaks that are being pulled over these days in other directions, it looks like it would be the part of wisdom to wake up and, at least, let the "powers that be" know that our county is still on the map and has a few live people living in it.

So far as we are personally concerned it is our honest opinion that unless Chilton county makes a fight the next legislature will hand us a surprise on the boundary question big enough to wake us all up after it is too late.

But this matter is entirely up to the citizens who are more vitally concerned than we are.

THAT ONE PARTY MYTH

Our good friend of the Union-Banner does not always take time to consider well before he leeps. Listen!

"Our friend Doty of the Lafayette Sun is giving some of our state departments a round up for wasting our tax money. Brother you needn't expect anything else so long as Alabama has only one political party. There is where the adjustment will have to be made before any permanent good will be accomplished."

Now surely he knows that the great state of New York is a two party state and has been for many long years. Still it is known of all men to be the greatest grafting institution of that kind that has ever existed in the United States. No matter which party gets in power the extravagant raids upon the treasury go right on and for high class crookedness and corruption it holds the record.

Then take the great state of Illinoise. That is another two party commonwealth. Next to New York it has a reputatiaon for political waste and crookedness that cannot be equalled.

The two party idea fails to demonstrate its alledged value as a high class pannacia for crookedness in either of these instances, nor in any other cases that we have ever heard of

We could very easily and forcibly bring these examples of the absolute failure of the two party idea nearer home, but what is the use?

We very seriously doubt if Editor Wyatt has many followers who really pin any faith to that old and exploded political bombast. The people are gradually learning to look for, at least, a shadow of proof to be attached to the allegations that politicians make, and this old party slogan has failed to materialize into truth anywhere that it has been tried out.

"THE UNKINDEST CUT OF ALL"

The following is taken from the editorial columns of our esteemed contemporary, the Union-Banner, of last week.

If the questions confronting our County Board of Education had been submitted to the vote of the people, would the same action been taken as was taken by the Board?

The reasoning capacity of the editor seems to need over hauling. Has he forgotton already that two members of this School Board were elected by his own party no longer ago than the last election? Besides, has he forgotton that a petition opposing the re-election of Superintend Foshee was dilligently circulated recently and failed to get sufficient signers to even warrant its promoters in presenting it to the Board? Has he also forgotton that there was no candidate nominated to oppose Mr. Foshee before the Board? How does he get that way?

DOES AMERICA BELONG TO FOREIGNERS?

We notice that Kahn and Co., large clothing manufacturers of Chicago, notifies the public that they will not sell any of their product to a merchant who is even suspected of belonging to the Ku Klux Klan.

Now that is too bad. People will have to go naked now if Kahn and Co refuses to sell us clothes. How many people are there in the United States, comparatively speaking, who even know of the existence of Khan and Co.?

Go to it, old sport, wear all your clothes yourself for our part. Glad to have heard of you, however.Thank you for giving us your number.

When public sentiment once crystalizes on a subject its a hard job to fight it—even if you do have the law on your side.

The church in which a person can buy membership and continue their meaness may succeed in this world, but what kind of a figure is it going to cut on the otherside?

The best way to escape an automobile accident is to stop at your front door, look to the left, then to the right and then go back in the house and close and bar your doors.

It seems like there is some confusion among the fair sex in regard to the long or the short skirt. Some wear them longer and some shorter. Perhaps the physicial make up of the individual has a good deal to do with it.

The law requires all trains to come to a dead stop before crossing another railroad. If the same law applied to auto cars before crossing railroads the death toll at grade crossings would diminsih almost to the vanishing point The o nlyurtobe eoonlyOn234566666 The only trouble is the train has little weight and plenty of time, and can afford to stop. The joy rider is pushed for time and can not afford to stop his cumbersome vehicle.

LET IT GO

So far as we are personally concerned the adopting of the Reese Ferry route for the State Highway suits us all right.

But the old maxim about spending the peoples money to the greatest good to the greatest number certainly met with a Waterloo when that decission was rendered.

The route proposed for the highway now through Autauga is, perhaps, the most sparsely settled section to be found any where in all this section.

On the other hand, the route, on the east side of the L. & N. railroad would have served a section thickly populated all the way and besides, there are about ten little towns that would have received service.

For the reason the decission came as a surprise to us and, knowing the conditions as they do, we are satisfied that the Autauga people are equally surprised at such a sudden change of front by the Commission.

Apparently the State highway is not intended as a convenience to local inhabitans but it primarily for the benefit of the through traveller and tourist.

We had not understood the subject before, but had supposed it would be constructed as a benefit to the largest number of local citizens.

With these new lights on the situation we will never be satisfied now until the road is finally built through Clanton, for we are also liable to be sidetracked if proper inducement can be made to appear for keeping the road on the west side of the railroad all the way.

Henry Ford posses a great ideal of personal popularity, but if he undertakes to form a third party he will fall just like the lamented Roosevelt did in his day.

If you want to sleep good at night and not be troubled with bad dreams, always do right. If you want to be popular and a big fish in the pond, do everybody you can and get rich.

NOTICE TO SENIORS OF CHILTON COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

After consulting the assistant principal, we have decided to give notice to all who expect to finish Chilton county High School next session that no pupil will be allowed to carry more than five courses. This means if you enter school next September with less than eleven units, it will be impossible for you to graduate. Do not get the idea that you can carry five studies in class and then work off one or two by examination. You will not be allowed to get credit on more than five units during the year, in all ways you know how many units work you have. If you do not have eleven, prepare to go to a summer school at some Normal or other standard school. If you can secure any person who has had two or more years of college work to "coach" you on a subject which you have taken in class an entire year, but peradventure did not pass. I will give you an examination the latter part of August to see if you can pass.

The County Superintendent probably has the records for safe keeping. He will tell you, if you are in doubt about your work. See or write him. Records are not to be turned over to me until July 1, but I think you should know now how you stand for next year. Please tell any who might not see this.

ANOTHER WAY TO MAKE MONEY

Dear Editor:—

I wish to say through the columns of your paper that I have made a number of investigations of different things that our farmers here could make money out of by turning a little time and attention that way.

First of all I believe in making a living at home. If we would think more about making a living instead of thinking so much about putting in a big cotton acreage to make lots of money, I am positively sure that we would get along better. Yet it is not best to put the whole crop in beans, potatoes or any other one crop. The only reasonable remedy for the South is diversification.

No living human can tell what the result of a year like this will be. It could be this or that and we should prepare for whatever it may be.

A letter of this kind may seem a bit out of season and yet there is plenty of time for a number of late crops. Most farmers have a field or patch of oats that is now being cleared of its first crop, and a second crop can be made to pay as well or better than the first. This second crop may be peas, beans, or clovers.

Another thing that will make a good crop after oats is broom corn and I might say here that this is one of the things that I have investigated and am fully convinced that we can make some money on the side by growing it. I have talked with a number of farmers here who have grown it on a small scale and they tell me that this soil produced an extra fine grade of broom corn. Reports show that this will be worth about $140 or $150 per ton.

After talking with a number of farmers, who have decided to plant a small acreage in broom corn here this year and build a Broom Factory to manufacture the brooms this fall.

Any farmer who may have some ground not yet planted to something else may plant it in broom corn and be assured of a market for it, or he may plant part of his stubble land for brooms.

Several farmers that I have mentioned this to have agreed to plant from one to three and one-half acres. Twenty-five acres will be enough to demonstrate what can be done along this line. There is one thing I know, the boll weevil will not get your broom corn.

Farmers who have the seed for sale will please bring them to my office in Clanton at once. If you are interested in trying some broom corn and want some seed, please notify me at once.

Yours for Cooperation and Success.

ALABAMA HIGHWAY PROGRESS

State Highway Engineer W. S. Keller recently showed that Alabama is farther along in the road construction program than most persons realize. More than eleven per cent; of the four thousand miles contemplated has ben constructed. and more than fifteen per cent is now under construction. Fourteen per cent additional has been surveyed. leaving approximately fifty-nine per cent to be surveyed The eleven per cent has been built at a cost of four and a half millions estimated for the entire program This is a good showing and indicates the economy and efficiency of the department. To be sure, there is criticism as to the precedence given certain highways over others which some think equally important, but some roads must be built first and the commission must be allowed a certain measure of discretion as to the order in which they are built.

There is general hope on the part of the people that the principal bridges and the trunk highways will be constructed as primary projects, because with such construction completed the branch highways are easily connected up by the various counties and the state working together. The state [illegible] becoming available more rapid than federal funds, and any halt in construction must be laid at adequate appropriations. Undoubtedly [illegible] the most important duties of Alabama's delegation in congress is to urge more liberal federal appropriation for aid to state highway projects, in order that the state may be delivered as promptly as possible from its present bondage of bad roads.—Age-Herald.

WHAT WAS IT?

In the early hours of last Friday night a vivid, vertical light appeared high up in the northern sky. It seemed like a dash of bright star light about 6 or 8 feet long. A second similar phenomina appeared for a few minutes and then faded out.

Some of you wise guys come out of the crack, now and tell us all about it—what it was, where it came from and what calamity it foretells. We await your explanation with proper trepidation.

RAILROADS AND WATERWAYS

Congress has bestowed on the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to make rates on Railroad and Waterways.

The members of that Commission are appointed, not elected.

Congress passed laws and made appropriations to improve Rivers and Harbors and stimulate Water Transportation.

Interchangeable tonage by Rail and River is provided for by law and equipment.

The Interstate Commerce Commission creates Rail rates that consume Rail and River rates, leaving nothing to the River end of transportation.

Consequently, Government owned and operated barges on the Warrior can not pay operating expenses and will probably be discontinued as unprofitable.

All because an appointive Commission is clothed with Plenary Power to control transportation.

Appeals to the Commission is time wasted. Demands on Congress is the only source of remedy.

IN MEMORY OF J. N. WOOLLEY

The Mulberry community has suffered another irreparable loss in the death, last week, of that widely known and popular christian gentleman, Mr. J. N. Woolley which occured last week.

His passing away was a great shock to his many friends, from the fact that he was sick only a day or so before death came. He became ill suddenly on Tuesday. Dr. Hays was called in and, recognizing at once the very serious condition of his patient, advised as speedy an operation as possible. Mr. Woolley was rushed to a Selma hospital and the operation performed, but it came too late and death followed almost immediately.

The deceased was a native of Bibb county, but moved to Chilton about 10 years ago. He leaves a wife and six children, five girls and one son. His daughters are Mrs. John Eddy and Mrs. Martin Walker, of Randolph, Mrs. J. E. Wallace, of Maplesville and Mrs. Span Jones and Miss Belle Woolley of Clanton, Route 7. The son Mr. Horace Woolley, resides in Oregon.

Besides these he leaves two brothers and one sister. He was burried at his old home church. Antioch. in Bibb county.

The deceased was 62 years of age.

The editor of the Chilton County News was personally acquainted with Mr. Woolley and desires to add his testimony as to the splendid worth and chracter of this truly good man. Our heart goes out in sympathy, not only to the sadly bereaved family but also to that excellent community out there which has lost another of its staunchest supporters.

THE DEATH OF MR. J. D. OUSLEY

It was during the quietness and stillness of the early morning hour of May 30, 1923 that our Heavenly Father sent His death Angel to visit the Baptist Hospital of Selma and took away the sweet spirit of our neighbor and friend. Mr. John Ousley who was born Dec. 12, 1854.

All was done that children, doctors and nurses could do but we can only submit to the will of God who wants us to trust and obey.

Mr. Ousley rendered to this community a long life of loving and faithful service ever ready to lend a helping hand when it was necessary.

Mr. Ousley was a member of the Baptist church for 42 years and part of this time he served as deacon. The appreciation of his love was shown in many ways on the day of his funeral by the prenense of so many friends and many beautiful flowers.

The funeral services was conducted by Rev. John Deramus. The scripture readings were from Corrinthains 13 chapter. The body was laid to rest in Alpine Cemetery.

The deceased is survived by seven sons, five daughters, a number of grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters.

We extend our greatest sympathy to the bereaved family and may they find comfort in serving God and preparing to meet their loved one where heartaches and sorrow shall be no more.

Therefore be it resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Alabama Baptist for publicantion.

Mrs. A. B. Jones,
Miss Mamie Walker.

THE THREE MILL TAX

Sure you have read the call for an election for the several districts in the North Eastern part of the county for a special 3 mill tax for these several districts and to combine them into one district to be known as district "A" of Chilton county. This combining of districts into one will in no way affect the running of the schools where now located or will it effect the poll tax or other matters of your several schools, only to give you an additional amount of funds derived from the taxes of the Alabama Power Company, and the L & N R. R. Co., Western Union and Southern Bell Telephone Co.

Schools now located in the territory set out in the call will remain at their present sites and will not have to consolidate with any other school of the said district "A".

We admit the 3 mill tax will apply to you as to every one in the district, but will not be more than you are now paying for incidental fees in many cases. At a number of your schools you are paying a suppliment to the teachers and I feel sure if the 3 mill tax carries you will not have to pay either suppliment or incidental expense at a single school in the combined territory.

Districts now enjoying the use of the 3 mill tax will not have their taxes raised one penny as they are now paying all they can be assessed, and the ones not now getting the benefit, of this will only have to pay 30 cents on each $100.00 of assessed property, yet you will all get the benefit of the taxes paid by the large corporations in this part of the County.

I believe this to be one of the greatest opportunities the people of this district has ever had to improve their schools, have better teachers, better equipment and etc. I trust you will every one go to the election on the 15th and vote to have the tax and thereby open the way to better education for the boys and girls of Chilton County.

Yours for better schools
L. A. CALLAWAY

JEMISON NOTES

Dear Editor:—

Permit me to say just a thing or two about our election we are to have in proposed school district A on June the 15th. I understand there is a report prevalent among some of our people that it means consolidation of our schools. That is a mistake. We people at Jemison have just about completed a building at a cost of about $11,000. If it meant the consolidation of our school with Clanton or any other school, common sense would tell you I would oppose it. I suppose I was the first to advocate the now proposed district. I did that because I felt it unfair for Clanton and a few other schools to share alone the taxes to be derived from Lock 12. I was born and reared in the rural communities and love the people in them and am advocating this plan in order that these people may be helped. The boys and girls in these communitiese are just as bright and deserving as those in any other part of the world and I want them to have a chance to make good.

I trust that every community in the proposed district will vote in favor of this plan. It means better schools.

Montgomery, Ala. May 19th.— Last Saturday, at the Gay Teague Hotel, Montgomery, a large number of Alabama's most representative leaders in business, educational, and religious matters, were present in the Committee meeting of the Alabama Sunday School Council of Christian Education.

A report of the State Convention showed that forty-four Counties and seven States, including Alabama, were represented at Birmingham and the unanimous opinion was that the Fortieth Annual Convention had the best program ever presented in the State. It is estimated that three thousand people witnessed the Pageant, and two thousand were turned away.

Committee on re-organization for the State Association are at work.

The Semi-Annual Executive Committee Meeting was set for October 6th. Tutwiler Hotel, Birmingham.

The Program was adopted for the years work, containing some new and far reaching figures. The community Life Institutes that are to be put on in different counties of the State, will meet a long felt need, and the Committee feels that through the Community Life Institutes a service can be rendered to the Community, County, State and Nation that will be preeminently worthwhile.

WHAT YOUR SCHOOLS TEACH

How do You Like these Sentimonts? Americans Had Better Wake Up

David Hirshfield, Commissioner of accounts in New York, was appointed by Mayor Hylan to examine and report on the histories being taught in our public schools. Here is part of his report.

The commissioner said he found during his lenghty investigation that school children were being taught such misrepresentations as the following:

"That the American revolution was merely a civil war between the English people on both sides of the sea and their German King.

"That the Magna Charta is the real source of our liberties, while the Declaration of Independence exerted no vital force.

"That such patriots as Samuel Adams, John Hancock and Patrick Henry were mere disreputable characters.

"That Thomas Jefferson deserved a halter.

"That Alexander Hamilton denounced the people as a great beast.

"That the United States constitution and most of our free institutions were borrowed from England.

"That the War of 1812 was a mistake,' disgraceful and 'unfortunate.'

"That the Mexican war was a grab for territory.

"That the north saved the union only through England's 'heroic support.

"That our war with Spain was won because the English prevented Germany and all Europe from taking sides against us.

Faneuil Hall, the cradle of liberty

Faneuil Hall, the cradle of liberty," is of no consequence in the histories condemned, the commissioner found, nor is the mutiny act, the stamp act or the Boston massacre.

The commissioner declared that to his mind the gravest menace to the friendship between America and Great Britain lies "in the pernicious and persistent British propaganda in the United States."

OUR HIGH SCHOOL

It is a good time now for us all to wake up and get behind our county High School.

A new term will soon open. The financial conditions will be different and the outlook for the future will be different.

Chilton county has a splendidly equiped grounds and building for carrying forward a great High School enterprise here.

We have a broad field for service and it is up to everyone of us to push our High School to the front.

Every condition is in our favor and all we need is a little earnest and sincere co-operation to place our school in the front ranks as an educational institution in central Alabama.

Prof. Ira Pegues will be in charge this term. We all know him as a faithful, competent and energetic instructor. He has experience and force of chracter sufficient to mould a school system into what it should be.

Let's all get behind the High School and do our level best.

THE CROP CONDITION

We have several reports from almost every section of the county this week and, to our gratification and surprise, the situation does not seem to be as serious on the farms as we had all feared.

True the crops are generally small for the time of year, but since the rain has become more scattered and the sun has got on the job with his mid summer generations in good working order, the general report is that all crops are growing by leaps and bounds.

In most sections the oat crop has been gathered and the yield is reported as fairly good.

The boll weevil is also said to be on hand and is putting in full time in making preparations to assist the cotton crop his full share as the forms appear.

Most anything can happen once, but the South has never made a complete crop failure and, from present indications, she is not going to make one this year. There will be no 13,000,000 bale crop made but what is maed will bring 25 cents or more.

Reports from the farmers are to the effect that the boll weevil is with us in force and just as energetic as of yore.

Up Hill---Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class; you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

HAYS--FLOYD

Popular "Dick" Hays and Lovely Miss Bessie Floyd are made One

On lastMonday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mr. J. Wilburn Hays, of Clanton, and Miss Bessie Floyd, of Clayton Ala., were most happily united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Floyd, Rev. Henry S. Ellison officiating.

The wedding was a quiet home affair with only relatives and a few invited friends present. Mrs J. P. Hays mother of the groom, and Mrs. Grady Broadhead were present from Clanton

The happy groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hays, of our town, and is among the class of young men here who have the esteem and confidence of all who know them.

Everybody in Clanton is Dick's friend, and in consequence, everybody in Clanton is interested in him and his lovely and accomplished bride and if the very best of good wishes can speed them safely along the road to perfect happiness, it can be safely said that their future is destined to be cloudless.

The lovely bride is not an entire stranger to Clanton, having been a most efficient teacher in the city school during the last term, and having won herself many loyal and loving friends here by her inate courtesy and gentleness of disposition, who sincerely rejoice with her in her happiness.

The bridal party were met in Montgomery Monday night by the father of the groom, Dr. J. P. Hays, and toured with him from that city home in his commodious Cadalac, arriving by late bed time.

The young couple will make their home in Clanton and their many friends will welcome them here with gladness.

The Chilton County News desires to extend to them its happiest felicitations and wishes for them a peaceful and joyous voyage through life with just clouds enough to make life's sunset beautiful.

DID YOU EVER TRY IT?

A real good preacher could make up a splendid sermon from that old couplet that says:

"Smile and the world smiles with you, weep and you weep alone."

Did you ever try out that system in your daily life? We have and we know whereof we speak.

Get up in the morning with a frown on your face and a grouch in your heart and start out to make the day. Pour out a calamity tale to every friend you meet, and abuse living conditions and everything else you can think of. Find fault with the whole world and all that is in it. Don't allow a single smile to steal over your countenance, but frown and complain throughout the day, and that night when you go to bed and ruminate back over the events of the day, you will lie awake and wonder why you have not a friend in the world, and you will feel just exactly that way, but you are mistaken. The friends are there all right, but you have allowed yourself to get out of tune Let affliction come into your home and you will find out mighty quick that your friends and neighbors are all right, but the trouble has been with you.

Try it the other way then. Go out in the morning with a smile on your face, a cheerful greeting for those you meet, and your heart filled with kindness to all man kind and see the difference. Before the day is passed you will feel like the world is filled up with good people, that the human heart is brim full of kindness and that this old world is a bully place to live.

That night when you retire and begin to check up in your mind the events of the day, you will be so happy you can hardly go to sleep. You will be at peace with yourself and everybody else. You will actually conclude that you are a pretty good sort because you have so many friends. Contentment and satisfaction will brood over your pillow, and your slumbers will be made delightful by the happy and peaceful dreams that will float by on invisible wings.

If you never have tried this out, begin today. You will live longer and die happier.

Rev. Authur DeLoach, of Vida, was a Clanton visitor last Saturday.

GOING RIGHT AHEAD

Constructing Engineer Price is going right along with the work on the Methodist church building, although the weather conditions have been dead against him ever since he began.

Monday morning he put his brick masons to work on the main walls of the structure and in a few days now the beautiful white brick walls will begin to loom and give one kind of an idea of how massive as well as beautiful the finished work is going to be.

Our good Methodist friends have certainly caught the vision of the future and they are building for the day not far off when Clanton will have a population of 25,000 people.

Their church is going to be large beautiful and modern down to the most minute detail. All of the conveniences and accessories that contribute to a perfectly adapted church building will be incorporated in the construction of their house and when it is completed the larger cities may well look with envious eyes on this stately edifice.

AS JUDGE COUNTY COURT

During the vacation of Probate Judge Reynolds, Attorney Thomas A. Curry has been filling the position of Judge of the county court through the appointment of Chancery Judge Speigner.

He presided at the regular monthly session of that court last week and, from the comments we have heard, he was an emminent success. One thing about him is a certain fact, the law breaker who goes before him need not expect anything but absolute justice. If he is proven guilty he just as well prepare to swallow his medicine.

FOSHEE—WEBB

The many friends of Miss Estelle Webb of Jemison and Mr. L. E. Foshee of Mitchell Dam were surprised recently when they learned that on last Saturday this happy couple were united in the holy bonds of wedlock in the Magic City.

The bride is quite an attractive and accomplished young lady of Jemison who will be greatly missed by the young people of that thriving little city. She has been quite a prominent figure in the social life of her home town. The young people while glad of her marriage will regret to lose her from their midst.

The groom is a prominent young man of many accomplishments having also been in the service of his country during the recent World War. He is the son of our fellow townsman Rev. J. W. Foshee. He has many friends in Clanton and surrounding territory.

The News together with all the host of friend of this popular couple wishes them all the happiness and success that accompanies the voyage of the matrimonial career.

WE SHOULD BE THANKFUL

For the past several weeks hardly a day has passed but what the daily press carried the news of terrible ravages being made by rain, hail and wind storms.

Many deaths have resulted all over the country and untold millions of dollars worth of property have been destroyed. The elements have dealt cruelly with thousands of people and left many of them without even a shelter to put their heads under.

All this time we have been going around daily grumbling and grouching about the excessive and protracted rain fall, without one time broadening our vision to realize the real suffering of others.

Instead of growling about a little too much rain, as we see it, our hearts should be filled with anthems of thank fullness to God, who, in His infinite mercy, has seen fit to guide these terrible storms and cloudbursts away from us and onr loved ones.

Quit grumbling and let your soul sing with gladness for our escape so far.

CLANTON -vs.-PRATTVILLE

Last Thursday afternoon at 3 oclock the lusty swatters from Prattville invaded our town with the full intention of annexing the scalps of our home team binglers.

The artist they put in the box was an old time Clantonite and he was glorying in the prospect of laying low in defeat his former pals up here, but alas, his glory falen for the lusty swatters who lined up before his rapid fire machine eat up his benders just like a child eating candy and called for more.

We all know that Luther Pyron is some classy slab expret, but the bunch Clanton put before him Thursday just naturally carried their batting eye with them and they connected up with the little pill no matter how much stuff it had on it, nor how deceptively erratic it performed.

Clanton had Albert Pyron, brother to the Prattville stemwinder, on the firing line, and those soft easy floaters he served up were more deceptive than the smile of a first grade flapper. The visiting warriors faithfully searched the atmosphere for them and looked greatly surprised when they sawed the ether and found the pellet safe in the hands of Wagoner, the backstop without a single score on the spheroid.

Prattville played good ball but the wonderful fielding put up by Connatser on first, Webb Parrish, on third, Jack Hays, at Short, Rucker Sims in center field, Buck Roberts, in left field, and Tom Mims in right field, together with the safe and skillful work dished out by the battery of Pyron and Wagoner was simply too heavy a load for them to carry.

The indicator was splendidly handled by Burt Higgins, for the plate and Van Smith for the bases.

The final score, after the long nine inning battle, was 10 to 3 in favor of Clanton.

Send after Tallassee, boys and learn them a few things.

SOMETHING NEW

The Marcus Brothers have purchased, and will have installed at once, an automatic refrigating machine for their market that is guaranteed to keep their meats, and other perishable stock at any fixed temperature desired at all times.

It will be electrically operated and will be so adjusted that when ever the temperature goes either below or above the degree desired it will automatically start up or stop itself as the case may be

This is a late improvement in refrigation and enables the retail dealer to take care of his own curing or keeping of meats, and so on

Clanton business men are live and wide awake and no improvement escapes them long.

NO RESULTS

From the best information we can gather the movement inaugurated by the Sunday Schools to secure the closing of all places of business on Sunday failed to reach any results that were satisfactory all round.

When you reduce that apparently simple question down to its final analysis it has as many angles as a modern bungalow

The cow that fell in the ditch on Sunday buts into every effort made along that line. The drug stores are protected behind the very reasonable argument that sudden illness and the immediate necessity for midicine is a splendid excuse for them to be on the job every day.

The man who sells automobile parts gas, oil and etc. has also the ready excuse that the traveller may have trouble on Sunday. His business may be urgent but his car may take out on him and, unless he can get the needed service on Sunday it might force him to make a long wait that might keep him away from the death bed of a loved one, or some other vital appointment.

As for the market man, his presense on the job, for at least an hour or so on Sunday morning, is absolutely essential during the warm weather, if a large per cent of the people are going to be able to have any fresh meat for their Sunday dinner. The person without an ice box cannot keep market meat over to use on Sunday. The large majority of working people do not keep an ice box, still, Sunday is about the only day they have time to get up a square meal and that is their main time for patronizing the market. With the markets closed up they are barred from that Sunday dinner.

So the matter stands. We are not prepared to suggest any better solution of the problem than was contained in the proposal presented by the Sunday School committee, and it failed to meet the unanimous endorsement of the dealers, so there you a e.

Of corse, the State law could be invoked and the sheriff could put on the lid tight all around, but we hope that will not be done, because it is a pity for innocent people to be inconvenienced and, in some instances, perhaps, actually suffer, just because a class of people wish to take advantage of and abuse a privilege that is only intended as a nessary convenience under unavoidable conditions.

Such conditions as these are what brings law enforcement under the ban of public sentiment and are what makes it difficult for the proper officers to enforce the law. In most cases the real intent of all law is good and its observance by the people willingly and peacefully tends to better things, but individuals who take advantage of the law and undertake to make it mean something it was never intended to mean make it necessary for a rigid and vigorous enforcement by the officers and then is when the innocent suffer and the law is made abnoxious, not because it is evil in intent, but because the law violators force a dratic construction of it on the officers and, in controlling the guilty the innocent citizen is bound to feel more or less discommoded and in consequence, the law seems to be a burden instead of a blessing.

FAVORS THE CONVICT LEASE

To the great surprise of a large number of citizens of Alabama, both male and female, Governor Braden has come out flat footed in favor of the convict lease system as it now exists in our state.

We greately fear that our worthy governor is predicating his position on an ideal and not a real conditon. We grant him that possibily the law is so framed and worded that literal construction of it might keep the prisoner always under the care and supervision of the State. On the other hand, the evasion of law has been reduced to a fine art in our day, and in this particular matter, as evasion is easy, convenient and profitable, we feel like the great burden of proof is against the Governor in making up our verdict as to the human desirability of the convict lease system or its abolishment.

One of the greatest surprises to us in the statement of the Governor lies in the fact that he undertakes to prove that life in the mines is one of the safest and most desirable occupations that a person can follow.

Pardon us for a little personal statement in regard to that. For four years we were employed by the Republic Iron and Steel Co., as inside carpenter or "brattice man," at their Sayreton Mine adjacent to North Birmingham. To the credit of that Company we wish to say, that they were uniformly the kindest and most considerate people of their employees we ever worked for in our 15 years experience as a "public worker." They paid us good wages, furnished us with good houses and spared no pains in making the underground work as safe and pleasant as possible.

We doubt if the State works a single convict in a mine where as many safeguards are furnished nor as much expense incurred in keeping the inside of the mine as sanitary as possible and the supply of air as pure and plentiful as they did at Sayreton.

Being surrounded by all of these favorable conditions, a life in the mines at Sayreton surely was as pleasant an existence as one could expect to find any where thousands of feet under ground. We feel like we are a competent witness even to the extent of differing absolutely with our much esteemed Governor in regard to the working conditions.

Every morning as you leave your wife and babies at home you look back and wonder if you will ever see them again, and you see mirrored in the eyes of your wife the same sad and sorrowful foreboding. When you arrive at the "man way" and light your lamp for the 8 or 10 hours plunge into darkness so dense you can feel it, you glance at the early morning sun and your mind whispers the querry, "do you guess you will ever see that sun again?" You take a tacit farewell of all you love and enjoy every working day in the year, and the sadness and sorrow of the parting never grows less on account of its ever recurring repititions.

Then all day long you are immured thousands of feet below the surface of the earth, knowing that only a narrow pathway exists to lead you out in to the sun light again and that an explosion or a sudden cave in can, and often does, close that only avenue of escape and you are left in the bowels of the earth in darkness to die of starvation or strifle on vile air.

These are just a few of the dismal realizations that hover constantly in the mind of the man who toils in the mines. You rarely ever hear the subject mentioned, but let an unusal explosion occur or any disturbance of the air that is not normal and you will see mighty quick what is in the mind of the man who lives under ground.

There is always an ever presena dread of disaster.

Then it does not chime in with the best scientific opinion that a man can enjoy as good health or be in as good physical condition, who spends his days away from the sunshine and pure air as one who gets the benefit of both.

Really we feel like the Governor will have to readjust his view point on this subject.

We will not offer any argument as to the wealth the state can pile up at the expense of these unfortunate creatures. We don't feel like the citizens of Alabama care to put a price in dollars and cents on this humane project. We feel just like any argument that would favor a speculative project by the State, out of even its criminal class, would be untenable and obnoxious to a majority of our best citizens.

THE UNION-BANNER SAYS STRANGE THINGS

Just listen at this bland and honest confession of faith and creed:

When a "Republican" official gets exorbitant laudatory praise in a Democratic newspaper, there is prima facie evidence that there is something rotten somewhere.

Evidently the editor can see no good thing outside the ranks of his own party. We rejoice that the great party to which we belong is neither so narrow nor so prejudiced as that. We have never allowed the great principles for which we stand to become so awfully besmirched with prejudice that we could not tell right from wrong.

We have been speaking kindly of our republican friend, Sheriff Littlejohn recently, not with the most distant idea of prosolyting him to our cause, nor with the very faintest intention of embarrasing him by our commendation, but because he is really doing some very efficient work as the high sheriff of Chilton county and it affords us pleasure to praise where praise is merited even though the object of that praise is a republican. We hope to always be that way too.

THAT SUPREME COURT DESISSION

The mandamus suit before the Supreme Court in regard to the validity of the contest Bond filed by the Democratic party, went against us on a technicality.

Next week we will give you all the facts in the case. At present it is impossible for any one to give out any positive or reliable data further than the above fact. It is yet indefinate whether other steps will be taken.

A SUGGESTION TO OUR FARMERS

We hope our farmer friends will pardon us for butting in, for we have pulled the bell line over a mule many a hot summer day ourself and know how it is.

What we want to suggest right now is this. It is a custom quite generally adhered to by farmers, to lay by their crops on a schedule date, regardless of other conditions. Now, would it not be wise to remember this year that, owing to the excessively wet and backward spring, all crops are at least 30 days behind their normal condition at this time of year and, in consequence, it looks like the proper thing to do would be to move forward the lay by date in the same proportion and cultivate on for the same period over the regular schedule period for stopping.

We have tried it ourself and observed it after that late cultivation is a paying investment anyway. You can combat a drouth better by keeping the soil stirred to a shallow depth than in any other way. Late cultivation keeps the life in the plant and will stimulate it to go on producing much longer than if you cease to cultivate and leave the plant to fight its own way.

This is absolutely true of both cotton and corn, and in fact, of any crop we ever fooled with.

We believe late cultivation this year especially will, perhaps, pay greater dividends than any working you can put out.

WHAT ABOUT CLANTON?

The Calera people are putting on an extensive and intense advertising campaign to boost their town and they are going to build them a city. You just watch them. They are unanimously behind the movement and they are going about it in a business way.

Clanton seems to be asleep at the switch and is not taking proper steps to pick some of the lucious plums that the present wave of progress is handing out.

Our town is growing rapidly in spite of us. What would it do if we were to organize and go after results like Calera has?

Alabama is being intensively advertised right now by several of the big concerns of the state. She is broadly in the lime light and capital and industries are coming this way with a rush.

Calera is awake and is going after her share and unless we get busy and look after our interest, Calera will get all of hers and part of ours.

Are we going to sleep on and allow Calera to wrest from us our title to bring the most important city in Central Alabama?

What about it?

The Darwin evolution theory and the question of the Divinity of Christ are filling hundreds of columns of first page space these days. How ridiculous! Both of those questions were definately and finally settled over 5,000 years ago.

What would a country editor do without friends? Last Friday our special good friend Mr. Tom Pyron, Sr. left at our house a great big basket of garden grown snap beans right off the vine. So, you see, we are still able to work full time on a full "tummy". Thank you Uncle Tom.

Mr. L. M. Lee, of Sampson, Ala., is in our town for the purpose of laying brick on the M. E. Church construction. Mr. Lee was here once before and was one of the brick masons who built our present court house.

There are some things people will not learn. Look at that Atmore bank cashier the other day. He stole $23,000 to speculate in cotton futures and lost it of course. Then he forged a check for $10,000 more to get away on. He got caught and his future is ruined forever. That game has been tried so often and the results have always been the same. It looks like any sane person would have sense enough not to try it on, over and over.

Mr. B. B. Armstrong, of Beat 13, was here last Saturday. Mr. Armstrong is a live and progressive farmer in the northern part of the County.

Misses Maud Wagoner and Lona Thompson are now in the Normal College at Jacksonville, Alabama.

ALABAMA CROP CONDITIONS

One sentence from the current report on Alabama crop conditions submitted by Statistician F. W. Gist outstanders mixed through. After recital of the generally bad crop weather of May, Mr. Gist says:

"Farmers have worked every day possible and for longer hours. Apparently most of the time has been expended on cotton and other crops have suffered." That farmers are doing their level best to meet sacrcity of labor by greater exertion on their part indicates that same sturdiness of character as displayed during the World War when they produced largest crops in the two years of the absence of the troops than had been raised before that. That other crops than cotton have apparently suffered on account of the time devoted to cotton is not so encouraging.

No matter what the price of cotton now, nor the small amount to be found on hand at opening of the new season, and no matter what assurance there may seem to be of good prices for cotton this fall, there is no more escape from the underlying principles of safe farming this year than during any other year. All eggs in one basket is as dangerous with cotton at high price as with cotton at low price. Whatever makes cotton come to market with the producer anxious to realize early on that production because he has little or nothing else for sustenance, tends to marketing of cotton inadvisedly, hurriedly and disastrously. If the cotton producer comes to the fall without crop diversification leading him, the cotton buyer will come that sooner perhaps even than the producer, and there will be that recession of price which is bound to follow an unprotected article.

The crop year is still early and the season a long one. There is time and opportunity for diversification. It is not any more necessary to omit diversification now than it were cotton at ten cents with large surplus expected. It is hoped that Mr. Gist's next report will reveal more attention to all crops —Age Herald.

BRITISH LAW OBSERVANCE

Reports from London say that England will adopt Lady Astor's bill prohibiting the sale of intoxicants to persons under eighteen years of age. If the English enact such a law, they will come pretty near enforcing it. Law enforcement is a widely recognized asset by the British. That is the reason the English people are law observers. Selling intoxicants to minors was unlawful in nearly all American cities. But, like many other laws bearing on the liquor traffic, it was not enforced, and was, consequetnly, not observed. The result was our present form of prohibition. If the American people held law in proper respect they would demand enforcement of every law on the statute books, irrespective of how any individuals may feel about it.—Age Herald.

MESSER LOOSES IN CHILTON CONTEST.

High Court Justifies Refusal of Circuit Clerk To Approve Bond

Montgomery, Ala June 7

Further litigation in the probate judge election contest case in Chilton county was brought to a close Thursday when the supreme court of Alabama reversed the judgment of the trial court and dismissed the original petition for mandamus.

The contest was filed by C. D. Messer against the election of L. H. Reynolds as judge of probate of Chilton county. The contest was filed with M. D. Foshee as clerk of the circuit court. Later when Foshee declined to approve bond offered as security of court until such conditions were fulfilled Messer brought proceedings for issuance of a writ of mandamus to compel Foshee to do so. The lower court rendered a mandamus and Foshee appeared.

It appeared from the records that Foshee required that Messer furnish him with acknowledgement of security of the bond that one of these securities was verified but that the contestant in effect declined to verify the signatures of the others.

The supreme court held that the circuit clerk's position in the matter was arbitrary and that the trial court erred in granting the writ of mandamus.—Age Herald.

WHEN CABINETS RESIGN

It seems that in foreign nations, whenever the action of the ministry is disapproved during a crisis, the ministry resigns and a new one is formed in the very teeth of the emergency. In the United States, on the other hand, the executive must carry on until the end of its term, no matter how greatly the people disapprove of the policy. Ours, after all, is the better way. Here a new administration does not necessarily mean a change of policy on important public matters, while abroad a change in ministry does mean a change in policy, for that is the purpose of the change.

In China, for example, there has recently arisen a critical situation with respect to bandits. These bandits are so numerous as to threaten the very stability of the government itself. The Chinese cabinet has been dealing with the situation and presumably has gained some knowledge and experience from its negotiations. Nevertheless, because of its past mistakes, there has been dissatisfaction, and so, right in the crisis, the cabinet resigns and turns control over to a new and possibly inexperienced body of men, who may or may not have tested and approved ideas as to how to deal with bandits. The new cabinet is in honor bound to differ from the one it supersedes, else there is no excuse for the change. Such a plan makes for instability, and China has already gone far enough in that direction.—Age Herald.

IN TERMS OF BARTER AND TRADE THE FARMER PAYS THE COST

I own and run a farm in Virginia. Just how the farmer today is prospering as against the city laborer the following facts show:

It takes 63 1-2 dozen, or 762 eggs to pay a plasterer for one day of eight hours work.

It takes 17 ¼ bushels of corn, or a year's receipts from half an acre, to pay a bricklayer one day.

It takes twenty-three chickens, weighing three pounds each, to pay a painter for one day's work in New York.

It takes forty-two pounds of butter or the output from fourteen cows, fed and milked for twenty-four hours, to pay a plumber $41 a day. It takes a hog, weighing 175 pounds, representing eight months feeding and care, to pay a carpenter for one day's work.

Who sees the way out?

The city workman's wages must decline or we farmers will stop farming entirely, exactly what most of us are doing.

I have planted my last crop. This year nearly 1,000 goes down in grass, on which I will raise nothing.

I can see only one way out, teach New York hens to lay bricks instead of eggs.—Graham F. Blandy, in the New York Herald.

EFFECT OF NEGRO MIGRATION ON THE SOUTH

Negro labor has been cheap labor, and because it has been congested in the cotton-growing South, it has made cotton a cheap labor crop—and therefore a cheap crop, a low-priced crop. The Negro has lived in a shanty, has gone half clad, poorly fed, and made cotton on this basis, and the white man making cotton had to compete with this sort of cheap labor. It has been a competition as ruinous as that which the white Californians face when incoming Chinese and Japanese with their low living standards began to threaten California with pauper labor and pauperism.

The reason England has not been able to grow cotton in her colonies simply because Southern Negroes and Southern whites, by going poorly housed, poorly clad, and poorly fed have made cotton virtually on a slave wage basis, and therefore cheaper than England could grow it in Africa.

Moreover, a large part of our [illegible] making cotton have not really been farmers, but simply persons eking out existence by getting rations from a store while they helped pile up an over-production of cheap cotton by growing "cotton and nothing else but cotton" to pay for their supplies. No wonder farming hasn't paid. Agriculture has been prostituted to make profits for a mercantile class.

If more Negroes of the "cropper" type go North, it will lessen the production of cotton and boost cotton prices while at the same time making room for more real farmers in the South. The new farmers will grow the hay, meat, lard, canned goods, milk, poultry, cheese, etc. of which we now import so much; will take better care of the soil; and will take more interest in rural social and community life, rural education, and general rural progress. And such a result, as we have said before, will help not only the white farmers of the South, but thrifty and enterprising Negroes also.

CREEKS AND RIVERS AS LINES

Any document that professes to fix or locate a dividing line between either a country, a state or a county that merely refers to some certain creek or river as the line, is absolutely ambiguous in its expression and is meaningless as a discription or disignation of the actual line of demarkation between those two interested localities.

Some people claim that the "center of the stream" is the logical interpertation of a line so fixed.

For various reasons that position is untenable. That is neither a fixed nor definate line, neither can it be. How would you be able to establish the jurisdiction over a crime committed in mid stream when the line would twist and wind around seeking to follow the "center of the stream?" It would be a physical impossibility for any one to establish a real legal jurisdiction and, in consequence, constant friction and legal controversy would result.

Then besides, if it were possible to establish a real geographical line along the "center of the stream," the probability is that before you could have it properly established and advrtised a big freshet would come along the stream would get out of its banks and when it finally receeded to its normal banks, perhaps the mighty tide of water has absolutely changed the flow of the stream and what was once the "center of the stream" might become either margin. A line of that character is obviously impossible.

These are a few facts that our "Boundary Line Committee" would do well to bear in mind. Any law that might undertake to establish the "center of the stream" as a line between Chilton and Coosa counties would be in effect meaningless, and the source of untold trouble and litigation in the years to come.

Our positive opinion is that any fight you may decide to put up on this important question will have to contend for a fixed line that can not move its base every time a big rain occurs in North Alabama.

Our earnest admonition is for you all to go to work intensively right now and build you just as strong a case as you possibly can to lay before the legislature next month, but we feel like that "center of the stream" proposition will injure rather than help your cause.

THAT BOUNDARY LINE

According to call a goodly number of citizens met at the court house last Saturday afternoon and proceeded to form an organization for the purpose of taking care of the Chilton side of the controversy that is pending now between Chilton and Coosa in regard to where the real line is located that divides the two counties.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Joel Gulledge, of Verbena, who was temporary chairman from a former meeting.

Permanent organization was perfected by electing Judge J. W. E. Gulledge as chairman and Col. Percy Pitts as secretary. Col. Grady Reynolds was then elected as vice chairman and the meeting went in to a lengthy discussion of the situation.

On motion of Col. Pitts the chair was empowered to appoint a committee of five to go into the facts and to secure and compile all records on the question.

The chair appointed on this committee, Percy Pitts, Grady Reynolds, Joel Gulledge, J. L. Johnson and J. B. Atkinson.

As this was all of the business that could be effectually attended to at this meeting, adjournment was had subject to call of the chairman.

The machinations of the law these days is so mysterious and past finding out that no telling what may be the ultimate outcome of this matter, so it behoovs this committee to prepare their case carefully, and, above all things, legally.

BAZER—PINSON

On June 6th, a wedding of more than usual interest occured at Oxford, Ala., when Mr. B. F. Bazer of Clanton and Miss Rena Pinson of that city were united in marriage.

Mr. Bazer for more than two years has been in Clanton engaged in business for the cocacola company. Since coming here he has made many friends. He is a young man of high ideals and sterling worth.

Miss Pinson has been engaged in the teaching profession for some time. She has made a study of primary teaching. She taught here for the past year and is rated as one of the best primary teachers that has ever taught in Clanton. She is the well educated and accomplished daughter of Mr. R. T. Pinson of Oxford.

Mr. Bazer has accepted a position at Lock 12 in this county. Their many friends in Clanton and Chilton county are glad to know that they will live in this county.

IN MEMORY

On last Wednesday evening about five o'clock the Death Angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Chandler and took from them little Rayford. He had been sick about two weeks. He was taken with measles which was followed with colitis and pneumonia. Every thing that loving hands could do was done to restore his health but it was all in vain. We know by the ties of nature that it is hard to give him up but our loss is heaven's gain.

Little Rayford was two years and three months old. He left a twin brother. It makes our heart ache to look at little Buford for they had never been separated until death claimed Rayford. Dear parents, we will not ask you not to grieve after your loved one for we know it is almost impossible but it gives comfort to read where Christ said: Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

He was laid to rest on Thursday p. m. in Bethany cemetery. Bro Joe Rains conducting the services.

WHERE THE SOUTH LED

There is no available record of those great things originated or first appreciated in the South. Text-books used in schools constitute the basis of information that reaches the people. The text-books are often inaccurate, not so much from misstatement of facts, but from failure to state facts of value easily obtained

Among the many things originated in or appeared in the South may be named the following:

The first steam ship to cross the Atlantic started from Savannah.

The first commercial electric street car line was operated in the South.

The first self-b-inding reaper was made by McCommick, a Virginian.

The first patent for a locomotive came from the South.

The first manufacture of glass was in the South.

The first artificial ice was produced by a Southern man.

The first American locomotive built in an American shop was built for a South Carolina railroad.

Commodore Maury, a Virginian, was the first to chart oceans.

The Weather Bureau originated in the South.

The Gatlin Gun came from the South.

Extracting oil from cotton seed began in the South.

The first iron ore mined in the United States was mined in the South.

The first law to abolish slavery was offered in the South.

The first Orphan Asylum in the United States was built in the South.

The first Industrial School for Girls was built in the South.

The inventor or anesthesia was a son of the South.

The cause for yellow fever was a discovery by a Southern man.

The above is far from complete, even on the subjects touched. How many subjects are not touched that should be, no one knows.

It would be interesting, it would be valuable for Bureaus of Archives and History in the Southern States to gather such facts, authenticate them and insist they be presented as a primary text-book in all public schools.— Alabama Traveller.

ANOTHER BIG JOB

A permit has been obtained and work will be under way by the 15, of June on another great hydro-electric dam at Cherokee Bluff, on the Tallapoosa rive, under the auspices of the Alabama Power Company.

This dam will not only augment the electric power development in the state by something like 125,000 horsepower, but will also serve as a resovior or storage basin whereby, in times of freshets the water of the river can be controlled and the large farming lands below can be protected from the sudden overflow that heretofore have been so frequent and disastorus to that wonderfully fertile region.

The march of real progress in our state goes steadily onward and, to our mind, these hanressing of the wasted waters of our state and putting them into active and valuable service of the public is a most decided step in that onward stride.

Further Exposures of How Edison-Ford Money Plan Would Fail to Aid Farmer.

The way the Edison-Ford "commodity money" scheme, aimed to stabilize monetary values, would have exactly the opposite effect, is discussed in the present article, which is the second in a series prepared by the American Bankers Association, reviewing the exposure of the weaknesses of the plan as presented by William T. Foster, Director of the Pollack Foundation for Economic Research.

Briefly stated, the Edison-Ford plan provides for Government warehousing of basic commodities, against which currency would be loaned to the producer without interest, up to half the average value of the products for the previous twenty-five years. This currency would be cancelled as the commodities were withdrawn and passed into trade. On the other half of the value the producer would receive "equity certificates" which he could sell or use for bank loans. On these points Mr. Foster says:

Upsetting Price Equilibrium

"Steady price levels depend mainly on the balance between the volume of goods on the market and the volume of money offered for goods. The Edison plan is designed expressly to upset the balance. A farmer delivers, say, two thousand bushels of wheat to the Goverment warehouse and the Government delivers one thousand dollars in new money to the farmer. When the farmer sells the wheat he repays the loan and the Government destroys the money. Thus the volume of money is increased precisely when goods are stored; and the volume of money is decreased precisely when these goods are marketed. In other words, each transaction begins by placing in circulation goods without money to match the goods. Dollar demand is created as the supply of goods is withdrawn; the supply of goods is created as dollar demand is withdrawn.

"Would it enable the farmer to borrow more money on his products than he can now borrow? When Mr. Edison contends that farmers would obtain larger loans on their crops than they can now obtain from banks, he is confronted by this dilemma: Either the banks are now refusing to make sound loans, or, under the Edison plan, the Government would make unsound loans.

"Neither Mr. Edison nor Mr. Ford can consistentuly contend that banks now refuse to make sound loans, for that is the way banks make most of their profits, and Mr. Edison and Mr. Ford have no doubt that banks are conducted for profit. It follows that the plan would yield larger loans to farmers only if the Government met the risks of unsound banking. In that case all that insolvent borrowers gained would be paid by the rest of the population, which, to say the least, is not a fair deal.

Cutting Down Farm Credit

"Apparently, however, the Government is not expected to run many risks, for the farmer is allowed to borrow an amount no greater than one-half the average value of his product for the previous twenty-five years. But prices have risen so high since 1896 that the farmer could borrow on most products much less than half the present value of the products. It would be much less, therefore, than the farmer could borrow directly from the banks on graded products; on products not graded no Government loans would be made, for there would be no way of determining the twenty-five-year price average.

"However, the farmer, having obtained the stipulated Government loan on his goods, could then offer his equity certificate to a bank for an additional loan. But the equity certificate is virtually a second mortgage, and no bank would prefer a second mortgage to a first mortgage.

"Suppose the Old National Bank was willing to lend a farmer eight hundred dollars on one thousand bushels of wheat. Suppose, however, the farmer deposited the wheat in a Federal warehouse and obtained five hundred dollars from the Government. Certainly the bank would not lend the farmer three hundred dollars on the equity certificate. The protection of the bank would be greater if the farmer relied on the bank for the entire loan; for in that case the bank could realize on its security without being obliged to pay five hundred dollars to get the wheat out of Government storage. The farmer can now borrow more money from a bank on standardized farm products than under the Edison plan."

GETTING TOGETHER

"The earth and the fullness thereof" is the primary source of capital. The farmer, therefore, is the nation's greatest producer of wealth. Farming and banking—production and distribution—should go hand in hand. The problems of the farmer are the problems of the banker. Both are vitally concerned in bringing about a proper adjustment of transportation and marketing costs. The increasing tendency toward a more sympathetic understanding of each other's relation to these problems is one of the very encouraging signs of the times and will result in further advancement of their mutual interests.—Walter W. Head, First Vice President American Bankers Association.

He is looking fine since his outing and reports a most splendid trip.

MR. J. O. JEFFERIES DEAD

Mr. J. O. Jefferies, who has resided for many years near Jemison, was buried last Friday in the Jemison cemetery, with Masonic honors. Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, preached the funeral.

Mr. Jefferies had lived out his full three score and ten and more. He was born in 1842 and was at the ripe age 81 at the time of his death.

The deceased was a consistent member of the Methodist church and had spent a most exemplary life. He was also a Mason of long standing and his brethern assembled and put him away with all of the beautiful and solemn rites and honors of that honored fraternity.

Mr. Jefferies will be sadly missed and mourned in that community and the Chilton County News would extend its most earnest sympathy to all of those who are saddened by his passing away.

ICE CREAM SUPPER

There will be an Ice Cream Supper at the home of Mr. John Sexton, Saturday night, before the fourth Sunday in June, being the 24.

Old and young are invited. The proceeds will go to buy lights for Mt. Carmel church.

Come and have a good time and help in a good cause.

STILL BUILDING

Mr. B. F. Higgins is bound to build up North Clanton. He has just completed four nice bungalows and has let the contract to Farley and Huckabee for the erection of still another.

That is a choice section of the city and money put in to good dwellings up there is well and profitably spent.

I wish to announce that when the Registration books are opened I hope that every person in the county who is qualified to register will come forward and get on the list.

Up Hill--Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class; you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

BE TRUE SPORTSMAN

Life itself is a game and no individual can expect a real success of his part in that game unless he is enough of a sportsman to accept reverses and disappointments with a good grace and keep up the fight, with even more vim and energy than before. Spring would be but gloomy weather if we had none else than Spring.

A life filled with an unvarying measure of success and gratification would be nice for a while, but it would finally grow terribly monotous and an insipid proposition if we did not have an occassional reverse to brace us up and make us really appreciate the periods of easy sailing. It takes a dash of hard luck, now and then, to season the dish and make us truly recognize the value of being careful and watchful of our step.

Every different phase of life is governed by the same rule. Too much continued success in business begets carelessness and that invites ruin.

So it is in the games we play. A foot ball or base ball team that can not good humoredly assimilate a certain amount of defeats is a long ways from being an efficient and sports manlike organization. The capacity for taking as well as giving punishment is one of the prime essentials of a good team.

If luck breaks against you at times, or you happen to fall into the hands of an unfair umpire, the proper thing to do is keep your temper, play harder and show yourselves up as true gentlemen of sport, and, even a game like that, when it has been lost, will live in the minds of the fans and they will nine times out of ten be in sympathy with the loser.

It is much more creditable to lose and retain your good humor and pleasant demeanor all the way through than it is to bluster and brow beat your way into a victory.

That is the way the successfull man plays the game of life.

CARD OF THANKS

The following children of Mr. J. O. Jefferies who recently died at the home of his daughter, in Birmingham, wish to extend their most sincere thanks to the many neighbors and friends who were so uniformly kind to us in our sad bereavement. We also are deeply grateful for the beautiful floral offerings that were sent in.

May God bless you every one.

CHILTON COUNTY DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETS

Last Friday afternoon pursuant to call, the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee met in the parlors of the Wilson Hotel at 2 o'clock.

A good attendance was present and much interest and enthusiasm was manifested.

Several matters of prime importance were discussed and plans were formulated and proper committees appointed to arrange an aggressive policy for the future.

There seems to be no let up on the part of the party leaders from all over the county in their determination to keep up the fight and to carry the great work begun in Chilton county on to an ultimate success.

If the spirit manifested in this meeting is not allowed to wane victory for democracy is certain and sure in the very near future.

OUR MISTAKE

Last week we mentioned the fact that we had seen no plums this year and thought, perhaps, the rain had washed them away.

We were mistaken, for our good friend Mr. W. M. Smith brought us a box of splendid ones Saturday and we are now convinced that there are at least some very fine ones this year. We certainly are grateful to Mr. Smith for the treat, and may his shadow never grow less.

WE THANK HIM

The thanks of the editor and family are extended to Dr Hance Alred for some of the finest pole beans we ever saw.

They were young, tender and crisp and averaged 10 inches in length. He is not only a first class druggist, but evidently he is some pumpkin as a gardner.

MR. JAMES CULP BURIED

Last Sunday a. m. at 11 o'clock, Rev. C. D. Messer preached the funeral of Mr. James Culp, who was burried that day at the Concord cemetery.

The deceased was about 85 years of age and was for many long years a prominent and leading spirit of that community. He had many warm friends whose presence at the funeral testified to the sincerity of their sentiments.

Mr. Culp was for a long number of years an active and consistent member of the Protestant Methodist church, and that congregation at Concord will especially miss the guiding and encouragement of his presence.

The Chilton County News extends sympathy and condolence to these bereaved relatives and friends.

Earl Gore has returned from Bell Buckle, Tennessee where he has completed freshman and sophmore years. This is one of the very best prepratory schools in the South and we are highly pleased to see Earl mastering his work in a school of such an excellent standing.

THINK OF IT

The greatest being who ever left His footprints on the sands of time in this little world was the Savior. Imbued with not only a bright human mentality He also possessed a divine vision and the precepts He taught carry with them the absolute brand of truth and everlasting finality.

His teachings all the way through are full of the idea that you can not "get on the fence" on the vital question of life and amount to anything

There is no half way ground possible. You are forced to be either for or against an issue. Your passive neutrality on a question positively allignes you against that particular issue.

The man who is afraid to espouse a cause, for policy sake or business reasons may feel all right about it but he is a long ways from being 100 per cent true to his convictions.

The real live man makes up his mind as to where he stands, and then he puts his energy and influence into a fight for what he conceives to be right.

In your church, in your community affairs, in your interest in good government, alike for your country, your State, your county and your town, it is a grave mistake for any one to "hide their light under a bushel" and try to soft pedal along in sympathy with both sides and every issue that may arise.

It can't be done and your bootlicking policy only tends to win for you the contempt of all parties. You are considered "a clean chip in mush, neither here nor there."

It is an undisputed principle, and it is world wide, that the honest, fearless man, who is neither ashamed nor afraid to publicly stand by his honest convictions, always has the respect of both sides. It is a fixed attribute of human nature to esteem and respect a real clean, fearless man of convictions, even though we may differ with him.

Business boycotts are not only viciously unlawful they always back fire and injure the party or parties who attempt to put them over.

The unfailing maxim of success is to deal honest, fair and square with your fellow man. Do this and you need not fear the result.

LEAVES FROM ANANIAS DIARY

A few years ago John Purcell claimed to have experienced an almost miraculous cure of a chronic liver complaint in consequence of the use of waters of a mineral spring he had located on his farm in the Nubbin Ridge section. Last week Mr. Purcell died but to the amazement of the attending physicians his liver continued to perform its customary functions so that it has become necessary to take it out and kill it with a club.

This has been the longest drouth ever known in this section. I have just come in on a boat down the Missouri River and it was so dusty you couldn't see the front end of the boat from the hind end. My mouth got so much dust and grit in it that I could strike a match on the roof of my mouth. Of course the river was running all the time but, you see, the water got so dry that it just naturally turned to dust. At one place the boat got stuck in fifteen feet water that was so dry and dusty that the wheel couldn't turn, so we had to hire a farmer to haul fresh well water fifteen miles, to mix with the river water until it was thin enough to run the boat through—Miss Mary Kelly.

COMING BALL GAMES

The Clanton Ball team is scheduled ahead for two star games on the home field.

The first game will be with the strong, hard hitting Billingsley team, who already have a number of scalps at their belt, and are coming up here flushed with victories and confident of annexing the scalp of our boys to the lusty bunch they have already acquired.

This is going to be a hair raiser from start to finish and will be pulled off at Polks Park on the afternoon of June 22

Stick a pin in your calandar so you wont forget to go down and witness this hot contest.

Then on June 26 the Tallassee war horses are going to come over intent on rubbing in, good and deep, the drubbing they gave our boys on their recent visit over here.

You can't afford to miss this game on no account. Our boys have got revenge twisted up in every bat and they intend to humble these chesty mill town boys on the 26.

Tallassee is our legitimate meat and we all want to see them get a good dose of the same medicine they gave our boys before. We just naturally got to beat 'em, so be on hand to help root.

The biggest ball days this month will be June 22 and 26. Get your quarter ready and be on hand

YOUR OPPORTUNITY AND YOUR DUTY

As you all know, the Registration books will be open at the Court House in Clanton from July 7 to July 18.

This is fair warning and the republican party will take advantage of this opportunity to strengthen their ranks. They always do, and in that they show much more interest in their party and much better judgement than the democrats have ever done heretofore.

In consequence their party is always organized and always ready to make the fight at the polls when election day comes around.

Quite the reverse is true with us. We drift along and let matters go as they will and then, a few days before the election we wake up and make a terrible fight, but we have always lost because we did not work at the proper time.

We hear of no concerted effort now being made to improve this approaching oppertunity to build up our ranks.

Does this method appeal to any of you democrats as being wise? Is it good policy to win with? Can you ever expect to take over the affairs of your county if you just drift along and make no effort for success?

Now is the time to do effective work and the opposition know it and they always take advantage of it.

We have plenty of democrats in Chilton county to win every election that comes up, but the trouble is they have been careless and the party has been too indolent to wake them up to their duty.

Some time another election will come. The registration books will be closed and you will be left out again to mourn over your lost opportunity. We saw plenty of men and women in that fix at the last election. Why will you let it happen again?

Make a sacrifice, if it takes that, to get yourself in line now. Don't put it off. Be a real man, a real woman and qualify to exercise all of your rights as an American citizen. Won't you do it?

That is the way, and the only way for the democratic party of Chilton county to come into its own.

Register this time if it stops the plow and takes the hair.

It may be merely a coincidence, but when a rich man and a poor one get in to ligigation the rich man usually gets the decission. The courts seem to presume that the rich man is always right.

That question of "contempt of court" needs making over. The courts are using it over time these days. When so many courts are manifestly in fair and subject to contempt, why not allow a man to say so? He thinks it all the same.

WHY NOT PRINT THE TRUTH?

We can hardly say whether a sublime ignorance of the facts in the case, or apure mendacious desire to mislead the people prompted the editor of the Union-Banner last week in making the statement that the decision of the Supreme Court on the famous mandamus suit had any relation whatever to the merits of the contest case, or the most remote bearing on the fairness and justice of that suit.

Surely the editor of the Union-Banner is not so woefully misinformed and so fearfully out of touch with the real cause of that Mandamus suit that he would, in all honesty and soberness, attempt to hoodwink and fool his readers into a belief that the Supreme Court had indeed passed on the contest proper.

It is known of all people, who know anything about the matter at all, that the only phase of the case that was appealed to the Supreme Court was the refusal of Clerk Foshee to accept the bond for cost as tendered and that there was not the most remote connection with that refusal of his and the real contest. Furthermore it is known by every one in the county, except, perhaps, the editor of the Union-Banner, that not a word of evidence relating to the contest was submitted to the Supreme Court, neither could it be, for that case had never been tried in court and, until it had, the Supreme Court did not have any jurisdiction, even had they so desired, to hear that case.

That the editor of the Union-Banner may get his facts correct, we will state the case that was passed on by the Supreme Court.

When it was decided to contest the election it was necessary to file that suit in the Circuit Court. To do that a sufficient bond for the probable costs had to be made. This was done but owing to some inadvertance of the Messer attorneys they failed to have that bond properly and legally certified. The Clerk, at the very last minute, put one over them by refusing to accept the bond until it was certified. They did not have time then, before the legal period for filing the suit expired, to go back and have each signer of the bond to certify to his signature, so the Clerk refused to file the suit.

Then the Messer attorneys went in to the Circuit court before Judge McMorris, and sued out a writ of mandamus compelling the Clerk to accept the bond. They gained their case and Judge McMorris issued the writ ordering the Clerk to accept the bond. On this judgement the Clerk appealed to the Supreme Court and the Supreme Court sustained his contention, and held that he had the right to refuse the bond because it was not certified.

Now, that is the whole case in a nut shell and there is no possible connection between the decision of the Supreme Court and the merits of the contest election.

Still, the editor of the Union-Banner would try to make his readers believe that the Contest was decided against us and that we had no grounds upon which to sustain our case, and that democrats are always trying to hoodoo or swindle somebody out of something. That kind of silly twaddle has been played upon by the local republican party until it is wonderful that all of the intelligent people of that party don't become so disgusted that they would repudiate the whole thing.

The editor of the Union-Banner certainly offers a direct insult and a personal reflection upon the intelligence of his readers when he undertakes to ram such palpable misreepresentation as the article refered to down their throats.

A SURE FACT

No matter what the circumstances may be, nor what the issues are, we all possess one inaleniable right in this great country. That is we have a perfect right to our own opinion, and the expression thereof, if we see fit, just so long as we do not engage in defamatory nor treasonable propaganda.

We have no right under high heaven to fall out nor to abuse each other because our opinions differ on subjects, methods and creeds.

No one person nor organization has a patent right on individual liberty.

For instance we are democratic from the sole of our feet to the crown of our head and we are that way, not as a matter of policy, but because the doctrines espoused by the Democratic party are the only ones that line up, fair and square, with the principles our forefathers fought for and incorporated in the great Magna Charter of our liberties.

Not only that, but the principles enunciated and contended for by the Democratic party are the only ones that even pretend to guarantee any recognition or assistance to the man who labors.

We have our own good and sufficient reasons for this faith that is within us and no man has a right to deny us the privilege of a full and free enjoyment of and expression of them.

We have friends who differ with us and cling to a faith that, to us, looks dangerous and vicious, still there is no real cause for personal enmity between us.

We are both merely exercising our personal right as a free American citizen. It is a great pity and a genuine reflection on the intelligence of any person who is so narrow minded that he can not freely and conscientiously grant to others the national prerogactive he claims for himself.

People like that are more to be pitied than blamed. Their mentality has been sadly dwarfed and they do not measure up to the full standard to make a real man.

Think this matter over soberly and see if you can not see the force of real truth If you cherish prejudice against the man who presumes to differ with you, in either civil, religious or political creed, try to realize how small and narrow minded you are in your soul and go to work on the moment in an attempt to cleanse and purify your conception of fairness and right, and ask God to help you cast out such an unworthy and wicked sentiment from your mind and soul.

Be honorable, be fair, be upright, be honest, be conservative, be clean, be a real man or woman and try to remember, and live up to the Golden Rule.

HARTFORD CHURCH HAS FIRST SERVICE

Hartford, Ala June 17—Special to the Advertises.— The Methodist congregation observed home coming day in their new church edifice at an all day meeting Sunday. It was the first service in the main auditorium.

Rev. G. C. Simpson, a former pastor, preached at eleven oclock. Rev. J. F. Bilbro of Fort Deposit, a former pastor, preached afternoon and night.

The choir rendered special music at all hte services and did credit to itself and the whole congregation. All three sermons were appropriate and pronounced of an inspiring nature.

The pastor, Rev. T. G. Jones, presided at all the meetings. The afternoon service was featured by short talks by former pastors and old friends and the singing of old favorite hymns selected by the congregation. Special solos were rendered by Miss Leta Mae Jerkins, Miss Elva Holman and Miss Nellie Windham. Mrs. W. S. Chancy, the regular organist, presided at the piano.

The ladies of the church prepared and served a bountiful and delicious dinner in the basement to the large crowd. A concourse of people was present from the town and surrounding country and numbers of visitors from Dothan, Samson, Opp, Enterprise Geneva and other points. It was the greatest day ever seen in the history of Hartford. The new church building, which is a model of convenience and beauty is attracting attention throughout this section of the state. It was built by W. S. Price of Ozark, Alabama.—Advertiser

The above celebration has rather a local interest for us, for the reason that Architect W. S. Price, who designed and built this splendid building at Hartford, is now engaged in erecting, from his own designs, the beautiful new Methodist church now in process of construction here.

Two of the preachers who officiated at this meeting in Hartford are former Clanton pastors, namely, Rev. I. F. Bilbro and T. G. Jones. Many of our citizens still remember them pleasantly here

Mr. J. L. Johnson, formerly with the Chilton County News, attended this Hartford service, going down from here with Architect Price for that occassion.

He is enthusiastic in his praise of the elegance and convenient construction of the building and says it is a perfect dream of architecnal beauty

One entirely new feature of the church is its accoutistic arrangement, an audiphone construction in rear of the pulpit and choir stand making even a whisper audible all over the auditorium.

SOUTH'S HIGHEST DAM WILL GENERATE 132,000 HORSEPOWER

...WER COMPANY TO BUILD $100,000,000 ...RO-ELECTRIC PROJECT AT CHEROKEE BLUFFS

..., Ala., June 15—Special. ...largest, if not the largest, ... dams in the entire South ...tructed at once at Chero... on the Tallapoosa River.

...development calls for the ex...uiture of $10,000,000, and the dam ...hich will be 120 feet high and 800 feet long will have an ultimate capacity of 132,000 horsepower.

Authority for the construction of this dam and the power plant has been granted by the Federal Power Commission to the Alabama Power Company. President Thomas W. Martin announced Thursday afternoon that work would begin at once.

His announcement followed the issuance of an order by the Alabama Public Service Commission approving a contract between the Alabama Power Company and the Mount Vernon Woodberry Mills Company for the use of the surplus water at the site of the Mills Company plant at Tallassee Falls, this development to be made as a part of the Cherokee Bluffs development.

The building of the dam at Cherokee Bluffs will put the Alabama Power Company on the top of all ... connection this development it is of large interest to Alabama that an added benefit will be derived in the regulation of water flow in the Alabama river, increasing navigation facilities as well as regulating overflow of water on lowlands about Montgomery.

O. G. Thurlow, Chief Engineer of Alabama Power Company and its subsidiary, the Dixie Construction Company estimates that it will require over two and one-half years to complete construction.

Approximately 200,000 cubic yards of concrete will be used in the dam and power house and the largest body of water in the state will be formed when a reservoir of 22,500 acres containing 25,000,000,000 cubic feet of water is back up by the dam.

Mr. Thurlow stated that the structure would be of a type popular in the Western States, but little used in this section. The power house will be built below the dam instead of as an integral portion or on the up-stream side and the water will be conducted to the wheels through penstocks leading from the dam above. Three units, generating 44,000 horsepower each, the largest in the United States, are to be installed.

A thoroughly modern and sanitary camp will be built at the site to house employes and their families, and accommodations for a minimum of 3,000 will be provided. A water supply system with modern filtering plant and sewerage connections will be built, as well as a model hospital, recreation hall, motion picture show, commissary and the like, making up a modern village in every detail. The men will be fed by the company in large mess halls under the direction of competent ex-army stewards.

Mr. Martin stated that the Power company would employ the same practice as during the construction of Lock 12 and Mitchell Dam, purchasing all supplies, equipment and material in Alabama as far as possible. He regards the beginning of this work as a wise move since much of the equipment used in building Mitchell Dam can be transported to Cherokee Bluffs, saving it from deterioration through idleness. The nucleus of the executive force who built Mitchell Dam has been retained and will be used as a founda...ion upon which to build the new organization.

Cherokee Bluffs is in the center of a triangle formed by Montgomery Alexander City and Dadeville. Since the average daily payroll during the period of actual construction will amount to over $4,000 the merchants of these places will felicitate themselves upon their geographical good fortune.

President Martin's statement follows:

"Under the terms of a license just granted by the Federal Power Commission, we will begin construction immediately of a hydro-electric development on the Tallapoosa river at the site known as Cherokee Bluffs, about twelve miles from Dadeville, in Tallapoosa and Elmore counties, the cost to be approximately ten million dollars. The plant will have an initial installation of about 88 thousand horsepower, and provision will be made for a total installation of one hundred and thirty-two thousand horsepower. The dam will be one hundred and twenty feet high, and will contain approximately two hundred thousand cubic yards of masonry and the work will require about thirty months to complete.

"The Tallapoosa river is a non-navigable stream, and with the Coosa forms the Alabama river near Montgomery. On account of its relation to navigation on the Alabama river, the Federal Government has, therefore, assumed jurisdiction of this power development. Provision will be made for storing flood waters and the plant will be operated in conjunction with other power developments of the company in the same region, so as to use the stored waters in times of drought and thus secure the largest possible benefit from the water storage. This plan of coordinating the several projects in different watersheds will develop, conserve and utilize the navigation and water power resources of the region to the greatest advantage; and as the stored water is released in times of drought, it will thus have the effect of increasing the minimum flow of water in the Alabama river for navigation purposes. When the project is completed it will be possible to have four and one-half foot navigation on the Alabama river up to Montgomery throughout the year.

"Another important benefit from the development will be that the storage reservoirs included in this development will also have an important effect in minimizing the flood damage to the bottom lands along the Tallapoosa and Alabama rivers.

"This development will not only improve the service throughout the power system of the company, but will make available a large additional volume of power. This will enable the company to further meet the industrial needs of the state as well as supplying lighting and power service in many comunities which have requested service from the company.

"We are pleased to make this announcement just at this time when other power companies in some sections of the South are suspending development.

"The power requirements upon our system before the Cherokee Bluffs development when completed will be larger than can be supplied from our present hydro and steam plants and we hope, therefore, to go forward with other developments which can be completed in much shorter time, and the construction of these several developments will, we believe, attract many industries to the state which under different circumstances would locate elsewhere.

"In accordance with the company's policy, all material and supplies will be purchased within the state so far as available."

HOME CAPITAL

Large cotton mills at Montgomery and Mobile have changed hands recently, the two deals involving more than a million dollars. In each instance they were made by Sothern captialists which is the more significant than had they been taken over by Northern interests. Alabama wants outside money and welcomes investment by the outsider, but the greatest of achievements industrially and commercially is when her own people are able to swing these big deals with their own brains and their own money. Investment of home money in established home institutions and industries is the acid test. It shows that the industry is a successful one and shows also that Alabamians have so well conducted their affairs that there is a surplus money in this state for taking over, improving and enlarging established and successful industries, and founding and building new ones.

Numbers of cotton mills deals have every field of effort. In the matter of the cotton mills it is encouraging to realize that Alabamians have seen their opportunity and have been taking over a good thing before outsiders grabbed it. There is plenty of room left for the outsider and he will come the sooner because he senses our appreciation of our own opportunities. Capital likes to enter such atmosphere. —Age-Herald—Editorial.

TO THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY

One hundred and [illegible] ago a new star was placed on Old Glory and this fair state of Alabama became the [illegible] state in the greatest republic [illegible] the greatest [illegible] under God's heaven. From that day on with the citizenship bound together by a bond of common interests [illegible] has progressed until today she bids fair to be the greatest state in the union.

The stupendous growth of this section of the great South has indeed nullified all calculations of time and over turned all estimates of place and endeavor.

Where hamlets stood yesterday queenly [illegible] in opulence and industrial giants of the business world have replaced the commercial agencies to justify the pride of their founders. Natural resources unknown a few years ago now abound, bringing untold wealth and treasure. The then scattered farms, orchards, vineyards and truck patches have developed into marvelous estate and the world, so to speak, now feeds from the hands of this great empire of the Southland.

In the very heart of this wonderful transformation lies Chilton County.

So great and upon such a stupendous scale has been this development that some of the vital factors of human life [illegible] agencies which are the foundation of genuine progress have been overlooked and now struggle in the background unabled to keep step with the triumphal march of progress.

Outstanding among these backward elements of strength is civic, commercial, industrial and agricultural organization shackled with the chains of insufficient leadership, equipment and endowment. The public mind once aroused by this humiliating spectacle [illegible] its first [illegible] in the organization of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce and the United Farmers of America in Chilton County. These organizations are the foundation upon which a greater and better community can be built.

The next imperative and logical step is the organization of a county wide Chamber of Commerce. The need of such an organization is very apparent to all of us. We need better roads, better farms, more modern school facilities, better churches, more industrial and manufacturing plants, better marketing facilities and last but not least better citizens. In fact our needs are legion. The experience of other communities situated similarly to ours has demonstrated that we can obtain these things by intelligent cooperation. For the purpose of discussing these matters and deciding upon the best means of attaining these much desired objects we mus have a formal organization that will bring together every element of civic, commercial, industrial and agricultural strength in the county. This organization should stand preeminently for the improvement of the commercial, civic, industrial and agricultural conditions of the county. The upbuilding of the good will between men in business in the town, and villages and the agricultural interest, and the creation of and understanding of the different methods employed in the successful pursuit of each endeavor.

In the past men have kept themselves in ignorance regarding business other than their own, so that all kinds of jealousies spring up and it is quite a common thing for merchants to condemn a farmer for highway robbery and profiteering when he is charged a $1.50 for a bushel of potatoes or corn, and a farmer to condemn a merchant for the same thing when he is asked to pay 35c a yeard for calico.

These differences of opinion are largely the result of ignorance that can readily be overcome by a closer association fostered by a county wide Chamber of Commerce. To help solve the community problems should be one of the aims of a county-wide Chamber of Commerce. For only when the community grows and prospers does the business of that community grow and prosper, be it merchandising, farming, poultry raising or hoot blacking.

To accomplish the desired results set out in this article it would require concerted action by large numbers. Small and limited plans and activities should have no part in this program. The leadership under whose auspices the work should be done should measure up in every respect to the aims and ideals of such a movement. But Chilton county has this leadership and it is with this knowledge and with the hope that it may be enlisted with the support and influence of other leaders to the end that success may displace failure and happiness transplant sorrow, I submit this article for your consideration.

Respectfully yours.

MR. WILL WATSON HURT

Bright and soon last Thursday morning Mr. Will Watson happened to a very serious accident.

He had gone out in the woods to cut some saw mill logs. In falling a tree it kicked back off the stump and broke his leg, also painfully lacerating the limb.

He was rushed to the hospital and his wounds attended to and we hear that he is doing nicely.

RATES BIG FACTOR IN GETTING MILLS

Effort Made to Get BetterAllowance on Alabama Cotton

Location of textile mills in Alabama depends, among other things, on allowances of rates on concentration of cotton grown in Alabama and destined to Alabama mill centers, according to traffic experts. This matter will come before the Alabama Public Service commission for final adjudication on June 27.

At present, according to traffic officials, cotton grown in Alabama may be concentrated in Birmingham offices Birmingham and go thence to mills in Carolinas at a through rate which, they declare, is lower than the combination local rates to the Alabama mill center. The result, they say, is that the Alabama mill pays a higher freight on its cotton grown right here in Alabama than a Carolina mill does for the same cotton.

The traffic men say the rates allowed on concentrated cotton moving to the eastern mills will also often be lower than the combination of local rates to Alabama mills. New England thus getting Alabama cotton at lower total charges than Alabama mills.

It will be contended in argument for the right of concentrating Alabama cotton at Alabama points that the textile industry in Alabama is and has been hampered by the denial of these concentrating rates, while the textile industry of the Carolinas has been helped by concentration rates denied [illegible]bama.

AN ENTERPRISE THAT MERITS YOUR SUPPORT

Notwithstanding the amount on shipping that is now lying idle in the harbors and at the docks of the United States, ocean travelers are still obliged to pay high rates for trans-Atlantic travel, and an unparalleled opportunity to build up the American Merchant Marine is being lost. Recognizing this fact, and realizing that the time was opportune for an undertaking of this nature, the organizers of the Great Northern S. S. Co. formed their Corporation, which received its charter from the State of Massachusetts, October 11, 1922.

They visualized a new ocean steamship line, plying between Boston and European ports, controlled by the people, which would offer to these same people a chance for ocean travel on comfortable commodious ships, at a price within the reach of all, but large enough to allow a profit for the investor and a sufficient margin to allow for the carrying on and enlarging of the enterprise.

This was their threefold purpose - to render a genuine service to the people,—to help build up American shipping,—and to bring business and trade to the port of Boston.

In spite of the failure of the Ship Subsidy Bill, in spite of the opposition which such new competitor in an established field encounters, this Company is bringing its plans to maturity and expects that very soon it will be able to offer definite sailing dates to the public.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

What's the use of having three sets of officers to keep down crime.

Place the responsibility upon Governor, the Sheriffs and Police officers and demand that criminals be brought to justice. If they do not do what they obligate themselves to do, fire them out and get men who will do their duty.

Abolish about half the boards and commissions that are drawing fat salaries and accomplishing nothing.

We have a hunch that a lot of these jobs are mere subterfuges to pay political debts.

The people don't want their money s[illegible] way. We know they don't because we talk to them about these things and they agree with us.

We need some healthy laws on corporations and capital Private and public corporations, highly captalized and oiled with the slick tongue of the designing and crafty politicians and lawyer politicians now have the State grasped by the throat and backed up in a corner, and the laboring man has little protection by governmental authority. Our only hope is that we are a democracy and that eventually the people will wrest the government from the hands of mighty capital.

Newspaper publicity will help redeem the situation. We commend the movement toward giving the people the facts through a patriotic press. A subsidzed press has too often been silent.

Reorganization of every department of the State government is needed, and the Legislature to reconvene in July has a task and responsibility never before faced. Will it [illegible] situation [illegible] must

BILLIARD AND POOL HALLS

Hon. Mark L. Jeter, member of the Alabama Legislature from Jefferson County, has prepared a bill to regulate and regulate public billiard and pool halls.

Mr. Jeter makes a strong plea for such halls on the grounds that they in a great measure constitute the poor man's club for harmless pleasure.

He draws comparison of the billiard and pool rooms operated in various clubs that are the pleasure resorts of men of ample income and their friends.

Any law that grants an amusement or a pleasure, or a sport, or a game to one class and refuses the same to another class of humanity, is class legislation, and if not conclusively unconstitutional, it should not be tolerated.

In the opinion of the writer there is no harm done by such games in clubs or in public halls to accomodate those who are not members of select clubs

Environments may rise, conditions may be allowed that produce harm, those conditions that should be the intention of the law to eradicate. That can be done by salutary regulations by the proprietor of such halls, even without a special statute.

There is little or no doubt but what billiard halls and pool rooms become pest places, crime cores. The proprietors are the ones who should correct those evils.—Alabama Traveller.

THE SERVICE OF A FAILURE

BY J. H. PUELICHER
President American Bankers Association

J. H. Puelicher

When Governor Walton of Oklahoma signed recently the repeal of the bank deposit guaranty law in that state, he performed an economic service to the whole country. I might even say that Oklahoma in passing that law, enduring its evil consequences for fifteen years and then frankly casting it aside as a failure, has performed an economic service to the nation. There could be no more convincing argument against the passage of similar laws in other states than Oklahoma's disastrous experiment.

The Oklahoma guaranty law was the first of its kind. It was enacted in response to the panic of 1907. But experience has only proved again that there is no substitute for sound banking. Relying on the fancied security of the guaranty law, people entrusted their banking to many who were unfit for the trust. Bank failures have been so many that the fund, supposed to guarantee deposits, created by assessments on banks, was long ago depleted.

It is estimated that with total liabilities created under the law in the form of warrants and sums owing to depositors amounting to $12,000,000, there are in the hands of the Banking Board uncertain assets of nominally $15,000,000, ranging in value from zero to only thirty or forty cents on the dollar, resulting in a deficit of many million dollars. Sound, well-managed banks have been heavily taxed by assessments to the fund, and the maximum amount that could be assessed on solvent banks is insufficient to cover the deficit.

It has been well said that guaranty laws make for looseness in banking methods, and saddle on the competent and honest the sins of the incompetent and dishonest.

Let us have only laws that raise the standard of banking. Let us have no laws that debase it.

NEED FOR UNIFORMITY IN BUSINESS LAWS

How Collection of Just Debts May Be Prevented by Differing State Statutes.

An effort to bring about better coordination and greater uniformity among state laws dealing with business and banking is being made by the American Bankers Association.

It is pointed out that, although the country is a unit commercially, and citizens of any one state may do business that reaches all over the country, most laws governing business transactions are made by the different states, with application limited to their own local jurisdictions and often in conflict with laws in other states. It is held that state laws should be uniform so that the same transaction will not be subject to different sets of rules according as state laws differ.

To illustrate the disadvantages of conflicting laws, the following illustration is given: Mr. Jones lives in New York where the statute of limitations outlaws a note in six years. He falls into the error of assuming that the same rule prevails everywhere. He visits Maryland and loans $1,000 to his friend, Mr. Smith, taking a promissory note. As the note carries interest Mr. Jones is in no hurry for his money and he believes Smith to be financially responsible. Finally at the end of four years Jones concludes he has loaned Smith the money long enough and seeks to collect the note from him. But Smith can deny liability and point to the statute of Maryland which Jones is surprised to learn outlaws a note after three years.

Changes Recommended

The particular subjects of legislation recommended by the association for enactment by State legislatures during 1923 include uniform acts on negotiable instruments, bills of lading, warehouse receipts, stock transfer, and fiduciaries.

Under the head of laws for better protection of banks in particular transactions are proposed measures dealing with limiting liability on certified check; instruments based on gambling or usurious consideration; time limit on stop payment; payment of stale check; adverse claim to bank deposit; payment of forged or raised check; deposits in two names; deposits in trust; competency of bank and corporation notaries; non-payment of check through error; Saturday afternoon bank transactions, and forwarding check direct to payer.

Under the Federal Reserve [illegible] foreign banking are recommended laws on membership of state [illegible] tions in Federal Reserve System [illegible] foreign banking. Penal laws are proposed deal with false statements [illegible] credit; slander and libel of bank checks or drafts without fund [illegible] burglary with explosives.

THE CANNING FACTORY

As the rains have held up and the roads out to the saw mills dried off, material for the completion of the canning factory has been placed on the ground and Mr. Dixon has moved right along with the construction.

He is going to be ready to take care of the tomato crop this year and besides, we hear, that a broom factory is going to be installed also at the same place.

This is a cooperative movement between the farmers and the business men and should meet marked success from the very first.

Let every citizen in the town and county make the success of this project a personal matter and work and plan in the interest of this cooperative plant in season and out of season.

Mr. Dixon, who has had many years of experience in the canning industry will not only see to it that this plant is properly installed, but will stay with it and put it into successful operation until such time as a local force can be trained up to make it go.

GAME FOR JULY 13.

The Clanton Base Ball team has signed up for a game with the heavy swatters from Elmore on July 13.

Thirteen is a mighty unlucky number, you know, and our boys are going to demonstrate that fact to these Elmore guys that day.

Mark your calandar for that date and be on hand to do your part of the rooting.

Our boys will also be in action twice on that big barbecue day, July 4th. They take on a Montgomery team at that time and are going to show them how real town folks play ball.

SOME GARDEN

If you want to see what a real garden is go up and look over Mr. Tom Pyron's. It has more fine truck to the square inch than we ever saw before, and we know whereof we speak for we sampled it.

Many thanks, Uncle Tom.

Up Hill---Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class; you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you be one up-hill or progressive road.

BIG BARBECUE JULY 4TH

The ladies of the Methodist church are making elaborate arrangements to pull off a record breaking July 4 here this time.

They are going to have all kinds of barbecued meat as well as all the trimmings that go with it to make it hit the exact spot. Ice courses of every description will be there to top off your dinner and keep you cool. The coffee pot is also going to be kept hot so all of old fellows can get a brace up.

Then, besides all of these good eats and drinks, they are going to arrange to have a full day of sports. All kinds of games and contests are to be pulled off for the amusement of the crowd.

If you want to have one full day of enjoyment with no dregs of regret left in your memory, come out on July 4 and partake of the hospitality of these estimable ladies.

Men, you know, can stage big rough knock down and drag out barbecues, but it takes the delicate hand of the ladies to smooth out all of the rugged spots and put that dainty ineffable flavor that makes everything irresistable. Don't miss it.

NOTICE TO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

After looking over the records very hurriedly, I hasten to urge some of you to do summer work and get off one of your conditions, if you have any. The number who have conditions is surprisingly large. Do not speculate too much puon what you are going to take next session. The new rules and regulations including the course of study for next year have not yet been printed. The State Supervisor told me last Saturday that he was working upon them and would soon be able to give them to the public. Several changes are contemplated [illegible] in regard to reducing [illegible]

Those elected follow:
Pegues, Principal, Latin
A. Peterson, Assistant Principal.

Dight L. Dark, Mathematics
Miss Annie Johnson, Expression and Novelty Arts.
Mrs. B. M. Roberts, Music.

I learned upon my arrival in Clanton Saturday afternoon that the county board has ruled that Hazing must be abolished. At the present time I have very little comment to make except to say that I have always found that pupils as a whole want to do the best thing for their school and if they think it will injure the school, I do not believe the boys will even try to haze anyone this coming session.

Sincerely,
IRA PEGUES
Principal of High School.

WORK ON M. E. CHURCH

The open weather for the past few days has been favorable to the work of constructing the Methodist church.

They have in place now all of the main foundation work and the job is first class in every respect. The concrete is massive and will insure a perfectly steady wall with no cracks from settling.

The brick work is also nearly up to the top of the basement, all of which will finish in stucco.

On top of this will come the beautiful white pressed brick which will be used to the top.

DIED SUNDAY

Mr. W. P. Cleckler, age 63, who resided near Mineral Springs in this county, died last Sunday and was buried the following afternoon by his brother Odd Fellows, at the Robinson cemetery.

Rev. J. T. Daniel conducted the devotional services. Undertaker Martin was in charge of the burial arrangements.

ON LONG VACATION TOUR

Mr. W. W. Fox and wife, accompained by Mr. Broadus Connatser left last week for an indefinate tour of the West, with California as their ultimate goal. They plan to be away 2 or 3 months. Their trip will be made by auto and they intend to take their time.

We all in general miss W. W. and will be glad on his return, while we wish for him and his party a most delightful tour.

THAT BALL GAME LAST FRIDAY

The elements seemed to sympathize with the boys last Friday afternoon, for the brazen sky was overcast with clouds and Old Sol retired behind the canopy and allowed his heat generators to cool down a trifle, while Boreas wafted a gentle breeze, now and then, across the battle ground and aided in rendering the temperature real pleasant.

Clanton put a new man in the box who weilded a mean south paw and seemed to carry all the ammunition required to stop the enemy for seven innings.

Just as the visitors were about to solve some of his mysterious deliverings, the old reliable bender we think so much of, Webb Parrish, mounted the hill and the lusty visitors were hog tied for the balance of the trip.

Both teams performed well, but the visitors seemed to lack mutual understanding and team work that is such an essential quanity for a winning ball team.

The attendance was good and the crowd applauded a good play no matter which team pulled it off.

Clyde King made an almost impossible running catch of a long fly in center field and stopped what would have been a hit for extra bases.

Webb Parrish made a wonderful stab at a hot liner and robbed Bud Wyatt of a two bagger.

Alley, the Clanton south paw, pitched real stellar ball, allowing only four hits and two of them were infield. Parrish relieved him in the eighth and pitched air tight ball, striking out 2 men in the eighth, 1 in the nineth. He also obtained 4 hits out of 4 trips to the bat.

Below is the box score and it tells the tale:

PREACHER CARTER IS GOING ABROAD

Carter, who recently resigned as pastor of the Northside Baptist Church, is leaving on the shipping board steamer, Afoundria, for an extended voyage, going first to London and from there to Stockholm, Sweden, where he will attend the Baptist World Alliance Convention in July. Dr. Carter expects to be away until October.

The Mobile Knights of Pythias Lodge of which the pastor was chancellor commander, tendered him a farewell party, Q. S. Adams, past commander, Vincent Kilborn and Dr. Carter making talks.

BAILEY—TALLEY

A marriage that was a complete surprise to the social circles of Clanton was solemnized at Dadeville, Ala., last Monday morning at 11 o'clock

Mr. Cecil Bailey, of our town and Miss Laverne Talley, of Alexander City, were happily married at that time by Probate Judge Percy Oliver, at Dadeville.

The groom is connected with the McDonald Mercantile Co. here, and while he has only been indentified with us for a short time, he has made many friends here.

The bride was a popular girl at her home [illegible] and has a large circle of friends and admirers.

Clanton welcomes this young couple with pleasure and wishes for them all of the happiness and prosperity that can attend a mundane existence.

BASE BALL GAME

Tuesday the Tallassee boys came to Clanton and gave our boys a defeat by a 7 to 4 score. Clanton out hit the visitors but poor fielding and several walked batsmen lost the game. Parrish and Alley pitched a wonderful game. Parrish had one bad inning in the second. Hollingsworth hit a homer with the bases loaded. Mr. Red Wagoner slamed out a 3 bagger Eubanks and Parrish got 9 2 baggers. Parrish struck out 8 men and Alley struck out 10.

THE TIME TO HELP

The splendid ladies of the Methodist church have undertaken a most worthy and commendable work in raising funds to assist in the erection of their massive and beautiful house of worship.

They are giving a grand barbecue and festival here on July 4 to help along in this good cause. We feel exactly like it is the duty, and will be the pleasure, of every person in Clanton who is able to help in this cause.

The ladies will need considerable finance to put over the great gala events planned for the 4, and we must all go down in our pockets and help them.

Money spent in a cause like this is never lost, but will return to the donor one hundred fold.

Don't let these good ladies be embarrased by lack of funds.

THE FIRST COTTON BLOOM

Our good friend and splendid citizen, Mr. W. T. Johnson, of Route 3, sent in the first cotton bloom we have heard of Tuesday morning.

No wonder, though, for W. T. is one of the kind who makes it a rule to always be on time.

Rev. Sam H. Bennett, of Montgomery, ably filled the pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday at the 11 o'clock service, in the absense of Pastor Ezell, who has been conducting a revival meeting at Fairfax, Ala. for the past ten days. A good congregation turned out to hear Rev. Bennett and the choir put on a special service for the occassion.

THAT STREET PARADE

Last Friday afternoon the caste of the "Mr. and Mrs. Polly Tickk" theatrical aggregation put on a street parade that was of some class.

The entire troup is made up of local histrionic talent, and it must be truthfully admitted that no recent travelling amusement company has succeeded in ever approaching this parade in either extent of display or effectual advertising merit.

The truth of the matter is that Clanton is making a record these days of "Doing it just a little better."

REPORTED BETTER

Mr. L. N. Henderson, who was so severely broken up at his saw mill several weeks ago, is reported by Dr. N. S. Johnson, his physician as improving as rapidly as could be expected.

This is pleasant news to us all, for Mr. Henderson has no end of friends in and around Clanton who have anxiously listened for news from his bedside.

We all hope soon to see him out again and hope that he will regain his old time health and vigor.

A TERRIBLE ACCIDENT

Last week Dewey Mims, who resides at West End, was caught in the overturn of his truck and suffered a compound fracture of his lower jaw, the loss of a number of teeth, the laceration of his face and breast and, possibly, internal injuries besides.

He is at the hospital and his condition is considered critical.

NEW GLASS FRONT

The contract has been let to Farley and Huckabee to put in a pressed brick and plate glass front in the Broadhead store building.

This will be an attractive addition to that block and will bring that building up to the class of the adjoining

Let the good work go on.

WHAT IS THE MATTER

The early [illegible] season of the year are generally rendered noisy by the cry: "Want to buy any berries?"

That condition is conspicuous this year by the absolute absense of the berry vender.

What is the cause? Has the poor man's old reliable standby, the blackberry, gone back on its record this year and failed to perform? We hope not, for a summer without a good big "berry cobbler" or two would be a sad disapointment to some of us.

CROPS LOOK BETTER

A large number of farmers found time to come to town Saturday. The general report with them was that the grass had been practically conquored now and the crops were looking fine though rather behind the season.

Good many reported boll weevils active where the cotton is rank, though the unusually hot sun last week seemed to have rather put a crimp in their activities. A full half a crop is the general estimate now.

WHAT ABOUT THE MELON CROP?

So far we have heard no boastful bragging about a melon prospect. Even the past master in the truck and melon business, Mr. S. E. Bruce, is throwing out no enticing promises of an early melon feast.

Are we going to have any on hand at the Barbecue, July 4th? A celebration on that day will be lacking in a very essential respect without a load or so of the South's succulent specialty.

How about it, S. E. ain't you going to be on time? Put the soda to them and tell them to rare.

Ordinarily freedom is the greatest thing in the world, but there can be no more miserable creature on earth than a dog that has lost his master. Freedom is not sweet to him. He howls for a master to come and cuss and kick him.

Senator S. M. Adams, of Thorsby, was in town some this week on legislative business.

The public decency officers were run off of the bathing beach at Newport one day last week by the half nude bathers. It is a dangerous thing to interfere with the sport of the bald headed brigade.

Law enforcement is one thing and arrogant imbecility is quite another. Witness the refusal of our government to allow foreign nations the common hospitality deemed reasonable and necessary on their own ships.

The protest of the foreign nations against the American ruling on the prohibition of intoxicants on foreign ships, will be carried before the League of Nations tribunal. That makes a peculiar situation. Our country is going to be tried before a recognized international court that they refuse to affiliate with.

A case in point of a very grave and glaring nature is the position our National Prohibition Enforcement Department at Washington has taken in regard to the carrying of intoxicants by vessels coming here from foreign countries.

Steamers from have arrived in our ports, with their return supply of wine and beer for the table, tightly sealed up in a separate apartment, with their home government's seal fixed thereon and with an official guarantee that this apartment will not be broken open until the 3 mile limit of our territorial waters, on her return trip.

Still our officers have gone to the extent of confiscating this liquor and breaking the seals of these friendly powers and offering a direct insult to them, besides making our country appear absolutely ridiculous to all the rest of the world.

Such action as this evidence of either good sense good policy. This is but is a most unnatural violation of amity and good breed all good American feel ashamed.

It is to be regretted that so great a nation as ours should in such a childish and humiliating attitude as that.

Prohibition extremists finally undo the good work alone that line that has been done Fanaticism always rides to a fall sooner later.

A KIND INVITATION

We acknowledge with pleasure week the reception of an i attend the National Convention United Farmers of July 24, 25 and 26.

We would be delighted to be with them and will do so, if possible. We learn that a number of cars will go from this county and, perhaps, 25, or more delegates will be sent from this territory.

This is a great and a growing organization that is getting practical results and is teaching lessons in co-operation that are destined to result in great good to our section.

It may be that we can arrange to get off at that time and if so, you can count us in.

Mr. W. T. White was in town Monday.

WILL YOU?

As Mr. Johnson is no longer with the News, and we have no outside man at all, it would be quite an accommodation to us if you would send in all of the personal and social happenings that may come under your observation.

We will be pleased to print all such things, and especially the names of all visitors or home folks gone on visit.

The Chilton County News will always be glad to aid in giving publicity to all matters of religious, educational or general community interest. Will you help us?

IT ALWAYS HAPPENS

There is always a certain element of people who retard law enforcement, not, possibly, through any special criminal propensity, but rather through carelessness, ignorance and as a

The result is always the same. The laws are made more and more drastic until they become a real burden to the innocent and law abiding and the law wrongfully becomes unpopular and its enforcement more difficult.

These conditions are especially true right now as regards the autoist. These vehicles are a great convenience and pleasure and are becoming more of necessity every day and have come to stay. Still the reckless, thoughtless, careless and brainless "speed fiends" are bringing the entire business under the public ban, so much so that a bill will be presented for passage by the summer session of the legislature that is drastic in the extreme. It provides for heavy penalties for all minor offenses and goes so far as to prescribe capital punishment for the reckless driver who kills some one by his wild dashes of speed.

A minority of car drivers are thus going to force through legislation that will inevitably be a source of aggravation to people who do not deserve even censure. It

DOWN ON MULBERRY

Mr. Cleve Mims, from the Mulberry section, was in town Saturday. He says the fight with General Green has about been won and that crops are growing now by leaps and bounds. He also reported that the boll weevil now working full time and that he found as many as four punctured forms to the stalk on some of his cotton.

He is going to try out the poisoning process on his crop this week.

TO KILL TOMATO BUGS

Bugs on tomato plants can be killed by using either of the following on your plants:

Dissolve two teaspoonfuls of arsenate of lead in each gallon of water used. Spray or sprinkle on plants.

Another good spray can be prepared by using one pound of rock lime and one pound of bluestone. Air slack the lime and powder the bluestone then mix both thoroughly in ten gallons of water and apply on plants.

Most drug stores have prepared powders which can be dusted on the plants and will destroy the bugs.

"COME SEVEN, COME ELEVEN"

There seems to be a peculiar fascination about the rattle of the bones and the incantations that usually are manifest when a live game of "craps" is in operation

Sunday afternoon sheriff Littlejohn quitely wended his way out to the "Frog Level" district and, sure enough, a number of colored devotes of the seductive game were pleading with the godess of luck for a seven or eleven,

He closed in on the festivities and when he drew in his net he found three dusky worshipers of the facinating bones safely landed.

He escorted them to old "86" and gave them good quarters in that famous bastile.

ARTHUR BRISBANE AND CONSISTENCY

Arthur Brisbane is one of the highest priced editors in the country. For years he has been to the forefront in this respect. He is the right hand man of Hearst. Some of his writings are syndicated and published in many papers. In this way he has become widely known and his writings read by many thousands of people.

Brisbane has been against the League of Nations or any other combination or get-together movement of the nations of the world to prevent war. He is an isolationist, preaching that the United States can close up like a clam and remain aloof from the rest of the world.

In spite of all this Mr. Brisbane recently wrote a labored article on the destruction caused by rats and advocated that the nations of the earth should come together and in one great combined effort rid the world of rats. Thus just reversing himself. It is all right with him for the nations of the earth to come together to save their property from destruction by rats; yet he looks on with horror at the suggestion of the nations of the earth coming together to save human lives [illegible] some great boat seem to be great for their inconsistencies.—United Farmer.

MAD DOG INFORMATION

State Board of Health

Montgomery, Ala., June 25—With the approach of the heated summer season when mad dog prevalence is supposed to increase, the State Pasteur Institute calls special attention to a few important things to remember in the handling of a case of rabies.

First, don't kill the dog immediately upon noticing symptoms of rabies. The dog may only be sick. Confine him for a day or two and observe his actions. If he is afflicted with rabies there will be no periods at which he will appear perfectly normal. If the "mad-dog" symptoms continue kill him and send the head to the nearest state laboratory—either Montgomery, Mobile, Birmingham or Albany.

Second: When you kill a dog which you think affected with rabies, don't shoot him through the brain or in any way bruise or mutilate the brain. Either have a veterinarian put the animal to death or shoot him through the heart. Pack the head in ice and send by express to the laboratory.

If, upon examination the dog is found to have been affected with rabies you will be advised what steps to pursue. If any person has been bitten by the dog, remember it will not be necessary to come to Montgomery for treatment as that is now provided for administering by your family physician at a nominal cost to those able to pay for it and free to indigents.

NOW GUESS WHO

POLICING THE COUNTRY ROADS

Under the title, "Our Traffic Problem," the Florence Daily News makes some sensible suggestions looking to the protection of the public against carless, reckless or criminally inclined motor-drivers. Among other things urged the need for uniform regulations covering traffic on the highways, as well as ordinances for cities and towns. It is recommended that there be penalties graduating from fines for those who are habitually indifferent, to jail sentences, and confiscation of cars for those who refuse to be regulated, while administering the penitentiary cure for terms and for life to the criminally careless who kill or maim their fellow man.

It is true, as stated, that "municipalities have not the power under the law to provide and inflict proper punishment," except within their city limits, while many of the most aggravating offenses are committed on country roads which belong to the public. Hence the serious problem of handling the situation beyond the jurisdiction of municipalities. There is need for uniform regulations applying to operation of motor cars throughout the state. This is emphasized by the increasing number of accidents which could and should be avoided. A large percentage of persons should not be permitted to drive at all, because of their youth and inexperience, or temperamental and mental disqualifications. Another large percentage are capable or driving, but carless of the rights or safety of others. Still another percentage are road-hogs, joy-riders or juggernauts, who knowingly and criminally violate laws, and seem to care little whether they kill or maim others.

The state issues licenses and collects taxes from owners of motor cars, and should therefore regulate these vehicles with a view wholly to the public rights and the public safety within the state. Fines, jail sentences and penitentiary terms promptly and certainly imposed will do much towards remedying the evil. The demand for protection comes from every part of Alabama, and is not confined to the cities and towns. The legislature has the power to safeguard the public through proper regulation of motor traffic. It is pressingly needed, and all the more as paved trunk highways are being built and placed in a condition inviting speed.— Age Herald.

SOLID TRAINLOAD OF STUDEBAKER CARS FOR NEWARK DEALER

Big Shipment of Light-Sixes leave South Bend Plants to fill retail Orders of New Jersey dealer

A solid trainload of Studebaker cars consisting of 120 Light-Sixes, has just been shipped from the big Studebaker factories at South Bend, Indiana, to the Studebaker Sales Company of Newark New Jersey.

This shipment is unusual in two respects. First—the entire 120 cars have been sold at retail and will be delivered to waiting buyers just as soon as unloaded. And second—it is believed it represents the largest [illegible] cars.

This gives fresh evidence of the insistant demand for the Studebaker Light Six that exists in the metropolitan district of the East just as it does throughout the country.

"It is not surprising that these experienced metropolitan motor car buyers should create a tremendous demand for the Studebaker Light-Six," according to Polk Bros. local Studebaker dealers.

"To the majority of these purchasers, is a secondary consideration. They demand a quality motor car rugged construction, dependability, reliable performance, thorough comfort and handsome appearance.

"The territory covered by the Newark dealers includes many of the fashionable suburbs of New York City. Thousands of New York business men make their home just across the Hudson River in the New Jersey suburbs which constitute one of the most discriminating automobile markets in the world.

"Some idea of the high quality that is evident throughout the Studebaker Light-Six may be gained by an inspection of the crankshaft and connecting rods which are machined on all surfaces—an exclusive Studebaker feature on cars at this price and one that is found only in a few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as great as that of the Light Six. This is largely responsible for the practical elimination of vibration in the Light Six.

"Coupled with its high quality, is the remarkable fact that the Studebaker Light-Six is the lowest-priced six cylinder car on the market.

"This low price is made possible by Studebaker's unexcelled manufacturing facilities, the size of which is indicated by the $45,000,000 investment in plants and by the experience gained from 71 year's manufacture of high grade vehicles.

"Therefore, it is no wonder that the Studebaker Light-Six appeals to experienced and discriminating motorists of the East just as it does right here at home.

Turn on the light. Let the public know what goes with the tax money. Publicity is an aid to all honest endeavor and the making of our honest public official. Go to it. Doty, what we want is less secrtey and more service.

Section 7. This Act shall become effective immediately after its approval.

The educational cost attached to making a doctor these days is said to be so great that only a millionaire can qualify. The next generation can prepare to go back to roots and herbs and do without medicine if that is the case.

The Public and Alabama Power Company

"Tell the Public"

"Next to doing a thing right, the most important factor in the success of any business is the telling of the public what you are doing. My one regret is that I did not learn this fundamental of success earlier in life."
—John D. Rockefeller.

WITH FULL REALIZATION of its threefold responsibility: First, to the people of Alabama; second, to its employes; third, to its stock and bond holders; it is the policy of Alabama Power Company to create a closer relationship between its organization and the public which it serves; to promote and foster a better understanding of its activities and their effects upon the economic and industrial life of Alabama; and to develop a more pronounced spirit of co-operation in the upbuilding of our State.

SO MANY THOUSANDS of Alabamians are daily dependent upon its service, many of whom have shown their faith by investing in its stocks and bonds, that Alabama Power Company believes the people of Alabama are entitled to a full knowledge of its affairs.

WITH THIS IN MIND, a series of advertisements will be published in the newspapers of the State, setting forth as clearly and concisely as possible, facts relating to the operation of Alabama Power Company, and how these things affect the individual citizenship of the State.

THE ALABAMA HOMES which use our service, the wheels of industry which it turns, the wage earners who gain their livelihood through the activities of this institution, are so numerous and so closely related to it, that what Alabama Power Company HAS DONE, IS DOING and HOPES TO DO, is of vital importance to the citizens of this entire section.

IN PRESENTING these advertisements, subjects will be discussed which are matters of record in the offices of the Alabama Public Service Commission and other public offices, but which are not generally understood.

We want you to know us better. We therefore hope you will read these messages carefully, appreciating the sincerity of our purposes.

The first of this series of advertisements will appear in this newspaper next week.

A GOOD WOMAN IS DEAD

Last Sunday, in the early morning hours of a beautiful summer day, the soul of Mrs. Charlotte Elizabeth Parrish, wife of our esteemed fellow-citizen, Mr. Elijah H. Parrish, winged its flight to the realms of endless day.

Mrs. Parrish was 74 years of age when the grim messenger called for her. At the age of 18 she became the trusting bride of Mr. Parrish, and for 56 years, tangle with joys and sorrows, hand in hand, with the unfadng beacon of love ever shining brightly above their pathway, they journeyed along from the blissful hour that united their destiny and made them as one, until the dark sad day of parting ushered in last Sunday when death dispoiled this long happy dream of contentment.

At the time of her death she was living in the same house where she first essayed to make for her husband a real home, and where their long trip together has been made.

During that time they enjoyed the unique distiction of having lived in three different counties without once moving their residence. They were first in Autauga, then in Baker and finally in Chilton as the whim of the passing years changed the county lines.

Mrs. Parrish leaves as her immediate family to mourn and miss her, an aged and devoted husband, three sons, J. S., Prof. Jno. M. and Dr. W. L. Parrish, and three daughters, Mrs. W. I. Robinson, Mrs. E. H. Mims and [illegible] daughters, Mrs. A. C. Bumpers, of Birmingham.

She lived for 34 years a devout and consistent member of the Baptist church. She was buried Monday forenoon at Concord cemetery Rev. C. J. Bently officiating assisted by Dr. S. J. Ezell, Rev. M. I. Parrish and Rev. W. I. Armstrong.

Thus life's sun has gone down on a long and useful life, and thus the white head of a devoted and desolate husband has been bowed in a sorrow too deep for words. A family of children have been bereft of the truest and sweetest friend that ever blesses the human pathway and a large circle of friends have lost one whose love and gentle council never failed them.

The Chilton County News extends to the aged husband and these sorrowing children it most earnest and sincere sympathy.

Mr. Brock Wells, a former Chilton County boy, but now holding down a machine job on the Tuscaloosa News, spent a few days among his many friends here this week.

Up Hill--Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class, you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land; for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

THOSE "GREEDY, RAVENOUS MACHINATORS OF CLANTON."

Who are they? The Union-Banner, in its editoral under date of June 14, 1923, in reterme to the Messer Reynolds Contest says that Clanton is infested with "his MONSTROUS gang. Why does the Union-Banner make this statement? The answer is evident because at the time the statement was made the Supreme Court had not made a decision in the contest case which if allowed to stand, would have set free Reynolds and his gang and thus have prevented the public from knowing the political rottenness which existed in this county during the last campaign.

It is further evident that the Union-Banner in its relation over that decision felt positively sure that it and its "boss" were to rule Chilton County until January 1927, and that no inquiry would or could be had into the conduct of its "boss" during the last campaign the result of which was that Reynolds continues to usurp the will of the majority of the LEGAL VOTERS of Chilton County, by holding the office of Judge of Probate.

It is also evident from the tenor of that editorial that the Union-Banner was not sincere in its previous statements wherein it had invited an inquiry and investigation of the political affairs of Chilton County. And the people of this county who desire this inquiry and investigation may rest assured that Reynolds and his array of counsel will be found trying to prevent the contest by every conceivable technicality. Just as they did when they had Foshee to arbitrarily refuse to approve the bond of [illegible] for cost, but the people of the county will no doubt be interested in the final decision of the Supreme Court wherein that Court has held that the contest be had and notwithstanding the statement of the Union-Banner to the contrary wherein it states, "Judge Reynolds was lawfully and legally elected by a majority of the people of Chilton County, and for that reason his right to the office is unassailable."

May I ask the people a question. Have we reached the day in the history of a free people that we cannot inquire into the legality and right of a man to hold office, or have the Courts lost their right to inquire into the conduct of individuals, and have the Grand Juries the right to pass final judgement on any case without having both sides of the testimony, under oath, before them? The Union-Banner seems to assume and would have the people believe the Judge to be immune from investigation through the lawful tribunals of our state, and certain other individuals, from their conduct, and unmindful of the tenets and fundamentals principles of law and orderly government would, arbitrarily try to pervert the functioning of the Courts of our state in order that they might receive the emoluments of office and aid in fostering the passions of those inclined to polygamous acts. The Union-Banner must remember that we have reached the point in Chilton County when the people will no longer tolerate political conspiracies or the corrupting of the electorate for the sake of retaining a person in office, and should also remember that the corrupt practice act applies to all political parties alike and a meeting held in the court house in January 1922 to raise funds for the payment of poll taxes should be more impressive to the Union-Banner than a contribution by the State Democratic [illegible] to the local committee of Chilton County.

[illegible] say,—During all the time Judge Reynolds has been the chief custodian of our county affairs, his records have been several times examined by Democratic State Examiners, and not one time have they found any discrepancies in his official acts or any misuse of the county's money. All of their reports give him credit for keeping his records in excellent shape and for making accurate handling of the county's finances." This leads us to believe that the Union-Banner feels that the people should retain its Chief simply because he has not been a public defaulter in office and would excuse all other acts or shortcomings for this one reason, and we with equal propriety are willing to say to the Union-Banner that when Mr. Messer has served as Probate Judge, which will be the case, when the contest is ended, that he too will be credited with having accounted for every dollar of the county's money and his records kept neatly and properly.

The Supreme Court having now finally said that the contest may be had we feel that its decision [illegible] in strict keepings with the statement of the Union-Banner that: "RIGHT WILL WIN."

J. J. PICKENS

The many friends of Prof. J. J. Pickens, who has been absent in Denver for some months, are giving him the glad hand this week.

The length of his stay with us is indefinate, but we all hope he will be able to make it extended. The Denver climate has certainly been kind to him for he is looking fine.

His wife is not sufficiently improved, as yet, to permit of her return.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our good friends and neighbors for their uniform and loyal kindness to us in our recent sorrowful bereavement.

We are deeply grateful for the profuse and lovely floral offerings that were sent in and we especially wish to express our appreciation of the services rendered by the Clanton choir for the beautiful music they rendered at the funeral when our dear wife and mother was buried from our sight.

May God bless you every one.

BASE BALL GAME

Our Clanton boys went down to Elmore last Friday and gave the fast Elmore team a defeat of 9 to 2.

"Babe Ruth" Parrish hit a circuit drive with two men on base and "Cy William" Hays connected with a three and two base hit.

Alley pitched his game in big league style by striking a 5 hit game and striking out about 9 men.

Mr. Euburn Wooley, one of the cleverest boys in Clanton and a main cog wheel in the Upchurch Drug Company force, made a short visit to friends in Tuscaloosa this week. He did'nt say she went to see his best girl, but he looked guilty.

VERY LOW

The many friends of Mrs. James Wyatt, mother of county representative W. M. and editor T. E. Wyatt, of Clanton, will regret to learn that she is very ill at her home near town.

Our latest information is to the effect that she is slightly improved, a fact for which we are all deeply grateful.

Mr. C. W. Parrish and wife o f Birmingham visited relatives in Clanton this week. Mr. Parrish is a brother of Mr. Evan Parrish, of our town.

For some reason or other the democrats that we met this week all have a happy smile on their face.

MR. AND MRS. Z. R. MAHAN BURY THEIR SON

The grim destroyer entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Z. R. Mahan, of Vida, last Sunday morning and transfered to the angel band their little 5 year old son, Holland Douglas.

The remains were brought to the Clanton cemetery for burial Monday forenoon.

Dr. S. J. Ezell, of Clanton, assisted by Rev. Cook, of Billingsley, officiated at the grave

Undertaker Martin was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

THE BUILDING BOOM GOES ON

Work was begun Monday morning on the new Hays building that will occupy and fill up the vacant gap between the Exchange Hotel and the corner occupied by the Farmers Hard ware Co.

This will make the block extending from first to second avenue along the west side of seventh street a solid brick row of business houses.

That will leave on the east side of seventh street exactly opposite to this new work, one small vacant space to yet be filled. We have heard that it is soon to be built up.

Then, over on second avenue, between seventh street and the railroad, on the north side of second avenue, is another vacant space of about two lots. We hear that plans have been drawn and the contract let for the construction of a double story business house that will fill in that gap.

These are the last two openings that are left in the heart of the business district, and when they are filled the down town area will be forced to widen out.

Progress and prosperity seem to have moved into Clanton and taken up their permanent abode.

GONE ON LONG TOUR

Miss Elsa Nonnenmacher left yesterday for Birmingham where she will join Miss Ita Stocks, of Gadsden, for an extended western trip, which will include a visit to Yellowstone Park, the Grand Canyon, and many other places of interest in the west and in Alaska. They will also attend the annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club at Portland Oregon. Miss Stocks is president of the Alabama Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and also vice president from Alabama of the National Federation. Miss Nonnenmacher will attend the convention as a delegate from the state at large.

The above item, copied from Sunday's Anniston Star, will be of interest to friends in Clanton of Miss Elsa Nonnenmacher, who formerly made her home in Clanton with Judge and Mrs. E. B. Deason. Miss Nonnenmacher plans to spend several days in Denver with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pickens, who have been making their home in that city for the past several months.

A GREAT FOURTH

The Weather was Ideal. The attendance Immence. The Parade a Winner and the whole works a Glorious Success.

The ladies of the Methodist congregation worked hard and faithfully to make the celebration of the Fourth a grand success and their efforts were crowned with a most unqualified success.

The weather man was kind and handed out an ideal day for them.

The grand parade in the forenoon was wonderful and was a splendid advertisement for Clanton. The larger cities would have to get up and hump to equal it.

All of the program for the day was carried out without a hitch and was excellent. The ball games were especially classy, the first one going the full 9 innings without a score on either side.

Congressman Jeffers was on hand and made a splendid address.

The attendance was very large indeed and, we judge, the ladies made a neat sum to put into the building of their new church.

We will tell you more about the day next week when we have more time.

We present our heartiest congratulations to the hustling ladies who put over such a mamouth success.

PUBLIC INSTALLATION OF MASONIC OFFICERS AT JEMISON

Last Saturday the Masonic Lodge of Jemison held a public installation of officers in the presence of a very large and appreciative audience.

Col. J. B. Atkinson, of Clanton was installing officer and Mr. J. L. Johnson, of Clanton acted as Marshal for the ceremonies.

Following duly elected officers were installed for the ensuing year: S. P. Shaw, W. M. Rev. B. Lawrence, S. W. [illegible] Erwin, J. W. J. H. Patton, R. M. Hu[illegible] Secretary; C. C. Conway, S. D. [illegible] J. D.; J. M. Philpot, [illegible].

Following the installa[illegible] Senator S. M. Adams delighted the large crowd with one of his characteristic straight and instructive talks.

Barbecue dinner was served on the ground and greatly enjoyed after which Rev. Frank Willis Barnett who is known by everybody and who is now on the staff of the Birmingham News addressed the audience in the grove and made a wonderful hit as usual. He always comes with something new.

A double header game of ball was pulled off between Jemison and Siluria.

The first game went to Jemison by a score of 4 to 3, but Siluria got their revenge in the second game by laying up a score of 12 to 4

The occasion was a grand success from every angle and the alrge crowd all returned home in the afternoon felling absolutely satisfied with the day.

Mr. Jno. W. Henley, who is engaged in extensive saw mill activities at Naftel, Ala., has been in Clanton this week visiting his family and many friends. Mr. Henley tells us that hundreds of acres of planted crops have been turned out in that section owing to the leaving of all the available farm labor.

The cotton crop seems to be putting on fruit nearly as fast as the boll weevil can put it off.

It may rain or shine, be clear or cloudy, cold or hot, day or night, but the seed demons keep their murder record at the top.

People should be very careful what they eat and go light on the quantity right now. An epidemic of bowel trouble is going through the country and it is very hard to handle.

Some people try to evade the truth with considerable skill. Others just shut their eyes, back their ears and say any old thing that is convenient at the time.

President Harding, on his political fence building tour, carried the worst scattering campaign gun on record. Even the newspaper correspondent, who travel with him, can't place him.

What if the next great war should be fought over prohibition law enforcement? The clouds are booming on the foreign horizen now. Even the great United States could cover too much ground.

People who possess an elastic conscience and an elastic memory can say almost anything they please, but, like the pictrue in the funny paper—"It dosen't mean anything."

Mrs. W. T. Johnson of Route 3 has our sincere thanks for a splendid treat last week. She sent us a basket of beans, potatoes and onions right fresh from the garden and we sure enjoyed a dinner like old times.

Does anybody remember one single item that ever appeared in the Union-Banner boosting the town of Clanton before September 15, 1921, when the Chilton County News was born? The town, you know, is democratic.

If that Florida jury don't hang that in-human whipping boss who beat the boyTabert to death, the entire country will be disappointed. Such brutal beasts as he proved himself to be have no place in the world. The future state may be able to handle his kind.

You can get a divorce from your wife. You can be divorced from your coin, but you can't possibly divorce President Harding from his love for the negro. His Tuskegee policy shows up the kind of hyphenated chracter he is. Wonder he don't move to central Mass.

In view of the crop prospect this year Gov. Hardwick, of Georgia is out in a strong appeal to his people to begin now and economize in every possible way. Alabama people better take that to heart too. Cotton and corn are bound to be woefully short this year.

The editor of our neighbor, the Union-Banner, got real peevish last week because we would not agree with him that the democrats had lost the contest election suit. We could not agree with him in that statement because everybody else but him knew that no contest suit had even been filed. You can't lose what does not exist.

A TOO PREVIOUS OBITUARY

Being in haste to perform the last sad rites over the remains of the democratic party in Chilton County, the Union-Banner, of June 14, in glaring headlines, on the front page, announced that the contested election case between Messer and Reynolds had been finally and forever settled by a decision of the Supreme Court.

In the first place, as we made clear in our issue of the 21 instant, no such case as that at that time, had ever been filed in any court, and the natural sequence is that a settlement of the merits of that case was an utter impossibility, not only to the Supreme Court, but to any other court.

The facts of the case are, that so bitterly were the Reynolds clan opposed to any publicity regarding that election that they had the then Circuit clerk to refuse to accept a bond for the costs that easily was worth more than $100,000, and it required a mandamus suit to force him to accept that bond and file that suit. This order was granted by Judge McMorris in the circuit court here and upon that decision the opposing side appealed to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court failed to get the completed briefs of the Messer attorneys before rendering their first ruling, which did sustain the contention of the clerk, but, upon being shown the real evidence in the case that failed to reach them before rendering their first ruling they granted a new hearing and on last Saturday they utterly reversed this first ruling and handed down a new decision sustaining the judgement of judge McMorris which requires the clerk to accept the bond as first offered and to file the contest case of Messer vs Reynolds on the Circuit Court docket here

So, you will all understand how that this corpse, over which the Union-Banner shed so much vituperative spleen, is about the livest corpse that ever came down the pike. Chilton County is destined to have that ballot box "purging" that seemed to amuse the Union-Banner so greatly.

THE CATTLE DIPPING TROUBLE AND ITS CAUSES

The subject of cattle dipping is one of the most unfortunate things that we have to contend with in Chilton County.

The public sentiment is, and has always been largely opposed to diping and public sentiment is a difficult thing to over come.

We are not prepared to go into the merits of the dipping of cattle and we would not presume to dictate a policy to people who have experience in a subject that we know very little about, but, as the case stands in our county, we feel like it is a woeful mistake, as well as a dangerous violation of law to attempt to evade the law by blowing up the vats.

Unfortunately, or otherwise as the case may be, we have a law that commands that all tick infested cattle must be dipped, and that law has its origin in Washington and its next to impossible to evade a law of the United States. You may get by for awhile but the government never lets up. Sooner or later you have to come across.

We feel like if our citizens were to get this truth firmly fixed in their minds that they will realize the futility of resistance and proceed to go about the final cleaning up our tick infested territory in an expeditious and orderly manner and thus settle this troublesome question for good.

In this connection we can but feel like that such propaganda as that contained in the following campaign letter that was widely circulated by our Probate Judge in the recent election campaign, is largely a contributing cause to the lawlessness and disorders that have arisen over the effort now being made to clean up our county and make it tick free. Emanating, as it did from the acknowledged leader of a large element of our citizens, it is but reasonable to suppose that such sentiments were very unfortunate and to be deplored, to say the least of it.

Clanton, Ala., August 3, 1922.
To the Voters of Chilton County:

I have just learned that Mr. Howard Foshee and some others who are my political enemies are talking about sending out a letter stating among many other things that if I am re-elected the people will have to dip their cattle again. I feel like I can do as much as any one to prohibit the people from having to dip again for we have met the requirments of the State and Federal Governments and the quarantine has been lifted and the County declared to be tick free. I told Dr. Cary who has charge of Tick Eradication when he met the Commissioners Court and a large number of Chilton County citizens that I would go to jail before I would spend any more of the people's money for cattle dipping after the County had been declared tick-free, and I say now that I am not going to spend any more unless it is proven by an election in this county that a majority of the voters want to dip again. Mr. Howard Foshee and others who are making these statements know that they are false and they are telling them to injure me in my campaign and aid Prof. Harris.

L. H. REYNOLDS

A STRANGE WAY TO SHOW APPRECIATION

The editor of the Union-Banner, who by the way, prides himself on his clean, high class language and freedom from mud-slinging, has a rather peculiar notion in regard to the natural amenities of life and the courtesies due from a public man to his patrons.

It is a fact, of which he is surely aware, that 90 per cent of the business men in Clanton belong to that party that he consantly and consistently refers to as "rotten," "crooked," "swine" etc. This lists embraces only a few of the mildest and more decent epithets that he hurls at them from week to week. Still the wonderful fact remains that they seem to kiss the hand that smites them, and what ever prosperity the Union-Banner enjoys is, to a great extent, owing to the patronage of this same bunch of "hogs."

It looks like that a common appreciation of their business, if no other reason, would prompt the editor of the Union-Banner to be less violent in his abuse of his patrons.

SHADY GROVE

The farmers about here have almost got General Green and his army beaten and the crops look good.

We had rather a small crowd at Sun day School last Sunday on account of the singing at Floyd. If people would go to Sunday School and then to the singings we think it would be better.

Rev. Pratt, of North Carolina, visted Mr. N. J. Jones and family last week. He preached two able sermons at Shady Grove church on the 4th Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McKinny visited Mr. Luther Headley Sunday.

Mr. Willis Anderson and wife, Mr. Clarence Anderson and family visited the family of Mr. Albert Williams Sunday.

Mr. F. M. Connell and wife, Mrs. Lee Smith and baby and Mrs. Kendrick, all of Clanton, visited the family of Mr. J. F. Dubose last Sunday after noon.

Messers Frank Mathis and Ed Smith of Montgomery, were recent visitors to our community.

Misses Laura and Mertie Proctor, of Mitchell Dam, were recent visitors to Shady Grove.

Archie and Mather Baker visited relatives in Clanton last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Bently, of Mitchell Dam, were the guests of the family of J. F. Dubose last Saturday.

Miss Beatrice Jones is home from Retherford College, N. C.

Come on, people, lets make our prayer meeting and Sunday School better. We need more praying of the right kind and more heart felt religion. So, lets make it so.

POLITICAL DEGENERACY OF ALABAMA.

There is printed on this page of the News today an editorial from The Selma Times-Journal. It is well worth persual of every man and woman. It is the absolute truth.

With possibly a half dozen exceptions there is not a real statesman in public life in this State today, nor are there the elements of real statesmanship in most men before the public eye. It may be stated that Senator Underwood is one of the exceptions. Apparently he is nearly the last of the breed in Alabama—which has produced Morgan, Pettus, Johnston, and a whole host of real men—giants in mentality, lions in courage and conviction, leaders in truth and fact.

Is there a stalwart, chivalrous leader in the State, one of convictions and invincible courage who would dare to face the people and tell them that they were in the wrong and chide them for their failure and transpressions? We know of none. On the contrary, our bell wethers of high and low degree devote their energies to trying to discover which way the political chariot is driving so that they may securry to the front and bark loud, as if noise and leadership were one and the same thing.

Who does not admit the truth of The Times-Journal's indictment. Who does not admit that our public servants, as a rule, have desended even below mere mediocrity?

Perhaps there will emerge from out of present obscurity some man or men who will restore statesmanship to Alabama. Perhaps out in the country, drawing inspiration from God's stars at night—from the blue heavens by the day—from association with the handiwork of the Almighty and in close communication with the truths of Nature, there will presently come one upon, whose brow there rests the laurel wreath of real and inherent greatness. Perhaps the people will begin by then to look for ability, rather than be taken by "the loud laugh which betokens the vacant mind—for courage, rather than the markings of a [illegible] forsooth, knave," for constructive ideas, and policies, and the determination to stand for them.

Like a swarm of destructive grasshoppers the present pestilence of small men in public places has spread over the land: consuming the substance of the people and creating nothing but a barrenness where their blighting course is marked.

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, [illegible] hands! Men whom the lust of office does not kill. Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy. Men who possess opinions and will! Men who have honor: men who will notice!

Nor is it fair to blame the conditions entirely upon the men in public life. Who put them there?

If the voters themselves will turn a deaf ear to the demagogue, the panderer to prejudices: the mere voicer of echoes of what he thinks the public would like, perhaps there will be more encouragement for men of ability to come forward and offer themselves for the consideration of the electorate.

If the people themselves cannot or will not discriminate between mere noise and ability, then we are indeed in a bad way. If the people themselves continue to vote for shallow selfishness; to put a premium upon stupidity and crown mischievous marplots, then the charge made at the beginning of the American Republic that it could not endure, is in fair way of being vindicated.

Theodore Roosevelt said he thought the Republic had about a fifty-fifty chance to survive. If he was alive today and in Alabama would he be so optimistic.

And, after all, is not the remedy with the people themselves?—Birmingham News.

DRIVE AN OVERLAND AND REALIZE THE DIFFERENCE

THE UNION-BANNER IS GOING TO REFORM

The editor of the Union-Banner, by a labored effort last week, succeeded in compiling a real good description of the time worn methods and ethics of that eratic sheet and then, in what must have been a lapse of memory, labled this perfectly natural brain child of his the Chilton County News.

It is wonderful that he should allow himself to even dream that the people of Chilton County were destitute of both brains and memory. How can he, in the wildest flights of his really vivid imagination cheat himself into the belief that, even his readers have forgotten the recent campaign and have also forgotten which party and which paper dealt in the vilest and most filthey vituperative mud-slinging and which one consistently refrained from using or printing single campaign item that would not pass the strictest censor of decency that could have been established.

The Chilton County News is proud of the opportunity of appealing to the bar of public sentiment and public opinion as to which paper entered the first plea for a fair and square clean campaign and we also have data to prove that we preached that gospel of peace and good will for two months after the campaign opened before the Union-Banner even printed a single line endorsing a clean fight, and did not do it then until the policy of the News was winning friends and a question of party expediency finally forced them, in a half hearted way, to enter this absolutely new and untired field, to them, in an effort to stem the growing tide of public sentiment that demanded less slime and filth in the conduct of the campaign.

As to his statement that the Chilton County News has tried, from its "very first issue," to belittle or bemean the editor of the Union-Banner, we are staggered by the lengths to which the editor allows his spleen to carry him.

Now here are the facts, and both papers are on file and this statement is easy to verify, the second issue of the Union-Banner, after the Chilton County News had been established, contained a big double column article on the front page attacking the News, and containing more misleading statements to the square inch than any document we ever remember to have read. This too, when the Chilton County News had made no reference to the Union-Banner in words nor by implication. An unwarranted attack, engendered solely because the democrats of Chilton County had presumed to exercise their right to establish them a paper of their own. Of course this tirade of malicious statements only met with the silent contempt it merited at our hands.

This fact will show our readers how absolutely unreliable are the statenents made by our neighbor and convicts him of willfully misrepresenting us from the very first issue.

The editor of the Union-Banner goes on to say that the Chilton County News makes it a rule to oppose almost everything the Union-Banner stands for." In all conscience, in the light of such misstatements as the above, and such bland, broad and emphatic misstatements as he carried two weeks ago in regard to the election contest, can any wonder at our hesitancy in falling in line with him? We try to be fair and authentic at all times, and were we to follow his wonderful imagination we fear our reputation for reliability and veracity would suffer.

But we feel like such discussion as this are an infringment an the time and patience of our readers, and besides, you can never get any where in a controversy with a person who flagrantly ignores facts that are as plain as the noon day sun, and only limits his arguments by the failure of his inventive imagination to carry him further into the realms of unreality.

This in conclusion: The Chilton County News is proud of its record as a fair, square and clean newspaper and it is more than proud of its friends who esteem it as a paper decent enough for their wives and daughters to read and who have stood by it without a word of censure since its first pages saw the light.

As we said before, the files of both papers are where the truth lies. Ours are open for the public to inspect and we invite criticism. We venture the assertion that not one single line of mud-slinging or personal abuse nor villification can be pointed out in any copy of the Chilton County News that has ever been printed. Do any of you believe that the Union-Banner could successfully go up against that condition? They represent the party in Chilton County that thrives an villification and abuse, as all of their campaigns in the past go to prove. Which is conducted by a party whose chief exponent went over the county and told his hearers that the "lowest down republican in the county (and they have some negro members) was better than the best democrat," when he and all other men knew that some of as clean, honorable and high toned gentlemen as live anywhere are Chilton County Democrats.

The other campaign statement that it "took a negro and a white man to make a democrat" is another fair example of the creed and policy and immaculate purity of this great party of moral ideas.

The editor must have grown up under this system and has become so throughly saturated with such nasty ideas, like the ones quoted above, until he really don't realize purity when he meets it in the road.

RIGHT SORT OF IMMIGRATION

Ralph H. Turner, London correspondent for a syndicate of American newspapers, states that between July and October some 77,000 Britons will come to American to take the waiting jobs for them in the industrial plants. Some 45,000 industrial workers have already made preliminary arrangements to get away as soon as the bars are lifted on the new immigration year July 1. They will race to America to take the jobs they know are waiting for them.

They will come chiefly from the industrial centers of Great Britian, and from Irelandi Iron and steel workers, motor mechanics and artisans in the building trades, says Mr. Turner, are expected to take the lead among the skilled workmen who wish to come to America. "There will also be a generous sprinkling of factory hands in other branches of industry, besides numerous day laborers and domestic servants."

There will be a few agricultural men and women. The farmers of England, Scotland and Ireland are headed for the dominions, where special inducements are offered them. Nevertheless a splendid type of immigrant is in prospect. In fact, Americans in London told Mr. Turner that the men and women who are coming over "are the cream of European emigrants, hard-working, law-abiding men and women, who will readily adapt themselves to social and political life in the United States."

We dare say that if the bulk of immigrants in the past generation or two had come from Great Britian, Ireland, and other North European countries we would not have had a problem growing out of the presence of great masses of the alien-born. We should have had a more contented population, a more assimilable foreign element. The North European understands more readily the American spirit of our institutions, and our point of view. —Advertiser.

Watch For the FACTS

Many things are being said about the railroads to-day. They are being blamed for whatever goes wrong, by politicians who want to get votes, and by people who are sincere but who do not know anything about railroad problems.

In order that the public may know the truth, the L. & N. Railroad is going to run every week a series of advertisements giving you the facts about the railroad situation. The L. & N., serving a great part of the South and reaching into the heart of the Middle West, has no "axe to grind" in telling you these things. It realizes, however, that many people are making unjust criticisms of the railroads and it simply wants everyone to know the facts. It realizes that when the truth is known the railroads will not be erroneously judged.

Read these advertisements every week. They will tell what the railroads mean to you and why you should be interested in them.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,

-vs-

One Crew Elkhart Automobile, 1918 model.

In the Circuit Court of Chilton County in Equity.

Comes the State of Alabama and on the relation of G. C. Walker, County Solicitor of Chilton County, presents its petition showing that on the 3 day of June, 1923, the deputy sheriff of said county seized one Crew-Elkhart Automobile, 1918 model, while in the possession of one Jim Knight and while said automobile was being used for the unlawful transportation of prohibited liquors and beverages from one point in the state to another, and praying that such notices issue and such orders and decrees be made as may be necessary and proper for the froifeiture of said automobile to the State and the condemnation and sale thereof in accordance with the statute in such cases made and provided.

It is therefore ordered that notice be given by publication of this order in some newspaper published in Chilton county for three successive weeks to all persons assertaining any right, title or interest in or to said automobile to appear and propound their claims thereto on or before the 16th day of July, 1923.

Ordered this the 7th day of June, 1923.

GEO. F. SMOOT,
3t Judge of 19th Circuit

SOMEBODY IS MISTAKEN

The government experts reported for June that the cost of living had come down 2 per cent.

The same month the great railroads of the country volentarily advanced wages 2 per cent, claiming that the cost of living had advanced that much and they wanted to keep wages on a parity with living costs.

Now who do you suppose was mistaken? It looks like the government tries to hand the laboring man a lemon on every turn.

The present hot sun is giving the boll weevil a run for his money.

Melons were on sale in Clanton yesterday, but they did not grow in this territory. They brought from $1.50 to $2.00. The home grown variety will probably bring 10 cents.

Mr. James Lowe, of Ft. Payne, is here this week visiting friends and relatives.

OUR LIFE

How do you value your life today,
Is it a vale are something to pay?
Think how sweet to you some years,
If you will only be its dear:
Why do we worry on a fine bright day.,
With our life before us, in full to pay;
The flower of life is more than beautiful.
If you have the power to make it useful.
Beautiful is the life of a fair young maid.
Mans life is pleasure, in work or in trade;
Trillings to the heart of a christian today,
We shall thank God for our life in Everyway.

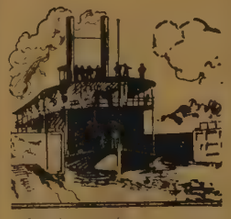
Alabama Rivers

Early efforts toward their improvement

EARLY TRANSPORTATION ON THE COOSA



LOCK 1—FIRST STEP TOWARD RIVER IMPROVEMENT ON COOSA

The improvement of Alabama's rivers was first advocated with the sole view to securing navigation. Many efforts, looking to their improvement by the Government, failed because of the unwillingness of Congress to appropriate the millions of dollars necessary to carry out the plans presented.

For nearly one hundred years river improvement was agitated. In that time was evolved the policy of the several states, including Alabama, and the Government to permit the development of water power by private capital, so as to bring about the improvement of navigation and the control of destructive floods, at no cost to the Government except for purely navigation structures.

A history of the early movements which resulted in this present day policy of the State and the Federal Government is essential to a clear understanding of the subject.

The first known project for the improvement of rivers in Alabama contemplated a continuous waterway from the Mississippi to the Atlantic Ocean. The proposed route was via the Ohio, Tennessee, Coosa, Etowah, Ocmulgee and Altamaha Rivers, with connecting canals.

The Alabama Legislature took cognizance of the plans sometime prior to 1823 and passed an act to improve the Coosa and aid in its connection with the Tennessee. In 1824 Congress assumed control of the project under its constitutional power to regulate interstate commerce, rivers being natural arteries of traffic between the states. But the project was considered impracticable and was never undertaken.

There were no railroads in that day. The rivers were the only arteries of commerce other than the trails which connected the towns and trading posts. Transportation was as vital to the people of that time as it is today.

The earliest known commercial use of Alabama's rivers was flat-boating. Agricultural products were transported from the Upper Coosa, over the perilous rapids from Greensport to Wetumpka, and down the Alabama to the Mobile market. Among the pioneers in flat-boating on the Coosa was John Lay, the grandfather of Capt. W. F. Lay of Gadsden.

About 1838, with the growth of the State, steam navigation was begun on the upper Coosa. Capt. Lay's father, C. M. Lay, was quick to see its possibilities and took up steam boating between Rome and Greensport about 1840. A great part of the commerce of the Cahaba Valley, including Elyton (before the founding of Birmingham), was hauled by boat to Greensport and thence to destination by wagon.

With the coming of the railroads, there arose a demand for through navigation to Mobile. While steamers plied between Rome and Greensport, and between Wetumpka and Mobile, the navigation of the rapids between Greensport and Wetumpka with steam boats was impossible. It was realized that quick and unobstructed navigation was necessary if river transportation were to survive.

As a result of this agitation, the first known instrumental survey of the Coosa was ordered. It was undertaken by Major Walter McFarland, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, at Wetumpka, in September, 1870, and concluded at a point near Greensport, in August, 1872. Major McFarland recommended certain low-lift dams to carry navigation over the rapids.

Thereafter certain work of improving the Coosa was undertaken by U. S. Engineers. Locks and Dams 1, 2 and 3, and a dam at Lock 4 were built with annual appropriations by Congress, and from the data of the McFarland survey.

On March 15, 1887, a Coosa River improvement convention met at Montgomery and memoralized Congress to continue the opening of the Coosa and Alabama Rivers to through navigation.

As a result, by Act of August 11, 1888, Congress directed that a resurvey and revised estimates be made for the improvement of the Coosa from Lock 4 to Wetumpka. This work was undertaken by Capt. Philip M. Price, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army. Capt. Price made the first known maps of the Coosa from the notes of the surveys previously referred to. He designed a system of 27 low-lift locks and dams, which, with Locks 1, 2, 3 and 4, made a total of 31 locks and dams. They were so planned as to open the Coosa to navigation from Rome, Ga., to Wetumpka. The estimated cost of constructing these 27 locks and dams was $6,038,219.

When the Price plan was submitted, Congress refused to appropriate the necessary funds for carrying it out on the grounds that the traffic on the rivers was not sufficient to warrant the expense.

So, with the completion of Lock 4, in the year 1891 or 1892, all improvement of navigation on the Coosa ceased until the construction of Lock 12 by Alabama Power Company. This development opened 25 miles of the Coosa to navigation, at no expense to the State or the Government.

Power developments on Alabama's rivers have been, and must be, in accordance with the laws of Alabama and of the United States, and with the approval of State and Federal regulatory bodies. Each such development is constructed under a separate fifty-year grant from the Federal Power Commission, containing restrictions amply protecting the public interest. Each project is an integral part of a well-defined and comprehensive plan, which, if followed, will ultimately result in Alabama's rivers being made navigable within the boundaries of the State, in the most efficient development of hydro-electric power, and the control of destructive floods.

THE BARBECUE

July 4th was a memorable day in Clanton.

The ladies of the Methodist church had the occasion in hand and most nobly did they succeed in putting over a safe, sane and enjoyable day.

Starting out that morning at 9 o'clock they opened the festivities with a grand and glorious street parade.

A great many business concerns in the city joined in this feature and some tasty and elegant floats were in line advertising the different lines of trade represented.

Then a regular citizens parade was also part of the arrangement and a long string of gaily decorated cars added color and beauty to the scene.

Next in line was a large squad of boys and girls on decorated wheels. They contributed rather a unique feature to the moving pageant. A few dressed up tractors furnished plenty of noise for the procession. A wagon covered with bunting scattered along now and then made a pleasing break in the line and added a beauty of other days to the picture.

After the parade business opened on the High School campus in earnest. Many games and contests were put on and much merriment was in evidence.

One notable feature of the day was the fornoon ball game between a Birmingham team and Clanton. It went the full nine innings and was called for the dinner hour and neither team had been able to chalk up a score.

The afternoon game was annexed by Clanton.

Congressman Lamer Jeffers was present and after the noon hour he delivered a memorable patriotic address. Mr. Jeffers was in fine trim and handled his theme in a most interesting and instructive manner. He met with great applause and enthusiasm. Of course, politics were entirely eschewed by the speaker and nothing was said that did not find a ready response in every 100 per cent American present.

The program for the entire day was splendid and was splendidly carried out.

The ocasion was a succes strom every angle, and while we have no figures on the receipts we are sure those good ladies netted a nice sum to go into the building of their massive new church.

We have been requested to extend the sincere thanks of the promoters to the public in general for their kindness and patronage and they desire to especially thank Dr. P. T. Hinkle and wife, J. L. Johnson, W. H. Sartor and E. R. Pipes for the appreciated services they rendered.

A LIBERAL PEOPLE

It is a habit with a good many jaundiced or dyspeptic people to knock their own town and critisize the inhabitants in various ways.

Clanton may have its evils and shortcomings and doubtless has, but so has every other human habitation on earth. We probably have our Shylocks and skinflints, our crooks and bootleggers, but believe us, they are fewer here than any place of like size we ever saw.

There may b law violations here, and no doubt there are, but they are so few and so far between that you rarely ever hear of one. The people are sober, peaceable and law abiding.

Any element here that would undertake to encourage law violation would find themselves so unpopular they would be forced to move.

Clanton is a good, clean, moral town and its people as a whole, do not stand for anything else. This fact is abundantly proven by the fact that no religious or educational cause is ever known to languish here for want of moral and financial support.

It is not generally known, because we have no official horn blower, but it is a fact, that is forcibly demonstrated anew every now and then, that the people of Clanton are the most liberal givers for worthy objects that we know of any where.

When sorrow and grief enters a home here where adverse circumstances have perhaps, hampered the financial ability of that home to tide itself over the rocky pathway, no stir is heard, no display is made, no ostentatious drive is put on, but as quietly as though no thought was being taken for the distressed one, the money comes from somewhere, the burden is lifted, the clouds rooled away from the aching hearts and no one seems to know how it happened.

That is Clanton in a hundred places and that is the glorious way they have of "bearing their brothers burdens."

Can you beat it? There may be some people as good, but none better.

GOING GOOD

The new Hays building that is being erected on west 7th street, is moving along at a rapid rate.

Mr. West Danforth, who is in charge of the construction work, seems to hustle faster and faster as the sun gets hotter.

In just a little while that gap of vacancy will be filled up and somebody will be selling goods, where for so many years a hitching station for horses and mules has existed.

NEARLY COMPLETED

The Canning Factory is almost a reality now. The spacious building is just about ready for the machinery and the machinery is beginning to arrive.

It will not take long to get ready for actual work and by that time the tomato crop should be ready.

Mr. Dixon, the man who has had charge of all the construction work, will remain over and superintend the actual canning work until such time as he can thoroughly instruct a crew to take his place.

Mr. Clay, the promoter from Chicago, who worked together with the United Farmers and Chamber of Commerce in establishing this plant, has been here this week looking over the final details.

THE TEN THOUSAND COURT

It was with surprise, unmeasurable, that we learned from the last weeks issue of our esteemed contomporary, the Union-Banner that Chilton County has within its confines and as a tangible asset a TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR COURT. How this institution could have existed all these years, unknown to the thousands of residents of Chilton County is a deep and profound mystery to us but it must be as they say it does.

The whole argument of the Union-Banner swings around the one word "MONEY". It is a very new and novel idea to us, perhaps because we have lived in a civilized age, an age that tries to go forward and not slip backward, when the policy of the Government has been to try to reform criminals and effect a cure instead of using their misfortune for gain, that a court should be considered as a revenue produced for any sub-division of Government. How many decent citizens of Chilton County or any other County desire to have their County expenses paid by the Blood money wrung from unfortunate criminals? We venture to say that no one except a member of the OFFICIAL FAMILY would ever have the gall to advance such an argument in a civilized country. Mr. Editor-permit us, for our information, to ask this question,—are fines imposed in the County Court of Chilton County for the purpose of paying your printing Bill running into Thousands of Dollars and other expenses or are they imposed for furtherance of the ends of justice?

The fallacy of the pet argument offered against this Bill is so apparent as to make the argument absurb. If the Circuit Court handles the criminal business of Chilton County, they will turn into the County treasury the fines and forfietures. What Say, Mr. Editor, Just for our information suppose you quote from the official reports of the County treasurer the amounts paid into the Fine and forfiture fund from the COUNTY COURT in the last few years.

Granting our contemporary credits for their high and lofty motives with which it claims to be inspired and with regard to its well known (claimed) propensity to always tell the truth, we will hazard the guess that this Court is in fact a Ten THOUSAND DOLLAR COURT, but we will also at the same time venture to suggest to the thinking people of Chilton County that the largest part of the TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, are not recorded upon the records of the County Treasurer of Chilton County, and that it is in anticipation of the acute pain that would be inflicted should the voluntary bookkeepers who so gladly give their services to keep the books wherein said sums are noted, is the real cause of all the noise, and therein lies the RUB.

THANKS THE KLAN

Mr. Clayton Culp requests us to extend for him his most sincere thanks to the Ku Klux Klan for their splendid and timely assistance rendered to him and his family during the recent illness and death of their little daughter. His best wishes for every member of the order will always be fresh in his memory.

He also desires to express his deepest gratitude to the many other good people of Clanton who stood by him and was so nobly generous with their help and sympathy.

LET US SMILE

The thing that goes the farthest toward making life worth while,
That costs the least and does the most is just a pleasant smile.
The smile that bubbles from the heart

It's full of worth and goodness too,
with many a kindness blent,
It's worth a million dollars and it
dosen't cost a cent.

MRS. EMILY C. GILLESPIE DIES

Last Sunday afternoon the summons came and Mrs. Emily C. Gillespie, wife of the late D. A. Gillespie, died at the home of her son, Mr. J. H. Gillespie, some five miles south of Clanton.

The deceased was 85 years of age and during her long life she had made many friends who will sorrow that she is no more. She was the mother of our fellow townsman, Mr. Walter Gillespie who is known all over Alabama as an intensive prohibition enforcement officer.

The remains were buried Monday morning at Bethel cemetery.

LITTLE GIRL DIES

Last Sunday morning the death angel invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Culp and transplanted from earth to heaven their little daughter.

For several years the little girl had been afflicted and all of her days were days of suffering and death finally came to her as a blessing.

These little afflicted ones twine the tendrils of love so intricately into the lives and hearts of the parents, that when the blow falls and death stalks in and takes the little sufferer away it leaves such an utter void in the parent's hearts, that no language can describe the pitiful loneliness and grief left in the home.

We would say to these bereft parents, that we know from experience just how they feel—just how terrible the rendings of the heart strings are—and we point them to the only solace that is possible—the thrice blessed assurance that the little suffer is happy now and free from pain and is only waiting, just beyond the vail in glorified happiness and freedom from suffering for that blissful reuniting where parting is no more.

The little sufferer was named Jettie, was eleven years of age. The remains were buried by Undertaker Martin at Pleasant Grove cemetery Monday at 11 o'clock, Rev. C. D. Messer officiating.

She is private secretary to Senator Hefflin and has been in Washington for more than a year, making a brief visit home last Christmas.

She will stay with the home folks about a month, when she will go to LaFayette and take up her work again in the home office of Senator Hefflin until Congress convenes again.

Miss Hattie is looking fine and the Northern climate seems to agree with her.

Up Hill—Or Down?

None of us are standing still. In these modern and strenuous times there is no middle ground. We are either progressing or retrograding; we are either going foward or backward. To which do you belong?

Are you spending more than you make? If you are doing this, or even if you are merely spending all you make, you belong to the down hill class, for you are losing the opportunity to lay up something for the future every day that passes. "The mill will never grind with the water that has passed."

On the other hand, if you are saving persistently and systematically, be it ever so little, you are in the up hill, or progressive class; you are not a drone but are on the road to independence, and will some day be a power in the land, for there never was a truer saying than "money is power."

Let us help you on the up-hill or progressive road.

Kidnapping and assaulting women at the back door of their homes in the large cities is becoming an easy and fashionable passtime with the thugs now.

We want to see some man go down the street attired in the frail and fragile habliments some of the female wear and see how long it will take him to break into jail with charge of "public indecency" attached to him.

Dempsey the draft dodger, got the decision in a 15 round draw fight with pug named Gibbons the other day. Our sympathy has never been very enthusiastic for Dempsey since the war.

Dress reform is said to be a fad now-affected by the ultra fashionable female high brows of the large cities. They don't say anything about a moral reform however.

An effort will be made in the next Congress to have the government to take over the railroads. It won't amount to anything, however, because the people, as a whole, don't believe in Socialism.

Foreign war clouds are looming up on account of our national prohibition blue law rulings against foreign shipping. Even a good thing can be over done by fanatical zealats until it becomes a curse instead of a blessing.

A female boat crew at Wellesley College, attired in a costume of abreviated B. V. D's. is the latest bid that ancient and dignified seat of female education and culture is making for notoriety. That ought to get results—with a certain element at least.

One Movie Star has just divorced her third husband in four years. She is not satisfied with that record, she says, but desires to make it at least one a year. She claims that one year is long as any woman can love one man. She claims there is always a craving for a change and she expects to satisfy it.

AS TO A COUNTY COURT

There will be a great many things said and some real arguments, perhaps, used in favor of retaining the county court.

According to an old saying "the proof of the pudding is in chewing the bag," and if this maxim means anything it looks like the best evidence we could secure would be from counties that have tried out the proposition.

So far as we have ever heard every county that has abolished a county court and given the matter a fair trial, is pleased with the result, there will always be some disgruntled politicians who will object to being weaned from the public tit, but they will finally die out, or move to more congenial territory where the sucking is better.

Most of us have had babies in our homes and can remember how much growling and howling we had to put up with during the period of weaning time, but we finally got through with it, and then we found that the change was a source of great benefit to the child and it would grow off and thrive much better when separated from the sucking process as a means of sustenance.

Now, that very condition prevails with the chronic sucker of the public tit. He will raise all kinds of a row when you go to wean him, but once get him weaned, and accustomed to working for his living, he will actually be better satisfied himself. He can respect himself as an independent man then and afford to look at his own face in the mirror when he goes to comb his hair.

The people who have really tried out the system of no county court, and who have given the matter careful study are almost to a man, in favor of abolishment.

Among some of the more cogent reasons they give for their belief is the statement, that it reduces petty litigation to almost the vanishing point. People do not care to rush into a real court with these little spite cases, that so largely go to filling up the dockets of minor courts.

If this is true, and we have no reason to doubt it, for it is reasonable that one advantage is worth the change, for nothing is more disgusting to decent people nor more injurious to a community, than the habit some people have of "going to court" every time you stump your toe in front of your neighbors house or your tire blows out on the highway.

That habit grows and is fostered where the courts are plentiful and cheap. Seventy-five per cent of the cases that reach the justice and county courts coudd be much more readily settled outside the court house if this convenient arrangement did not exist by which one neighbor can harrass and anoy another.

Our firm conviction is, that anything that will have a tendency to reduce litigation would be a blessing.

Then it is claimed by those who have tried it that the expense to the tax payers, instead of being increased, is reduced. This is reasonable, too, and we believe it. There is no reason why the circuit court with all its machinery in operation, could not try these cases with more dispatch and less cost to the tax payers than an inferior court, when the fact is, that a large per cent of the county court cases are passed up to the higher court any way and there comes a double expense to somebody. None of them function for fun. It takes money to make the wheels go round.

By and large the abolishment of the county court looks to us like a wise thing to do. They belong to an era that is rapidly passing away and the efficient elimination of cumbersome and useless methods is the watchword of the modern march of progress.

THE TUSKEGEE INCIDENT

A federal Hospital for the use of wounded and disabled negro soldiers in the great war has been erected at Tuskegee by the war Department at a cost of something lige $2,000,000.

When it was opened for service a corps of white officers were put in executive charge and they have direct ed the activities of that institution ever since.

A few months ago President Harding concluded to throw a boquett to the Northern negro voter by ordering that this white management be replaced at once by an entire board of negro officers.

The people of Tuskegee and of the entire State protested this action on the ground that it would destroy the amity and good feeling existing between the white citizenship of that section and the entire Tuskegee Negro Industrial School work.

Delegations were sent to see the President and many arguments and appeals put before him to induce him to rescind this order, but all to no purpose. He was, and has been ever since his famous Birmingham speech, detirmed to humiliate the South, and to doit in such a way that his negro friends and supporters up North would be pleased, so he stood by his order, and last week the first one of his negro relief appeared on the scene and took the clerical job away from a white woman.

The following evening a large Ku Klux Klan parade was pulled off at Tuskeegee and, while they made no hostile demonstration, this negro seemed to feel like he was "It," so he left immediately, leaving his golf bag and suit case behind. The back way looked good to him, so he climbed the back fence and took a near cut through the woods.

A day or two after this the head pusher of that department Mr. Hines appeared on the scene for an investigation. He met with a large number of citizens in a public meeting, when the matter was thoroughly gone in to and Mr. Hines was given his first real insight into the situation and he freely confessed that it would be a most disastrous and unfortunate step for the President to still insist on a negro management for that hospital.

There is some possibility that the institution will be operated for white soldiers instead of negroes as soon as the present patients can be conveyed to some other place. If not, Mr. Harding will doubtless see the necessity for a change of mind and recall his order placing a negro personal in charge.

It is to be hoped that the matter will be settled without further friction and especially without further willful misrespresentation of the conditions over there by Northern prejudice.

NOT READY YET

The announced candidacy of Al Smith, of New York, for the presidential nomination is the first open bid the Roman Catholics have made for real polotical control of the United States.

It is an open secret—that nearly all of our public officials in the national employ have been successfully shackled by this fear of Catholic influence, but, thank God, this can not be said of the people back home.

This country is not uterly debanched by the hyphenated hords as yet, and the 100 per cent Americans are not ready to surrender their own native land into the hands of the despoiler, not by a long shot.

Mr. Al Smith had better place his little presidential boomlet in cold storage where it can be preserved for many years to come, for the Vox-populi of American will have none of it at this time.

It will indeed be a sad day for this great country when a man of that ilk can even make a race for president.

The Union-Banner says that Lewis will only lose $300.00 per year. Four years ago he tried to slip over a Bill at Montgomery without advertising to rake the County Treasury for an additional sum of $900.00 per annum. He said it was well worth $1200.00 a year—that his Court was a wonderful money maker and could stand it. Ain't it a shame to think that anyone would stand in his way and prevent him being a martyr to the tune of $5400.00 during the rest of his term of office. Ain't it AWFUL. Ain't it SAD.

Dr. O. C. Mastin was a caller at our office last week. He was loud in his praise of the great improvements that were taking palce here.

Hr. Editor:—

Will you allow us a small space in your paper.

Health here is good at present. Everybody is getting very well up with their work and was glad to see the nice rain that came Sunday.

The singing at Wilburn Wards Saturday night was good.

We are glad to say that Mr. Watson has returned home from the hospital and is doing fairly well.

Mr. Stanly Thornton from Birmingham, spent Sunday with his wife and little son. Mrs. Thornton is making her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Baker.

Miss Evie Baker returned to her home in Prattville last Thursday after spending a few days with her Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Baker. She was accompanied home by Miss Myrtle Smithe.

The Liberty Class went to highland to sing Sunday evening. A very large crowd was present. Had some good singing.

Mr. Glover Smith will start a singing school at Liberty the 16th. Hope all that can will go.

There was quite a crowd gathered at Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap's the 4th and spent the day with a good old fashion picnic. Ice Cream Lemonade was had throughout the day and at noon, such a dinner that was spread T'was fit for a King.

Mr. Editor if you had been there maybe we would have given you a piece of chicken and some other things to cary back home to your wife.

KEEPING WELL AND KEEPING COOL IN JULY

The most important health problem in July and during the hot season is to avoid the diseases which are spread in the bowel filth—particularly typhoid fever, the diarrheas, and the dysenteries. It has been explained time and again in The Progressive Farmer, the importance of the subject making it necessary that it be kept constantly in mind, that the prevention of the bowel filth construction and maintenance of a sanitary privy and the provision of a safe water supply, with the destruction of the breeding places of flies, are essentials that no rural home can afford to neglect when the health and happiness of the family or the saving of medical bills are considered.

Of course, in communities where mosquitoes abound, steps must be taken to prevent their breeding and to keep them out of sleeping rooms. If these are impossible, small doses of quinine must be taken during the mosquito season as a preventive to malaria.

Next to disease prevention the problem of keeping cool is important to comfort as well as to health in hot weather. Fortunately, keeping cool depends more upon the habits of the individual than upon the weather or place or residence. The heat of summer will not prove burdensome if we get proper food, exercise and rest.

Less food is required in summer than in winter when the body heat must be kept uniform in spite of the cold weather. Starchy foods and sweets, are foods which produce body heat and are not needed in very large amounts in summer. Vegetables and fruits do not produce so much body heat and should be used instead. Also, not too much water should be drunk, especially at meals; and ice water and cold drinks should be avoided.

Outdoor exercise is necessary in summer, especially for the women and girls who spend most of their time indoors. Walking or working in the garden (a flower garden, preferably) are good forms of outdoor exercise. There should also be a daily bath to keep the skin clean and active. And the bowels should move regularly; but with a vegetable diet and regular exercise there should be no trouble with the bowels.

The days are at their longest in the summer and it is necessary that there should be a rest period after the mid-day meal, as well as at least eight hours of sleep at night. A profitable rule for the farmer is to stop his day's work in time for a bath and an hour of reading or other recreation before supper.

Very few rural homes have adequate facilities for heating. A shower bath will add as much if not more to the pleasure of living on the farm as any other convenience. The construction is simple: mount a barrel in the woodshed or in a corner of one of the other outbuildings and attach a spray funnel, which any tin-smith should make for not more than 50 cents. Pour three or four buckets of water into the barrel and the bath is ready. After using it a week, you'll wonder how you ever did without it. By turning the gutter from the roof into the barrel, the soft rain water can be used for the bath instead of having to carry the water from the well.—Progressive Farmer.

What Farmers Need Added to Credit And Good Advice

By WALTER W. HEAD
First Vice President American Bankers Association.

If the farmer is not prosperous there can be no permanent prosperity in other industries, because the farmer's purchasing power, under normal conditions, is one of the most potent influences we have in the United States. When conditions with the farmer are good, and he is receiving the cost of production plus something more for his labor, he is in a position to buy from the manufacturer.

Walter W. Head

A condition that affects the farmer, cutting off his purchasing power, destroying his belief in himself, in the banker and in everybody else, can only bring about a chaotic condition, which affects every business man and laboring man in the United States regardless [illegible]

The farmer has [illegible] advice he needed during the period of prosperity, but he, with us all, suffered depression. There clearly must have been something lacking to enable him to go on the even tenor of his way. The answer is very plain. It is that some means need to be provided to enable the farmer, after his labor has been expended, when the crops have been harvested, or when his live stock have reached the stage where he must ship it, to liquidate his indebtedness. He must have somebody interested in him sufficiently, not altogether from his own standpoint, but from the standpoint of the banker and business man, so that he can put his products on the market at the time when they will bring him the most.

I do not mean to indorse every imaginable scheme for co-operative marketing, but I do believe the basic idea is worthy of consideration from the banker's standpoint as well as the farmer's standpoint. Bankers are certainly interested in the farmer, by reason of the fact that they cannot be prosperous in their own business unless the farmer also is prosperous. They must interest themselves in the farmer, not only in giving him the business advice he needs and in financing him during the period of construction, but also in helping him place his products on the market at a time when they will bring him the [illegible] production, plus a reason[illegible] for his services and in [illegible]

VALUE OF FARM SCHOOLS

That the ten agricultural schools of the state are turning out practical farmers and farm homemakers is shown in the financial return of farm operations at these schools and in the further fact that seven out of ten pupils attending high school last year, but not attending this year, are engaged in farming. It is evident that the knowledge gained at the agricultural schools in soil cultivation and in conservation of farm by-products and farm home making is bearing fruit on the farms of Alabama. A net return of more than $40,000 was earned on the farms of the schools. This money will go into vocational farm training.

An especially interesting feature of the work of the farm schools is the course for adult farmers which was taken last year by nearly two hundred persons. The girls are taught how to prepare nutritions meals, how to care for their health and that of children, how to make clothes, how to render first aid, and how generally to make the farm home attractiv[illegible]

There was an enrollment of 2,1[illegible] pupils in these scho[illegible] of the practical knowledge obtained by these boys and girls in actual exercise of farming and farm home functions, in addition to the acquisition of sound theory, there is no doubt that there will be much improvement on farms and in farm life in their communities.

With a crop of young men and women issuing yearly from the[illegible] schools, the state will soon have an army of competent farmers and farm wives, whose intelligent conduct of the farm will more than compensate for any decrease that may occur in hired farm labor. They will care for the farm and the farm home with knowledge of economies and a sense of the value of the conveniences and attractiveness with which they may be surrounded just as easily as not. Alabama farm life will come into its own sooner according to the num[illegible]

THE CONVICT LEASE SYSTEM

Statewide Campaign Committee For Abolishment of Convict Contract System Points Out Facts, Figures and Possible Remedies.

The Statewide Campaign Committee for the abolition of the lease or contract system in handling convicts in Alabama, reports very excellent work going forward toward this end all over the state.

Each of the ten Congregational districts has been organized and has a Chairman and many of them report every town in their district well organized. Mass Meetings are being held at which the real facts about the system and the number of substitutes for it are discussed in full. This committee is furnishing speakers and sending literature through the entire State.

The fight for the abolition of the lease system is not a new one nor in any sense one against the present administration, in fact it was started many years ago. In 1915 it was possibly one of the biggest questions before that Legislative session; the people thought the fight was won for the last session of our legislature simply retarded it a year, hoping to perfect the fine program already started for the care of the convicts, so it was considered by the entire state that the fight was over and that this year was the end of the system forever in Alabama; the Governor in his message to this Legislature spoke of the system and stated it should go; it was therefore a great shock to all to have this system extended for four more years. Alabama is the only state with such a system.

Do the people realize that if 47 other States have abolished the system and have gone about re-adjusting their convict plans without financial bankruptcy, Alabama can do the same?

The committee having charge of this campaign is actuated by no sentimental, sympathy for the convict, but thinking people the world over today realize that for the welfare of the state it is necessary to reform a convict while in prison as far as is possible; to return him to society a better man that he may not be a social and financial burden to the state, and this end cannot possibly be accomplished under this system.

The main argument of the opposition to the abolition of the lease system is that the state must have the revenue; the new gasoline tax will take care of that, and the increase in value of taxable property. No sensible person can today believe that the State educational program is depended upon revenue derived from hiring out 1600 convicts; let the people remember that there are 2,000,000 people outside the penitentiary and it is assured to say that these are dependent upon a handful of convicts for their support.

Under the contract the State retains power of supervision. According to present regulations, this power is exercised by having one deputy warden in each mine every day. It is, of course, obvious that one representative of the state in a mine extending several miles underneath the ground cannot serve to protect from abuse several hundred convicts scattered throughout the mines and working individually or in small groups.

The blame for the system and, its desire results, lies not with the companies but with the citizens of the State, it is therefore their duty to see that it comes to an end.

The vital thing for every right thinking man and woman to do now and do it quickly and do it again, and again, if necessary, is to tell his, or her representative in the legislature that he or she demands the end of this iniquitous system in this State; this is the supreme duty of all who love the state right now.

DID YOU KNOW?

—That there in no real difference between "contract system" and "lease system." The effect on the convict is the same?

—That under the lease system, the chief end sought is revenue for the state and the contracting companies, and not the consumation of justice?

—That no sensible person believes that a convict should be "coddled" or allowed to avoid the penalty for his crime, but he should be worked and made to support himself and to earn all the revenue that is consistent with the real interest of the state, namely the reclamation of the convict so that upon his realase he will no longer be a burden and menace to society?

—That Committees from two Legislatures, (1915 and 1919) as well as many organizations of citizens, after thorough investigation, have vigorously condemned the system?

—That if the law is left as at present, it means the indefinite continuation of the Lease System?

—That the people have the power to do away with this blot on our state's fair name? Demand of your representative in the Legislature the ending of this system at an early and definite date DURING THE PRESENT ADMINISTRATION?

This is Another Studebaker Year

One and One half — Billion miles of Satisfaction

Studebaker Special-Six owners have driven their cars a total of more than one and one-half billion miles.

This enormous milage has been piled up in every day service over every conceivable kind of roads and every condition of weather throughout the world.

And No Special-Six has ever been worn out. So far as we know there isn't a single dissatisfied owner.

These one and one-half billion miles of satisfactory service prove positively the outstanding merit of the Special Six.

It is the strongest Recommendation possible for dependable performance, economical maintenance and long life. It is striking evidence of the high quality that is responsible for Studebaker Special-Six leadership in fine car sales.

To call a car "SPECIAL" dosen't make it special unless there is special merit to back up the name.

The Studebaker Special-Six is special not only in name but in performance. One and one-half billion miles to its credit are proof positive that it lives up to its name.

The STUDEBAKER is assurance of satisfaction.

COMMUNICATED

Clanton, Ala., July 10 1923

Editor Chilton County News:

I note in your last issue that the present Legislature will be asked to abolish the County Court and also to create a Board of Revenue in lieu of the present County Court of Commissioners for Chilton County. I am sincerely opposed to both of the proposed measures. The County Court is an institution which has proven its value through years of experience in every county in the state. Its worth as a convenience and aid in the maintainance of law and order is beyond controversy and as a time and money saving tribual its worth can not be fully estimated. There is not a county in Alabama that is not equipped and always has been, with a County Court or a similar institution with limited criminal jurisdiction of the criminal law jurisdiction in which its procedure insures a speedy and economical administration of the criminal laws so far as they effect petty violations. To say it in a few words: the County Court is a public necessity which by no means, should be dispensed with.

As to the bill to abolish the Court of County Commissioners, who were elected by a majority of the county electorate and create in its stead a Board of Revenue to be appointed by the Governor of Alabama, the bill displays upon its face the fact that it was "conceived in iniquity and brought forth in sin." Legislation which removes a citizen from an office to which he has been chosen by a majority, is wrong and iniquitous in its fundamentals and is totally variant from the very spirit of democratic government. If the present members of the Court of County Commissioners are usurping office, are guilty of malfeasance or are managing the affairs of the county to the serious hurt of its citizens, the law supplies a remedy and an open forum to which any citizen may resort in orderly form. The Legislature of Alabama is without moral or statutory jurisdiction in the cause.

Your friend and fellow Democrat
THOS. A CURRY

WHY THE SUDDEN CHANGE

In another column will be found a surprising communication from our friend, Attorney Thos. A Curry.

Mr. Curry, for some unknown and unexplained reason has concluded to change absolutely his views on these questions very recently.

We are sure that he will remember a conversation he had with the writer and Mr. T. C. McSwain just a few weeks ago in which he advised the introduction of these bills refered to and, at that time, told us that when he was Senator from this district, he worked for and put through the legislature, two bills exactly similar to these for Shelby county.

Contrary to his statement, according to the best information we can obtain, there are, at this very time, some counties in the State that are operating successfully without a county court and with a board or revenue.

We are sorry to differ with Mr. Curry and we have great respect for him as a lawyer of ability, but in this particular instance, our pathes will have to diverge and we can but voice our sorrow that he deems it his duty to line up against the organized democracy in his home county.

MAYOR GRAGG SICK

It will be sad news to a large number of people in this section to learn that Dr. Gragg is in bad health at this time.

He is in New Orleans this week for examination, consultation and treatment by that famous hospital clinic there, and it is to be greatly hoped that their combined skill may be able to master the malady that is preying upon Dr. Gragg and restore him to his friends in perfect health again.

OPPORTUNITY

Master of human destinies am I:
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait;
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise, before
I turn away. It is the hour of Fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire to conquer every foe
Save death, but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, misery and Woe,
Seek me in vain, and uselessly implore.
I answer not, and I return no more.
—J. J. INGALS.

MRS. ALICE COLLIER McKINNON

The above lady, who was formally Miss Alice Collier, daughter of Judge W. A. Collier, who for many years resided here and was a noted jurist in his day, died in Birmingham Monday and the remains were brought back and interred in the city cemetery here yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. McKinnon was 37 years of age and has been removed from Clanton for several years. The following gentlemen who knew her in her girlhood days were pall bearers: J. R. Mullins, W. H. Sartor, H. M. Simpson, Dr. N. S. Johnson, M. C. Broadhead and Dr. S. E. Johnson.

The burial was from the Baptist church and services were conducted by Dr. S. J. Ezell.

Undertaker Martin was in charge.

PRESIDENT HARDING HAS NOT WON FAVOR WITH ORGANIZED LABOR, GOMPERS EXPLAINS

In his speech at Helena, Mont., President Harding had some nice things to say about labor unions—some very nice things. It was an overture; an effort to win reciprocal compliments, and start an era of cordiality looking toward the next campaign when Mr. Harding expects to be the standard bearer for the Republican Party. But, somehow, the compliments did not seem to meet a responsive chord in the heart of Samuel Gompers, that grim old warrior who has fought and won so many battles for labor. Mr. Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor made rather caustic comment on the nice things the President had to say:

Labor requires more than a speech to balance against the acts of the administration that have gone before. While labor is glad the President records himself as totally out of sympathy with the plutocratic war on organized effort of wage earners for common protection and advancement, the Federation is not inclined to withdraw the charge that the Harding administration lent aid and comfort to the campaign to crush unions with an open-shop campaign. * * * Those whose memories are not too short will recall that when the President's Attorney General secured his injunction against the railroad workers, that Attorney General said to the court that "so long and to the extent that I can speak for the government, I will use the power of the government to prevent the labor unions of the country from destroying the open shop." * * * We are glad to have the President's emphatic declaration that his administration has tried to prevent the destruction of organized labor, but we cannot help but observe that the only thing that has prevented the destruction of the labor movement has been the solidarity, determination and intelligence of organized labor itself.

Judging by that, and a good deal more President Gompers said, the Republican Party and Mr. Harding will not receive any very enthusiastic support from the unionized workers of country—many of whom were unmindful of the favors heaped upon them by the Wilson administration and rushed to take to their arms the sweet generalities which the Republicans used as bait for them—Birmingham News.

Without A Railroad Near by Your Property Isn't Worth Much

Mighty few people realize how important the railroads are. They do not realize that the states or communities with no railroads have few people. In South America, where there are few railroads, there are few people, and you can buy the finest and most fertile land in the world for a dollar or two an acre. Railroads bring in people, and more people make land values go up.

The coming of a railroad into a community has always meant prosperity, growth of population and increased property values.

Do not prevent the railroads from rendering good service by crippling them with unjust criticism and too much regulation.

SERVICE STATION EXAGGERATION.

A medical gentleman says the white race started to go downhill when it began to eat starchy foods, cooked.

It will do no good to tell the gentleman that the white race is much farther advanced then it was when it lived in a state of nature, but that, nevertheless, is the truth. White men are even living longer than they did in primitive times. Starchy foods are supposed to have done considerable damage to the teeth of enlightened man, bnt otherwise he has fared pretty well. There is more heart trouble, liver trouble and stomach trouble than in primitive times; but these are not due to starchy foods, well cooked, so much as they are due to sedentary habits and over-indulgence.

Starchy foods have not crippled man intellectually.—Advertiser.

CARD OF THANKS

Dear Editor:

Please give us space in your paper to express to the people of Jemison and surrounding community our appreciation for their kind sympathy and assistance during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. No people could have been better to us than they have been. No care was spared to bring about his recovery and relief, but the good Lord saw fit to call for him.

Friends he is gone to a better world and one of these days we will understand why he was called so soon. We believe no one was ever better to his family than he. He was a real father and husband.

AN ACT

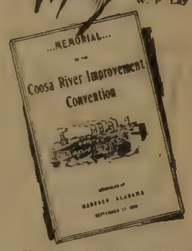
THE PUBLIC AND ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

Coosa Valley Organizes

Captain W. P. Lay



FOR YEARS THE PEOPLE of the Coosa River Valley had worked singly and in groups to have the Government improve the Coosa for navigation, and navigation only. Only meager success had attended their efforts. From 1890 to 1899, despite their labors, nothing was accomplished.

THE COOSA VALLEY then decided to organize. Citizens from Rome, Georgia, to Montgomery met in convention at Gadsden on September 27, 1899, and the Coosa River Improvement Association came into being. Capt. W. P. Lay of Gadsden was elected President, which post he has since held.

THIS CONVENTION addressed a memorial to Congress asking

"that the improvement of the Coosa River in Alabama and Georgia now progressing under the auspices of the Government, be placed on the continuous contract plan, and that $1,000,000 per annum be appropriated to be used in opening the stream to through navigation to the Gulf of Mexico."

THE MEMORIAL ALSO URGED THAT CONSIDERATION BE GIVEN THE COOSA'S WATER POWERS AND THE POSSIBILITIES OF THEIR DEVELOPMENT.

AS A RESULT the Government once more consented to consider the Price plan for opening the Coosa to navigation over the rapids. But the U. S. Engineers stationed in Alabama reported that —the Price plan was inadequate;

—a satisfactory project would entail an expenditure of $20,000,000 to $25,000,000;
—low dams for navigation alone prevented development of the Coosa's water power;
—and for these and other reasons the Coosa was not worthy of improvement beyond completion of Lock 4 and construction of Lock 5.

BUILD POWER DAMS TO GET NAVIGATION

WHEN THIS EFFORT FAILED, Capt. Lay appealed to former Senator Theodore E. Burton, then a member of the House of Representatives, and Chairman of its Rivers and Harbors Committee. Capt. Lay urged as a means of improving navigation that high dams be constructed for development of the Coosa's valuable water powers. Senator Burton then said that if the water powers on the Coosa were as valuable as he claimed, Capt. Lay should get private capital to build them, thereby lightening the burden on the Government.

THE COOSA RIVER IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION then changed its course of action.

THE CAVANAUGH PLAN
